

Am I A God 71

Chapter 71: Anger (2)

No matter what, they still had to clean up the apartment. Zhao Yao spent the rest of the afternoon tidying up the place and fixed the internet. He decided to buy a few cameras online to monitor the situation at home even when he was out.

However, Zhao Yao realized that Roly Poly was missing while he was sweeping the floor. He searched frantically for Roly Poly to find him unconscious and crushed beneath the door.

He immediately brought him to the hospital for a body checkup. Luckily, his excessive body fats absorbed most of the impact. He only suffered some minor injuries, and his internal organs were fine and the bones were not fractured.

Zhao Yao then brought Roly Poly back home and continued to tidy up the place.

Zhao Yao was thinking as he was clearing up, “Were the supercats which attacked us from the cat thief organization? If that was the case, why didn’t they send humans instead of cats?”

Compared to humans, the supercats were much more valuable and precious. Furthermore, humans were physically stronger and were easier to replace than the supercats.

However, Zhao Yao still could not understand the reason for today’s attack.

Meanwhile, Matcha was tapping Roly Poly on his shoulder with his white paws. He chuckled and said, “Roly Poly, I vaguely remember them shouting XxXxXL Juicy Chicken Cutlet which sounds like your WeChat ID.”

Roly Poly’s fats were trembling with fear, and he was breaking into a cold sweat, “I don’t know what you are talking about.”

Roly Poly replied with a bitter look, “I don’t have money.”

Matcha replied sternly, “If you want to resort to this, let’s see what Zhao Yao will say ...”

Roly Poly looked towards Zhao Yao who was busy cleaning up the mess caused by him.

“D*mn, even the television is spoilt.”

“Someone vomited? F*ck, who peed on the floor?”

“Don’t let me find them! I’ll stuff their head up their ass.”

Roly Poly was shaking like a leaf as he listened to Zhao Yao’s tirade. His pupil dilated as he imagined having his head stuck up his ass.

Matcha shook his head and said, “How can I make such an unreasonable request. Never mind, I shall tell Zhao Yao who was behind all this and let him take care of everything ...”

“Wait!” Roly Poly stopped Matcha by blocking his way. He replied with a strong conviction, “I will buy Sun Wu Kong’s skin.”

“Can you also get me some diamonds?”

Roly Poly almost spat out blood before he moved his fat tail as a sign that he agreed.

After restoring the apartment back to its original state, Zhao Yao stared at the four supercats and thought, “It’s quite dangerous to put the four of them alone at home.”

Even though this attack did not cause much damage or losses to them, but it alerted Zhao Yao to the possibility of future attacks which might not end like this.

Even though Matcha, Elizabeth, Dust Ball and Roly Poly were extremely powerful, they still were cats and were not on the level of humans in term of their physical strength. They also could not use weapons such as guns and knives.

Furthermore, Zhao Yao met the organization which stole cats in the mall previously.

If someone came in and stole all the supercats, Zhao Yao would have no one to blame but himself.

Zhao Yao suddenly thought of someone who could help remedy the situation and gave him a call.

Chapter 72: The Maid

In the outskirts of Jiangmen City, there was a huge, abandoned factory. All the windows in the factory were sealed, and it was pitch-dark inside.

Within this darkness, there were a group of men and women creeping around in black robes.

They were surrounding a pot of fire which was burning strongly. Above the fire was a floating troll face with two devil wings attached to it.

Baiquan was the only person who stood underneath the troll face. He was mumbling something as he led the group to worship the troll face.

Even though Zhao Yao had repeatedly encouraged Baiquan to focus on his studies after he helped clean up the mess Mango created after its diarrhea, Baiquan remained adamant and believed that he already joined the side of hell. He had secretly contacted members of the brotherhood, and they had gathered to worship the troll-faced devil.

The followers' convictions were extremely strong as they had witnessed the troll-faced devil floating in midair with their very own eyes.

Suddenly, a phone's vibration shattered the silence and disrupted their prayers.

Baiquan nervously took out his phone and looked at the screen. He was elated to receive this call and answered, "Hello? Is this Master Zhao? Are you looking for me?"

This had been the first time Zhao Yao had called Baiquan since the incident.

Every time Baiquan went to Zhao Yao's apartment; he would experience an inexplicable tranquility as if he was in heaven. However, based on Zhao Yao's explanation, it was due to hell's aura. It would improve the health of everyone within, and Baiquan yearned to return there every time.

"Hmm, there is something which I need your help with. Can you come over to my house?"

"Sure! I'll come immediately." Baiquan hung up and walked towards the factory's exit. A group of followers stopped him and asked, "Bishop, what happened? Are we not continuing with the procession?"

"Hell has called upon me."

Seeing Baiquan's look of devotion, the followers were overcome with admiration and respect.

One follower asked, "Bishop, will we ever see the troll-faced devil again?"

Baiquan shook his head as he looked at the followers who stared at him excitedly and said, "I understand you are eager to meet him. However, if your conviction is not strong enough and you come face to face with the fire of hell, you will end up burning yourself."

"When your faith is strong enough, I'll personally bring you to meet the devil."

Baiquan turned around like those movie stars in Hollywood movies. He dashed out of the factory and removed his robes. He took out his phone and tried to get a cab.

"D*mn it. This place is god-forsaken. I can't even get an Uber?"

Baiquan finally reached Zhao Yao's apartment in two hours. By that time, Zhao Yao had almost finished cleaning up the place. However, he had already sold the television and was waiting to buy a new one.

A brand new leather sofa would be too expensive, and Zhao Yao was reluctant to spend his money on it, so they made do with the current couch.

Zhao Yao waved his hand as he saw Baiquan rushing over, “Oh, Baiquan you came at the right time.”

Baiquan ran over eagerly and asked, “Master Zhao, what do you need my help with?”

“The things is I have quite a lot of matters on my hand right now, so I need you to stay at my apartment and take care of my cats,” Zhao Yao replied.

Baiquan initially thought that it would be something important. His disappointment was reflected on his face as he thought, “Take care of his cats ...” You do not send your best general to take care of cats.

Zhao Yao’s face turned very solemn and said, “Do not underestimate this job. I’m telling you that these are not ordinary cats. To ensure that you are capable of protecting them, I bestow upon you this magnificent power.”

Baiquan’s eyes glowed as he listened to these words and said, “What are you going to bestow on me?”

“It’s a good power, a power which you are familiar with,” Zhao Yao had already activated Elizabeth’s power as he was speaking. He carried Roly Poly which was originally engrossed in his favorite show and walked towards Baiquan. He said, “Roly Poly, be a good boy and lend your power of invisibility to Baiquan for twenty-four hours.”

Roly Poly rolled his eyes as he was unwilling to do so. However, his body shivered as he saw Zhao Yao’s stares and raised his fat paws to Baiquan’s face.

Roly Poly had already transferred a small percentage of its power to Baiquan.

However, throughout the entire process, Baiquan saw an entirely different image as he was under Zhao Yao’s illusion. He saw Zhao Yao lay his hands on top of his head and golden flames were flowing from Zhao Yao’s body to his.

“That’s enough; you have received the power of invisibility. While I’m gone, you must use the power to protect this apartment. If anything happens to any of the cats here ...” Flaming wings appeared from Zhao Yao’s back, and the smell of volcanic sulfur rushed into Baiquan’s nose.

Spirits started to appear around Baiquan and encircled him. Zhao Yao continued, “I will let you understand the true meaning of fear.”

“Do not worry!” Baiquan assured Zhao Yao, “They will have to go through me if they want to hurt the cats.”

Baiquan experimented with his power and found out that they were significantly stronger than the one given by “Angel.” Not only could he turn himself and his clothes invisible, but he could also turn things which he threw invisible.

This stemmed from his stronger conviction in Zhao Yao. Because of it, Roly Poly could lend him more power than before.

Baiquan was exhilarated to have this power again. He felt that following Zhao Yao was the best decision he had made in his life.

With Baiquan and the newly installed camera at home, Zhao Yao could observe the situation at home if he wished.

Zhao Yao finally had nothing to worry about as he focused his attention on the arrangement of the cat café.

With Xiao Shi Yu’s help and the nine hundred thousand RMB at his disposal, the cat café was finally ready after one week of preparation.

Back at Zhao Yao’s home, Baiquan stuffed tissue up his nostrils and began cleaning the cat toilet with a wet tissue.

Even though it was an automatic cat litter box, there were some nooks and crannies which cannot be cleaned automatically. It required human hands to do it.

Zhao Yao was unwilling to do such things. However, with Baiquan around, he had assigned this all-important job to him.

Matcha remained on his massage throne and was busy playing Mobile Legends. He had finally hit Master after grinding for so long.

After reaching this level, Matcha was matched with teammates of a higher caliber. This had increased his chances of winning by leeching. He felt good winning games, and he got even more addicted to the game.

Roly Poly was busy typing on its phone. It seemed like he was chatting with other cats on WeChat.

Chapter 73: Squeeze!

XxXxXL Juicy Large Chicken typed on its WeChat group, “Can you guys help me think of an idea and get me out of here? At this rate, I’m going bankrupt soon. You guys can’t just take my money and watch me suffer.”

Leopard Head replied, “It’s not that we don’t want to help, but the LiHua and the ragdoll are just too powerful. We cannot win with numbers when pitted against the Chuck Norris of supercats.

Meow Gibson replied, “Their powers are really annoying. The three of us won’t be enough to get you out of there.”

Chubby Luban Assassin replied, “What are you afraid of? If not for my diarrhea, I would have taken care of those two cats singlehandedly. The rest of you can just sit tight and watch my performance.”

“Get lost!” Godly God refuted angrily, “We don’t need to depend on other cats for help. I was too careless the previous time, and I will take them down with my paws this time. I am going to pee on their body and let them reek of my smell.”

Leopard Head rebuffed Godly God's rejection, "I am sure they have had enough of your smell after you flooded their house with your pee. Perhaps they might even think that their apartment belongs to your territory."

Roly Poly shook his head as he saw the gibberish between the other cats. He thought, "Maybe it's time to add a few other supercats into the group."

With a flash of insight, Roly Poly imagined Dust Ball joining his side and destroying Matcha and Elizabeth with her power.

Meanwhile, Dust Ball was training herself by doing pushups in the living room.

During her stay in Zhao Yao's apartment, her staple of premier cat food and Michelin-starred cat rice had made her look revitalized. Even her fur seemed to glisten when she basked in a sunbeam.

She devoted all her energy to training her body and getting stronger. She was just waiting for the right moment to attack Zhao Yao.

Elizabeth was still binge-watching Game of Thrones. Her expression changed with every unexpected turn of events in the plot.

Mango was curiously following behind Baiquan. It was extremely curious to find out more about this new human at home.

At this moment, the front door swung open, and Zhao Yao entered.

"Haha, let's go. Let me bring you to the cat café," Zhao Yao declared with a look of excitement, "You guys can go over there and play in the future."

"I'm not going," Matcha and Elizabeth's voice erupted in Zhao Yao's head in unison.

"I want to play Mobile Legends."

"I want to watch Game of Thrones."

Dust Ball thought that this was her opportunity as she pounced onto Zhao Yao. Instead, Zhao Yao caught her in midair and cradled her in his arms before Dust Ball could land her paws on Zhao Yao's neck.

Zhao Yao insisted after hearing Matcha and Elizabeth's complaint, "I am not asking you guys to go there, I am ordering you to do so. There won't be food for those who choose to stay at home."

Both cats relented when they realized that their dinner was on the line. Roly Poly was the only cat which raised his paws eagerly and yelled, "I'm not eating. I don't want to eat cat rice."

Zhao Yao glared at Roly Poly and said, "If you choose to stay at home, I will stuff all the leftover into your mouth."

Zhao Yao raised his head and asked Elizabeth, "Can you help me bring the stray cats to the café?"

It was somewhat inconvenient to have so many cats at home. After all, this apartment was designed for humans and not cats. Their paws have caused a lot of damage to the wallpaper, sofa and even the electrical wires.

However, if he cooped all the cats in a single room, there would not be enough space for them to walk around.

On the other hand, the cat café had lots of space for the cats to roam around freely. There were more self-cleaning automatic litter boxes, kitty towers and toys for them to play with. It would be a lot easier to take care of them over there.

Zhao Yao decided to keep the stray cats at the café while the supercats would continue staying at home with him. Obviously, someone would be tasked with the heavy responsibility of taking care of the stray cats.

Zhao Yao looked at Baiquan and said, "Baiquan, you can come along with us."

Baiquan was more than happy to accept Zhao Yao's invitation. When Zhao Yao opened the door to the stray cats' room, they were suddenly surrounded by a chorus of meows. A few exceptionally affectionate cats even came over to Zhao Yao and rubbed their bodies against his trousers.

Even though they were slightly disobedient, they still listened to Matcha and Elizabeth's instructions because they had regarded them as the alphas of the pack. A clear hierarchy had been established among them.

Elizabeth received instructions from Zhao Yao and relayed them to the stray cats. They listened to Elizabeth's instructions and proceeded to Zhao Yao's car in an orderly fashion.

The troublesome thing was to transport the five cat food feeders and water dispensers to the café.

To take care of 15 adult cats and three kittens, Zhao Yao had to order a few more sets of cat litter boxes and cat food feeders from TaoBao.

When Zhao Yao ordered the items from TaoBao, they were delivered to his apartment using ninja vans. Now, it was almost impossible to fit all of them into Zhao Yao's Panamera.

However, he had a trick up his sleeve to solve the problem.

A glimmer of red light flashed across his eye as he activated Elizabeth's power.

Dust Ball's body suddenly froze as Zhao Yao had gained full control over her.

"What are you trying to do?" A panicky voice rung in Zhao Yao's head.

Zhao Yao walked towards the cat toilet with Dust Ball in his arms. He replied, "I'm just borrowing your power. There is nothing to worry."

After ten minutes ...

"Stop! Stop what you are doing! It's too big! It's too big! It can't fit inside!"

"It's okay," Zhao Yao chuckled and continued, "We can fit everything in with a little squeeze."

"It smells so bad; I'm going to vomit."

Zhao Yao continued to laugh and said, “Just bear with it. The smell will be gone the moment you swallow it.”

“Its ... It’s really too big!” Dust Ball’s pitiful scream rang in everyone’s heads, “I am going to explode if you squeeze anymore thing inside of me.”

The remaining supercats were trembling in fear as Dust Ball’s scream echoed in their heads. Matcha, Elizabeth, and Roly Poly all found Zhao Yao slightly psychopathic.

Inside the stray cat’s room, Zhao Yao was grabbing Dust Ball in one hand while holding on to the cat litter box in his other hand. He was still squeezing the litter box into Dust Ball’s mouth inch by inch.

Even though Zhao Yao possessed Elizabeth’s power to control other living things, he still found it difficult to suck things in using Dust Ball’s mouth.

His attempt to squeeze everything into Dust Ball’s mouth made her extremely irritated.

Luckily, Dust Ball’s power was not too complicated to understand. Zhao Yao managed to master it after experimenting for some time and managed to fit all five litter boxes and cat food feeders into Dust Ball’s stomach.

Dust Ball seethed with anger after eating five cat litter boxes continuously.

“Zhao Yao, I declare you as my enemy!”

“Alright, I won’t do it again,” Zhao Yao tried to calm her before stuffing the palm-sized Dust Ball into his pocket. From afar, she looked like a wallet with a black cat design. He then walked towards the door, “Let’s go to our new cat café! The kind of food which you will get depends on your performance over there!”

The three supercats could only sympathize with Dust Ball which was stuffed in Zhao Yao’s pocket. They started trembling the moment they heard Zhao Yao’s voice and sat obediently in the rear seats. It was the polar opposite of their usual behavior.

In their eyes, Zhao Yao was the devil to all devils and a cat terminator.

Chapter 74: The Preparation

Meanwhile, Baiquan's eyes were glowing with envy as he asked Zhao Yao, "Master Zhao, is this a space distortion magic? Have you inserted an entirely new dimension into its stomach?"

"Erm, I guess you can say that," Zhao Yao rolled his eyes as he had given up on the thought of encouraging him to go back to studies.

He glanced at Mango which was latching tightly onto a fake rat and remarked, "Elizabeth, control Mango and stop it from playing. We're going to move out soon."

"Hmm," Elizabeth replied with a look of confusion, "I'm trying but ... I just can't seem to control it."

"You can't control it?" Zhao Yao repeated, "How is that possible?"

"There is nothing inside its head," Elizabeth explained, "It was like trying to control a flower or a plant; you just can't control it."

Zhao Yao rolled his eyes in disbelief as a glimmer of red light once again flashed across his eyes, and he activated Elizabeth's power. It was like his consciousness just multiplied into two as his newly materialized consciousness entered Mango's body.

However, unlike usual, he was not inundated by the countless memories within Mango's brain. He felt like he had arrived at a blank piece of white paper. There was nothing on it. It was impossible to control Mango using Elizabeth's power.

Zhao Yao was left speechless after he deactivated Elizabeth's power and commented, "This guy, its brain is empty?"

Mango continued to stare at Zhao Yao wide-eyed. There was nothing beneath its adorable face.

Zhao Yao was left with the only option of carrying Mango into the car and made their way towards the café.

They were able to reach the basement carpark of the mall in a few minutes with the Panamera. All the stray cats and supercats were marching in unison towards the café. This incredible sight captured the attention of the shoppers inside the mall.

“Look, so many cats are following that guy.”

“You don’t walk a cat, isn’t he afraid that the cats would be frightened and run away?”

“No, look at them. They are all so obedient.”

“Look at the huge cat walking at the front of the pack. It’s so big and fat and cute! What kind of cat is it.”

“I think it’s a ragdoll.”

Zhao Yao did not care about the attention that the shoppers were showering his cats with. He knew that these cats had to interact with strangers soon; hence there was nothing unusual about this. Furthermore, this was quite a good publicity stunt for his café.

Zhao Yao finally brought Baiquan and the cats to the cat café. It looked radically different from the restaurant which he bought weeks ago. It had transformed from a low key, inconspicuous café into an ostentatious cat café painted in blue and white.

Four words of different size were printed above the front door – Cat Haven Coffee House.

Zhao Yao even hired AkzoNobel for the painting. They painted with eco-friendly paint and completed the job in just a few days and were ready for business.

Once you entered the café, you would notice rows of white, circular table. They were surrounded by beautiful wallpaper which had hyper-realistic clouds on it. The predominant color scheme was a combination of white and blue. To allow the customers to better engage and play with the cats, Zhao Yao bought new lamps which were brighter and bigger.

Tiny fences were erected at the doorstep. This was to prevent cats from escaping and customers from flooding into the café.

There was a cabinet on the side of the fences. Zhao Yao had thoughtfully placed hand sanitizer and shoe covers for the customers to disinfect themselves before entering. This was to prevent the spread of any contagious diseases.

Beside the round tables in the hall, there were also all sorts of cat tunnels and kitty towers. Wooden planks were bolted onto the walls. This allowed the cats to travel around the café in their exclusive k highway.

Most of the stray cats were rather timid and started hiding inside the cat tunnels. The cats which were a little braver ventured to the top of the kitty tower and meowed at those beneath it. The bravest ones climbed up the planks and dashed along their kitty expressway.

There was a bar at the back of the hall. On its wall was a list of a variety of coffee and their respective prices. Shi Yu was standing behind the bar counter and was shocked to see the influx of cats. She asked, “How did you manage to get so many cats? Did you buy all of them from a nearby pet store?”

“Which pet store would have so many crossbred cats,” Zhao Yao chortled and continued, “These are the stray cats which I’ve adopted.”

Shi Yu took a look at the cats, and all of them were full of energy. Their fur looked so soft and beautiful; it even seemed like it was glittering in the sunlight. They definitely did not look like stray cats. Shi Yu commented, “You did an excellent job taking care of all these cats.”

Zhao Yao just continued to laugh. He had fed them with the best cat food, vitamins, and nutrition powder.

Theoretically, Zhao Yao understood that these stray cats had been through cycles of natural selection and they were much healthier than their pedigreed counterparts.

However, the only downside to crossbred cats was that they were used to independent living. A large proportion of them would not be as affectionate and hence would not be an ideal pet for many.

However, under Elizabeth's supervision, Zhao Yao knew that the stray cats would not do anything hostile to the customers.

Shi Yu grabbed a tuxedo cat and gave it a gentle massage. It meowed with pleasure as Shi Yu commented, "It's so cute and affectionate!"

"This cat is especially friendly as compared to the others," Zhao Yao continued, "That's right. Every cat has a distinct personality. We should take a picture of them and paste it on a board. This is to inform customers which cat is friendlier and which is more playful. It can also warn them against playing with the cats which are a little timid."

Shi Yu chuckled as she noticed Baiquan standing behind Zhao Yao. She asked, "Baiquan, why are you here?"

"Oh, he is here to help us manage the café. Don't worry, he has turned over a new leaf, and he is the premier feline sanitary expert and is also known as the Lord of Cat Shit."

Baiquan was left speechless by Zhao Yao's words as he stared at Zhao Yao, "Huh?" He felt as if he was a slave who had been sold to a new master.

Zhao Yao did not care about Baiquan's reaction as he walked towards a specially designated spot. It was a small room, and there were shelves on both sides of the walls. At the corner, there were also pipes and fittings for water to flow through. Zhao Yao wanted to use it as a normal toilet.

However, Zhao Yao had a change of mind and designated it as the cats' toilet.

He did not want to expose Dust Ball's power right in front of Shi Yu's eyes which was why he entered the room alone. Shi Yu was now an official sent by the government on formal duties; hence Zhao Yao wanted to prevent her from knowing too much about the supercats and their abilities.

Zhao Yao fished Dust Ball out of his pocket and stretched her mouth. He held Dust Ball by her hind legs as he started to shake her body to empty the things inside her stomach. It looked like he was emptying a dustbin.

"A*shole, let go of me!"

“Zhao Yao! You are a dead man! One day, I’m going to kill you!”

“Let go of me!”

Dust Ball’s screams echoed throughout Zhao Yao’s head as he continued to empty the cat litter box from her stomach. He then placed them on top of the shelves.

He even installed an air suction fan on the ceiling to remove any foul smell from spreading into the rest of the café.

“Hmm, I should better buy two more air fresheners and air filters. If there is no air flow, and Mango suddenly had diarrhea, it would be quite a disaster.”

Currently, not all the cat litter box in the toilet were automatic self-cleaning cat litter box. He intended to change all of them once business picked up.

He was not worried about the cats’ health because of the superior cat food that they were fed with and Elizabeth’s power – Celestial Beats.

While he was thinking about all these, it seemed like the cat café was finally ready for business. Suddenly, the words on the mission panel changed once again.

Chapter 75: Shower (1)

Zhao Yao had finally completed the mission to open a cat café within three months. With the fully furnished café right before his eyes, the mission disappeared from the mission panel.

Zhao Yao also received 30 experience points from it. Suddenly, Zhao Yao realized that he could flip to a new page in his BOOK – diamond hall.

Diamond hall allowed Zhao Yao to exchange diamonds which he had earned from missions for useful items. Currently, he had amassed a total of 40 diamonds. He finally understood what these diamonds were for.

There were two types of items available in diamond hall. The first is an “X2 Exp Card” which could be used on his BOOK or cats. As the name suggested, the experience points earned for the day would double.

The second item was a “Power Up Card” which allowed Zhao Yao to increase the power of his abilities.

Both cards cost one diamond to purchase.

Zhao Yao was exhilarated to see these cards. Even though both Match and Elizabeth’s power were considered powerful, he could now depend on his BOOK to increase his individual power.

With more and more supercats and apostles appearing in Jiangmen city, he urgently needed to get stronger.

Feeding Matcha and Elizabeth with the Michelin-starred cat rice he had prepared, the experience points earned had increased by ten times. If he used the “X2 Exp Card” on them, the experience points earned would double again on top of it.

If he used it on both his cats and the BOOK, and add the experience points earned from the BOOK on his cats, the experience points gained would increase by four times.

When he recalled that he had yet to complete the daily mission for the day, and he had not fed the cats, Zhao Yao immediately bought 2 “X2 Exp Cards” and used them on Matcha and his BOOK.

The BOOK earned 20 experience points from the daily missions while Matcha earned 20 experience points from the Michelin-starred cat rice.

His book now wrote:

Book: Lv2(426/1000)

Diamond: 38

Pet(1/2):Matcha

Grade:Lv3(168/1000)

Loyalty: 100

Ability: Timefreeze, ability duration 6 seconds, cooldown time 6 seconds

At this rate, both the BOOK and Matcha would level up in no time.

Zhao Yao was happily scanning through the rest of the content in diamond hall. He thought, “It’s such a shame that I can only earn one diamond from each daily mission. I will have to use them sparingly when I’m left with fewer than 20 diamonds. By then, I won’t be able to use the ‘X2 Exp Cards’ every day.”

Zhao Yao flipped over to the new mission on the mission panel after he finished reading the contents of diamond hall.

Mission: Clean your cats before they can interact with your customers!

Objective: Bathe at least ten cats before the official opening of your cat café

Reward: Each cat you bathed will earn you a different amount of experience points

Punishment: Nil

Zhao Yao’s face turned purple when he saw his new mission.

“It expects me to bathe my cats?” Zhao Yao understood the implications and dangers when you bathed a cat.

Cats originated from the vast desert. Because of that, cats had developed an inherent fear and even dislike of water.

Most cats were rather docile. However, if you tried to bathe it, their inner Hulks will be unleashed as they would retaliate violently and even tried to bite or scratch its owner.

It would be close to impossible for regular cat owners to bathe their cats.

For Zhao Yao's case, it would not be as problematic as he had the power of illusion and time freeze in his hands. However, it would be a tall order to bathe his supercats.

But Zhao Yao would do anything to earn more experience points. As he was thinking about the potential experience points that he would receive, his lips curled into a smile unknowingly.

Suddenly, all the supercats felt chills down their spine as though winter was coming.

Zhao Yao immediately instructed Elizabeth, "I suddenly thought of something, can you get all the cats back home first?"

Elizabeth thought that it was a somewhat strange request but still went along with his instructions.

Shi Yu was also perplexed by Zhao Yao's sudden change of instructions and asked, "What happened? Why are you bringing them back?"

"Hmm, there was something which I have forgotten to do back at home," Zhao Yao chuckled and instructed Baiquan, "You can use this time to familiarise yourself with this place. You will be starting work from tomorrow onwards. Do you have a house? If not, you can come over and stay at mine."

Zhao Yao was thrilled to have Baiquan as free labor. It was not that easy to get someone to do your household chores and clean the cat's litter box for free.

Baiquan nodded his head repeatedly when he heard that he could stay with Zhao Yao. He announced, "I will move over to your house tomorrow!"

"Since I provide free food and lodging for you, I'll only decide on your wages after your probation period," Zhao Yao chortled as he patted Baiquan on his shoulders and continued, "I expect big things from you." Zhao Yao left Baiquan jumping for joy back at the café.

Shi Yu glanced towards Zhao Yao with twenty-two cats marching neatly behind him. She wondered, “Which one is the supercat?”

She thought that Zhao Yao was just a regular apostle with one supercat. Little did she know about Zhao Yao’s true identity.

Once they were back home, Zhao Yao started by carrying one stray cat into the toilet.

The cat sensed that something was amiss and started to meow pitifully in Zhao Yao’s arms.

“Who’s a good cat? You will be so clean after a good, nice bath,” Zhao Yao did not dare to gamble on whether the cat was afraid of water or whether it will attack Zhao Yao. A glimmer of red light flashed across his eyes, and he had used Elizabeth’s power to take control of the cat’s body.

The whole process of showering, shampooing and blow-drying the cat went smoothly.

It was fortunate that he had some cat shampoo left at home. He bought it before Matcha had awakened his superpower. He tried to bathe Matcha once but ended up with scratches all over his arms. From then on, he gave up on the thought of bathing Matcha.

With Elizabeth’s power, the cat was quietly standing there, allowing Zhao Yao to bathe it. It was a lot more straightforward than Zhao Yao’s first attempt with Matcha.

Zhao Yao discovered that he had earned ten experience points from bathing the cat.

“So I get ten experience points from a normal cat? Hmm, this is probably because of my ‘2x Exp Card’.”

Seeing his experience points grew steadily, Zhao Yao was encouraged to give the rest of the cats a bath. He gave the remaining 17 ordinary cats, including Mango, a bath in one go.

The eighteen cats only gave him a total 180 experience points. It was time to move on to the supercats which had higher bounties.

When Zhao Yao walked out of the toilet with Mango in his arms, he looked around and noticed that all of the supercats were missing.

Matcha, Roly Poly, Elizabeth and Dust Ball had all disappeared. Zhao Yao searched every nook and crannies of the apartment but still could not find the cats.

He smirked, “Are you trying to play hide and seek with me?”
