

Arabella 1641

Chapter 1641

Steward spoke, and Zebulon instantly replied with respect, "Then it's on you and Sean to teach her a lesson."

He then turned to his own men, "Let's go!"

That girl falling into Sean's hands was just her bad luck!

Many of his guys scrambled to their feet, helping each other to make an exit.

Steward watched the girl with the cool demeanor and haughty air, and he couldn't shake the feeling that there was something about her aura that reminded him of Sean. Did she also carry that same dismissive arrogance in her eyes???

"You've messed with Mr. Collins's plans. Are you gonna walk out on your own, or shall my guys escort you?"

"Get on with it; why waste words?" Arabella struck out quickly.

Steward felt the wind knocked out of him. He hadn't expected this girl to be so tough and brazen. Did she not realize she was about to meet her maker?

crew was nothing like Zebulon's rookie henchmen. Each of them here had been personally trained by the floor-to-ceiling windows, watching Arabella's agile moves, swift as a flash. In no time, the lights in the room suddenly went out. When everyone's eyes adjusted to the darkness,

Horace who had switched off the power, never been bested by a girl before, and he walked into Room 1

Sean spoke lazily, "I saw at how skilled the girl. It's such a she looked young, she was nearly her down. And about Sam, even though he did something useful," Sean turned hurried to keep up, "I'll have the place guarded, and if anyone resembling Felix shows up, they'll was bland, his voice insouciant, "he won't show wouldn't walk into a trap. The clues they finally had were ruined by that girl, and Sean's voice was casual, "Catch her, skin her

"Will do!"

On the road, Horace drove like a madman, "Boss, you alright?"

"Could I be in trouble with those guys?"

"Of course not, boss. You're the one who even tamed Romeo." Horace snickered as he spoke, then venturing, "Boss, I heard you and Romeo are an item, is that true?"

Arabella shot him a look, and Horace quickly straightened up, "I knew they were messing with me, trying to get me scolded by you."

"They didn't lie." Arabella suddenly said, "It's true."

Horace was stunned for a while, nearly missing a swerving truck. He hadn't expected the boss to actually confirm it. It seemed the boss was quite taken with that man.

"What about the kid?" Arabella asked coolly.

"Took him to a private clinic. Doc says he's fine, and I've had someone send him and his mom back home. It's a sad story, really. The kid's dad is a real beast, racked up a ton of debt, then sold them both. Oh, and boss, those guys are a bit difficult to handle."