Chapter 25

Five minutes passed, and Anita skillfully dodged Aspen's punches with great expertise. Despite her small size, she took advantage of her petite frame to make it difficult for Aspen's punches to reach her.

Being taller, he had to bend more to reach her, but before he could, she would either duck or somersault, making it difficult for his punches or kicks to hit her.

The trainee warriors gasped as they gawked at her moves. Her skills were new and refreshing. Another kick was coming her way, but she blocked it with her elbow, leaving Aspen frustrated.

At that moment, Anita took advantage and landed a punch in his stomach. He nodded his head, impressed. Seeing Anita as a worthy opponent, he changed his attacks to another level.

As Anita's training was not completed, she merely dodged a punch directed at her face when a kick on her knee. sent her to the floor. Aspen was heavy, and with her light weight, the intensity of his kick weakened her knee, sending her to the floor.

However, everyone gave a standing ovation, clapping for her. They didn't expect her to last long, and while Aspen had trained for years, Anita had only trained for five months. Alpha Nick could only imagine what Sheila was like if her trainee, whom he could not train, was like this.

If given more attention, these new trainees could be rated among the best in the pack. A sigh escaped Alpha Nick as he nodded with approval. "Go back to your seats," he said, referring to the floor of the tiled gym where they sat since there were no chairs in the gym.

Aspen was still finding it difficult to understand. Over five months ago, Anita was like a worm. It was as if she never had bones in her body but had given him a tough time in defeating her just now. "Alpha Nick, who trained them, please?" He asked with interest.

It was obvious that Anita's trainer was the same person who trained the rest of the team. Alpha Nick's lips were heavy as Anita responded, "Luna Sheila."

They weren't surprised as Luna Sheila had trained with them from the beginning before Beta Dustin solely took over for reasons only known to him.

Now, they began to feel that Luna Sheila was scarce at training because she devoted her time to the weak trainees. The outcome was just amazing.

"Then where is she?" Clayton, another warrior asked. Alpha Nick felt a lump in his throat. With all gazes pinned expectantly on him, he replied,

"She's traveling for a while. We won't be seeing her for months." He hoped that within that time, he could train Charlotte to fit into Sheila's shoes. She was his mate and soon to be Luna. As such, this should be her responsibility.

Faces fell. "She didn't even say goodbye," Anita said sadly.

Alpha Nick's lips pursed, not liking the dull spirit in his warriors due to the information. "Tell you what, she's still preparing and will be here to say her final goodbye."

The excitement he saw on their faces caused a strange yearning in his heart. Why didn't anyone tell him that Sheila was doing far more than was expected of her? Yet, he denied her the only thing she ever asked throughout their six months of marriage. To go to the gala awards with her.

"Nick!" A melodious voice rang from the entrance as she ran into his embrace. Everyone was shocked. When they realized it was his mate, they zipped their lips in understanding.

Alpha Nick pulled away from the unexpected hug uncomfortably. Charlotte needed to grow up. Ever since her return, childishness was all she ever gave Alpha Nick.

"Charlotte, we have training. The divorce is not finalized, so you can't do this," he spoke in a whisper. wW(w).no vElsH0me.c0M

Charlotte was crestfallen as things were moving too slow for her. However, recalling the hint Sheila dropped last night, she planned to be of her best behavior to not make Alpha Nick suspicious of anything.

The moment they mark each other, followed by her coronation, she will be in charge after sorting out the who helped her to return in a timely manner.

"I'm sorry. I just miss you so much," she spoke in a teary tone. Alpha Nick was remorseful for chastising her.

"I know. Now go change and join training," he said softly, but Charlotte frowned imperceptibly. Alpha Nick wasn't giving her attention like before, and it wasn't going down well with her.

"Haven't you noticed that I already changed up for training?"

Alpha Nick frowned when he took in the hot pants she wore for training. A frustrated sigh escaped him as he complained, "That is too short, or should I say, revealing?"

Charlotte was displeased by his analysis. Knowing her weakness in battle, she only had her sexy form to show off. If she covered up, then how would she be attractive to him enough to seduce him?

"Come on, they are very comfortable."

Alpha Nick's expression was solemn as he insisted, "No. Go change."

"But..." he shook his head and cut her off, "No buts."

Charlotte reluctantly left the gym before Alpha Nick looked in Beta Dustin's direction. He arrived with Charlotte but stood a distance away to give them the needed privacy.

"I wasn't expecting you," Alpha Nick spoke seriously. Beta Dustin smiled.

"I couldn't stay away, but what are they doing here?" He looked in the direction of Sheila's warriors.

Alpha Nick's lips twitched as confusion clouded his mind. "You really don't know that they were being Sheila?"

Beta Dustin was drowned in discomfort. This was one of the reasons why he loathed Sheila. After the Alpha, the Luna was in charge. In Beta Dustin's case, he didn't want any Luna to outshine him.

For this reason, he devoted time to searching and bringing Charlotte back because of how weak and materialistic sh was.

Luna Sheila was too smart for him, and he feared being outshone by her amazing skills.

"I saw them together a few times, but it was nothing of interest to me." He avoided Alpha Nick's gaze as he spoke.

Alpha Nick took a great interest in his utterance, asking in feigned amusement,

"Nothing of interest to you? Let's see about that." He looked in the direction of Sheila's warriors and asked, "Anyone wants to train with the beta?"

Beta Dustin felt humiliated to train with these weak ones. "They aren't up to it. I was the one who sent them away," he said seriously, his burning gaze forbidding any of them from volunteering. 0w(w).No vElsH0me.c0M

Alpha Nick was still looking in the direction of Sheila's trainees until one of them, Calister, volunteered. "Alpha, I (w)w(w).No vElsH0me.c0M would take the chance." To him, this was the opportunity to make his Luna proud.

When everyone gave up on them, suggesting they be sent to live among the omegas or the shacks, Luna Sheila was the only one who saw the potential in them.

Alpha Nick nodded his head, beckoning them to the center of the gym. Everyone moved backward, and the training battle began.

Jaws almost dropped when they realized that Calister was even better than Anita. Unknown to them, he has been training secretly after every session to be graded among the best warriors in the future.

Beta Dustin was trying every means to defeat Calister in less than a minute, but six minutes passed, and he was already sweating.

Calister looked tired but was still not giving in. Frustrated, Beta Dustin was about to shift when Alpha Nick roared, "Enough!"

Calister quickly went back to his position as Alpha Nick addressed his beta in a hushed tone. "You call that nothing of interest? Why did you try to shift right now?" His voice was slightly raised as his anger burned.
