Alpha Nick felt strange after gulping down the first drink. He felt hot and aroused, which was unusual for him. It was as if his mind was on the verge of exploding if he didn't have a woman right then and there. It was unlike him to give in to his desires so quickly just because his body craved it.

Even though he had discovered that Charlotte was his mate, he never forced himself to mate with her when she suggested a wedding. This feeling was so unfamiliar that he could only blame the drink for it.

Unable to stay at the event, he was about to head to the hotel room he had booked for himself and Charlotte in case they couldn't make it back to the pack in time when he saw the waiter approaching Sheila.

Given how the drink was affecting him, he didn't think she would be able to handle it with someone like Alpha Ansaldo by her side. He quickly rushed to stop her from taking the drink, suspecting that something might have been added to it.

Due to the crowded venue, Sheila had finished the entire glass before he reached her. She was so thirsty after talking to numerous people about her business that she couldn't even sip her drink slowly.

The effects wouldn't have been as severe if she hadn't consumed so much at once. She was about to grab another drink from a different waiter when she started feeling strange. www.novel(s)home.com

When Alpha Nick approached her, she couldn't recognize him due to her heightened libido. She grabbed him by the collar. "Hey, am I not beautiful?"

Her fingers were already tracing his muscular body through the black tuxedo he wore. Alpha Nick, feeling unwell himself, could sense what she was going through. This situation would likely affect a she-wolf more than a werewolf, or the drink she had must have been stronger than the one Alpha Nick had..

"Come with me," he said and pulled her into the elevator, away from prying eyes. Sheila no longer cared about her image, acting clingy towards the man in the elevator with her. www.NoVel(s)@Me.com

"Kiss me," Sheila suddenly said, her pouted, rosy lips enticing. Alpha Nick felt even hotter, his face flushing from discomfort. In a moment like this, he should have confided in his best friend, but the idiot was preoccupied with someone else's mate.

"No. There is something wrong with the drinks here," Alpha Nick refused to take advantage of her.

He was already loosening his tie, hoping it would alleviate his discomfort when he heard the elevator ding.

"You don't want to kiss me. Am I not beautiful? I've loved him for a long time. Since he helped me that day. I tried to marry him, but he never noticed me. Am I ugly?" Sheila's voice was desperate and tearful.

Alpha Nick smiled bitterly, pulling her out of the elevator with him as she clung tightly to his shirt, her body pressing against his. Sheila had loved him for a long time, and from her confession, she was still in love with him.

But when did he help her? He couldn't recall that part. Feeling his heart break, he could empathize with her pain. "No. He's a jerk for ignoring you."

"Hahaha, then kiss me," her lips met his, and she wrapped her arm around his neck, pulling him closer. Alpha Nick didn't resist, sweeping his arm under her thighs and carrying her in his arms.

The door to the presidential suite was in front of them, and he carried her inside bridal style. He wasn't repulsed by Sheila as he was by his cheating mate, which was a relief. Even though they were both under the influence, he was still responsible and would take full accountability for his actions.

The kiss was intense, and his body responded eagerly. He couldn't stop himself, deepening the kiss as his body heated up, his manhood growing hard and painful. Sheila's moans only fueled his desire.

"You're a good kisser," she murmured.

Alpha Nick paused briefly, wondering if she had kissed someone before to be able to judge his kissing skills. In that moment of hesitation, she began unbuttoning his shirt.

Feeling her touch on his body as she removed his shirt and caressed him made him lose his senses. He pulled her closer, kissing her passionately and savoring the taste of the wine she had just consumed.

Her faint cologne scent intoxicated him as he broke the kiss and nibbled on her ear, simultaneously unzipping her dress. Sheila let the dress fall to the floor as she stepped out of it, pulling him towards the bed. However, he lifted her in his arms once again, carrying her to the bed before gently placing her down.

Sheila's hands roamed his muscular back, pulling him closer, but he restrained himself this time, leaving her disappointed.

"Why? Won't you do it?" Tears welled up in her eyes as Alpha Nick shook his head. As he unhooked her bra, a smile lit up her face as she let it fall. His lips found her pink nipples, sucking eagerly.

Sheila moaned in pleasure, igniting her desire for him. He pulled away, removed his and her pants, and covered her body with his once more. Without warning, he spread her legs and began pleasuring her.

Sheila gripped the sheets tightly, arching her back and spreading her legs wider to give him better access, moans growing louder.

A strange sensation washed over her as she felt the urge to climax. "Stop, I need to pee."

The man between her thighs didn't seem inclined to stop at that moment, continuing to pleasure her. Her release filled his mouth, and he swallowed it, kissing her and delving his tongue into her.

Sheila writhed in pleasure, throwing her head back and gripping his hair tightly as another wave of pleasure washed over her. She panted heavily before feeling something cold and hard at her entrance.

His member entered her, stretching her walls as Sheila let out a cry when he covered her mouth with his, allowing her to taste herself. Her screams were muffled as she felt him fully inside her, stretching her to the limit.

Soon, she began to moan as he thrust into her, his movements intense. The climax came with a groan from Alpha Nick as he released inside her. Exhausted, they both drifted off to sleep. www.NoV@LsHome.Com

In the garden, Tom broke the kiss and turned around, sensing someone watching him. His eyes met a pair of hazel eyes, and his wolf growled. "Mate."
