

Chapter 10: Adam's Birthday (Part II)

Adam's P.O.V.

I walked through people, trying to get to my room. Girls looked at me with lust filled in their eyes, some even tried to come up to me and dance.

These are the times I wish I didn't have heightened senses. People have sex in the rooms below me, making me hear everything they do.

I finally made it into my room, with much difficulty, I sense that someone was here in my room, a girl. "What do you want, Veronica?" I said.

I turned on my light, seeing she was in lingerie. "If you want someone to do it with, go do it with some man whore." I said, before she could speak. "The only person I want to do it with is you." She purred. I scooped, she's done it with all of the man whores, and that's a lot of people.

"Get out, Veronica." I growled. "But." She pouted and stood up. After this, I'm burning my sheets, blankets and pillows.

She came closer to me, "I only want you." She said. "Get out." I said in my Alpha voice. She whimpered, bowed her head and left the room, real slow if I might add.

I gathered my things that Veronica touched and shoved them in a basket. I went into my closet and took out extra bed sheet, a pillow and a blanket.

I can hear various noises from below. Moaning to groaning to grunting to screaming. I sighed. I need to get out of this house.

I locked my door, and jumped out of my window. When I reached the ground I was on all fours, I ran into the forest and kept running.

When I was close to my territory line, I stopped. I put my paws in front of me and plopped down on to the forest floor.

My thoughts slowly drifted to my mate. My beautiful mate. Everything about her is so perfect. Her greenish blueish eyes. My wolf purred just thinking about our mate.

Caught up in the moment, I didn't hear my dad yelling at me through the mind link. "Damn it Adam! He said.

"Sorry, dad. What is it?" I asked. "Patrol spotted some unknown scent wondering into our territory. It seems that they know where they are." He explained.

"Where?" I asked, alert. "North." Was all he said before I started running. "Don't do anything rash before we get there." He warned me. "Yeah, yeah." I said back. I ran for three minutes before I saw the people.

It was like they knew our territory, they were heading towards the pack house. I can feel that there were other warriors surrounding them.

"Come out, we know you're there." A familiar voice said.

One by one, we all came out of the shadows, some shifted and some stayed in their wolf forms.

"What are you doing on my territory without any permission." My dad said.

"We are deeply sorry, Alpha Thomas. Our pack was destroyed and raided by rouges. It was unexpected. We barely had any rouge attacks."

"Most of my pack made it, some warriors died trying to protect their home and family." He said. "Alpha Marcus, is it?" My dad questioned. "Yes, and this is my mate Carlee."

"Where is the rest of your pack?" My dad asked. "We asked them to stay on unclaimed land." Carlee spoke for the first time.

"We apologize for coming on to your land without any notice." Marcus said. "It's what allies are for." My dad said.

"I accept your apology. Do you need a place to stay?" My dad asked. "Yes, we do need a place to stay in fact. Can we stay in your territory until our pack house is finished rebuilding?" Marcus asked.

My dad nodded, and they shook hands. "You guys might want to stay out here for the night, my son's birthday is today and people inside the pack house is drunk." My dad said, and scratched the back of his head.

Marcus chuckled, "That's fine. We'll wait until tomorrow. Is there a possibility if we can help you clean up the pack house, after the party of course."

"We'll like your help. Adam, help them get as comfortable as possible outside. You know where the extra stuff are. Marcus and I will be talking about the arrangements in the pack house and how we will help rebuild their pack again."

I nodded my head followed the Luna to get the rest of their pack. My dad ensured Marcus that I had already found my mate, so he wouldn't get jealous of me being alone with his Luna for a bit.

We walked where the rest of their pack was. I was surprised when I saw them, there has to be at least 300-350 pack members. Lucky for them, we had a big pack house.

I lead them back where the pack house was. "You guys can wait here, I'll bring some blankets and pillows."

I've gone into the house more than a hundred times to make sure everyone had a blanket and a pillow.

I had given them to the women first, but the women just gave it to the children. That made me think of our children one day.

I went back into the pack house to sleep, I was too tired to do anything right now. Everything has calmed down, some people drinking some wine, or just talking.

Remembering I had to climb up my window, due to me locking my door. I was about to walk down the stairs when I remembered I had a key to my room.

I lifted a vase that had a plant in it and found my key there. I inserted the key in the keyhole and pushed my door open. Everything was the same as it was before.

I took off my shirt and pants, leaving me in only boxers. I went under the blanket and fell asleep dreaming about my mate.

----

I woke up from my peaceful dream by someone banging on the door, "Adam, you're going to be late for school if you don't wake up now!" I heard my mom yell.

I looked over to my alarm clock, and indeed if I don't wake up now I will be late for school. "Crap." I mumbled to myself.

I quickly took a shower and put on some random clothes. I grabbed my phone and car keys and headed downstairs.

"Bye mom!" I said, leaving the house. I quickly walked to my car and started the engine. I drove to school, a minute to spare to go to my class.

I slipped in the classroom right when the door closed. The teacher gave me a sharp look, but I brushed it off with a nervous laugh.

I sat down in the only free seat, which was in the middle of the class.

When I sat down, I remembered about Penelope. Shit. "Did you pick up Penelope?" I asked. "Yeah, your mom couldn't wake you up so I went ahead and picked her up." I let out a sigh of relief. "Thanks."

"No problem."

I looked at the clock. Time seemed to be going slower. I sighed, wishing I could see my mate already.

----

Continue reading next part