

Alternate 1211

Chapter 1211

1211 The preparations before the operation

In the midst of the boring wait, the day of extreme darkness finally passed.

During this time, although there were several waves of radioactive monsters that came to the place where Morris and the others lived, they did not attack the cave. They only roared for a while and then slowly left.

While the abandoned people rejoiced, they also thought that they had disguised themselves well enough, so the monsters did not discover the location of the cave.

However, Uncle Jim and Morris did not think so. After all, the neighbor's cave was hidden even more cleverly, but it was still discovered by the radiation monsters. How could they not find them, who were only a hundred meters away?

Therefore, the real reason why the monster did not invade them was most likely related to Tang Zhen!

This was indeed the case. It was the aura that Tang Zhen deliberately emitted that scared away the low-level monsters that were not even considered cannon fodder in the tower world so as to prevent them from disturbing his rest.

When the day of extreme darkness passed and the sun reappeared on the horizon, the important annual activity of the abandoned people was about to begin.

Due to the destruction caused by the radioactive monsters during day of extreme darkness, the defense of the monster cities would be greatly weakened. The abandoned people would take this opportunity to sneak into the monster cities and search for food seeds that they could bring back to sow.

In order to have enough food, none of the abandoned people would give up such an opportunity. They would send the strongest group of people in their group to participate in this grand event!

"Sir, are you really coming with us to the monster City to search for food seeds?"

Morris had a trace of excitement on his face as he followed behind Tang Zhen and asked.

"I've already said it three times. If you continue to talk nonsense, do you believe that I'll kick your butt open?"

Ever since the bloody battle with the radioactive monsters that night, Morris' entire person seemed to have changed a little. Although his character was still as carefree as before, there was a faint trace of fierceness in his temperament.

As expected, only through the baptism of blood and life and death battles could a man completely grow up!

Uncle Jim, who was at the side, smiled and put on the simple equipment one by one with nimble hands and feet. Every action of his seemed to be very serious.

To the abandoned people, every time they entered a Monster City, there was a possibility that they would never return. Therefore, maintaining their peak condition would have a huge impact on the success of the operation.

Due to Tang Zhen's participation, Morris and the rest had increased their confidence by quite a bit. Their faces would occasionally reveal a smile. It was obvious that they were extremely looking forward to the harvest of this operation.

If they were lucky enough, they would not have to worry about food for the next year!

Tang Zhen stood at the entrance of the cave and silently sized up the busy people.

After a few days of living together, he and the other abandoned people had gradually become familiar with each other. Now that he saw them wearing simple equipment and using rough stone tools to fight, he could not help but shake his head slightly.

With such simple equipment, even if they were to face a radioactive monster, they would still have a slim chance of survival, let alone enter a city controlled by robots. Once they encountered armed robots with heavy firepower, they would not even have the ability to resist.

If he wanted to protect himself, he had to at least have a decent weapon!

Since they were already familiar with each other, it wasn't impossible to give them a few. However, the weapons in his storage space were basically all custom-made, so the abandoned people couldn't use them at all.

The best way was to make a batch on the spot.

He had downloaded such a mobile application before. It could easily build all kinds of mechanical items. If he was not in a hurry, he could even build an aircraft carrier!

Unfortunately, those ordinary items were not of much use to Tang Zhen, causing him to rarely use this application.

When a good deed was done, one would send Buddha to the West. Since they were acquainted, Tang Zhen did not mind helping them once more.

"You guys go and collect some iron ore, the more the better."

After hearing Tang Zhen's instructions, the eyes of Uncle Jim and the others lit up. The abandoned people who had seen him use iron ore to cast a saber immediately realized that Tang Zhen might want to do the same thing.

After all, given Tang Zhen's performance, he had no need for these things. Therefore, the greatest possibility was that he would give them to them.

After realizing this, the abandoned people were extremely excited. After seeing the sharpness of Morris's battle blade, they had long been envious in their hearts. However, they were too embarrassed to ask Tang Zhen to forge a battle blade for them.

This was because they were very clear that the reason why Tang Zhen did this was entirely because Morris had saved him from the garbage mountain. However, their actions in the beginning were just to stand by and watch.

The group moved together, and it didn't take long for them to collect a large amount of iron ores. After placing them in front of Tang Zhen, the group immediately formed a circle, their faces filled with anticipation as they waited for his performance.

"Step back a little, or I won't be responsible if I hurt you!"

After hearing Tang Zhen's warning, everyone was so frightened that they immediately took seven to eight steps back. After seeing those terrifying flames, everyone was really afraid that even a tiny bit of it would splash onto their bodies and burn them into a pile of charcoal.

Seeing that everyone was frightened by his words, the corner of Tang Zhen's mouth raised into a smile. He immediately opened the mobile phone's operation interface and glanced at the many downloaded applications. He then opened one of them.

all-purpose shaping device. Comes with 100000 blueprints. It can be used to create ordinary items made of various materials. If the materials are not complete, you will have to pay the corresponding material cost!

This application was downloaded by Tang Zhen when he was bored. However, other than playing it a few times in the beginning and trying to create a few items, he had never used it for the rest of the time.

He had observed the entire process of making items with this application and found that when it was working, it would form a special three-dimensional skeleton, and then various powders of various textures would be quickly filled until the item was completely formed.

Compared to man-made products, the performance and quality of mobile phones would be doubled.

The reason why Tang Zhen asked Morris and the others to collect iron ore was that the cost of this kind of application material was too expensive. Even if it was ordinary steel, it would need ten brain beads per kilogram!

Compared to the true value of the brains, this price was indeed a little outrageous!

Tang Zhen didn't lack brains, but he wouldn't spend this money for nothing. Moreover, since this was to create weapons for the abandoned people, they would naturally have to put in some effort.

The ore was crushed into powder and then refined into pieces of iron ingots. Then, Zhen Tang chose a weapon drawing from the application and began to make it.

A square-shaped light screen suddenly appeared. Immediately after, everyone saw a translucent three-dimensional skeleton floating in the air. The iron ingots that Tang Zhen had refined were also shrouded in it. They began to rapidly reduce at a speed that was visible to the naked eye. The powder continued to be absorbed by the transparent three-dimensional skeleton.

Under the gazes of the abandoned people, the gaps in the three-dimensional skeleton were completely filled with metal powder. Then, a strange weapon that was shining with a fine luster appeared before everyone.

With a gentle wave of his hand, the weapon that had just been completed landed in Tang Zhen's hand.

This weapon's appearance was somewhat similar to a gun, but it relied on mechanical force to fire. Strictly speaking, it was more like a crossbow.

There was a magazine-like storage box at the bottom of the weapon. As long as a crossbow bolt that was polished to the standard was placed in it, it could be fired normally. Its adaptability was absolutely first-class.

Of course, crossbow bolts made of different materials had different destructive power.

As long as Morris and the others carefully maintained it, this weapon would be enough for them to use for a long time. The missing crossbow bolts could also be made and replenished by collecting various materials. This way, its practicality would be greatly enhanced.

With these weapons in hand, Morris and the others would have the power to protect themselves when they faced the enemy. It was more than enough to deal with the operation this time.

As for those terrifying guardians of the machine, Tang Zhen would naturally be in charge of dealing with them!

...

Chapter 1212

1212 The threat of the monster City _1

In the open space in the cave, Tang Zhen threw a completed crossbow gun into Morris "hands under the anticipating gazes of the abandoned people.

"Take it and familiarize yourself with it. If you don't understand anything, ask me!"

Hearing this, Morris hurriedly nodded. Then, under Tang Zhen's guidance, he adjusted the crossbow to a firing position and aimed at a stone as the target.

"Bang!"

As Morris aimed at the target and pulled the trigger, the sharp short crossbow arrow shot out like lightning, hitting the fist-sized rock and shattering it into several pieces!

As for the sharp crossbow arrow, it was not too damaged and could still be used after a little polishing.

This situation was enough to prove that the accuracy and lethality of the crossbow was outstanding. It was definitely a rare divine weapon for the abandoned people.

"Good fellow, this thing is really strong!"

don't fight over it. Show me the Morris stone!

"With this thing in hand, let's see who dares to bully us in the future!"

Seeing Morris and the others excitedly gathered together and carefully fiddling with the crossbow, Tang Zhen turned his head and continued to complete the next work.

After all five of the people participating in the operation had their weapons, Tang Zhen closed the application and then made the remaining iron ingots into simple armor and machetes for everyone to distribute.

“Everyone, get familiar with your new equipment as soon as possible. We’ll set off when the sun rises to that position!”

Uncle Jim’s face was filled with pride and confidence. Soon after, he turned his head and bowed to Tang Zhen in order to express his gratitude.

When the other abandoned people saw this, no matter what they were doing, they immediately followed Uncle Jim’s actions and expressed their gratitude to Tang Zhen.

They were extremely clear in their hearts just how precious the weapons and equipment given by Tang Zhen were in this world!

For example, even if the abandoned people obtained enough iron, they would definitely not be able to find a similar processing method to make this crossbow into an excellent killing weapon!

The process of turning an iron ingot into a crossbow was definitely not a simple change of the metal’s appearance, but a lot of special processes were added in, which could not be replicated at all.

Even if the abandoned people had modern industrial machines, the result would still be the same. This was the advantage that mobile applications could not compare to.

Of course, Tang Zhen wouldn’t specially remind the abandoned people as they didn’t understand these things. Even if they didn’t understand these things, the abandoned people would definitely treat crossbows as their lives!

After waiting for the time that Uncle Jim had set, the six of them, including Tang Zhen, immediately set off. They carried the supplies they needed for this trip and slowly advanced on the barren plains.

This was a true plain, and there was nothing blocking his view as far as the eye could see. There wasn’t even a foot-long weed.

At this moment, Uncle Jim and the others were wearing tattered and patched long robes, hoods, and goggles. They carefully hid their weapons and equipment to prevent other abandoned people from coveting them.

The purpose of their operation this time was to enter the monster City to search for seeds. Naturally, the less trouble they had, the better.

Tang Zhen walked in the middle of the group and looked at the monotonous barren land that had serious desertification. He also saw the occasional strong wind and understood why most of the abandoned people were dressed in such a manner.

Moreover, due to the deterioration of the natural environment, bad weather such as strong winds and sand could happen almost anytime and anywhere in this world. Once the sand and sand were stirred up, and the abandoned people did not have effective protection, it would definitely be difficult for them to move an inch in the wild!

After walking for a while, several teams with the same goal appeared on the boundless plain. They were separated by a distance, observing each other from a distance but not invading each other.

Similar to the fight for the trash on the trash mountain, the abandoned people had entered a state of competition again. There were limited special plants in a Monster City, and the opportunity to bring out the seeds of the plants from the monster City required some good luck. Therefore, it was common for the abandoned people to fight over the seeds.

This was a matter of life and death, so the abandoned people would naturally be on guard and treat everyone as their opponents.

Jim, how much do you know about the monster City we're heading to this time? "

Tang Zhen turned his head to look at Uncle Jim beside him and asked with a slightly curious tone.

Uncle Jim was checking the bag that contained the crossbow gun with a cherishing expression on his face. He was sure that it was tied tightly and sand would not get in.

After hearing Tang Zhen's question, he immediately said in a low voice, we call the monster City the mushroom garden because there are many strange buildings that look like mushrooms. They are of different colors and sizes.

The monster City was full of all kinds of dangers, and there were mechanical guards of different forms. One could lose their life if they were not careful.

When I was still a child, this Monster City had already existed, but it was not very large at that time. As long as we entered the highest point of the monster City, we could see every corner of the city clearly.

at that time, we will cooperate with each other and use a special signal to transmit information. This way, we can avoid the mechanical guards of the monster City and leave safely after obtaining the plant seeds!

The mechanical Guardian will never leave the monster City, so as long as we escape to the outside, we can guarantee that we will not suffer any damage!"

At this point, Uncle Jim had a reminiscing look on his face, then he shook his head gently.

"In the past few years, although there were always Wars, we often found useful items in the ruins. There were also many edible plants and animals!

However, as time passed, survival became more and more difficult. There were no longer any usable resources in the ruins, and the number of animals and plants decreased sharply. The abandoned people also gradually moved closer to the garbage mountain from their original state of living everywhere.

relying on the laughable charity of the citizens and other scarce food sources, we barely managed to survive.

The monster City was also expanding at a terrifying speed. In less than ten years, when I climbed up the buildings I had climbed before, I found that I could no longer see the edge of the monster City!

especially in the past few years, the speed of the monster city's expansion has been getting faster and faster. The plains where it was originally located could no longer accommodate it. Now, it is spreading in the direction where we live.

I'm really worried that after a few years, there might not be a place for the abandoned people to stay in this land!"

At this point, Uncle Jim let out a long sigh. His eyes were filled with endless worry. The difficulties of life made him look very old, like an old man in his 50s or 60s.

Morris had been listening quietly from the side. When he saw Uncle Jim's appearance, he stepped forward and patted his shoulder to express his concern.

After his parents went to the monster City and never returned, Uncle Jim, who he had accidentally picked up, took the initiative to take care of the young and led his companions to survive.

He treated Morris as his own son and took care of his other companions, so he was quickly recognized by the group and elected as the leader of the group.

To the abandoned people, being the leader of a group did not mean power, but more effort and labor.

Uncle Jim, who wasn't too selfish, was obviously suitable for such a role, and he didn't disappoint his companions.

Chapter 1213

1213 Hurrying on the road and provocation

In the sandstorm, the team walked for a distance before they unexpectedly met a familiar face. It was the other group of abandoned people who lived with them at the bottom of the stone pit.

They had set off much earlier than Tang Zhen and the rest. However, their speed was much slower. Other than the sand that they would occasionally stir up, the main reason was that their food was too poor. Therefore, they were unable to support themselves for a long time.

If a normal person did not lack food, even if they ate one less meal occasionally, they would not go weak in the legs and constantly sway as they walked. However, for the abandoned people who had not been able to eat their fill for a long time, a long journey was indeed an extremely painful thing.

They had no choice but to walk slowly in order to reach their destination. Even if they could eat some food along the way, the amount was pitifully small.

Although they had brought a lot of food, they needed to last for a few days. As they were near the monster City, it was almost impossible for the abandoned people to obtain food. For some unknown reason, there were no real plants or animals around the monster City!

If you saw living animals and plants in a Monster City, you would be sure that they were all mechanical creatures, but they were too real.

When they saw Uncle Jim and the others, the neighbors looked at each other and subconsciously kept a distance.

The unforeseen event during the day of extreme darkness caused one less group of abandoned people to be at the bottom of the stone pit, and it was the group that originally had the most people.

The two groups of abandoned people were quite close, so they often joined forces to bully Uncle Jim and the others. Especially after Morris' parents and others died in the monster City, they often humiliated the old and the weak.

Although it was not to the point of murder, it still made Morris and the others go through a very difficult time. Even when they were on the garbage mountain, they were often robbed of their spoils.

It wasn't until Uncle Jim took over the heavy responsibility and retaliated against the two groups of abandoned people that the other party's behavior became more restrained. However, he still caused them some trouble from time to time.

When the group of abandoned people was attacked by the radiation monsters, the group of abandoned people who had a better relationship with them did not take any action. Instead, Uncle Jim helped them.

Although Ji mu and the others had also chosen to take action under Tang Zhen's pressure, they were still much stronger than this group of people who were merely watching from the side regardless of the reason!

Even after Uncle Jim and the rest took in the survivors, this group of abandoned people had secretly laughed at them, thinking that there was something wrong with Jim and the rest's brains for them to take in a few children who could not find food.

In this era where resources were scarce, the higher the population, the greater the pressure on survival. No group of abandoned people would casually increase the number of members and share the food that was not much to begin with.

However, with the disappearance of their allies, Uncle Jim's strength started to be on par with this group of abandoned people. This also made the other party start to be wary, afraid that Uncle Jim and the others would take revenge on them for what happened in the past.

At the same time, this group of abandoned people also sized up Tang Zhen with obscure eyes. They had reason to believe that the delicious food that Uncle Jim and the others had been eating these few days was most likely brought by this man of unknown origin.

Although he really wanted to find out the origin of the fragrant food, in order to avoid aggravating the conflict between the two sides, spying and investigation were naturally carried out in secret.

As such, although the two groups of abandoned people met, they were like strangers and quickly pulled apart in the sandstorm.

They continued to advance towards the mountain range in front. Along the way, Tang Zhen's group encountered many groups of abandoned people. The largest group had several tens of people while the smallest group only had two to three people.

A group of five to six people like Tang Zhen's group could be found everywhere.

Everyone's dressing was very similar, but there were still some relatively wealthy abandoned people who hung metal weapons on their bodies. At the same time, they used some ornaments to indicate their identity and origins.

Even if the entire world was on the verge of collapse and the abandoned people had almost no next meal, the consciousness of social class and competition had never disappeared!

However, to the high and mighty residents of the floating city, the abandoned people's behavior was laughable. The citizens would even observe the lives of the abandoned people for a long time, treating them like ants in glass cabinets.

Tang Zhen's group was actually not eye-catching when they walked among the crowd. This was especially so after their weapons and equipment were hidden by their clothes. Outsiders were unable to see any clues.

If he took out those weapons at this moment, he was afraid that it would immediately attract the covetous eyes of the abandoned people who had a larger number of people. They might even directly snatch them!

The abandoned people in this world rarely fought because there were not many benefits worth fighting for. However, after seeing these weapons, the abandoned people naturally had a reason to fight for them.

A series of footsteps could be heard as another large group of abandoned people appeared in the sandstorm. Compared to the other abandoned people, this group's equipment could be said to be luxurious.

He didn't know what kind of luck they had, but they actually had a large number of metal weapons. From the style of the weapons, he could confirm that they were from some scrapped robot.

Although the appearance of the weapons was strange, it did not affect the lethality of the weapons. Looking at the sharp blades, people subconsciously chose to avoid them.

This group of abandoned people clearly knew about the fear of others, so they acted unscrupulously. They didn't Dodge when they walked and even deliberately bumped into those groups of abandoned people with fewer people.

Perhaps they were using this method to show off their strength and let the other abandoned people know how powerful they were. This way, when fighting for the food seeds in the monster City, they would subconsciously avoid them.

In this way, they could monopolize the area, and the chances of harvesting would greatly increase.

Although they had yet to enter the monster City, the battle between the abandoned people had already begun!

In the end, Tang Zhen and the others who were hurrying on their way were randomly targeted by this group of abandoned people. They quickly approached from behind and started provoking them.

"The guy blocking the way in front, hurry up and get out of the way!"

A sharp and arrogant voice rang out. Morris, who was walking at the back of the group, turned around and saw dozens of abandoned people standing behind him. The eyes behind the goggles were staring at them coldly.

Morris had experienced this more than once, so he immediately realized that this group of abandoned people was deliberately looking for trouble.

Seeing the number of people and equipment on the other side, Morris dodged to the side without hesitation. At the same time, he reminded Uncle Jim and the others to make way to avoid unnecessary fights.

Choosing to retreat and give in when you're at a disadvantage was not a sign of cowardice, but a simple and mature survival wisdom.

You can only have everything if you're alive, and you'll have nothing if you die!

After hearing Morris' reminder, Uncle Jim and the others turned around and glanced at the group of provocative abandoned people. They silently chose to make way. Like the young Morris, these older abandoned people knew what they should do.

However, Uncle Jim looked at the leader with a complicated expression. There must be a special reason behind this.

Even Tang Zhen followed and dodged to the side. He looked at the group of arrogant abandoned people with a smile that was not a smile and waited for their next action.

"Kid, your saber looks familiar. It seems to be the one I lost a few days ago!"

The smile on Tang Zhen's face grew wider when he heard the other party suddenly say this after Morris and the others made way for him.

Chapter 1214

1214 Resentment and! battle of life and death

Morris had already retreated to the side, planning to continue his journey after the other party had passed. This was to prevent him from accidentally stepping on the poisonous fungi if he could not see the path clearly due to the sandstorm.

Once these horse dung-like poisonous fungi powder touched the skin, it would be painful and itchy, and in serious cases, it could even kill!

The abandoned people's habit of wearing long robes and goggles also had the effect of preventing contact with the fungus powder. After all, in an environment that lacked medical care and medicine, the only way to fight against poisoning was to resist it.

If they could survive, they would keep their lives, but if they couldn't, they could only admit that they were unlucky!

The reason why the abandoned people met each other on the road from time to time was that the poisonous fungi on the route they had chosen were few in number, so they did not have to be careful when they walked.

However, Morris did not expect that even though he had already tolerated, the other party still did not let him off. He even had a crooked idea on the Battle Sword that he regarded as his life!

This had already touched Morris 'bottom line, and it made him feel a sudden desire to kill.

Morris narrowed his eyes and a cold glint flashed in his eyes. He looked coldly at the provoker.

Since the day he killed the radioactive monster, some violent genes in his blood had been awakened. His attitude towards battle was no longer to avoid it, but rather, he was eager to fight.

It was like a wild cat that had tasted fresh fish. Once it smelled a similar smell, it would become restless and even lose control!

The humiliation that he had suffered in the past also emerged in Morris 'mind, making the coldness in his eyes even more intense.

He knew very well that for those who liked to bully others, the more aggrieved the victim was, the happier they would be and the greater sense of accomplishment they would have.

There was even a type of person who would never give up until they achieved their goal. If the victim's reaction did not satisfy them, they would intensify the bullying.

The more cowardly and easily bullied he was, the prouder he would be.

Uncle Jim had been with Morris for a long time, so he naturally knew his words and deeds very well. When he saw that the situation was not right, he immediately came over and patted Morris on the shoulder.

Morris, who was originally hot-blooded, suddenly trembled and realized the consequences of his actions. He could not help but break out in a cold sweat.

Regardless of whether the other party was deliberately looking for trouble, the outcome would be unpredictable if they really fought. Even if they had sharp equipment now, they were destined to not have an absolute advantage!

If they were not careful, they might even lose their comrades 'lives and their precious crossbows would be taken away by the other party!

After taking a deep breath, Morris said in a calm voice, " you must be mistaken. This is a weapon that I just forged. It's not the same one as yours!

When the provocative abandoned person heard this, he sneered, " "Cut the crap. If I say it's mine, it's definitely mine!

If you're smart, quickly hand it over, and I won't pursue your crime of stealing. Otherwise, the result will be different when I take it back.

All of you will probably die!"

This was already an extremely explicit threat. As the provoker spoke, the abandoned people behind him drew their weapons and looked at Morris and the rest in an unfriendly manner.

Morris was furious and was about to argue with him, but he was dragged behind by Uncle Jim.

“Don’t go too far. He has already explained it just now, and you all know in your hearts who this weapon belongs to.

Do you think we’re easy to bully by being so aggressive?”

As Uncle Jim stepped forward, Morris and the other three came over in unison. Their hands were slightly close to the crossbow guns under their clothes, and a faint murderous aura was constantly gathering on their bodies.

The provoker swept a glance at Uncle Jim, as a look of ridicule flashed past his eyes, and he spoke in a disdainful tone, “Who are you? what right do you have to talk to me? get lost!”

The provoker’s companions immediately laughed wildly when they heard that, and they sized up Uncle Jim with malicious eyes.

Uncle Jim’s expression did not change. He snorted heavily and said in a mocking tone, “I forgot that we are not the same kind. How can you understand the human language I speak?”

Hearing that, Morris and the others could not help but burst out laughing. They naturally understood what he meant.

The provoker squinted his eyes and glared at Uncle Jim viciously. He was like a venomous snake, radiating a strong killing intent.

“Are you looking for death?”

“He didn’t die back then, and he definitely won’t die now?”

“You were lucky back then, but luck won’t last forever, and no one will block a knife for you!”

you’re wrong. As long as I’m in danger again, there will definitely be people who will risk their lives to help me. However, if it’s you who’s being hunted down, I reckon that there will only be people who will hit you when you’re down!

“Oh, really? However, you also said that this is only an “if.” Now that you are about to be hunted down again, I want to see if it is really as you said, that there will be someone who will risk their life to save you.”

“What a coincidence. Actually, I also want to see how your companion will react after I kill you.”

At this point, the two of them were already filled with killing intent as they reached out for their respective weapons.

The provoker had a weapon that was made from a Metal Steel pipe on his waist. His head was sharp and pointed. Once it pierced into the body, blood would flow out rapidly and a large amount of air would be sucked into the body. It was a very vicious weapon.

On the other hand, Uncle Jim's weapon was a sharp short knife about 25 centimeters long. Once it pierced into the body, it would definitely be fatal!

Since the two people who seemed to have old grudges chose to fight to the death, one of them would definitely fall!

In the blink of an eye, both of them had their weapons in their hands. Then, with the fastest speed, they stabbed out from the shortest distance.

The moment they attacked, neither of them dodged, because they both believed that they would win, and they were very clear that dodging at this time was courting death!

However, while the provoker was attacking, he shouted at Uncle Jim, "Little Jim!"

After hearing the name, Uncle Jim's body trembled slightly, and the speed of his blade also slowed down slightly.

The provoker on the other side was overjoyed, but the speed of his attack did not slow down at all. He directly stabbed Uncle Jim in the ribs.

If it was pierced through the gap between the ribs, it only needed to be lifted slightly, and the heart of the victim would be pierced. In the case of losing the ability to move, it would only take a few minutes at most for the victim to die!

However, this sure-kill strike suddenly encountered an unexpected situation.

A crisp sound was heard. The sharp steel pipe was blocked by the metal armor under the robe and could not penetrate any further!

The provoker's expression changed drastically. He dodged to the side without hesitation and shouted, "Jim, you can't kill me!"

However, as soon as he said this, a sharp knife flew over and ruthlessly stabbed into his neck, forcing the provoker to swallow his words.

"CAW CAW CAW CAW CAW CAW"

...

Blood spurted out of the provoker's mouth. At the same time, he tried to cover his neck with his hands. His eyes were fixed on Jim, who had a complicated expression on his face. He seemed to be filled with unwillingness and resentment.

"Plop!"

Under the shocked gazes of his companions, the provoker fell to the ground in the sandstorm. After his hands and feet twitched violently a few times, he completely lost his breath!

Chapter 1215

1215 The battle between the abandoned people

"Do it!"

As the provoker was killed by Uncle Jim, the battle between the two sides was inevitable.

The moment the provoker fell to the ground, both sides roared in anger and drew their weapons.

The instigator's companions had all kinds of strange weapons, but each of them was a killing weapon. They also had the advantage in numbers. They let out strange and crazy howls, and when they rushed towards Uncle Jim and the others, they also deliberately blocked the other three directions. It was obvious that they did not want Uncle Jim and the others to leave.

As for Uncle Jim's Group of five, at this moment, besides Uncle Jim who was in charge of buying time, Morris and the other three quickly took out the pockets hidden under their clothes, quickly pulled out the crossbow guns from inside, and directly unfolded the bow arms.

At the same time as the bow arm was extended, an arrow was loaded at the same time, and it could be fired with just a pull of the trigger.

Morris was the fastest. When he finished assembling the crossbow, he immediately looked at Uncle Jim's position and saw that he was fighting with an enemy. After another enemy beside him tried to sneak an attack, he directly launched an attack on the sneak attacker.

"Whoosh!"

The sound of the wind covered the sharp sound of the crossbow arrow, and the accuracy would not be affected too much within a short distance. Thus, this crossbow arrow finally hit the back of the sneak attacker as Morris had expected.

The provoker who had just raised his weapon trembled and knelt on the ground powerlessly. The back of his robe was quickly soaked in blood.

"Uncle Jim, hurry up and retreat!"

After Morris shouted, he pulled on the handle of the crossbow and pulled the bowstring taut.

At the same time Morris shouted, the other three abandoned people also pulled their triggers. The flying crossbow arrows immediately shot down three enemies, causing the other enemies to be slightly stunned.

However, they only hesitated for a moment before they continued to attack, trying to kill him before Morris and the others could shoot again!

Although the enemy's idea was good, it was obvious that they had underestimated the firing speed of the crossbow. Although it was not as fast as a gun, it could guarantee a firing rate of 30 shots per minute.

In the process of charging towards Morris and the others, another ten enemies fell to the ground. The sharp crossbow arrows pierced deep into their bodies, and the enemies who suffered such heavy injuries were almost unable to escape death!

"Damn it, what the hell are they using? how can they be so powerful?"

An enemy in the distance cursed fiercely, but the speed of his charge did not slow down in the slightest. He directly locked onto Morris and charged forward, the self-made battle axe in his hand also flying out casually.

“Bang!”

Morris, who was shooting, felt a shock on his back. When he turned around, he found a battle axe on the ground, and a dumbfounded enemy beside him.

“Go to hell!”

Without any hesitation, he pulled the trigger and the arrow shot directly into the head of the sneak attacker, shattering the goggles and piercing into the brain, killing him on the spot!

“Everyone, be careful! Do not charge at them!”

An enemy was lucky enough to Dodge the arrow. At the same time, he loudly warned his companions, but when he turned around, he saw the ground full of corpses!

The battle had just started, and they had already lost more than ten people. This situation had completely exceeded the enemy’s expectations. Looking at the bodies of their comrades on the ground, a chill suddenly rose in their hearts.

‘What kind of weapon are these damn guys using to be so terrifying?’

When fighting with such an enemy, one could either quickly retreat to reduce losses, or pay a certain price to kill all the enemies and seize these weapons to arm themselves!

Victory seemed to be so close that no one would choose to give up. The enemy gritted his teeth and pounced again!

Uncle Jim had already returned to Morris ‘side, holding a machete and a seized short spear in his hand. He was covered in blood as he fought hard against two enemies.

The four of them, including Morris, had already been injured by the enemies who came close from time to time. Fortunately, they were not too fatal and could still persist in the battle for the time being.

However, the enemies were already in a killing frenzy and were charging forward recklessly. They were not like at the beginning, where they had slowed down their charging speed due to the sharp attacks of the crossbows or even chose to stay in place to avoid being shot.

kill them all and take revenge for our fallen brothers. As long as we can get our hands on those weapons, we’ll be able to occupy the entire trash mountain!

An enemy’s roar explained why they were so crazy.

“You’re all dreaming! Go to hell!”

Morris roared and threw the empty crossbow on the ground, directly pulling out the sword tied to his waist.

As his saber was unsheathed, he and his four companions protected Uncle Jim in the middle, helping him block the enemy's charge so that he could catch his breath. At the same time, they took out their crossbows to support him.

In just a few breaths, the enemy had completely surrounded them, and all kinds of weapons were attacking Morris and the others at the same time.

A good tiger would not be able to fight a pack of wolves. Morris and the rest were just ordinary abandoned people. They were not the enemy's match at all in their injured state.

The enemies were obviously aware of this, and there was a hint of a smug smile mixed in with the cruelty, as if Morris and the others were lambs waiting to be slaughtered.

However, both sides seemed to have forgotten one thing. There was a special onlooker on the battlefield, who was watching the scene coldly.

"Alright, let's stop here!"

As Tang Zhen's voice resounded in the sandstorm, the bodies of the enemies surrounding Morris and the rest stiffened. Then, their bodies trembled continuously as bean-sized beads of sweat continuously rolled down from their foreheads.

The weapons in their hands fell to the ground one after another, because their hands could no longer hold on to them.

"Sir, it's Sir's voice!"

Morris and the others, who originally thought that they would die without a doubt, seemed to only remember Tang Zhen's existence after hearing his voice. At the same time, they let out excited shouts.

Morris and the rest were naturally very clear about Tang Zhen's mysteriousness and strength. They also knew that as long as he helped, they would be able to safely pass this crisis!

However, there was one thing that made them feel strange. Why did he seem to have completely forgotten about Tang Zhen's existence after the battle? it was as though this person had never appeared in his life!

Perhaps this was also a magical ability that he had. He could control people's memories and block their memories of certain things for a short time!

Of course, Morris and the others did not have the time to think about the specific reason. They just sat on the ground and panted heavily. At the same time, they looked at the enemies who were paralyzed on the ground and had fear written all over their faces. Their hearts seemed to be filled with a sense of satisfaction.

Tang Zhen's figure gradually appeared in the wind and sand. He slowly walked in front of Morris and the others.

apply these things to your wounds. It can help them heal quickly.

As soon as he finished speaking, an exquisite bottle appeared out of thin air and fell into the hands of Morris and the others.

Everyone poured out the ointment from the bottle and applied it on the wound. They immediately felt a cool feeling and the pain was reduced a lot.

...

Morris stood up from the ground with great effort and returned the bottle to Tang Zhen with both hands. However, his face had an expression of wanting to say something but hesitating.

“Do you have any questions to ask me? if you do, why don’t you just ask me directly?”

After hearing this, Morris hesitated for a moment, but he still gathered his courage and asked, “ Sir, I’m very confused. Since you won’t watch us get killed, why didn’t you help us just now? ”

Uncle Jim and the others ‘expressions changed, because Morris’s question was not appropriate. It obviously gave people the feeling that he was interrogating them.

They were afraid that Tang Zhen would be angry because of this sentence or that he would no longer follow them into the monster City, resulting in them not being able to obtain enough food seeds in the end.

Uncle Jim was about to reprimand Morris, but Tang Zhen waved his hand to signal them not to speak. At the same time, he said to Morris in a deep voice, “You should be very clear that I’ve given you enough help. If it’s just you alone, you’ll never be able to get food or weapons!

If you want to survive in this world and live a better life for yourself and your companions, then you need to rely on the help I can give you. You need to constantly experience these brutal killings and finally achieve your goal!”

Tang Zhen coldly looked at Morris, appearing to be very cold and heartless.

now, tell me, are you willing to accept such a life, and then step on the corpses of your enemies, and finally change this world completely? ”

Chapter 1216

1216 The choice and arrival _1

After hearing Tang Zhen’s words, Morris was immediately stunned.

In his past life experience, struggling to survive occupied the majority of his life, and his biggest dream in life was only to have enough food so that he and his companions would not have to continue starving.

He did not even think about the things that Tang Zhen had mentioned.

“Sir, I don’t know what to do.”

After hesitating for a while, Morris did not have an answer in the end, so he could only bite the bullet and answer.

With his narrow vision and poor knowledge, he couldn't even imagine what a better life would be like. He only knew that if he had to experience such bloody fighting every day, his companions would most likely die.

Swords had no eyes. On the cruel battlefield, death was an Eternal Melody, and there was no distinction between friend and foe.

Perhaps they were still talking and laughing together yesterday, but today they would be separated forever. However, if they chose this path, they had to be mentally prepared for this.

It was precisely because he was afraid of losing his companions that he could not make a decision easily. This was because it would affect his and his companions' entire life!

After hearing Morris' answer, Uncle Jim's eyes became very complicated. There was both relief and disappointment. Although he had a lot to say to Morris, it was definitely not the time, because he was not qualified to participate in this matter at all.

"Think about it when you're free. I'll give you a chance to make a choice. I hope you won't miss it!

If you still don't know what to choose by then, I won't force you to make a choice. As for my purpose, there's no harm in telling you."

"This is a world that is on the verge of collapse. In the future, it might become even more dilapidated, and it might even be destroyed!

However, there was another possibility, which was to break and then rebuild, and regain its former vitality.

I may be the destroyer, and you may be the one I've chosen to rebuild. You may be able to go further on the path I've paved for you!"

by the way, there's nothing that's eternal in this world. The floating cities and monster cities that you think are invincible are not invincible. They might even replace you!

After experiencing all kinds of changes, Tang Zhen had already developed a sense of insecurity towards the world of Loucheng. Therefore, he began to try to leave a way out for the Holy Dragon City, or a temporary shelter.

"As for how to deal with these enemies, I'll leave it to you to decide!"

After Tang Zhen finished speaking, he walked to the side. Morris was stunned for a moment before he turned his head and looked at Uncle Jim who was sitting at the side.

"Uncle Jim, what do you think we should do?"

It was not that Morris did not pay attention to it, or that he could not be ruthless, but he was very clear in his heart that Uncle Jim must have some kind of enmity and entanglement with these enemies.

It was absolutely appropriate for him to decide the fate of these enemies!

After sweeping his gaze across the enemies who were struggling in pain on the ground, Uncle Jim came back to his senses from what he had just heard. He sighed and said, "I've killed my enemy with my own hands, so it has nothing to do with these people. However, since the enmity has been formed, it will definitely not be easily resolved.

Therefore, we can't let the remaining enemies go so easily, in case they take revenge in the future!"

Morris and the others nodded slightly at the same time.

When the enemies who were struggling on the ground heard this, their eyes revealed a trace of pain and despair.

why don't I bring them along first? after we reach the monster City, I'll use them to attract the attention of the mechanical Guardian!

Morris suddenly opened his mouth. When he saw that everyone was looking at him, he continued softly, "With their help in luring the mechanical guardians away, we can enter the depths of the monster City. That way, we can harvest more and better food seeds!

Even if some of them are lucky enough to escape, it's not a big deal. After all, we've already killed most of them, so it's impossible for them to have the ability to take revenge!"

Everyone thought for a moment and then nodded.

that's not a bad idea. Let's do as Morris says!

After deciding the fate of these enemies with a few words, everyone got up from the ground and began to tie them up one by one, and then strung them up into a string!

As for the enemy's weapons, they were carefully buried and marked for easy search.

"Alright, you bastards, if you don't want to be stabbed, then hurry up and leave!"

An abandoned person waved the weapon in his hand and chased away the enemies who had just recovered from the intense twitching but were still weak. From time to time, he would give them a fierce kick.

Even if the enemies were unwilling, they had no choice but to be controlled by others. If they wanted to save their lives, they could only grit their teeth and bear it.

The previous strange encounter still filled their hearts with fear and suspicion. At least, before they figured out the reason for the collective twitching and paralysis, they would definitely not dare to act rashly.

As for Tang Zhen, who was extremely respected by Morris and the others, he had also aroused the curiosity and speculation of the enemies. Some people had even confirmed that it was Tang Zhen who had caused all of them to fall to the ground in an instant!

The original team of six had now become more than 30 people, especially since many of them were tied up and strung up. It was hard not to notice such a scene.

As such, during the rest of the journey, Morris and the rest would encounter other groups of abandoned people from time to time. However, when they saw the long string of captives, all the abandoned people would subconsciously avoid them.

The abandoned people who knew the background of these enemies were all secretly shocked. They couldn't understand how such a powerful group of abandoned people would actually be defeated by a small group of six?

After advancing for a distance, a long black line rose along the ground, faintly visible in the wind and sand.

As they got closer, the power of the sandstorm began to weaken, and their vision gradually became much clearer. An incomparably huge Metal City suddenly came into view.

The monster City seemed to have no boundaries. Mushroom-shaped buildings made of various metal materials stood in the middle, exuding a gloomy and oppressive aura.

It was as if this place was a Dead City without any life!

Tang Zhen looked into the distance and discovered that there were actually a few huge mushroom-shaped metal towers in the depths of the monster City. Soul-stirring lightning would appear in the sky from time to time, heavily striking the top of those metal towers!

It was obvious that the energy contained in the lightning had been collected by the metal tower and then converted into power for the monster City.

After switching to the map view and preparing to carefully observe the internal situation of the monster City, Tang Zhen was surprised to discover that there were many energy shielding areas in this city. It was so blurry that it was impossible to determine what was hidden inside.

If he wanted to figure out the specific situation, he had to arrive at the scene.

Tang Zhen revealed a pensive expression before turning his gaze to the edge of the monster City. He immediately saw groups of abandoned people maintaining a certain distance from each other, waiting for the best opportunity to enter the monster City!

According to Uncle Jim, every year after the day of extreme darkness, the monster City would go into hibernation for a period of time, and the security devices at the edge of the city would be shut down.

Every time this moment came, the abandoned people would swarm in and enter various locations in the monster City. They would then leave before the security system was reactivated.

The abandoned people had to remember the exact time, or else no one would be able to break through the security system. In the end, they could only wait for death in the monster City!

...

Chapter 1217

1217 The fight for the entrance

Unknowingly, Tang Zhen and the rest had already reached the edge of the monster City.

Although the area of the monster City was extremely large, and it was not inferior to the Super cities in the original world, it was by no means like the cities in the original world, which had a transportation network that extended in all directions.

Although it was called a city, and was built with a human city as a template, there were no humans living in it, and the brain circuits of the builders were completely different from those of real humans.

This could be seen from the various strange buildings. Many of the buildings looked normal, but in fact, there were no doors or windows at all!

Therefore, for a Monster City, roads would only Waste Land and metal resources, so they were rarely laid. Even if there were roads, they had special functions.

Uncle Jim swept his gaze across the border of the monster City before turning his head to look at Tang Zhen and the others. He helplessly shrugged his shoulders.

guys, it seems that we're too late. The good entrances have been occupied by others. We can only choose the edge area!

Uncle Jim glanced at the abandoned people at the edge of the city and revealed a trace of annoyance, but it quickly disappeared.

This was because he knew very well that with Tang Zhen's help, even if they didn't get the best position, they might still return with a full load!

Morris, however, interjected from the side, "Uncle Jim, have you forgotten about these guys?"

Since the good spot has been taken, then we can directly take their original entrance. Isn't that better?"

Uncle Jim smiled and nodded, agreeing with Morris 'suggestion.

could it be that the different locations will also affect the harvest? "

Tang Zhen noticed Uncle Jim's earlier expression and casually asked.

Uncle Jim knew that Tang Zhen didn't understand the common knowledge of the abandoned people. Therefore, he didn't find it strange at all and explained in detail.

"The entrances to the monster cities all open in one direction, which is the area we are in now.

Although the number of entrances to a Monster City seemed high, the number of entrances varied greatly. Some of the entrances were filled with danger, some were empty, and some often contained food seeds.

After many years of exploration, people have basically grasped the information inside these entrances. Although there will definitely be changes as the monster City continues to expand, it won't change much!"

Uncle Jim explained, then pointed to a group of abandoned people at the entrance and continued, "According to the rules of the abandoned people, the group that occupies the front of the entrance will have the right to enter first.

Because we came too late, we couldn't occupy a good position at the entrance, which would definitely affect the harvest. But fortunately, we defeated those bastards, so the position that originally belonged to them now belongs to us!"

the advantage of being the first to enter doesn't seem to be that great. Won't the other teams enter after us? "

Tang Zhen revealed a puzzled expression when he heard this and asked in a puzzled tone.

"Sir, you may not know this, but this Monster City looks dead, but we think It's Alive!

This was because as long as a party entered, the path inside would immediately change. Even if a second party followed closely behind, they would enter a new path!

However, compared to those dangerous entrances, even though the interior of these entrances has been changed, the chances of obtaining food seeds are still not low!"

Uncle Jim said.

I see. But since food seeds are so precious, won't people fight for the position of the entrance? "

As they approached the edge of the monster City, Tang Zhen raised another question.

"In the past, there were people who tried to snatch the entrance, but they were retaliated by the team that snatched it. They attracted the mechanical guards, causing the robbers to almost all die inside!

No group of abandoned people would take this lying down. Therefore, the entrance was robbed more than once, and the revenge was also continuous.

However, right now, the priority to enter the entrance only belongs to the stronger teams. They discuss the distribution among themselves, and the weaker ones don't even have the chance to participate!"

At this point, Uncle Jim sneered and glanced at the group of abandoned people who were occupying the best positions, " even if I didn't remind you, Sir, you would have noticed that the group of abandoned people occupying the best positions are actually those bastards with the strongest strength!

Tang Zhen nodded his head. The truth was indeed as Uncle Jim had said. The good places had long been occupied by others and there were many groups of abandoned people lined up behind them. As for the dangerous entrance, there was not a single person.

At this moment, as Tang Zhen's group approached, they immediately attracted countless peeking eyes that were filled with surprise and doubt. They did not seem to understand why they were holding over a dozen prisoners when there were only a mere six of them.

"Jim, what are you guys doing?"

An old man with a full beard walked out from the group of abandoned people that Uncle Jim was familiar with. He greeted Uncle Jim and asked in a low voice.

"This matter is a little complicated. Let's talk about it later!"

Uncle Jim replied and quietly motioned for Morris and the others to be ready to deal with the battle that could happen at any time.

Those powerful abandoned people groups that occupied the best entrance were also using bewildered gazes to size up Tang Zhen's group. Some of them had even reached for the weapons on their bodies.

As they had to explore the monster City every year, they were quite familiar with each other. They had already recognized the identity of the abandoned people who were captured by them through their clothes. They were another group of abandoned people who were almost as strong as them.

As for Uncle Jim and the others, they were rarely noticed due to their weak strength, so the other party had not recognized them yet.

Uncle Jim glanced at them coldly, then walked straight to one of the entrances. This place was prepared for the group of abandoned people.

There was no one at the front of the entrance, but there were more than ten groups of abandoned people waiting behind.

When they saw Uncle Jim walking over, the members of the small team looked at him with complicated expressions.

“Listen, there’s already someone here. Get lost immediately!”

Uncle Jim had just walked to the front of the entrance when an abandoned person walked over from the side. He sized Uncle Jim up with a cold gaze and his tone was extremely unfriendly.

Uncle Jim sneered. He knew very well that this was a test by the powerful abandoned people. They wanted to find out what was going on to avoid any accidents during the fight for the food seeds.

However, this time, they would not back down!

Chapter 1218

1218 Visitors from beyond the sky (1)

“If I were you, I’d get out of the way immediately to avoid bringing myself unnecessary trouble!”

Looking at the abandoned person who had been sent to test the waters, Uncle Jim sneered and said in a cold tone.

The abandoned person was stunned when he heard that. He sized up Uncle Jim with a serious expression before asking in a deep voice, do you think I’ll just move away like this? unless you give me an explanation!

The abandoned person pointed at the captives who were squatting on the ground and said in a low voice.

The strange encounter of these captives made a few powerful abandoned people feel uneasy. They were eager to find out what had happened to prevent their own groups from being in danger.

“What explanation do you want?”

Uncle Jim looked at the members of the abandoned people’s team who had serious expressions on their faces. When he saw that they seemed to be getting more and more nervous, he couldn’t help but sneer, “this group of people thought that they had the advantage in numbers and wanted to harm us. In the end, they were defeated by us!

“It’s that simple. Are you satisfied now?”

The abandoned person in charge of testing the waters shook his head and said with a threatening voice, “you’d better tell us the whole story. Otherwise, I’ll see how you’ll deal with it if all of us attack you together.

“Is that so? if you have the guts, then try it!”

Uncle Jim retorted coldly without any fear.

“You’re looking for death!”

The abandoned person who was in charge of testing the waters flew into a rage out of humiliation. He suddenly drew his weapon from his waist and looked at Uncle Jim with a murderous look.

Seeing that their companions had pulled out their weapons, the members of the abandoned people who were eyeing them covetously roared and rushed forward one after another, glaring fiercely at Uncle Jim.

The scene immediately became tense, and a bloody fight could happen at the slightest sign of trouble!

When Morris saw this from behind, he immediately became nervous. He took out his crossbow without hesitation and aimed at the murderous-looking abandoned people.

“All of you, get out of my way. Otherwise, don’t blame me for being impolite!”

Morris warned loudly, and at the same time, he asked Uncle Jim to quickly retreat to avoid being surrounded.

When the abandoned people saw Morris take out the crossbow, they all had curious and serious expressions. As their knowledge was limited, they could not even understand what kind of weapon it was.

However, after being aimed at by the crossbow, the sense of danger that rose in their hearts reminded them not to act rashly.

After all, the performance of Jim and the rest was too strange. Who knew if the reason why they were able to defeat a powerful group of abandoned people was related to the weapons in their hands?

“Morris, don’t act rashly!”

After Uncle Jim shouted, he turned to look at the few abandoned people walking towards him and knew that they were the leaders of the abandoned people’s teams.

The ones who blocked the way just now were just small fries. The key to how the situation would develop was actually these few guys who had been silently observing the whole time.

no matter what methods you used to achieve this, it has nothing to do with us. However, I still want to warn you that we are about to enter the monster City. No accidents are allowed, or you will be our common enemy!

A man wearing a leather jacket, a machete tied to his back, and a worn gas mask said in a hoarse voice.

Jim knew the other party's background. He was the leader of the strongest group of abandoned people in the vicinity. Since he had spoken, it meant that the crisis in front of them had been temporarily averted.

Uncle Jim heaved a sigh of relief in his heart and nodded. don't worry, we're also here for the seeds. We won't cause any trouble at the critical moment!

The other party stared at Uncle Jim for a few seconds before turning around and returning to the place where he had stopped earlier. When the other abandoned people saw this, they also put away their weapons and returned to their respective teams.

Seeing this, Morris and the others chided the captives to walk to the front of the entrance and began to wait for the last moment. As for the peeking eyes that were constantly cast around, everyone pretended not to see them at all.

Tang Zhen did not have any intention of interfering from the beginning. He only observed the monster City through the map's perspective. Even so, it still gave Uncle Jim and the others sufficient confidence. This caused them to not have the slightest fear in their hearts when they faced the other abandoned people.

If such a situation had happened in the past, it would have never happened!

However, no one noticed that Tang Zhen had once unintentionally glanced at the sky when he was observing the monster City. His face even revealed a faint look of anticipation.

After Morris and the others sat down to rest, the originally chaotic scene began to calm down. However, it did not take long before a faint roar came from the sky.

Upon hearing this voice, the expressions of the abandoned people changed. They stood up abruptly and looked up into the sky.

what's going on? why is there a spaceship? "

Uncle Jim also looked a little nervous. After he looked at the sky, he reminded Morris and the others to hide their crossbows and not speak without his order.

In fact, Uncle Jim was not the only one who did this. All the abandoned people at the scene took the same action, causing the atmosphere to suddenly become very tense and oppressive.

The roar became louder and louder, and soon a white spaceship appeared in front of everyone. After circling a few times in the air, it slowly landed on an open space not far from them!

As the spaceship landed, the surroundings were immediately filled with sand and dust. The abandoned people put on goggles to cover their mouths and noses, and at the same time, they looked at the location of the spaceship without blinking.

The ground shook slightly, and the spaceship landed smoothly. The power system was shut down at the same time.

After waiting for about a minute, the closed hatch slowly opened, followed by the sound of heavy footsteps.

Through the slowly falling sand and dust, four rows of armed robots could be seen walking towards the abandoned people in an orderly line.

They were nearly 2.5 meters tall and held a strange-looking gun in their hands. Their movements were very agile when they walked, almost no different from real people.

Under the protection of these armed robots, more than ten men and women in white robes slowly walked over. There was some kind of crystal embedded in the space between their brows, and they had an extremely arrogant attitude. It was as if these abandoned people did not exist in their eyes.

The abandoned people hid at the side and looked at the citizens of floating city with cold eyes. They had lived on the same land a hundred years ago, but now they were living two completely different lives.

Even though they were unwilling, the abandoned people who were kept in captivity on this wasteland were unable to change this tragic situation.

Under the gazes of the many abandoned people, this group of citizens from the floating city arrived at the entrance of the monster City as though there was no one else around. The place where they stopped was coincidentally the place where Tang Zhen and the rest were!

Chapter 1219

1219 Strength and forbearance (1)

In essence, there was not much difference between the citizens of the floating city and the abandoned people on the ground.

Although they had once lived on the same land, the status of the two sides was now very different. Every citizen was used to looking down at the ants struggling to survive on the ground with a high attitude.

In the eyes of these citizens, it was because of their generous "charity" that the abandoned people had the chance to survive on the ground that was already riddled with holes.

However, from Tang Zhen's point of view, this kind of thinking was truly laughable!

The construction method of the floating city was actually very similar to that of the monster City. After all, they came from the same top-secret experiment. The only difference was that the former could be built according to a certain procedure.

However, the resources needed to build the city came from the land where the abandoned people lived, and they were plundered without considering the consequences!

The abandoned people's living space was constantly deprived by the citizens, but in the end, not only did the other party not know gratitude, but they also thought that everything was reasonable.

Looking at the behavior of the citizens in front of him, he knew what kind of status the abandoned people had in their eyes!

Under the gazes of everyone, a group of citizens stood in front of Tang Zhen and the others as they looked at the entrance in front.

“Is this the place?”

A young citizen who was walking at the front stopped. He looked at the deep metal passage in front of him and asked in a very cold voice.

This citizen was dressed in an exquisitely long white robe that looked spotless. His face was very handsome, and his long hair was draped behind his back. He looked like he was out of this world.

The most eye-catching thing was the crystal embedded between his brows. It looked very valuable, and its surface would flash from time to time.

“According to my previous calculations, I’m very confident that this is the place we’re looking for!”

After hearing the question from the leading white-robed citizen, the other white-robed citizen behind him quickly replied. Compared to the other citizens, this citizen’s physique was slightly thinner and weaker. At the same time, he was wearing a pair of heavy mechanical glasses.

“It’s good that we didn’t get the wrong place. We don’t have that much time to waste!”

The young citizen in the lead said. Then, he glanced at Tang Zhen and the others with a cold gaze. His eyes seemed to be mixed with traces of disdain and disgust.

He waved his hand gently and turned to look at the monster City. A hint of fanaticism and greed flashed in his cold eyes.

After seeing the citizen leader’s action, another strong-looking citizen with an overbearing expression stood up and fiercely shouted at Tang Zhen and the others, “All of you, move to the side, you disgusting trash-eating guys!”

Uncle Jim’s face flashed with anger when he heard that. However, he still took a deep breath and retreated to the empty space at the side.

When he was confronting the group of abandoned people earlier, Uncle Jim did not give in at all. However, when he faced these citizens, he simply gave up the hard-won first-entry spot.

The reason for this was that these citizens had a powerful armed force. Perhaps they only needed to send out an armed robot to kill all the abandoned people present!

It was obviously an extremely irrational behavior to argue with them.

Morris and the others had always followed Uncle Jim’s lead. Seeing that he had chosen to retreat, no matter how unwilling they were, they could only retreat obediently and give up the area they had stopped in earlier to the other party.

However, in the process of retreating, Morris’s behavior was very strange. His face seemed to be a little red, and he was also avoiding the citizens’ position.

One of his companions noticed Morris’ abnormal behavior. As a result, when they followed his line of sight, they saw that his eyes had been fixed on a woman in the group of citizens, revealing a somewhat infatuated look.

The woman was tall and slender. She was like a beautiful fairy in the White robe. Although her expression was cold and arrogant, it made her temperament even more outstanding.

Morris was not the only one who was secretly sizing up The Woman in White. Even among the citizens who had come, there were a few young men who were looking at her from time to time. Their eyes were filled with infatuation and desire!

His companion smiled and elbowed Morris secretly. He lowered his voice and said, "How is it? isn't this woman very beautiful?"

Morris subconsciously nodded, then suddenly came to his senses. He looked at his companion in embarrassment and anger. He had an unhappy expression on his face after his privacy was exposed. At the same time, he reached out and scratched his messy hair.

During this time, Morris stole another glance at The Woman in White. In the end, he saw that she was still looking forward coldly and did not even look in his direction. He could not help but feel disappointed.

His companion saw that Morris did not seem to have good intentions, so he said with a smile, "what's there to be embarrassed about? women are meant to be pursued by men. Don't hesitate when you should take action. You should know that I was already a father when I was your age!

His companion's words were actually just a joke, just to tease Morris.

Hearing this, Morris' face turned even redder. At the same time, he argued in a low voice, "It's different, it's different!"

"What's the Difference? aren't we all women?"

"Hey, I told you, this is different!"

Morris' tone was a little embarrassed and angry. He argued in a low voice, but he still looked at The Woman in White from time to time.

Perhaps it was because both parties were close to each other, but the conversation between Morris and his companions was almost entirely heard by the white-robed citizens.

The Woman in White, whose expression was as cold as an Ice Mountain, finally turned her head slightly to where Morris was. Then, she sized him up with an expressionless face.

Her eyes were equally cold, as if there was no emotion in them at all. Coupled with the mysterious crystal shimmering on her forehead, she looked more like a goddess who was above the common populace!

Morris looked at The Woman in White in a daze, and even his breathing seemed to have become rapid.

In the end, The Woman in White turned her head back after taking a glance at Morris, as if Morris was just a mass of air.

A hint of disappointment appeared in Morris' eyes, but it was more of an inferiority complex and unwillingness.

Uncle Jim sighed to himself. He wanted to comfort Morris and tell him that there would always be a huge gap between the abandoned and the citizens. Friendship and love would never exist.

Morris was young and could not be seen through, so he had to remind him in time, in case he was deeply trapped in it and could not extricate himself!

However, before Uncle Jim could speak, a burst of mocking laughter came from the citizens opposite him.

hahaha, this is interesting. This trash-eating guy has actually taken a fancy to our goddess!

I've heard of this saying before, 'overestimating your own ability'. I didn't understand it at first, but now I finally understand what it means!

Hmph, you're worse than a dog and you want to have improper thoughts about citizens. This is a crime!

"I think so too, so it's necessary to teach them a lesson so that they can remember!"

Chapter 1220

1220 Sneak attack (1)

Uncle Jim's expression changed when he heard that.

He had come into contact with these citizens in the past and knew what kind of status the abandoned people had in their eyes. He also knew what kind of miserable ending would be awaiting him if he angered them.

To the citizens, there was no punishment for killing an abandoned person. In most cases, they just had to return to the floating city to explain themselves and pay a fine.

As for the reason for the punishment, it was similar to the intentional destruction of an experimental object. It could not even be considered murder!

However, under normal circumstances, citizens rarely killed. First, very few citizens were allowed to enter the surface to avoid bringing back terrible bacteria and causing accidents. Second, even if citizens entered the surface, they rarely came into contact with abandoned people.

At the same time, the armed robots that were responsible for protecting the citizens also had the responsibility of monitoring them to ensure that they would not cause any destruction or kill abandoned people at will!

Although there were these restrictions, when a citizen was prepared to deal with the abandoned people, there were still many methods that could be used.

Behind The Woman in White stood two citizens with unfriendly expressions. After looking at each other, they revealed a cold smile.

One of the white-robed citizens stared at Morris. The crystal between his brows flickered slightly, and at the same time, an obscure power continued to extend towards Morris.

After this power appeared, the citizens around him immediately sensed it, and the mysterious crystal between their brows flashed at the same time.

They all turned to look at Morris at the same time. There was a hint of mockery in the eyes of the citizens, as if they were waiting for a good show to start.

Morris naturally heard the ridicule of the citizens. At this moment, his expression was uncertain. His fists were tightly clenched together, and his body was trembling non-stop!

His heart was already filled with unwillingness and humiliation. This was the first time he had fallen for a woman, but not only did she treat him like air, the other citizens' ridicule had also deeply hurt Morris' self-esteem.

Morris kept roaring in his heart, questioning why there was such a huge gap between the abandoned and the citizens, and why there were so many injustices in the world.

Without realizing it, a thought emerged in Morris' mind. He wanted to completely change his situation and trample on those fellows who looked down on the abandoned people!

Morris finally understood Tang Zhen's previous words and had already made a decision!

However, at this moment, he felt a slight pain in the space between his eyebrows, as if his brain was about to split open!

"Damn it, what's going on?"

Morris clutched his head, his face contorted in pain. He did not know what had happened, and could only helplessly groan in pain as he squatted on the ground.

After seeing Morris' appearance, the citizens immediately laughed softly, the disdain and ridicule in their eyes becoming more and more obvious.

As for The Woman in White, she did not even spare a glance at Morris, as if he had never existed.

When the citizen who was secretly attacking Morris saw this, the smug look on his face became more obvious. As if to show off his ability in front of his companions, he once again increased the output of his mental power.

Once this level of mental power entered the brain, it was enough to cause a certain degree of damage, and it could even turn ordinary people into idiots!

"You're looking for death!"

Just as the spiritual force was about to pierce Morris, a cold snort suddenly rang in everyone's ears. Immediately after, they saw the citizen who had ambushed Morris scream in pain and fall to the ground, rolling and wailing.

The mysterious crystal embedded in his glabella had already shattered into powder, and blood was flowing out of his seven orifices. He looked extremely miserable.

The Ambusher's miserable state frightened his companions. The citizens immediately surrounded him and carefully checked the situation of the Ambusher.

he suffered a backlash when he used his spiritual power. The person who attacked him must be nearby, and his cultivation is far higher than his!

The Woman in White, who had been silent the entire time, suddenly spoke. Her words shocked everyone.

One of the rights of a citizen was to transplant the mysterious crystal between their eyebrows to stimulate and strengthen their spiritual power, turning ordinary people into cultivators with telekinesis!

After a hundred years of exploration, the floating city had already sorted out a set of cultivation methods. Any citizen would have begun cultivating their spiritual power from the moment they could understand.

However, due to the difference in mysterious crystals and aptitudes, the cultivation of the citizens was also different. This citizen who had sneaked an attack on Morris could only be considered to be at the intermediate level.

However, this level of cultivation was enough to kill an ordinary person with his bare hands!

However, no matter what, it was impossible for an ordinary person to use their spiritual power to hurt a citizen, unless the person who did it was a modified citizen.

However, the people present and the attacker were all companions. This time, they had come for another matter, so they naturally couldn't attack the attacker.

"You bunch of bastards, who did this?"

The tough-looking citizen from before stood up again and roared at the abandoned people around him. He even took out a gun-like weapon from his waist and waved it in his hand!

The other citizens also looked at the abandoned people unkindly. Even the armed robots pointed their guns at the abandoned people.

When the abandoned people who were originally surrounding them saw this, they were so frightened that they took a few steps back, afraid that they would be injured by the other party's weapon!

"Say something, say something. Who's the one behind this?"

If you still don't admit it, I'll kill all of you, a bunch of damned trash!"

The intrepid citizen saw that there was no reaction from the crowd, so he looked around fiercely and walked directly toward Morris.

"Little trash, were you the one who caused trouble just now?"

The intrepid citizen roared and pointed his gun at Morris, as if he would shoot at any time.

Morris looked at the tough-looking citizen coldly. His expression was very calm, as if he did not care about the other party's threat at all.

Seeing this, Uncle Jim immediately rushed over and stood in front of Morris. He quickly explained, "My Lord, please don't be rash. He's only a child. How could he possibly hurt your companion?"

The intrepid citizen raised his eyebrows and reached out his hand to wave at Uncle Jim. Then, there was a crisp " PA " sound. Uncle Jim was slapped hard, and half of his face immediately swelled up.

"Uncle Jim!"

Morris immediately rushed forward and stood in front of Uncle Jim. He glared at the tough citizen with a faint murderous intent in his eyes.

The tough-looking citizen saw Morris blocking his way and raised his hand again, trying to give him a slap.

However, Morris did not take it head-on like Uncle Jim. Instead, he tilted his head to avoid the other party's attack, and then kicked the tough citizen in the stomach, directly kicking him to the ground!