

Arabella 441

Chapter 441

As soon as Attlee finished speaking, Zachary asked a bit awkwardly, "Can I make the payment in two goes?"

He didn't have enough dough in his account.

"Sure." The cashier handed over the card machine to him. Zachary first paid $600,000 using his phone, then swiped a card for another $700,000.

People around seemed to take this Asia joke, laughing and then walking off to continue their shopping.

Only a few curious folks stayed put.

"Mr. Jaime, can we have a chat in private?" Attlee walked up, not caring about the surrounding gazes, and said with a smile, "QY and the Murphy family used to be tight. I'm not sure if something went wrong along the way,"

Attlee's face twisted.

He wondered if Arabella was really helping behind the scenes. No, there was no way.

Arabella was just a kid! How could she be linked to QY.

"The boss is the founder of QY, if she hadn't been helping you out in the shadows, fixing your mess, you'd be lucky to still be breathing in Tranquil City with your skills."

Attlee felt like getting hit by a freight train. He couldn't believe it.

How could Arabella possibly be Queen Abby?

She never showed any design talent growing up.

Olga couldn't believe it either. If Arabella really was Queen Abby, why would she work at the Collins family's clothing company?

Chapter 442

The salespeople nearby were sneaking glances at her every now and then. She looked so young and beautiful. Hard to believe their boss was such a looker, and so talented to boot. Her charm was just a sight for sore eyes.

They were really lucky today to catch a glimpse of the boss.

The customers around were buzzing.

“Can’t believe that’s Queen Abby, she’s so damn pretty and unique. No wonder she can design such beautiful clothes.”

“She looks kinda aloof, but she’s polite when she talks to the manager. Now, that’s a dream boss. No hint of arrogance at all.”

“I’ve heard QY treats its employees well. After I graduate, I wanna work there too,”

The short-

haired girl stood there, realizing that Arabella had signed for her, and couldn’t help but exclaim, “Gosh!”

This scream attracted a few glances around.

The short-

haired girl quickly covered her mouth, but the smile in her eyes had already given her away. She was very happy, held it in for a while, waited for the people around to leave, and then stepped forward, bent over to pick up Arabella’s autograph with both hands, and kept saying thank you gratefully.

Arabella glanced at her and kindly said, “when you graduate, you can try applying to QY.”

The short-haired girl was stunned, looking at Arabella in disbelief. Was her idol inviting her to join QY? But how could her idol know about her design skills? What if the products she designed were not good looking?

“Did you design the clothes and bag you’re wearing?” Arabella saw at a glance that these designs were very creative.

The short-haired girl was even more surprised. Before she could speak, she heard Arabella continue, “The pen you were writing with just now, it says Summerfield College of Design. Is it a reward for your good performance at school?”

“You think you can strut around Summerfield just because you’re wearing SK’s latest?”

The woman laughed even more enchantingly, “Since you seem to know your stuff, you should know this new design is from SK’s top designer, Phelps. I’m sure you know how much this outfit costs, something you could never afford in your lifetime,

Her point was clear. She could afford such an expensive outfit, and that made her someone not to be messed with. Arabella was out of her league.

"I thought you had something meaningful to say." Arabella motioned for a store clerk to come over, "Tell her how much it would cost to dry clean my shoes." The clerk took a closer look and gasped, "My God, these are from QY's custom series. I've seen them once in an internal training, they're about two hundred thousand dollars a pair. Just the dry-cleaning and maintenance fees are over ten thousand dollars, but dry-cleaned shoes drop in value. These shoes look new, I estimate a loss of twenty thousand dollars."

Twenty thousand dollars?

The woman's face darkened.

Hearing this, and seeing the new SK outfit Alma was wearing, the salesperson quickly apologized and led her to the high-end clothing area.

There were very few customers there, as each piece of clothing was priced at least two million dollars.

Unlike the ordinary clothes from before, every piece here was so luxurious it was hard to look away.

Alma glanced casually but was immediately drawn to a beautiful backless dress. She had it taken off the mannequin and tried it on herself, then paid for it promptly. The whole process was incredibly swift, and it was as if she was not swiping money but just a string of numbers.

"Alma, with this dress and those expensive jewelry pieces from your collection, you'll definitely be the center of attention tonight." said the long-

Hearing this, Yolanda was shocked. She didn't understand why her mom didn't reprimand Arabella, but asked her to swallow the insult.

Olga was shocked, she could not believe that the Murphy family had to spend all their fortune to buy a Maybach, and yet, Arabella could easily drive a limited edition Rolls–Royce.

The car’s plate number was so eye–catching and familiar, as if she had seen it somewhere before.

She couldn’t recall where she had seen it, but one thing was clear, Bella was seriously loaded.

Of course, as the founder of QY, how could she not be?!

At this point, Attlee was blocking the car door, not allowing Arabella to get in, while Olga was on her knees, tears rolling down her face like pearls.

“No money, and still shopping?” Arabella snickered sarcastically, eyeing the gift box in his hands.

“Well.” Attlee was left speechless, stuttering for two seconds before saying. “This is my last savings. I once said, as long as I have something, I’d give you all of it.”

Seeing Arabella’s disbelief, Attlee added, “You saw it in the mall earlier. Zachary paid for Yoli’s stuff. I’m broke and can’t afford it.”

“And why should I care? I’m telling you for the last time, get out of my way. Arabella was done arguing.

Attlee watched Arabella drive away, didn’t expect the engine sound of a limited–edition Rolls–Royce to be that pleasing. What a car.

On the way home, Yolanda pulled out her phone to call Zachary, intending to confront him about what had happened.

Unexpectedly, Zachary spoke first after picking up, “Yoli, I can’t make it to dinner tonight, I’m not feeling well.”

Upon hearing this, Yolanda immediately guessed that Zachary was mad at her because of what happened at the mall.

He must’ve felt she embarrassed him.

Olivia's daughter, Jean Farley, was attracted by the dress Yolanda was wearing and couldn't help but ask, "Is your dress the latest LV?"

Yolanda nodded graciously, smiling at her, "And yours is Dior, right?"

Jean laughed, "You look very low-key, wearing designer clothing without any logos. I'm Jean, nice to meet you."
