991 Agreement (1)

The leader of the Somers was a little surprised by Tang Zhen's request.

Before he had come, he had already guessed what kind of requests the otherworldly demons would make and had already planned out the countermeasures.

As long as it wasn't too much, he had the right to agree to it and temporarily stabilize the other party.

Using the time they had won, the Somers could calmly lay out their plans and maximize their benefits!

In other words, before the Somers came into contact with the Holy Dragon City, they were prepared to pay a price.

In the end, Tang Zhen only made such a simple request, which made the leader of the Somers a little uncertain. He wondered if the otherworldly demons were also perfunctory.

However, on second thought, the other party really didn't need to do this.

In the face of such a benefit that came right to their doorstep, the Holy Dragon City would naturally grasp it and obtain what they were determined to get.

As for asking for something useless to hide his true goal, it was not impossible, but it was very unlikely.

But if that was the case, the otherworldly demons must have a bigger plan, and the SOMO people had to reconsider their countermeasures.

Once it was confirmed that the otherworldly demons had the intention to invade the continent, the Somers would have to get rid of this outsider first, even if it would be more troublesome or even if they had to change their original plan.

With the existence of such an unstable factor, the Somers could not sleep or eat in peace.

In a short time, many thoughts flashed through The Mind of the Leader of the SOMO people. Finally, he returned to how to collect soul stones for the Holy Dragon City.

For the natives of this continent, although the Soul Stone was a very precious item, it was not to the extent of starting a war.

Therefore, if the otherworldly Demon tribe, who had caused the entire continent to be in turmoil, had really come for this reason, it would be really a reason that made people not know whether to laugh or cry.

However, he was also clear that different items would have different values in different places. A grass in land A could very likely be a treasure in land B!

Perhaps to these otherworldly demons, this kind of Soul Stone had an extremely important function.

After figuring out the Holy Dragon city's requirements, the chief of the Somers became much more relaxed. At least in his opinion, the mission this time was basically completed successfully.

Perhaps for the Aboriginals on the continent, soul stones were not everywhere, and their reserves were quite limited. However, for the Somers who had once defeated the Empire, they were not too precious.

As spoils of war from back then, there were still a large number of soul stones stored in the SOMO people's treasure vault. Some of them could be taken out and used to buy Holy Dragon City.

Of course, if he wanted something from the somersaults, he had to give something in return.

since you have such a strong desire for soul stones, my clan can naturally give you a batch.

At this point, the leader of the Somers paused for a moment before he continued, "Of course, the value of spirit stones is not low. If you want too much, we can't do anything.

However, if you are willing to part with your treasures and give us a few of the battle puppets at the village entrance, then when we return, I can use this as an excuse to have my clansmen gather more for you. What do you think?"

Tang Zhen laughed when he heard this. He secretly thought that this fellow had indeed taken a fancy to his armed robot. Now, he was using a different method to ask for it.

However, this deal could really be done once.

Although the cost of making armed robots was high, it was undoubtedly many times lower than the cost of soul stones. Moreover, it would be a miracle if the indigenous cultivators could figure out how to study such a technological weapon in the hands of them!

In fact, as long as Tang Zhen gave an order, those armed robots would immediately stop working and become a pile of expensive scrap iron!

So, since the leader of the Somers had asked, he naturally agreed.

Both parties fulfilled their wishes and naturally, it was a happy ending!

In the following conversation, both sides put forward some requests and opinions, and at the same time, signed an agreement.

According to the demands of the Somers, the Holy Dragon City should try not to take the initiative to start a war with the native forces, except for the sake of self-defense, so as to avoid causing a war on the mainland.

The Somers, who had long regarded the continent as their own, did not want to take over a wasteland after taking control of the continent, which would undoubtedly reduce their interests.

At the same time, the Somers would also take action to reduce the hostility of the indigenous forces towards Holy Dragon City as much as possible. They might even give up on attacking Holy Dragon City!

With the influence of the Somers on the continent, it was not difficult to do so.

The Somers would not restrict some of the Holy Dragon city's movements on the continent. They could even provide some special help at certain times.

In addition, if necessary, the Holy Dragon City had to cooperate with the Somers to attack some native forces, and the reward would be calculated separately.

It was obvious that they were planning to use the Holy Dragon City as a hatchet man to uproot the local forces that were hostile to the Somers. However, since the Somers would pay, Tang Zhen would not refuse.

He could even take advantage of such an opportunity to carry out some operations in secret and avoid the eyes and ears of the Somers.

The above content was the result of the discussion between Tang Zhen and the leader of the Somers.

After the discussion, the leader of the Somers left in a hurry, ready to go back and meet the real power of the Somers.

He was only a representative, so whether this contract would be carried out or not would depend on the attitude of those in power.

After sending off the chief of the Somers, Tang Zhen got up and walked slowly toward Stone City.

Although he had a terrifying nuclear weapon, Tang Zhen did not have an easy time.

Unless it was a last resort, Tang Zhen would not use this kind of inferior method that was not beneficial to both parties. However, Tang Zhen was indeed feeling more and more strained as he faced the increasing number of native forces.

Tang Zhen and the thousand-odd Holy Dragon City cultivators alone were simply unable to stop the demon-slaying Alliance Army, which was approaching the snow-covered territory. The total number of troops had already exceeded a hundred thousand!

After all, there were many native cultivators in the Alliance Army. Their overall strength far exceeded Tang Zhen and the others.

Under normal circumstances, the Holy Dragon City would definitely lose.

Therefore, Tang Zhen chose to occupy the land and not take the initiative to attack after some consideration. He wanted to find a way to reverse this disadvantageous situation.

Fortunately, at this critical moment, the Somers had taken the initiative to jump out, which made Tang Zhen feel a lot more relaxed.

As one of the overlords of this world, the power of the Somers could not be underestimated.

With the power of the Somers, they could at least block many enemies for Holy Dragon City. At the same time, with the help of the Somers, Holy Dragon city's movements on the continent would be much more convenient.

As for the contract just now, it was just an exchange of interests. No one was at a loss, and no one was at an advantage.

Perhaps the Somers thought that they could use the contract to temporarily stabilize the Holy Dragon City, but they did not know that the Holy Dragon city's true goal was actually the power of this world's origin!

However, the power of the origin of this world was a little special. For some unknown reason, it had its own consciousness and then evolved into all kinds of gods!

If the Holy Dragon City wanted to obtain the world's origin, they had to kill these gods. There was no other way.

This wasn't a good thing, because compared to collecting the world's origin under normal circumstances, fighting with the world's origin that had evolved into a native God would undoubtedly be much riskier!

However, this was the truth. Tang Zhen was not allowed to be picky. The matter that he needed to consider was how to successfully achieve his goal.

If the native forces were to obstruct them during this process, Tang Zhen did not mind using bloody means to let them know what kind of existence the Holy Dragon City was!

On the way back, the corner of Tang Zhen's mouth revealed a trace of a smile as he looked at the whirlpool that was getting bigger and bigger in the stone city.

Perhaps it wouldn't take long for his tower to descend!

Chapter 992

992 ambush

Once again in the Holy Dragon city's off-road vehicle, the leader of the Somers was in a very relaxed mood, with a faint smile on his lips.

The conversation he had with Tang Zhen earlier had allowed him to understand the Holy Dragon city's intentions. It was obvious that the other party's goal was not to occupy this continent.

This was undoubtedly good news for the Somers.

The Somers didn't want to see any competitors in the matter of dominating the continent. The otherworldly demons had been suspected, but it seemed that they had been ruled out.

Of course, if the other party's goal could not be achieved, it was not impossible for them to invade the mainland.

Most importantly, the other party did have such strength!

From what he had seen this time, he could tell that the otherworldly demons couldn't be underestimated. Not only did they have many powerful cultivators, but their weapons and equipment were also quite excellent.

The huge battle puppets alone were enough to make the leader of the somersaults envious.

Although the Somers were powerful, they did not have similar battle puppets.

That was why he had proposed to use the soul stones to exchange for the fighting robots from the Holy Dragon City. Then, he would hand them over to the scholars among the Somers and try to crack and replicate them.

If he succeeded, not only would he be able to improve the strength of the somersaults, but he would also be able to improve his strength. He could also find a way to restrain the otherworldly demons.

The return trip was very fast. It did not take long for the off-road vehicle to arrive at the location of the stone monument.

The leader of the somersaults jumped out of the off-road vehicle and patted the sturdy body of the vehicle.

“This is a really good item. You guys are so lucky!”

The leader of the somersaults looked at the self-travelling vehicle with reluctance and turned around. He politely bade farewell to the Holy Dragon City cultivator who had led the way and slowly walked out of the dense forest.

The somerian cultivator who had been waiting outside the stele for a long time immediately stood up and welcomed the leader.

“Everyone, get on your horses. We’ll return immediately!”

Without saying much, the leader of the Somers waved his hand and ordered a retreat.

Hearing this, the hundred or so cultivators of the SOMO people immediately led their warhorses over and mounted them.

With the neighing of their warhorses, the Somers swaggered away, ignoring the camp in front of them.

In the military camp of Snow City, balguv was standing on the Watchtower, coldly watching the retreating figure of the SOMO people. A trace of coldness appeared in his eyes.

“How’s the preparation going? please don’t make any mistakes,” what’s going on?” balguv turned his head and asked a cloaked cultivator beside him in a low voice.

“Don’t worry, your Lordship. I’ve already mobilized the most elite cultivators to participate in the operation. I guarantee that they will be able to stay!

Moreover, these cultivators have very secretive identities, so no one will be able to find out their true origins!”

Hearing this, balguv nodded slightly.

“The current xueman territory is mixed with good and bad. Under such circumstances, I think it’s very normal for a few unexpected incidents to happen occasionally!”

.....

On the rugged mountain road, a group of somersault cultivators in elven armor were riding on their horses.

They were the group of Sammer cultivators who had just met Tang Zhen and were on their way back.

The mission was successful, which made them feel much better. Unknowingly, they had let down their guard of their surroundings.

Besides, with the somersaults' status, they were rarely attacked on this continent, because once they did, the murderer would be hunted down by the somersaults endlessly.

However, nothing was absolute in this world. Although the Somers had a special status, once someone's bottom line was crossed, they would still take the most direct means to defend their own interests.

When the group of somersaults passed by a section of the road, the somersault cultivator at the front suddenly screamed and fell.

The legs of the warhorse he was riding on were also broken, and the White bones pierced through the skin and flesh. It was a shocking sight!

It turned out that on the ground of the mountain road, a large number of potholes had been dug, causing the legs of the warhorses to be broken when they accidentally fell into them!

In this case, the somersault cultivator on the warhorse was naturally thrown off.

A few unlucky guys hit their heads on the rocks. Although they didn't die because of the protection of the armor, they fell and became dizzy.

Then, in the middle of the road, the horse-tripping cables buried in the yellow soil were pulled up by someone.

The tripped warhorse swayed left and right, throwing off another large group of somersaults.

In the blink of an eye, the entire Army was in a mess. The ground was covered with crippled warhorses and the exhausted somersaults.

"Damn it, who is it? who is ambushing us?"

One of the legs of the war horse that the leader of the somersaults was riding on had also been broken. However, his cultivation was superb. The moment he was ambushed, he had already leaped up and landed on the side of the road.

However, just as he shouted, a large number of masked men suddenly appeared in the surrounding forest. They were holding bows, arrows, javelins, and other weapons, and launched an attack on them!

In addition to the bows and arrows, there were also a large number of mages among the ambushers. For a moment, all kinds of spells burst out one after another, smashing toward the Somers.

Caught off guard, the Somers were hit one after another. In the blink of an eye, more than a dozen cultivators had fallen into pools of blood.

However, the reason why the Somers could defeat the Empire was because of their own powerful strength. Therefore, after they came back to their senses, the cultivators of the Somers all used their most powerful means and began to fight back against the sneak attackers!

Because of the elven armor, the somersaults had a higher defense than the ambushers, which allowed them to take the enemy head-on and engage in a fierce battle!

For a time, the two sides exchanged blows, and the sound of killing shook the sky. Cultivators from both sides fell continuously.

However, as time passed, the disadvantage of the Somers was revealed.

Although the ambushers were not as strong as them, their numbers were more than several times their own. Coupled with their early preparations, they finally began to gain the upper hand.

As time went by, the number of still-fighting somersaults decreased. On the contrary, the ambushers had gradually formed an encirclement.

The remaining somersaults were tightly surrounded in an area with no way out.

...

Faced with attacks from all directions, the Somers were even more passive, and the rate of casualties increased.

If this situation continued, they would all be annihilated!

The leader of the Somers, who was covered in blood but still fighting hard, roared in anger and tore a scroll apart.

As the scroll shattered, a terrifying chain of lightning appeared out of thin air, jumping and spreading among the ambushers!

After this attack was launched, more than a dozen ambushers were immediately burned to ashes, and the injured fell to the ground.

The leader of the Somers took the opportunity to lead the rest of the cultivators to break out of the encirclement and escape into the dense forest ahead.

It was a pity that the ambushers had the audacity to attack the Somers, so they were naturally prepared to annihilate all of them, in case the news was leaked and they found the Somers for revenge.

Therefore, after the leader of the Somers rushed out, the ambushers followed him without any hesitation.

A brutal pursuit began in the dense forest.

The Somers were elves and had a natural racial advantage in the forest, which also improved their combat effectiveness significantly.

However, the pursuers had the advantage in numbers. Even though they were constantly decreasing in numbers, they were still unwilling to give up and kept on chasing them.

...

Under such circumstances, it would be almost impossible for the somersaults to escape successfully!

Seeing his men fall to the ground one after another, the leader of the SOMO people's eyes were almost spitting fire.

Unfortunately, even though his cultivation was profound, it was still difficult for two fists to fight against four hands. If he turned around to help, he would definitely be surrounded by the sneak attackers.

"Brothers, I'm sorry. I swear, no matter who the other party is, I will definitely avenge you in the future!"

The leader of the Somers growled, took out a scroll from his pocket, and quickly tore it.

A mysterious force appeared and enveloped the leader of the Somers. In the blink of an eye, he had disappeared without a trace.

Chapter 993

993 The mission of the native cultivators (1)

The shining blade fell, and the last SOMO cultivator who was leaning against a tree finally fell into a pool of blood with a face full of unwillingness.

He couldn't believe that someone would specifically target the Somers. Were they not afraid of the Somers 'revenge?

The reeking smell of blood filled the silent forest. The cultivators who had participated in the sneak attack were scattered in every corner of the forest.

They waved their swords and killed the survivors of the somersaults one by one and took away the valuable items on them.

The elven armor was of good quality and expensive, so there was no reason for the ambushers to miss it.

However, the spoils of war were a little hot to deal with, and they had to be dealt with through special channels. For example, the thieves 'Union!

After cleaning up the battlefield and all traces of possible Identity Exposure, the ambushers began to throw the corpses of the dead into a ditch not far away.

Several mages chanted spells, and fireballs the size of human heads appeared out of thin air, falling on the corpses that were already covered in fuel.

The moment the fireball came into contact with the corpse, a ball of flames rose into the sky and swallowed the entire trench.

The black smoke and burnt smell made people keep their distance.

The fire was raging, and it wouldn't take long for the ditch to be completely buried with only charcoal left!

“Boss, it’s all settled. Should we evacuate now?”

A masked cultivator walked over and whispered to a black-robed man.

“According to our initial agreement, everyone will immediately leave the snow Hill and find a place to hide.

You all know the severity of this matter. Once you’re discovered, you’ll definitely die, so you must be extra careful!”

After another warning, the ambushers quickly scattered and disappeared into the dense forest.

If an outsider were to come here at this moment, they would definitely not be able to imagine that a brutal battle had occurred here.

It had to be said that the methods of this group of ambushers were quite professional. They had cleaned up the traces left here extremely cleanly. It seemed impossible to find any evidence with the backward methods of this world alone.

However, since the interception took place not far from River View Village, and the Holy Dragon City was currently occupying this area, there were still some changes to the situation.

In a hidden corner that no one noticed, including the sky above them, there were some special devices that were recording the entire scene that had just happened.

Then, these videos were sent back to Stone City. After some technical processing, they were displayed in front of Tang Zhen.

Tang Zhen’s eyes glinted as he watched the Somers being killed one by one. In the end, only the leader of the Somers escaped with a teleportation scroll.

This matter was not simple.

It was obviously a premeditated interception. The purpose was to keep the Somers here and then use this incident to make a big deal out of it.

Because the incident happened near River View Village, and someone had seen the Somers come here, the biggest suspect after their death could only be the Holy Dragon City!

The Holy Dragon City was already a target for all. If the somersault monks’ deaths were involved at this critical moment and the high Elves attacked, it would be a terrible thing.

He couldn’t take the blame for this.

Fortunately, the leader of the Somers had successfully escaped, which was also the biggest failure of the interception this time, which might have caused a change in their original plan.

But even so, they still could not get rid of the suspicion of the Holy Dragon City.

Taking the blame himself and letting the mastermind behind the scenes watch a good show was definitely not Tang Zhen’s style.

Fortunately, the heavenly eyes that were spread all over the vicinity of Hewang village allowed Tang Zhen to get rid of this injustice. He could even take this opportunity to make the already turbulent continent even more chaotic.

A trace of a cold smile surfaced on the corner of Tang Zhen's mouth as he swept his gaze over the true mastermind behind the scenes on the screen.

"Send these videos to the Somers and let them know who killed their people!

Since you want to scheme against us, then there's no need to be polite!"

Tang Zhen turned around and ordered a Holy Dragon City cultivator beside him, "Go and assign tasks to those native cultivators. I want Snow City to fall into chaos immediately, and the more chaotic it is, the better!

If he dares to block the door, I'll set his backyard on fire."

Hearing this, the Holy Dragon City cultivator nodded and quickly turned around to head towards the area where the indigenous cultivators were.

.....

Many native cultivators were moving around in the square of the stone city.

Ever since they had signed the contract with the Holy Dragon City, they had been recuperating here, waiting for the mission to be issued.

What made them feel fortunate was that even though they had lost their freedom, the Holy Dragon City did not blame them too much. They even received varying amounts of rewards when they carried out missions.

The amount of the bonus was also four to five times their previous income. They were rich and overbearing!

Every time they saw the pile of gold coins in the corner of the square, their hearts would race.

The Holy Dragon City was obviously not short of money. They were very generous with the rewards of the missions. At present, many native cultivators had successfully earned a large amount of gold coins!

No matter what, money always had the power to inspire people.

The longer they stayed in contact with the Holy Dragon City, the lower the resistance of the indigenous cultivators. Some of them even started to actively fight for missions, showing their enthusiasm.

In a certain area of the square, there was a group of tents. The Tigermen Captain and the others lived here.

Ever since they signed the contract with the Holy Dragon City, they had been resting and recuperating here. Now, they had mostly recovered.

Just as they were wondering when they would be assigned a mission, a new mission suddenly appeared on the screen in the square, which had always been flashing with subtitles.

[head to Snow City to create chaos. There are no restrictions on the specific methods. After the mission is completed, you will be rewarded according to the records of the recorder!]

After seeing this mission, the native cultivators who had long felt depressed and couldn't wait to leave the stone immediately went forward to receive the mission.

Looking at the quest's content, it was obvious that the Holy Dragon City wanted to throw Snow City into chaos and make bargof, who was blocking the way outside River View Village, withdraw his troops.

If he didn't retreat, it wouldn't take long for the entire Snow City to be destroyed by these native cultivators!

Since there were no restrictions on the mission, the native cultivators could decide whether they wanted to work or not.

Since that was the case, what was there to hesitate about?

Therefore, after this mission was issued, almost all the native cultivators went to the mission Registration Office to sign up for this mission.

The Tigermen Captain and the others also received this mission. At the same time, they also received the equipment that Holy Dragon City had given them.

With this equipment, they could receive orders from the Holy Dragon City at any time. At the same time, their combat power and survival rate would be greatly improved.

This was definitely a good benefit, and many native cultivators were happy to receive this equipment.

After keeping their items carefully, the Aboriginal cultivators left the stone city under the guidance of the Holy Dragon City cultivators, heading in the direction of the snow City.

Chapter 994

994 Action (1)

The continuous sound of the machine made the bird feel a little uncomfortable. She carefully moved her body and looked up to observe the surrounding environment.

This was an almost enclosed space. Many items were exquisitely handled, and it was filled with a unique kind of simple beauty.

Almost all of the Holy Dragon city's items had this style.

Half an hour ago, after the Tigermen Captain and the others had received the mission, they had followed the Holy Dragon City cultivators and queued up to enter a building that looked like a metal house, but was definitely not a house.

After entering, the native cultivators followed the instructions of the Holy Dragon City leader and sat neatly on a row of seats.

After sitting down, he pulled down the support frame on his head to stabilize his body.

Immediately after that, a loud boom could be heard. Subsequently, little bird and the others felt their surroundings shake for a moment before they felt as if they were rising into the air.

Because they were in a sealed space, they didn't know what was going on outside. However, it was clear that there was more than one native cultivator who thought they were flying in the sky.

When the bird saw this, it immediately became quiet.

The methods of the heavenly demonic tribe were indeed amazing. They could actually make the metal house fly into the sky and have so many people sitting inside!

During this period of time, these indigenous cultivators had seen many weapons and equipment from the heavenly demons and the Holy Dragon City. Therefore, they were not too surprised to know that they were flying in the sky.

Looking at his silent companion, the bird lowered its head and took out a photo from its pocket.

This was a gift from a female cultivator from the Holy Dragon City. She was the one who captured the little bird back then, and she still had an impression of it.

The day before yesterday, this female cultivator from Holy Dragon City passed by the square and saw the little bird by chance. After learning that she had joined Holy Dragon City, she took this picture of the little bird.

Since it was young, this was the first time the little bird had seen its own appearance so clearly, so it liked it very much and would take it out to look at it from time to time.

"Oh, it's pretty. Why don't you give it to me?"

His teammate, green-eyed, who was sitting next to little bird, could not help but tease him when he saw little bird fiddling with the photo.

When the bird heard this, it immediately snorted and quickly stuffed the photo into its pocket.

She was afraid that green eyes, who was good at stealing, would steal her treasure.

Seeing this, his teammates couldn't help but chuckle, which eased the originally depressed atmosphere.

"Robert, did you understand what those things are? how do you use them? can you tell us?"

The dragonkin man fiddled with an item in his hand with a confused expression. He clearly did not know how to use this item.

that's a wrist-type locator with a communication function. It's quite convenient to use, so it's best not to break it.

Robert looked up and said in a calm tone.

"It's really troublesome that we have to bring this thing with us when we're on a mission,"

The dragonkin man mumbled to himself, but he still clumsily put on the item that looked like a wrist guard.

The other Aboriginal cultivators also spoke up and asked others about the usage of some items. Although they had heard the Holy Dragon City cultivators explain the specific usage, they were still confused.

To them, although these technological items were magical, it was too difficult to operate them.

However, those who had such thoughts were basically those who were good at fighting. As for the mages, they had basically figured out how to use the equipment and were even fiddling with it with interest along the way.

At this moment, a hurried voice rang out. Then, everyone felt their bodies tremble.

The cabin door at the side was opened, and sunlight quickly shone in.

The Tigermen Captain and the others pushed up the supports on their bodies and walked out of the cabin door. They found themselves in a Valley with scarce vegetation.

“This is the Lumberjack camp, about ten kilometers from Snow City!” He said.

After a few days of studying, Robert had gained a lot of knowledge about the extraterrestrial demon race. He immediately made a judgment after seeing the surrounding scenery.

let’s get started. Remember to check the mission at any time!

The Holy Dragon City cultivator leading the team warned them before turning around and boarding the almost invisible aircraft. Then, under everyone’s gaze, they left.

“Alright, let’s go!”

The Tigerman Captain tidied up his equipment and hid all the items that could easily expose his identity before calling out to the others.

The group of native cultivators at the side would take another path to Snow City. After giving each other their blessings, the two parties went their separate ways.

After walking along the path for a while, they arrived at the main road leading to Snow City. At the same time, they saw the flow of people.

With the appearance of the otherworldly demons, the vicinity of Snow City became more and more lively.

All kinds of people were wandering around the city. They might not have come for the otherworldly demons, but to take advantage of the appearance of the otherworldly demons to find an opportunity that belonged to them.

In fact, every time a war broke out on the continent, an important location would instantly become lively because of the gathering of the Army and the arrival of various people.

The current situation in Snow City was exactly like this.

Among these seemingly hurried passersby, there might be spies from some major forces, conspirators with unfathomable motives, and black-hearted merchants who wanted to make a fortune from the war.

The Tigermen Captain and the others were not particularly eye-catching as they walked among the crowd. They were just like a group of ordinary adventurers who had just returned to Snow City after completing a mission.

Among the people coming and going, the Tigermen Captain also saw the faces he had seen in Stone City.

However, after they met, they pretended not to know each other. They only exchanged glances and joined the crowd entering the city.

At this moment, at the city gate, there was a group of nervous looking soldiers who were constantly checking the pedestrians.

During this period of time, the pressure they were under was getting greater and greater.

After bargov transferred a large number of soldiers from the city to River View Village to exterminate the otherworldly demons, a huge change had occurred in Snow City.

There were not many soldiers guarding the city. Originally, it was barely enough to maintain the law and order of Snow City. However, with the influx of more and more foreigners, the current military strength of Snow City was somewhat stretched out.

Moreover, many of these foreigners were cultivators with extraordinary skills. They were the biggest hidden danger to the public security of the city.

However, with the current military strength of the city, there was nothing they could do to these cultivators.

There were also people who suggested sealing the city gates to prevent these outsiders from entering the city, but it was just a thought.

As the largest city and supply point in the vicinity, if Snow City were to be closed, it would inevitably cause the resistance of these foreign cultivators and local adventurers.

There might even be an unpredictable rebellion, which would only make things worse.

Helplessly, the remaining soldiers of Snow City began to patrol the city continuously in order to maintain the security of the city.

He had also used a messenger bird to inform bargov about the chaotic situation in Snow City, hoping that he could think of a solution.

Bargov was also very annoyed, but the situation was special, and he couldn't get away.

After all, in his opinion, as long as the Holy Dragon city was taken care of, everything would be solved.

Thus, bargov had been waiting, waiting for an opportunity to completely change his current predicament!

Chapter 995

995 Rabbit ears (1)

Following the moving crowd, the Tigerman Captain and the others finally arrived at the city gates of Snow City.

Compared to the previous period of relaxation, the defense level of Snow City had been greatly improved. There were archers everywhere on the city wall, and the city defense weapons had also been placed in sections, ready to be used at any time.

When it was the Tigerman captain's turn to enter the city, the soldiers guarding the city glanced at them. After seeing that they were just ordinary adventurers, they did not pay much attention to them.

During this period of time, people dressed in similar attire had been constantly coming in and out of Snow City, and the soldiers had long been annoyed.

At the start, the city guards would still carefully inspect them, but after persisting for a period of time, all the soldiers felt extremely tired, and they might even fall asleep while standing guard.

Therefore, the soldiers turned a blind eye to the inspection of outsiders entering the city.

In fact, the city guards were very clear that if these cultivators wanted to cause trouble, how could a mere city gate stop them?

If these cultivators wanted to hide any prohibited items, they wouldn't be discovered by ordinary soldiers with their means!

However, even so, the necessary procedures could not be omitted. At most, they would go easy on the Japanese officers during the inspection period.

pay the entrance fee, then quickly go in. Don't block the way!

The soldiers who had been patrolling the entire night patted the bodies of the Tigermen Captain and the others impatiently as if they were checking. They didn't even lift their eyelids.

Who knew if this guy with sleepy eyes had seen the Tigerman captain's face?

The Tigerman Captain nodded and took out a few coins. He threw them into a box at the city gate, and then the group walked into the city.

After crossing the small stone bridge at the city gate, a wide street appeared in front of them. On both sides of the street were taverns, blacksmiths, and other shops. It looked like business was booming.

Such a lively scene was actually very rare in the past.

Usually, the shops on this Street would also have customers, but it was obviously not as crowded as it was now. Even the tavern that the Tigermen Captain and the others often went to was already full of people!

Judging from the attire of these customers, they were obviously from other places. The number of people gathered together was even slightly more than the total number of residents in Snow City!

The arrival of the large number of foreigners had directly boosted the economy of Snow City, causing the merchants of Snow City to earn a large amount of money, and all of them were beaming with joy.

At the same time, in the dark corners that ordinary people couldn't notice, all kinds of shady deals were going on, making the city more and more complicated.

Some of the residents of Snow City even chose to stay in their homes during this period of time to avoid unnecessary trouble.

Little bird and the others walked through the city with ease and familiarity. Finally, they came to a Street. After looking around, they walked to an unremarkable house.

This house was the secret stronghold of the Tigermen Captain and the others in Snow City. The person who lived here was another of their companions. He was in charge of collecting intelligence and handling all kinds of chores.

It was also for this reason that this guy had avoided a disaster!

After he reached out and patted the door a few times, the door was gently opened, and a man with slightly messy hair poked his head out.

He yawned and was about to say something when he saw the Tigerman Captain and the others standing outside the door.

"Boss, you're finally back? I was so worried!"

When the man saw the Tigermen Captain and the others, he immediately opened the door in surprise. As he spoke, he pounced toward little bird, who was standing in the middle of the team.

"Come, come, come, little Niao girl, it's been a long time since we last met, did you miss me?"

Quick, let big brother check if you're injured."

Looking at the man with a perverted smile, the little bird curled its lips in disdain. It raised its leg and kicked the man's crotch.

The man's reaction was extremely fast. When the bird raised its leg, he immediately dodged to the side and looked at the bird with an aggrieved expression.

He brushed the hair on his forehead and said in a bitter tone, " little bird Girl, did you have a change of heart? why are you doing this to me? "

The little bird blushed when it heard this. In a flash, it rushed to the front of the vulgar man and reached out to pull his ear, which was obviously longer than an ordinary person's.

"Damn rabbit ears, if you dare to talk nonsense again, I'll pull your ears off and feed them to the dogs!"

The man's ear seemed to be extremely elastic. It was pulled out by more than half a meter by the bird, as if it could break at any time!

The man who was called rabbit ears by the little bird immediately bared his teeth and repeatedly begged for mercy. After saying a lot of good things, the little bird released its hand with hatred.

I'll let you off this time. If you dare to talk nonsense again, I'll definitely pull your ears off!

The little bird pouted and ignored the annoying fellow.

When the other team members saw this scene, they all laughed without saying a word. It was obvious that they had long known the nature of their companion and were happy to see him suffer.

you foul mouth. Every time, you have to be taught a lesson by little bird before you'll be obedient for a day or two.

The Tigerman Captain smiled, then looked around and gave rabbit ears a look.

“What are you still doing? Everyone, hurry up and go into the house!”

Rabbit ears' eyes cleared up. After calling out to everyone, he quickly opened the door and everyone walked in one by one.

Rabbit ears, who was at the back, closed the door and peeked through the gap for a while before quickly walking to the back room.

After passing through the room in front, there was a spacious open space behind the house. The Tigermen Captain and the others were already sitting on the chairs, waiting for the rabbit ears to return.

After placing a plate of fruit on the table, rabbit ears walked to the Tigermen Captain. He put away his wretched expression and asked in a concerned tone, “Captain, did something happen to you guys this time?”

The Tigerman Captain nodded, then shook his head and said slowly, “This matter is very dangerous, so it's best if you don't know about it. The further away you are from us, the better!

I've come back this time to tell you not to take any more missions from Snow City for the time being.

I'll give you half of the money we've saved up over the years, and you can take it and leave Snow City as soon as possible. Find a place to live an honest life, and never come back here!”

When rabbit ears heard this, he immediately looked anxious and asked anxiously, “What's wrong, Captain? why would you say such a thing?

We brothers have been through life and death together and have gone through so many hardships, but we have never said that we want to separate.

You've just returned and you're already trying to chase me away. Have you ever considered my feelings?”

The rabbit ears had a sad and angry expression, but soon his brows furrowed and he looked up at the crowd.

...

“Something's not right. Tell me, what happened to you?

If you treat me as your brother, you'd better not hide it from me!”

The Tigerman Captain pondered for a moment and looked at the anxious and concerned rabbit ears. Finally, he slowly said, “I'll tell you the truth. We were caught by the otherworldly demons when we were in River View Village, and we almost died!

later on, due to some special circumstances, we managed to keep our lives, but we had no choice but to sign a slave contract with the otherworldly demons.

Fortunately, although we've signed a contract, the heavenly demonic tribe isn't as terrifying as the legends say. Apart from the fact that we don't have the freedom we used to have, everything else is normal.

And like before, you can accept missions and earn a Commission that's several times higher than before."

The Tigermen Captain couldn't help but sigh.

"However, the otherworldly demons are still outsiders, and they're now being targeted by all the major forces. If we follow them, our future will be uncertain, and we might even lose our lives one day.

We don't have a choice, but you can pull yourself out of this in time, so I hope you can leave this mess as soon as possible and find a place to live a peaceful life."

"It's not just you. We brothers will also do our best to make proper arrangements for our family members.

As for what will happen in the future, we can only leave it to fate!"

...

The Tigerman Captain looked up at the rabbit-eared boy, waiting for his answer.

After a long silence, the rabbit-eared man suddenly raised his head and looked at the Tigerman Captain and the other members of the adventurer team. He suddenly grinned.

"Where else can I go? of course I'm going to hang around with you guys. If we die, we'll die together. Don't even think about leaving me behind!"

At this point, rabbit ears looked up at the bird and showed the same wretched smile.

"Of course, the most important thing is that little Niao girl is still here. I really can't bear to leave."

As soon as he finished speaking, his ears were pulled up by the girl again, and a series of miserable screams rang out.

Chapter 996

996 A bold idea (1)

After joking around for a while, everyone finally started talking about serious business.

According to the Tigermen captain's plan, they had no choice now and could lose their lives at any time, so there were some urgent things that needed to be arranged. This way, they could avoid any worries.

Although their previous adventurer lives were equally dangerous, they had not reached the point where they were surrounded by enemies. Facing a large number of enemies, their chances of death were extremely high!

Fortunately, when everyone signed the contract, they had already prepared for the worst, so they were all very calm.

Compared to before, he even had a more carefree temperament.

Even rabbit ears was very surprised. If one only looked at the surface, no one would have thought that their companions had already signed that legendary contract!

Wasn't this mentality a little too good?

Of course, rabbit ears didn't know that the Tigermen Captain and the others who had signed the contract didn't suffer the humiliation that they had imagined. Instead, they had gained a lot of benefits. So, their mentality had also undergone a subtle change.

They had even unconsciously started to support the Holy Dragon City.

However, after understanding the concerns of the Tigerman leader and the others, the rabbit-eared man laughed.

"Boss, don't worry. After I guessed that something might have happened to you, I've already made arrangements for your family!

They're all safe now. If you want to take a look, we can go there at any time!"

Rabbit ears scratched his head in embarrassment and said, " but I've already distributed all the money we've saved up over the years to everyone's family. If you need money now, I can't take out a single copper coin!

When the Tigermen Captain and the others heard this, they looked at rabbit ears at the same time, their eyes flashing with an inexplicable emotion.

To be able to do this as brothers, they really didn't misjudge the person!

"Good brother, don't say anything else. I thank you on behalf of everyone."

The Tigerman leader patted rabbit ears 'shoulder and said with a hint of emotion.

The rabbit-eared man laughed and looked at the Tigermen Captain."Captain, why are you saying this? this is what I should do!

'Also, if there's any big operation this time, don't forget me!

I've been stuck here all day with nothing to do, I'm about to rust!"

Nodding his head slightly, the Tigermen Captain said in a deep voice, " "This mission really can't be completed without you. You should know that you're the most familiar with Snow City among us!

The mission we accepted was to cause destruction in Snow City. The bigger the commotion, the better!"

The Tigermen Captain pondered for a moment before continuing, " I guess the Holy Dragon city's goal is to force balguv to withdraw his troops. After all, there's a problem with his own lair, and it's impossible for balguv to remain indifferent.

When the dragonkin man heard this, he said with disdain, "in my opinion, the Holy Dragon city's actions are unnecessary. With their strength, they can definitely easily beat up the soldiers of Snow City. Why would they go through so much trouble?"

Although he was very unwilling to be limited by the Holy Dragon City, he could not help but be unconvinced of the Holy Dragon city's strength.

Robert, who was fiddling with the equipment in his hands, shook his head and explained, "Holy Dragon City is already the target of public criticism. If we attack and defeat Snow City, it will definitely intensify the enmity between the other forces.

Moreover, with the existence of the Lord, balguv, he could also share some of the Holy Dragon city's pressure. After all, the snow region was balguv's territory, and he could not let those external forces do as they pleased!

What the Holy Dragon City hopes for the most is for these forces to have internal strife. If that happens, they won't be sincere in cooperating with us to deal with the otherworldly demons that have been occupying the river view Village all this time!"

At this point, a hint of fear flashed through Robert's eyes. He said to the Tiger men Captain, "I don't know if you've noticed the vortex above Stone City, but I'm guessing that the Holy Dragon City has been biding their time because of that mysterious vortex!

The Tiger men Captain frowned and looked at Robert. "What exactly did you find? speak clearly!"

Everyone's eyes fell on Robert at the same time, waiting for his explanation.

"If I'm not wrong, that giant whirlpool is actually a terrifying super teleportation array!

I've observed it carefully before, and I noticed that the vortex was constantly expanding. It's easy to imagine how huge the object being transported is!

That's why I feel that the Holy Dragon city's true trump card has yet to descend upon this world. Otherwise, based on the strength they had displayed, they would definitely not hole up in a small village like River View Village.

Their target should be the entire continent!"

After hearing Robert's analysis, everyone was shocked at first, but then fell silent.

The information they had so far was enough to prove that the Holy Dragon City definitely had strength that could not be underestimated. In some aspects, it was even enough to crush all the forces on the continent.

However, these things were only a part of what the Holy Dragon City disdained to hide. Who knew how terrifying their true trump card was?

In the end, it was the Tiger man Captain who broke the silence. He said in a calm tone, "Don't think about those things. No matter what, we're already tied to Holy Dragon City, and there's no way to get rid of it.

The more powerful they are, the more benefits we can reap!”

Everyone nodded and continued to discuss how to carry out the operation.

According to the mission’s hint, the reward this time was a random evaluation. The better the effect of creating chaos, the more rewards he would receive!

Since that was the case, naturally, the bigger the commotion, the better.

However, how to create a big commotion and then escape, that needed to be carefully discussed.

The rabbit ears had been listening attentively the entire time. His long ears would shake from time to time. This was also one of his habits.

It was because of the Super hearing that his long ears gave him that he was able to grasp all sorts of information in Snow City and analyze things that were useful to him.

Rabbit ears had been thinking about it ever since he heard the Tigerman leader mention the mission requirements. He seemed to have thought of something and said in an uncertain tone, “Since you said that the bigger the commotion, the more likely the reward will be, then how about we just demolish that building in the cloud area?”

As soon as he finished speaking, everyone’s eyes fell on rabbit ears with a strange expression.

Seeing this, rabbit ears was immediately at a loss. “What’s wrong? Did I say something wrong? Why are you all looking at me like that?”

The dragonkin man walked up and patted the rabbit-eared man’s shoulder, laughing. “I say, kid, you’re really a bastard. You actually thought of such a mean idea!

But to tell you the truth, your idea really suits my taste. Just thinking about it makes me feel excited!”

hahaha, if we tear down that Castle, I think balguv will go crazy with anger.

“I think this idea is good. Why don’t we try it?”

...

“Oh my God, if we really tear it down, how much reward will we get?”

A group of people who wished for the world to be in chaos echoed one after another, clearly in full agreement with rabbit ears’ suggestion.

The rabbit ears could not help but feel a little confused. He blinked and looked at the Tigermen Captain and the others. “Did you guys take my words for real? I was just joking!”

What’s wrong with these guys? they actually want to tear down bargof’s Castle. Rabbit ears was a little suspicious. Did they have a problem with their heads?

Why did all of them become so devilish and bold after signing the contract with the otherworldly demons?

After another confirmation, proving that everyone had really decided to tear down bargof's Castle, rabbit ears scratched his head and laughed.

The most courageous person in the group was actually this rabbit-eared guy. There was almost nothing he didn't dare to do.

It was just that this guy looked too harmless, so people would subconsciously ignore this.

Although he was excited to participate in such a big operation, he still couldn't figure out why.

Chapter 997

997 Tearing down someone's nest (1)

The rabbit ears clearly did not realize the true purpose of the Holy Dragon City issuing this mission.

Tang Zhen was a little annoyed with bargov, who he couldn't get rid of for the time being and was still secretly causing trouble behind his back. He had long wanted to find an opportunity to repay him.

Wouldn't it be too aggrieving if he didn't fight back when he was blocked at the door?

When he issued this mission, Tang Zhen did not set a clear boundary at all. This was equivalent to telling those native cultivators to be as ruthless as they could!

Therefore, Tang Zhen was definitely in favor of demolishing bargof's Castle because the effect was really good.

Although he couldn't kill the other party, it would be good to disgust them.

If the Tigermen Captain and the rest were to successfully complete this plan, Tang Zhen would definitely give them a high reward!

After receiving the news that the castle had been torn down, bargof would definitely not continue to stay and not leave. Instead, he would rush back to his old nest to put out the fire.

After all, his old home had already been torn down, so it wouldn't be long before the owner of Snow City changed!

As for the reason why everyone agreed, it was because they felt that this idea was indeed good. If it succeeded, it would definitely have a considerable impact.

In this way, a rich bounty would also be in his hands!

However, even though this plan was good, it was definitely not an easy task to realize it.

Bargof's castle was built in the cloud area of the city, and the terrain was the highest point of the city.

The castle was heavily guarded and had a wide field of vision. It was impossible for ordinary people to enter.

It would be impossible to tear down this huge castle under the protection of so many soldiers!

If they acted rashly, they would probably be surrounded by a swarm of soldiers before they could even make a move, and then they would be directly chopped into meat paste!

Obviously, everyone had also realized this. Each of them was frowning and thinking hard about how to successfully achieve their goal.

After thinking for a while, one of the team members shook his head and sighed, " "Why don't we change our target? it's too difficult to tear down the castle of barguv, and I think our chances of success are very low!

If we're not careful, we might lose our lives, it's not worth it!"

When the other team members heard this, they nodded in agreement. Although they were very tempted by this suggestion, the terrifying difficulty of carrying out the plan made them shrink back.

The Tigermen Captain frowned slightly. He was actually very tempted by this suggestion.

But reason told him that doing so was no different from hitting a stone with an egg. Because in a situation where he didn't have enough strength, coveting such a huge benefit was simply treating the lives of himself and his team members as child's play!

As the team leader, he had to step forward in this situation and choose the most reasonable plan to avoid the team suffering unnecessary losses.

Although they were adventurers, it didn't mean that they were reckless and had to try extremely dangerous missions!

Just as everyone had decided to give up, Robert suddenly spoke and asked rabbit ears, " "If I prepare some things, can you send them to bargof's Castle?"

Hearing this, rabbit ears thought for a moment. that depends on what kind of item is given. If it's an ordinary item, although it's a little difficult, there's still a way to send it in!

"That's good!"

Robert nodded and pondered for a while. He then looked up at everyone and said, " "When we came out this time, the Holy Dragon city's cultivators mentioned that they could give us appropriate help when we carry out missions.

If that's the case, why don't we make use of it to realize our plan?"

The Tigermen Captain shook his head.

"Robert, you're thinking too much. The Holy Dragon City will definitely not personally take action in this matter!

Otherwise, they would have been able to tear down bargof's Castle and even snow City with just a single team of cultivators!

So, it's impossible for you to ask them for help?"

Robert smiled and shook his head. He explained, " "Of course, I'm not asking the Holy Dragon City to help us destroy bargof's Castle. If that happens, the credit will have nothing to do with us.

What I mean is, can we get some weapons from Holy Dragon City that they use, and then I'll combine them with what I've learned to make a device.

This way, we can tear down the castle without entering it!"

The Tigermen Captain frowned and thought for a moment. Suddenly, his eyes lit up.

"You mean, a bomb!"

Robert snapped his fingers and smiled at the Tigermen Captain. "That's right, it's the kind of bomb used by the Holy Dragon City cultivators!

This item was only the size of a duck's egg, but its power was extremely shocking. It was not inferior to a magic scroll!

If we can make a bomb that is 10 times the size, and send it to the castle, we can definitely destroy it!"

The Tigerman Captain shook his head again. but if we do that, it will inevitably be related to the Holy Dragon City. Do you think the Holy Dragon City will agree with us? "

Even if everyone knew that the Holy Dragon City was behind this matter, no one could make an issue out of it without sufficient evidence.

just like this mission, the executors were US native cultivators. The Holy Dragon City cultivators didn't participate at all.

Therefore, even if the matter is blown up, the Holy Dragon City will be able to get away with it. "

Robert nodded slightly. This was indeed something that needed to be considered.

However, this did not mean that he would give up easily. After thinking for a moment, Robert continued, "I once mastered a spell scroll by chance. Although it is difficult to make, it is absolutely suitable for this task.

This was a type of composite scroll. Its principle was similar to that of a bomb. It could instantly shoot out a large number of high-temperature fireballs, which had a great destructive effect on buildings!

Since Holy Dragon City can't help us, we'll do it ourselves!"

The Tigermen Captain thought for a moment, then looked at Robert and asked, "then, how confident are you in creating such a composite magic scroll? "

Robert thought for a moment, then said in a certain tone, "I'm about 70% confident!"

"Alright, let's do it!" The Tigermen Captain smacked the table.

Standing up and looking around at everyone, the Tigerman Captain said in a low voice, "From now on, little bird and Robert will be in charge of making the composite scroll. Rabbit ears, I, and the others will come up with a plan to study how to send it to bargof's Castle.

...

During this period of time, the situation in Snow City was tense. Everyone had to be careful to avoid being targeted.

Moreover, we must be fast. Otherwise, after the other teams create chaos, the castle's defense standards will definitely increase. In that case, it will be more difficult for us to blend in."

After some further discussion, they immediately began to split up.

Chapter 998

998 Robert (1)

In the house where rabbit ears lived, there was a very hidden basement that stored some of the adventurer team's Secret resources.

After all, there were some things that could not be seen by others.

At this moment, an oil lamp was lit in the basement. It was emitting faint black smoke, illuminating the dark basement.

Robert had changed into a neat short robe and was sitting on a chair with full concentration. He was using a special drawing pen to draw on a piece of animal skin paper.

Creating magic scrolls was a common practice for mages, but the success rate and power of the scrolls varied from person to person. The selling price of scrolls of the same type also varied.

The magic scrolls created by Orthodox mages were powerful, so they were more popular.

Robert wasn't a pure mage. At most, he came from an unorthodox background. Otherwise, he wouldn't have joined an adventurer team and risked his life to earn a bounty.

However, his talent in making magic scrolls was extremely high. It was just that he rarely showed it. If others knew of his ability, he would definitely be hired by the powerful and influential people of various forces and become their guest.

There was even a chance to become the Empire's stipend and enjoy generous treatment!

However, due to some special reasons, Robert did not show his talent in this area. Instead, he chose to stay in the adventurer team.

However, in order to complete this mission, Robert finally let go of his worries and decided to take a gamble!

He first concocted some potions to calm his mind and took them. Then, he let the little bird assist him by the side while he concentrated on making magic scrolls.

From Robert's cautious expression, it was clear that this composite magic scroll was not simple. It was simply an experimental product that Robert had invented, and no one else knew how to make it!

From Robert's point of view, this composite scroll was actually a very impractical thing. Although it had a lot of destructive power, its structure was extremely unstable. The slightest bit of carelessness would cause it to explode.

Therefore, such composite scrolls could not be carried around at all. As a result, their value was greatly reduced. Moreover, there was a considerable risk in the production of such scrolls. If the creator was not careful during the production process, he would be injured by the scroll.

However, Robert didn't tell anyone about this in detail. For the future of the team, he chose to shoulder the danger himself.

Robert's expression was grave, and he was extremely cautious with every movement. Under the help of the magic ink, the pattern on the scroll began to take shape.

However, this was only one step. He would have to repeat the same steps again because every scroll was a part of this composite scroll.

It was no wonder the magic scrolls were so powerful. They were no less powerful than a bomb.

After putting the completed magic scroll aside, Robert picked up a towel and wiped the sweat off his forehead. He took a deep breath and continued working.

Just by looking at his performance, it was clear that the process of making it just now had greatly exhausted his physical strength.

The little bird acted as Robert's assistant. Every time Robert needed an item, the little bird would quickly bring it to him and then retreat to the side to observe it in silence.

The bird bit its lip as it watched the sweat dripping from Robert's head. It picked up a towel and wiped the sweat off Robert's forehead when he stopped writing.

"Thank you," he said.

Robert didn't even raise his head. He continued to write the magic scroll as he expressed his gratitude.

Time passed by slowly. Robert was clearly getting more and more exhausted, but he did not stop.

When his body suddenly trembled, he casually grabbed another bottle of medicine and drank it.

After blowing out a breath of cold air, Robert rubbed his hands and continued working.

"Why don't you rest for a while? if you continue like this, your body won't be able to take it."

The little bird could not help but advise.

"It's okay, I can still hold on."

As Robert was drawing the scroll, he said without raising his head, "This matter is a very important opportunity for our team. Whether it's to improve our position in Holy Dragon City or the generous mission rewards, it's worth it for us to fight for!

There's only one chance, and I don't want to miss it!"

As he said this, a complicated look flashed in Robert's eyes before it disappeared.

The bird nodded and stopped trying to persuade him. It just stood quietly at the side.

After another two hours or so, Robert finally stopped and let out a long breath.

There were more than 20 magic scrolls on the table. They were half the size of ordinary magic scrolls, but the composition was more than twice as complicated!

The most crucial moment was about to arrive, and victory or defeat would be decided by this one move.

little bird, you can go out. Stay away from here. After I'm done, I'll go out by myself.

The bird bit its lips and asked Robert, "What you're going to do next, will it be very dangerous?"

Robert didn't answer the bird's question. Instead, he smiled softly and waved his hand weakly, signaling her to leave as soon as possible.

Seeing the determination in Robert's eyes, the little bird knew that it would be useless no matter what it said, so it could only slowly retreat.

"You have to be careful. Don't let anything happen to you."

The wooden door to the basement slowly closed, and the smile on Robert's face slowly disappeared.

Taking a deep breath, he took out another bottle of medicine and drank it. His originally dispirited spirit was restored by a lot.

In fact, this kind of continuous consumption of potions was very harmful to Robert's body, but he couldn't care much about it at the moment.

What he needed to do next was to take out all of these magic scrolls that could be used individually. However, they could only be considered parts of a magic scroll right now and put them together to form a powerful composite magic scroll.

A single mistake in the process could lead to a serious accident. The entire basement and Robert would be burned to ashes.

"I will definitely succeed, just wait and see!"

Robert's eyes lit up as he picked up a scroll and slowly put it together with another.

A three-dimensional composite magic scroll began to slowly appear in his hand.

.....

Outside the basement, the bird was staring at the entrance with a trace of worry in its eyes.

...

Even if Robert didn't say anything, she could already guess that the creation of this composite scroll was definitely filled with danger.

However, although Robert was usually very easygoing, once he made up his mind, he would not listen to anyone's advice.

Furthermore, he had proposed a feasible plan, so in order to complete it successfully, he would definitely put in all his effort.

Even if there was danger, he would face it alone!

Although it was not a mage, the little bird knew that the scariest thing about making magic scrolls was a magic accident caused by a sudden loss of control.

The magic scrolls created by Robert could easily kill a low-level cultivator, and there were more than 20 of them in the basement.

If there was an accident, Robert would definitely not even have a corpse left!

At the thought of this, the little bird's heart was filled with worry. However, other than waiting patiently, she could not help at all.

As time went by, the bird's worry grew. It wanted to open the door to the basement several times to see if Robert was safe.

However, this would definitely affect Robert's work and might even cause danger, so after much thought, the little bird did not take action.

Just as the bird was about to open the door to check again, the tightly shut wooden door of the basement suddenly made a sound, and then it was slowly pushed open.

...

Robert walked out with a pale face. He looked at the worried little bird and forced a smile.

"Don't worry, it's a success!"

After saying that, Robert's body went limp and he fainted on the ground.

Chapter 999

999 Various means (1)

When the bird saw Robert come out, the worried expression on its face instantly disappeared. At the same time, it revealed a faint smile.

However, before she could ask, she saw Robert suddenly collapse at the door. His head hit the wooden door heavily, making a muffled sound.

"Robert, what's wrong? don't scare me!"

The bird cried out in surprise and immediately rushed over. It hugged Robert in its arms and called out repeatedly.

As if sensing the bird's anxiety, Robert opened his eyes with difficulty and said in a hoarse voice, "Don't worry, I'm fine."

After taking a deep breath, Robert continued in a hoarse voice, "The composite magic scroll is ready and placed in the basement. I've written down the method to use it, so just follow it.

Remember to be careful, or else it'll be dangerous!"

The bird nodded and tears welled up in its eyes.

"Don't worry, I'll definitely tell the captain and the others. It'll definitely be fine!"

Robert nodded his head slightly, then slowly closed his listless eyes.

“Take me to my room. I’m a little tired and want to sleep for a while.”

Robert’s voice became weaker and weaker as he spoke, and he fell asleep in the bird’s arms.

The bird used its sleeve to wipe the tears from the corner of its eyes. It then picked up Robert and carefully brought him into the house.

After sitting by the bed for a while and making sure that Robert was indeed asleep, the bird slowly walked out of the room and closed the door.

Following Robert’s request, little bird took out the instruction manual and locked the basement door. Then, it stood guard at the door and began reading.

After a while, the Tigermen Captain and the others returned one after another. After hearing about Robert’s incident, they all sighed deeply.

After working together for so long, they more or less knew some of Robert’s past. They knew that he had many stories.

With Robert’s strength, he could have left the adventurer team and sought a better future. However, he did not do so from the beginning to the end, because Robert treated all his teammates as his brothers.

If Robert hadn’t risked his life to help them, their plan would have been nothing more than a fantasy.

Worried about Robert’s health, the Tigerman Captain personally went into the room to check on him. After that, he came out and nodded to everyone.

“Don’t worry, everyone. Robert is fine. He’s just too tired. Let him have a good sleep!”

Hearing this, everyone was relieved.

The Tigermen Captain called everyone to sit down and began to plan the operation.

According to the results of their investigation, it was confirmed that the defense of the castle of barguv had indeed increased a lot.

First, it was because bargof had left the castle, and second, it was because a large number of outsiders had entered Snow City.

In such a complicated situation, the defenses of Snow City were constantly being strengthened. As the castle that the Lord lived in, the defenses were naturally strengthened as well.

But even so, there were still some loopholes.

According to the information collected by the rabbit ears, it could be confirmed that a batch of fresh ingredients would be sent to the castle of bargof every day at dawn.

When the vehicles transporting these ingredients entered the castle, they would also be inspected, but it was not strict. It was just a process.

The Tigermen Captain was planning to use the vehicle to transport the ingredients to the castle and then wait for the composite magic scroll Robert had created to explode.

There were two ways to activate such a composite magic scroll. One was to detonate it at a fixed time, and the other was to detonate it by touch.

It could be said that as long as the composite magic scroll was sent into the castle without being discovered by the mages, it would be considered a success.

The first thing they needed to do was to find a way to disguise themselves so that they would not be discovered by the guards of the castle. Then, they would safely evacuate from Snow City.

what method should we use to put the compound magic scroll in the ingredients without being discovered? ”

The Tigermen Captain raised a question and looked up at the crowd.

Robert had once said that composite magic scrolls were extremely easy to detonate, so they had to be very careful when disguising themselves in order to avoid accidentally triggering them during the transportation process.

Although it would cause some damage to the castle if it was detonated outside, it would definitely not be as effective as detonating it from the inside.

Hearing this, everyone began to think hard, trying to find a safe and hidden way.

The bird pondered for a while and suddenly said, ” “My race has a secret technique that can speed up the growth of plants. Can we put a compound magic scroll into the fruit of the plant and let it heal faster?

This way, the fruit won't leave any traces behind and the scroll can be perfectly camouflaged.”

The Tigermen Captain nodded and said to everyone, ” “If that's the case, I can give it a try.”

They immediately got to work.

The little bird was responsible for preparing the materials for the secret technique, while the others went to collect soil and suitable vegetable seeds.

Soon, everyone gathered together again and placed the items they had collected in front of the bird.

After drawing a pattern that looked like a magic circle, the little bird started to chant a spell in a strange tone. At the same time, it gently touched the soil container in the middle of the pattern.

After completing the ritual, she placed her hand on a large handful of seeds and knelt on the ground with her eyes closed, as if she was communicating with something.

After about ten minutes, the bird slowly opened its eyes and found a rather plump seed in the handful of seeds.

As for the other seeds, they had all shriveled up and turned into powder with a light poke.

Under the effects of the little bird's Secret technique, this seed had already absorbed all the essence of the other seeds, and possessed an extremely exuberant vitality!

After burying the seed in the soil and pouring a cup of green liquid over it, the bird once again used its race's Secret technique to stimulate the special seed.

Under everyone's gazes, a seedling broke out of the ground at a speed visible to the naked eye. Then, it continuously elongated its body, and rapidly produced branches and flowers.

A plant's entire growth process was actually accelerated by countless times. This scene was truly incomparably miraculous!

Soon, a fruit appeared between the branches and leaves, and then it continued to expand. From the initial size of an egg, it quickly grew to the size of a human head.

...

However, looking at the fruit's posture, it seemed that it had not reached its growth limit.

"I say, this should be a pumpkin, right?"

The dragonkin scratched his bald head and smiled at the bird.

"Little bird, you actually know such a method?"

Then why did you grow some pumpkins when we were trapped in the underground cave? that way, we wouldn't have to go hungry."

The little bird pouted and snorted, "At that time, I didn't have the materials or the seeds. How do you want me to plant them?"

Moreover, this secret technique has a huge restriction. Everyone can only use it three times in their lifetime. Otherwise, do you think I'll let everyone go hungry?"

The Dragonman chuckled and did not say anything else.

Such a precious and limited secret technique should have been used to stimulate some precious medicinal materials so that it would not be wasted.

However, the bird was being used to cultivate an ordinary plant in order to complete this plan. Everyone knew this in their hearts.

For this plan, Robert had risked his life to create a composite magic scroll that even he was not confident in. The little bird had also wasted a chance to use a secret skill that could only be used a few times in its life.

...

Moreover, when they were giving, they never thought about returning the favor.

Alright, now bring the composite magic scroll Robert made and place it in the pumpkin. After that, let the little bird heal the cut marks!

The Tigermen Captain said with a smile as he looked at the pumpkins on the ground.

1000 The plan in progress (1)

The following work was finally completed with everyone's careful cooperation.

Looking at the large pumpkin in front of them, everyone let out a long sigh of relief, and a smile flashed across their faces.

The next thing to do was to send him safely to bargof's Castle.

Currently, a large number of native cultivators had sneaked into Snow City, and some of them were already impatient to take action.

As the Tigerman Captain and the others went out to gather information, they saw that there was chaos in more than one place in the city. From time to time, thick smoke would rise from the city.

Setting fire was obviously a good choice when carrying out a sabotage mission!

Every time something unexpected happened, the soldiers of the city of snow would charge forward with their weapons in hand.

After working overtime for several days, the soldiers of Snow City had become extremely tired. Now, as long as they could find a little free time, the soldiers of Snow City would quickly catch up on sleep to recover their energy.

As such, the soldiers of Snow City could not wait to tear these troublemakers into pieces!

However, most of the native cultivators who had accepted the mission were experienced adventurers. It was easy for them to set fires and cause trouble, so the Furious soldiers of Snow City could not catch them at all.

Looking at the destroyed buildings in the city, the soldiers of Snow City gritted their teeth in anger, but they could do nothing about it.

The city guard officer wanted to send soldiers to guard all the key areas, but they were currently short of manpower and could not do that.

Therefore, the soldiers of Snow City had to suffer. They could only run from the East to the West, then from the South to the North. They were exhausted and complained endlessly.

Under such circumstances, the defenses of Snow City were once again strengthened. Soldiers with Spears could be seen everywhere on the streets, looking at the pedestrians with suspicious eyes.

There were also a lot of soldiers temporarily added to the castle, and the atmosphere became quite tense.

Therefore, the earlier the Tigerman Captain and the others took action, the better. If they delayed any longer, they might not have another chance to strike.

.....

Early the next morning, the first rays of the morning sun fell on the snow City, and a noisy day began.

Every day, he was in charge of transporting fresh vegetables to the castle. He got up early to feed his old horse some grass, and then went out of the house in the carriage.

The vegetables and ingredients consumed by the castle every day had a fixed supply point, and old Jim only needed to go around to collect them and transport them to the castle.

Today, as usual, he drove through the dense crowd and arrived at a farm outside the city.

Beside the wooden house at the edge of the farm, piles of fresh ingredients stained with morning dew had already been placed. The fresh and tender appearance was extremely pleasing to the eye.

In addition to the usual ingredients and vegetables, there was also a pile of fresh pumpkins today. Not only were they huge, but they also looked quite pleasing.

“Haha, it’s really a huge pumpkin!”

Old Jim jumped down from the carriage and exclaimed in admiration. At the same time, he patted the pumpkins.

hehe, of course. The best pumpkins on our farm are naturally for the feudal lord to enjoy!

When he saw old Jim patting the pumpkin with his hand, the farm manager’s mouth twitched. He was so nervous that his hat almost popped up.

However, he instantly returned to normal and changed the topic.

“Alright, it’s getting late. Hurry up and load these vegetables into the cart. I still have to send them to the castle!

Be careful of the kitchen manager’s whip if you mess up the proper business.”

Old Jim shouted pretentiously, and the person in charge of the farm quickly smiled and nodded. He called the workers not far away to move the vegetables onto the truck.

In order to prevent crushing the other vegetables, the first ingredients to be loaded into the truck were naturally the large pumpkins.

Seeing the workers carefully carry the pumpkins into the car, old Jim even praised them for their good taste.

If the ingredients didn’t look good, it would also cause dissatisfaction in the head chef of the castle, and old Jim would also be scolded.

The pile of vegetables was quickly loaded, and old Jim jumped into the carriage. Without saying a word, he drove the carriage towards the city.

Seeing this, the farm manager nodded to a worker, who then followed quietly.

On the way back to the castle, seeing more and more outsiders, old Jim sighed with emotion. Because of the appearance of the extraterrestrial demon race, Snow City had become more and more lively.

The Shang clan gained benefits from this, but the public security became extremely bad, was this good or bad?

Perhaps it was because his lordship wasn't around, these outsiders became unscrupulous. They actually dared to cause trouble in the city. They really didn't know what was good for them!

Once the city Lord exterminated the otherworldly demons and returned to Snow City, these people who dared to cause trouble would definitely be severely punished by the city Lord.

Perhaps it wouldn't be long before rows of hanged bodies would appear on the gallows outside Snow City.

I really miss this scene!

Humming a meaty tune along the way, old Jim drove the carriage slowly to the back door of the castle.

Seeing that there were twice as many guards at the gate as usual, the old hen mother quickly jumped down from the carriage and greeted them with a bow. She was no longer as arrogant as she was at the small farm.

Because old Jim had been delivering food to the castle every day, the soldiers were already very familiar with him. So when they saw old Jim, they simply greeted him and began their daily routine inspection.

The bundles of vegetables were turned over, and there was basically no problem. As for whether or not they were poisoned, the soldiers could not detect it at all, but it was tested by professional personnel.

During the inspection, the guards also saw the large pumpkins in the car.

Just like old Jim, the soldier also patted the huge pumpkin and praised it.

it's really a good pumpkin. I don't think the taste will be too bad!

After saying this, the soldier waved his hand to indicate that there was no problem. Then, he opened the door and let them in.

Old Jim gave his thanks and led the carriage into the castle.

After seeing old Jim drive the carriage into the castle, the farmer who had been following behind the carriage sneered and quickly turned to leave, running out of the city.

In the inner area of the castle, the servants of the castle were busy preparing for the new day.

...

Even when bargof was not in the castle, the servants' workload did not decrease at all, and they were busy all day.

When they saw old Jim arrive, some of the people who knew him even smiled and greeted him.

Old Jim also had a smile on his face as he drove the carriage to the kitchen.

The servants, who had been waiting for a long time, immediately surrounded the carriage and began to unload the whole cart of vegetables as usual.

The head of the kitchen looked at the fresh vegetables and nodded in satisfaction. He praised them casually.

When old Jim heard this, he immediately beamed with joy.

Soon, the vegetables were selected, washed, and sent to the kitchen. The giant pumpkins were also washed, and were ready to be cut and steamed by the chef.

However, just as the kitchen knife was about to cut into one of the pumpkins, a terrifying flame suddenly burst out and engulfed the entire kitchen in an instant.
