Alpha Nick stared at Sheila behind the steering wheel, but before he could say anything, she sped off. A small smile played at the corner of his lips. "Just you wait, Sheila. I will soon uncover the mystery surrounding you."

He couldn't understand why he suddenly took an interest in knowing things he didn't know about her before. Perhaps it was all due to his initial perception of her.

He thought she was marrying him for money, but the moment she rejected it, something strange stirred inside wWw.nov(e)isHom.e.c0m him.

"Did you say something?" Charlotte asked from behind him, startling him. She was so insecure about his being alone with Sheila that she couldn't help but follow them.

To her amazement, Sheila had left, but Alpha Nick was standing there like a pillar of salt. If not for Charlotte's presence, he would have remained so. Her arms were gently wrapped around him from the back, and Alpha Nick frowned slightly before pulling away.

He hated clinginess but didn't know how to explain it to her. "Charlotte, please stop the public display of affection. We are in the midst of pack members, and you saw how it almost caused problems for us."

Charlotte pouted, not offended by his resistance since she already got what she wanted. Sheila had left but also introduced Charlotte to the pack members. They had no choice but to submit to her.

"I'm sorry. It's just that I'm not as strong as Sheila, so I'm afraid they'd hate me," she put on a pitiful look, hoping that Alpha Nick would show her more affection in front of the pack members to make them understand what she meant to him.

"No one has the right to hate the Alpha's mate, do you understand?" He said seriously, his gaze a little dark. That wasn't the response Charlotte wanted, so she asked, wWw.no(r)èL@h0m@.c0m

"Yes, so can you personally train me tomorrow?" WwW.h0(r)èLs(h).M@.c0m

She was surprised to see the sorrowful look in his eyes. "I won't be around tomorrow."

"Why?" Charlotte was desperate, frowning as worry overwhelmed her. Alpha Nick wanted to be alone to check the report the investigator sent, but knowing that Charlotte wouldn't understand, he rather said, Light shone in Charlotte's eyes with increased excitement. Finally, Sheila was going to be out of their lives for good. Then Charlotte would become the Luna, having access to all of the pack's resources.

No one would be able to stop her from helping herself with as much as she needed. From the look of things, she no longer had to go back to her old life as it was more respectable being with Alpha Nick.

She would find a way to pay off her helpers. "Then we can mate and mark each other," she remarked.

Alpha Nick suddenly tensed up at the mention of mating and marking. It was all he wanted before, but now, he oddly didn't feel the desire for it. Still, it was his obligation to mate with Charlotte and give the pack an heir. He forced a smile. "Of course."

"Alpha, I'm sorry for being late. I was supposed to report earlier than this, but I had to take care of a few things in the packhouse," reported Beta Dustin.

He was speaking with his gaze lowered. Charlotte knew it was a lie as he didn't want to see Sheila, but she didn't expose him.

After all, it was for her betterment if Beta Dustin didn't like Sheila, as he was still upset that those weak pack members had become strong warriors because of Sheila and not him.

"What is that?" Alpha Nick asked seriously, having not heard about any emergency in the packhouse.

Beta Dustin's gaze lowered, not expecting him to ask. Quickly, he made up something. "Some of the servants were fighting. It's nothing serious."

Alpha Nick hummed but did not dig further, being displeased with Beta Dustin's inability to bid Sheila a proper goodbye.

"Since you are here, you train with your trainees, and I will handle the new group."

"Sheila's trainees?" Charlotte asked with a deep frown, recalling Anita. How could she allow that little wench close to Alpha Nick? Somehow, Alpha Nick didn't like the way she addressed those warriors.

"Sheila is no longer here. They are now my trainees." There was a tinge of pride in his voice as he said those words. Sheila had entrusted them to him and he didn't plan to let her down after all her hard work.

"I agree, but can you stay away from Anita?" Charlotte asked directly before biting her tongue for being indisciplined. How could she take back her words?

"Why?" Alpha Nick curiously asked. Charlotte's brain couldn't process any proper lie, so she blurted out the truth.

"She's too close to Sheila."

Alpha Nick's brows drew together, not understanding what his mate meant by that. "Is there something wrong with that?"

Charlotte was out of excuses. She thought about using her parents' burned-down house in the Bane pack, all thanks to Sheila. "No. I just..."

"I think you should join Dustin's team for now," Alpha Nick cut in and revealed. Drawing from Charlotte's utterances, he didn't think it was right for her to train with Sheila's trainees, thereby making it so.

"But I want to be with your team," Charlotte insisted, not pleased with training away from her mate when the likes of Anita were there. Her presence would keep reminding Alpha Nick of

Sheila. wWw.Nov(e)isHom.e.c0m

Alpha Nick refused. "You join Dustin, and I will still train you later in private."

There was no way out of the situation with Alpha Nick's stern voice, so she reluctantly agreed, "Alright."

When Alpha Nick returned to the gym to announce the changes, it didn't go down well with the warriors as they equally wanted to train with their Alpha.

"Alpha, shouldn't it be rotational?" Adelaide asked. Everyone saw how difficult it was for Beta Dustin to take down Calister. It posed a great challenge for them to train harder than before.

"You are already strong," Alpha Nick explained, weighing his options and feeling like he was needed more by Sheila's team.

"They are too. We have seen their skills," Warrick pointed out, and everyone agreed. Alpha Nick thought for a while and voiced out,

"Alright. Let's move training to the open. We should all train together."

Beta Dustin was displeased but didn't have a choice. Thanks to Sheila, his weakness was exposed. His hatred for

After the warm-up stage to the serious ones, Alpha Nick realized that Sheila's team didn't need the kind of help he thought. They indeed wanted to make their teacher proud.

Training was over, so Alpha Nick went to his office before Charlotte could catch up to him, as he was eager to view the report. After reading it, disappointment strangled his throat.
