

Chapter 64 Visitors

Theseus

I felt a lot better after I told our leadership and our family about Chrissy's unborn Pup and even though I am still overbearing Amarah now understands why. She tells me why she is getting up before I can jump up and Linus is the one telling me she won't break if she does something herself.

"Dad, can you give me the patrol schedule?" Joseph asks and with a smile on my face I hand it to him. After I told everyone what had been bothering me Joseph had asked Delia if he could use the Luna office and she had given him permission to use it.

He had gotten up as he looked at our Gammas and said "You two, come with me." They had followed him into Delia's office and through the mind-link we had been joking about, Amarah had been curious so she followed them. Joseph hadn't close the door and we had watched as he sat down behind the desk.

He had asked Apollo about border patrols and when Melia tried to say he was too young he had interrupted her. "Gamma Melia, it concerns my Mother's safety and history won't repeat itself." I wasn't sure if I should laugh my ass off or be damn proud of my Son.

Apollo linked us if he should answer Joseph or not and Amarah told him to answer Joseph's questions. Apollo and Melia answered all of his questions and I was surprised on how much he actually understood. He had asked Melia for the patrol schedule and she had handed it to him without hesitation.

"Delta Eos, could you come here for a moment?" He had called out and Eos walked over to the desk to look at the schedule with Joseph. She had smiled at him as he was pointing at the list a few times and nodded her head before she told him that he had been paying attention.

She walked out of the office as he handed the list back to Melia and informed her of his observations during training of some of the Warriors, he pointed out that some were not ready yet and others would be better in a different position. Ever since then he has been going over the patrol schedule every single day.

Amarah and I have been watching Joseph closely and we both know he will make a great Gamma one day, but I doubt it will be to his siblings. The bond between him and Inti is so close that we both think he will leave White Mountain Pack for Little Crescent Pack to follow his friend and we will accept that without any doubt.

Our Pup will have his or her leadership by his or her side from the moment they are all born and like Amarah and her leadership they will share a room until they turn sixteen. Their Quarters are on the floor below ours and when the time comes they will move to the top floor, while we will move to a cottage of our own.

It isn't something I want to think about just yet, but I know that that day will eventually come and knowing what we will do is reassuring somehow. Linus chuckles as Joseph stands next to Apollo pointing out a few things he noticed during training and both of them discuss the best way to make changes to the schedule.

None of the Warriors is upset when Joseph points out their flaws or strength and some are even grateful that they get taken of certain tasks. He follows Eos around after school and he always pays attention when someone is explaining something.

Amarah

I watch my Mate and my Son as they are training and I know my life is complete with our Daughter one the way. Like me she will take over the Pack with an all-female leadership and I am already teasing Theseus about the males that will be knocking on our door to claim her.

He hates the idea of some pompous ass that thinks he is what our Daughter needs to lead our Pack and the other males in our leadership aren't doing much better. Our Daughter can have a Luna from the moment she takes over as Delia is also expecting a Daughter.

Dad is already telling us he will train our Daughters as soon as they can walk and there is no doubt in my mind he would do it, but luckily Mom is there to stop him when he gets carried away with his plans. I think if she didn't stop him our Daughters would be fully trained by the age of ten and that would probably be too late for his liking.

I turn my attention to the conversation my friends are having and I smile as Delia looks rather uncomfortable, like the rest of us she has an unending need for her Mate. I don't mean that she misses him or that she wants to cuddle with him, No like all of us she needs him for sex and she just called him to her office an hour ago.

Mom told us she had it worse while being pregnant with me than with Alastor and Ione had asked if she could trade her Daughter for a Son, making Ajax object. I think our Mates love the fact that we can't get enough of them and I know that Theseus and Linus are enjoying this very much.

This morning I had been in desperate need of my Mate and I ordered him through the mind-link to take care of me while we were in the middle of a meeting. Without blinking his eyes he had placed his hand between my legs and for a moment I wanted to punch him in the face, that was until he started moving his hand.

Apparently the others had been waiting for the first one to break, because it only took seconds before the office was filled with the smell of arousal. I wouldn't be able to tell you what the others did, because I was too focused on my Mate as his fingers were moving in and out of my core.

"Amarah, stop it. Or I am going to call your Mate and tell him to take you upstairs." Mom says and I realize I was reliving that memory a bit too much as I smell my own arousal, but I am not the only one. Mom looks at all of us and says, "You are worse than we were carrying you." I just smile as I think of a few moments alone with my Mate.

I get picked up bridal style by my Mate and I hear Mom say that she will look after Joseph, before he runs up the stairs with me in his arms. Theseus and Linus give me what I need and from time to time we can hear the others, it is something Theseus has gotten used to.

He is holding me in his arms when he asks if I would like to have more Pups and I tell him as many as the Goddess grants us. He is rubbing my belly as he stares at the ceiling and I look at him as he is talking to Linus about the Goddess knows what.

"Alpha, Wolves at the gate." I hear through the mind-link and Theseus and I jump out of bed at the same time, we get dressed without saying a word. We walk down the main path to the gate and I see six Wolves standing just outside our territory, but none of them look familiar to me.

I don't see any bundles or bags tied to the Wolves and I can tell that at least one of them is a female, "Grab clothing for them." I order through the mind-link and one of our Warriors ducks behind a few bushes to do as I ordered. Theseus is looking at the Wolves with great interest, but like me he doesn't recognize any of them.

The female Wolf keeps looking at me and something tells me that I should know her, but for the life of me I can't remember from where. She turns her head towards our guard and I suddenly realize that I do know the female, without thinking twice I walk up to her, "Do you want me to get Delia out here?"

She pushes her snout against my arm as Theseus says he already called Delia and Alastor out here, "Alpha." The Warrior calls out and hands each Wolf a pair of sweats, he holds out a dress for the female Wolf. She takes it from him and walks towards the closest tree to shift back to her Human form, the males wait until she is behind the tree before they shift to their Human form.

I hear rushed footsteps behind me and I see Delia looking at the males on the other side of our border, Alastor standing right next to her with his arm around her waist. She doesn't say a word as one of them smiles at her and I ask Alastor through the mind-link who he is.

"That is her baby Brother, I don't understand what he is doing here." Alastor replies, but I think I have a pretty good idea as to why he is here and when the female finally emerges I knew I had been right. Delia stares at her Mother as she walks closer to our border.

We can all see that it is difficult for her to walk properly and I hear Alastor growl as he looks at his Brother in law, "Dad was furious after the Competition and he took it out on Mom. It took us a few days to get her out of the Pack-house and as you can tell the journey over here wasn't easy." He says to Alastor.

"You needed me, Alpha." I hear the familiar voice of Doc Cameron behind me and I know my mate is responsible for it. He doesn't wait for anyone to respond as he walks over to Delia's Mother, she doesn't even have to tell him what is wrong with her and I think he watched before he made his presence known.
