

Chapter 83 Suspicious

Conri

My mind goes back to the conversation Evander and I had about Wenonah and suddenly something clicks. “Guys, do you remember the day Umayza knocked Theron to the ground?” I ask and they all remember.

“I always thought it was strange that some of them stopped training and were just looking around the training grounds, but I think they stopped training to be able to spot danger.” I say and for a moment everyone is silent. “I believe they knew back then who her family was.”

“Fuck, that would explain why they would train her privately. If anyone knew how good she had gotten in such a short period of time, rumors would have started flying.” Callan replies. “I think it could have been even worse, what if someone would have recognized her? She looks so much like her Aunt, Wenonah.” I say.

“Theron, over take Alexia and pull over at the next possible stop. I want to talk to Umayza about this, I want to know if anyone has seen anything suspicious in the past three years.” Armand says and I see Theron go around Alexia, only to get taken over by her.

“Callan, keep an eye out for oncoming traffic. I will drive next to them to tell Alexia to pull over at the next possible stop.” Theron says as Alexia has over taken him again. I see him going to the other lane, he lowers his window as soon as he is next to Alexia and after a few moments he falls back to get behind Alexia again.

Umayza

Blaze takes out her notebook the moment Alexia pulls away from the curb, Boris chuckles as he watches the others in the side mirror. “Looks like someone doesn’t like to follow others or maybe it is because you are a female, Alexia.” He says before he tells us that Theron didn’t look to happy.

Tarja leans over the seat to look at Blaze’s notes and Yonatan asks her if she sees something interesting, “Just the same as always, stupid remarks by stupid females that are jealous of Umayza. They don’t even know her, they never take the time to talk to her and to get to know her.

Blaze, I looked at the footage from the past week and the same guy popped up a few times. It is the same guy we have noticed around for the past month, but so far he has done nothing strange and he hasn’t tried to go near Umayza either.” She says.

“Maybe just someone who is interested in Umayza, maybe he is trying to find the courage to ask her on a date.” Boris responds and that earns him a smack in the chest from Alexia. “Hey, why did you do that? I am just saying, Umayza is a gorgeous female and everyone with eyes in their heads can see that.” He mumbles.

Alexia and Boris start their discussion they have had for nearly three years now and Axel tries to stop them from going down that road, knowing how much I hate it when they talk about this. “Okay, stop it. We all know Umayza’s opinion on this subject and we all know she has two Mates.”

Yeah, they know I have two Mates and they know how I found out that they didn’t want me. After all Tarja was with me when I found the note and Boris and Tarja were there when we heard the two females talking about Evander and Conri.

What they don’t know is that Evander and Conri have invited me to every party at the Palace for the days of the Full Moon or that I have sent every invitation back to them without opening them.

At first I thought they wanted to show me how happy they were with their girlfriends, but knowing their Lycans won’t allow them to mark the females and that they will put up a fight when they want to have sex with them made me wonder.

What if they aren’t happy with those females? What if they know there is nothing they can do with those females until they reject me? Yade has also given me other reasons for the invitations and my mind is going in that direction more and more.

What if they never meant to hurt me? What if they didn’t realize the words they used were not the smartest to use? What if they wanted me all along and are trying to make amends for it? I think I will have to give them the benefit of the doubt for the next few days and make a decision after that.

If I feel that they are not interested in me or that they are not sincere I will tell them to reject me the first chance we get, but if they are sincere or really interested in me I might finally accept one of their invitations. That is of course if I will receive another invitation in the future.

Yade and I still feel a bit strange from being in Conri’s arms, I had been so distracted by Evander’s greeting that I hadn’t seen the little rock and Conri caught me as I lost my balance. He had just helped me to stay on my feet and after he had released me he had walked into the gas station.

Axel and Boris are laughing their asses off and I focus on my surroundings to figure out what is going on, Theron is driving right next to us with his window down. “Alexia, pull over at the next possible stop. Captain Armand has a few things he wants to discuss.” He says before he falls back and gets back in the right lane.

Tarja tells Alexia there is a dinner coming up in about ten minutes and I agree with her that it will be the best pace to pull over, it makes it more difficult for someone to try anything. Not that I am afraid someone will try anything, but you can’t be too careful.

In the past two years I have read every piece of information the Council has on Night Shade Pack and I totally understand why Mom got the hell out of there. Every female in my family has been used for profit purposes and it has always been for evil, never to benefit those that needed it.

My Aunt had been sent to a small Pack about twenty five years ago to get information on the Alpha, a neighboring Alpha wanted to take his Daughter as his chosen Mate and rumor had it that she found her fated Mate. My Aunt had been able to get into the Alpha’s office and found out that the female’s Mate would be leaving in the morning to get his belongings.

He would be gone for a few days and the Alpha would leave that same day to the Council to complain about their neighboring Pack, leaving the female behind. In the middle of the night the Pack had been attacked, but before anyone could get to her she had taken her own life.

Her Father and her Mate had found a note she had left behind, asking her Father to look after her Mate and asking her Mate to look after her Father. She had been the only Pup the Alpha had and her Mate had stayed with her Father as she had requested, taking over the Pack when the Alpha finally stepped down.

I had been furious with my Aunt, she is as guilty of the woman’s death as the other Alpha was and every story I read about my family was of a similar nature. Always resulting in death and destruction. I will never help them, I would rather take my own life.

Yade and I will fight my family with everything we have to escape them or we would die trying to escape. I get pulled from my thoughts as Alexia turns of the road in to the parking lot of the dinner.

Captain Armand

As Callan comes to a stop in the parking lot I see Boris and Axel exit the vehicle and Yonatan follows shortly after them, but he just closes the door to lean against it with his arms crossed in front of his chest. Boris walks to the left of the dinner, while Axel walks to the right and soon they both disappear around the corner.

After a few minutes the door of the dinner opens and Boris steps out as he nods his head at Yonatan, who opens the door of the SUV. Tarja is the first to get out and she steps to the other side of the door, while Alexia walks around the SUV to wait a few steps away from the door.

Umayza is the next to step out of the SUV with Blaze right behind her and they block her in from every side as they walk towards the dinner, “Damn, they’re good.” Callan says and I have to admit I am very impressed by the way they protect her.

Other than the twelve of us the dinner is empty, I don’t even see a waitress around and soon I find out why that is. “Everything is clear, the waitress and cook have taken my offer to leave for the next two hours. We have the place all to ourselves.” Axel says as Alexia turns to sign on the door to “We’re Closed.”

Yonatan is busy in the kitchen as Umayza asks me what I want to know, “No, don’t answer that question just yet. I think I have a feeling what this is about and I will tell you what I know, after that you can ask me anything if I haven’t given you the answer yet.” She cuts me off before I can ask her anything.

She tells us that her protection detail had been working on an assignment for the Council and were about to return to their normal position within the King’s Army when the Council found out about her ability. So they were asked to become her protection detail and they had accepted without any doubts.