Chapter 41: Soon

Penelope's P.O.V. Eve and I eventually found the pack house with the GPS's help. When we got there, Adam and Cameron were waiting for us in the garage. a "Are you okay?" Adam asked, inspecting me to see if I had any cuts or bruises. "Yeah. I was only in the car with Eve." a Adam kissed my forehead, "I have some pack work I need to do. I'll be in my o ice if you need me." He smiled and le . I said bye to Cameron and Eve and went inside the pack house. I went into our bathroom. I looked into the mirror and looked at my teeth. I looked weird having braces. I swept my tongue over the metal, it felt weird too. $a^2$ I walked out of the bathroom, going to find Adam. My wolf didn't like that we were so far apart. I found it pretty easily, seeing that it was the only room with big doors that touch the ceiling. I opened the doors slowly, making sure I wasn't interrupting anything. I poked my head through the opening I made and saw Adam sitting on the chair surrounded by paper. He looked up, and when his eyes met mine, he smiled. "Hey, Penny. What do you need?" I walked into the room and the door closed behind me, scaring me. "N-Nothing..." I stuttered. Adam sni ed the air, his eyes turning black, but returned back to his chocolate brown eyes. "You're heat is coming soon." He said, in a strained voice. "Heat? Oh." I said, blushing. "I don't want to mate yet." I blurted out, looking at my shoes. I felt my cheeks redden more. "It's okay if you don't want to mate now, I understand." Adam said. I heard the chair he was sitting on roll back and he made his way towards me. He placed his index finger underneath my chin and his thumb under my lips. He gently moved my head up and stared into my eyes. "Have I said how beautiful you look?" He questioned, moving his eyes down to my lips. I shook my head, "Well, you look beautiful." I blushed again and he captured my lips with his. His lips moved slowly, placing his hands on my waist.

My lips moved in sync with his, my wolf purring in the back of my mind.

The door suddenly opened, "Al-" When he looked at us, he stopped mid sentence. "I'm sorry I interrupted, Alpha." He bowed his head, but he was still panting.

He pulled away and gave me a small smile, like it was an apology.

"It's fine. What is it, Jordan?"

"We found sightings of rouges nearby the border and they seem to be getting closer. There were too many to do a headcount, sir."

a

"How much do you think it is?" Adam questioned him. "I assume there is about at least two hundred of them. There might be more, but we found no other scents than the ones that are coming closer."

"Bring the women and children to the safe house. Warn Alpha Trey and bring them to the safe house also." Jordan nodded his head and scurried out of the room.

"Penelope, I need you to follow everyone else, okay?" Adam looked down at me. "What about you?" I asked.

"I'll be fine." He kissed my forehead, "Now go, I'll get you when we're done." I nodded my head. I quickly went on my tip toes and kissed his cheek.

I smiled at him before going out the door.

The pack house was loud, people shouting out orders, parents trying to usher their kids into the safe room.

STORY CONTINUES BELOW

"Luna, come this way." A man walked up to me. I followed him and climbed down the ladder. The women and children were all down here, some men guarding the door.

"Penny!" I heard a familiar voice call out. I looked behind me and saw Leanne with Charlie.

I made my way towards them, trying not to knock over the children who were running around. "Where's Eve?" I asked, not seeing her anywhere.

"I'm here." Her head popping up behind someone.

I was about to speak, but we heard footsteps pounding above us. The whole room fell silent, parents hugging their children.

We heard banging against the metal door, "Shit!" I heard someone whisper.

It stopped, but then it started again. We heard mu led speaking, and then light ticking. "Everyone get away from the door!"

We all backed away, even the guards. Seconds passed, but the bomb, we were assuming, still didn't blow up.

"Is i-" Someone was cut o by the bomb exploding. I covered my ears, and closed my eyes. I slowly opened my eyes and looked where the metal door was.

We saw a couple of rouges, growling and snarling at us. One of them was in human form, he looked at the crowd until his eyes landed on me.

"Ah! There you are." He smirked and they started advancing towards us.

My heart was pounding, and I was pretty sure everyone in the room could hear it. The man grabbed a child, pulling her up by her hair.

The child screamed and started crying, "Mama!" She cried. My wolf growled and was itching to shi , but I pushed her back.

The mother growled and shi ed into her wolf. She growled again and ran straight for him. The rouges protected the man and attacked her.

She tried her best to attack back, but every time she was distracted by one wolf, she was attacked by another.

The mother dropped on to the ground, blood surrounding her. She shi ed back into her human form, the wounds were already healing but she lost too much blood.

"Mama!" The child cried again, clawing at the person who was still holding her. "Shut up already!" He said, throwing the child across the room.

Seeing the child being thrown, made my wolf snap. She growled, and forcefully made me shi . 'Help the woman.My wolf linked everyone.

"Penelope!"

"Luna!"

My wolf charged at the rouges. The rouges growled, but that only fueled her with more anger. Ace opened her mouth, and clamping it on one of the rouge's neck.

She didn't let go until she knew he was dead. The three of them attacked at the same time, my wolf slid under one of them, making him crash into his comrade.

My wolf quickly got up and pounced on one of the rouges. He threw me o his back, but she didn't stop.

One of the rouges bit her hind leg, and the other took a chunk of flesh. My wolf howled in pain, and fell on the floor.

The rouges took this opportunity to attack me. Biting, and clawing at me, but never killed me.

My wolf tried the best to stand up, but the rouges would just knock her down. 'I'm sorry.'

I slowly felt myself gain control, and my wolf retreating back. 'Ace? Ace?!! called out.

She's gone because of youl.heard a voice in my head say, but it wasn't Ace.

It's you're fault, Penelope.

You made her do this.

I tried my best not to listen, but the haunting voice was still there.

Fight back. Kill them all. They hurt your wolf. You're going to die if you don't. Another voice say. It was like an angel and a demon talking to me.

Fight back, Penelope. You can win.

You can't win. Just lay there and wait for death.

I saw black dots appearing in my vision, and everything became unclear. I want to see Adam again. I don't want to leave him or the pack.

Fight Penelope. You can win.

I slowly got up on my paws and felt my wounds heal faster. Fight. Fight. Fight. I heard the voice over and over again.

I growled at them, and felt my body move. I opened my mouth again and closed it when he got close enough.

I shook my head back and forth, making him loose balance. I took this chance to pin him down and rip out his throat.

Almost instantly, he shi ed back into his human form. I felt power surge through me, like I was unstoppable.

When I finished killing the last two rouges, I turned to the man. His eyes widened, and slowly back away from me.

I snarled at him and he turned around, running. I tried gaining back control, but something was blocking me to do so.

I- No the wolf shook its head, like it was loosing an internal battle with itself.

"Penelope?" I heard someone call out my name. My wolf turned around, and they gasped.

"Y-Your eyes."

It's not me! I wanted to yell out, but I couldn't do anything but watch.

"Are you guys okay.." I heard another person call out. The wolf turned around again, this time I saw Adam with a couple of other guys.

Before I knew it, the wolf ran towards Adam with a growl.

____

Sorry for the late update..

I will try to update two times a week, Monday and Friday. If I don't update on time, then it will be the day a er.

-Wa.

Continue reading next part