

ARCEUS' PIRATE JOURNEY

Chapter 15: news bird

Chapter 15 News Bird

The power unit made by Quinn is not low in efficiency, but the power source is charged by the pedal, and you can accumulate enough energy after stepping on it for a period of time.

Although it is very unphysical, it is very reasonable. In this world where Coke can be used as a power source, Newton's coffin board has long been unable to hold down.

Well, Tesla and their estimates are equally unstoppable.

Arceus also stepped on that pedal, mainly because he was bored and had nothing to do.

For the days of sailing, Arceus couldn't think of any suitable adjective except the word boring.

He hadn't seen any island for a few days, and the surrounding area was only sea water. Now, in this situation, he just wanted to be a fisherman and couldn't do it.

The days are longer and he will choose to go into hibernation.

Kaido poured all the rest of the wine into his stomach after the phone call with his aunt, and slept for days without waking up.

Quinn is researching himself except to scout the situation, mainly modifying his mechanical hand.

Jin and Shaina sometimes practice against each other, and sometimes they look aimlessly at the coastline in the distance, not knowing what they are thinking.

"Quinn, how long until you enter the windless zone?"

"It's about seven days away, but we have to go to the nearby island to resupply. There's not much food left. Thanks to Brother Kaida who has been sleeping, it's really not enough. It's better to change a boat."

The food in Quinn's mouth mainly refers to fruits, vegetables and staple food. There are too many fish and meat in this sea. Although Arceus can't fish, Quinn has a way to electric fish.

Quinn has been particularly keen on fruit since eating the tropical dragon's bananas, and most of the ship's fruit reserves went into his stomach.

Food is not just a necessity for Arceus. He can rely on the slate to absorb the energy free in the air to supplement his physical energy, eat and drink more habits or satisfy a certain appetite.

Kaido is not an ordinary race, not to mention that he has been sleeping soundly.

It is no joke that the Lunaria can survive in various environments, even if there is only water, they persist countless times longer than normal people.

Quinn is the most common one on this ship, but he is a transformed person, and the diseases like scurvy that ordinary people have to worry about when they go to sea have basically nothing to do with them.

Supplies are not too much of a rush for this small group, but who wants to be an ascetic who can sail in comfort.

"Is there an island near here?"

Of course, this is the South China Sea, not a great shipping route, and charts are still useful. " was talking and a news bird flew over.

"Look, the newsbirds have appeared. The flying distance of these guys is limited. The place where the newsbirds appear must be within the range of a certain island."

News Birds are also a group of diligent workers, and their rise is not long, the world has been changing, not only the pirates and the navy are changing, the news industry is also booming.

A few years ago, teenage Morgans poured into journalism, and with him came newsbirds all over the world.

Morgans, a person with abilities in the form of fauna - bird and bird fruit - albatross, his original face is unknown, he appears in front of everyone in the form of a human beast.

Although it is the fruit of birds, he cannot fly, and news is his favorite thing.

The World Economic News Agency grew rapidly in his hands, and one of the reasons for the growth was these news birds. Morgans seemed to have a special ability to communicate with birds, and this race called news birds had a high degree of intelligence.

Under the manipulation of Morgans, these news birds became his most important employees.

Pick up newspapers at a fixed place every morning, fly with the newspapers in their respective areas, and when you see the boat, you will lean over to see if anyone needs the newspapers.

A few years ago, the newspaper was still 40 baileys, but now it is 50 baileys, and it will reach 100 baileys in a few decades.

Newsbirds have their own uniforms, and they also wear special money bags. Even pirates will pay honestly when facing Newsbirds. This is an important source for them to obtain information.

Although the report is not 100% true, it can at least let them know the situation in the outside world. Otherwise, the changes in the sea for a few months may lead to serious consequences.

As for not giving money, it is not impossible, but the consequence of that is that they will be completely blocked by newsbirds, and all newsbirds will no longer approach the people on this pirate ship.

And newsbirds seem to have the ability to sense the death of their companions. If pirates kill newsbirds, there may be a group of newsbirds flying forever on their boats. Birds have special body mechanisms to reduce weight.

This means that these people will forever face the baptism of bird droppings, and the navy brought in by newsbirds.

In order to avoid trouble, the pirates will not buckle and rope on these dozens of Baileys.

In fact, there are not a few pirates who buy things and give money, this is to avoid trouble.

The group of pirates is more scum and **** after all, this fact, for most pirates, not killing and robbing is considered kind, let alone paying for things.

Therefore, those who dare to do business with pirates usually have a certain amount of force themselves to prevent the other party from running out of money.

And pirates will honestly pay when they don't want to get into trouble, such as a nearby naval base, powerful bounty hunters, or peers, these factors can change the pirates' minds.

Making money is for spending. If everything is robbed, then pirates don't need to find treasure.

Not to mention the allied countries of the World Government, the navy station or the kingdom has a strong garrison, even if the flag of a big pirate is hung, it can make many people settle down, but in the end it is the lack of strength and no background, luck and luck Not good for ordinary people born in non-member countries.

Even if you join the country, you have to look at the level of your reincarnation.

The definition of pirates here is very broad. People like Arceus who have reached cooperation with Kaido will inevitably be regarded as pirates, but their identity is not the most important thing, and the evil navy is not without them. Kaido cooperates and becomes a villain who burns, kills and loots.

It is only himself who determines a person's behavior.

It is impossible to reconcile the conflict between the world government and the Lunaria clan. The once glorious clan of gods is now on the verge of extinction, and he has been treated as a test and research object. This beam has been established, even if it does not integrate with Arceus body is the same.

"Brother Kai, it's on the news, but they didn't mention anything else at all."
