The ceremony lasted for more than an hour. After the ceremony ended, Tobias was called upon by one of the priests.

The priest was highly revered by his mother, Claudia.

“Mr. Ford, I wish you peace and happiness.”

Tobias put his palms together before leaving.

Claudia caught up to him and uttered, “Drive me home. I’ve prepared some food at home.

We can eat together.”

Tobias gave her a smile. “You should ask your driver to send you back instead. I can’t have dinner with you tonight.”

Claudia was well-aware of where he was rushing off to. That woman has my son wrapped around her finger.

I told him countless times before to prioritize his responsibilities over his relationships, but he just won’t listen.

Everything started going awry ever since she came along...

When Tobias got in the car, the vise that was gripping Skylar’s chest finally loosened up.

Having spotted Winnie in the crowd just now, Skylar queried, “Did Winnie get permission from your mom to attend the ceremony?”

Tobias explained, “There were a lot of people at the ceremony. My mom wasn’t able to recognize every one of them.”

Skylar understood the meaning behind his words. So he never even introduced Winnie to Claudia in the first place.

On their way back home, the traffic was rather smooth.

During the holidays, the large city they lived in would become lifeless and empty.

This was due to the people in the city returning back to their hometowns.

Tobias dialed down the air conditioner in the car to prevent Skylar from catching a cold.

Bored, Skylar was humming a song to herself. I must admit, this is rather peaceful. If only I could preserve this moment forever.

She was delighted to have Tobias by her side.

Tobias continued to stay beside her for the rest of the week. The two of them didn't lay a single foot outside the house during that entire week.

At night, they would make love in the bed; and in the daytime, they would watch movies together.

As for the movies that they watched, Tobias preferred classical movies while Skylar was more into comedies.

Their tastes in movies were quite different.

Skylar asked Tobias, "Do you like dramas?"

"No, they take way too long to finish. Dramas tend to stretch the story longer than it needs to be."

"What about the drama that I acted in?" Skylar was curious to know if Tobias had watched her drama "Unrequited Love."

Tobias responded, "Oh, I forgot to watch it. I'll take a look at it when I'm free. What's the name of the drama again?"

Are you kidding me? Even my acquaintances knew the name of the drama I acted in. When will he start paying attention to me?

Vexed, Skylar got up from the couch and sat further away from Tobias.

The movie "Roman Holiday" was playing on the TV. What kind of stupid movie is this? Ugh, I've had enough!

Tobias was holding a glass of red wine as he uttered, "Would you like to act in a movie produced by my company? I'll let you be the main lead. You can choose any script that fancies you."

"Doesn't this count as special treatment?"

Tobias turned off the TV before answering, "Yes. I'll even provide you with the best director and crew. I guarantee that you'll be satisfied."

Skylar was pensive. What if my role ends up being replaced again? Just like when Katrina replaced my main role in Daryl's movie.

At the end of the day, money is everything in the entertainment industry. No matter what position you have in the entertainment industry, you'll need money to be able to do anything at all.

Skylar got up from her seat to stretch herself. Since today is the last day of the holiday, Tobias will definitely leave tonight.

"More people will recognize me now when I go out. Do you find that troublesome?"

Skylar

wanted Tobias to have dinner with her outside.

Tobias responded calmly, "Yes. I don't like to be bothered."

I'm afraid that's inevitable. With a face like his, he'll draw the attention of the pedestrians on the street whether he wants it or not.

"Take some time off tonight to accompany me. I want to go shopping. We should enjoy our last day of the holiday. After today, I'll be going on a tour around the world."

"What?"

Skylar further explained, "I'll be going on a tour to promote my latest movie. Don't worry, I'll make sure to do a good job. You will get your money's worth."

Tobias seemed uninterested in the movies produced by Royal Entertainment as he knew that he wasn't going to profit from them anyway.

The investment that he made on Skylar just wasn't paying off.

If it weren't for Tobias, Skylar would've already been weeded out from the entertainment industry.

Even though it was already quite late, some of the smaller shops along the street were still in business.

They were selling various kinds of food.

Skylar was surprised to see so many of the shops around the school still open.

The shops reminded her of her student days. She used to visit these shops a lot back when she was still a student.

Every Friday, Jeremy would bring her to eat here. Ahh, Those were the good old days...

Even though they had broken up for quite a while now, some remnants of their love still remained.

Skylar dragged Tobias over to one of the small shops. The shop measured about six to seven square meters. Inside the shop was a rectangular-shaped stove. A variety of dishes were being cooked on the stove.

Tobias and Skylar took a seat and were given two plastic bowls. The owner of the shop then inserted two spoonfuls of sauce into the bowls. It was the first time Tobias came to a minuscule shop like this. Since he had quite a big body, he felt rather cramped in his seat. However, since Skylar was rather obstinate with her decision to dine here, he had no choice but to endure his discomfort. Skylar took some meatballs out from the pot on the stove before uttering, "One bowl of beef tendon, please. Oh, and please add more sauce to it." Ahh, I feel right at home here. This is so much better than eating in those fancy restaurants. The etiquettes rules at those restaurants are just so galling. Not to mention, the food here is also way superior. The beefsteak that is served at those restaurants can't even compare to the cheap meatballs that they sell here.
