

ARCEUS' PIRATE JOURNEY

Chapter 17: real john or fake john

Chapter 17 True John or False John

You can never wake up a person who is pretending to be asleep. If the person can be woken up, then he is probably actually asleep.

Kaido sat up in a daze, and then there was the newspaper that was already on his face.

"John? This guy went to the South China Sea and attacked the naval base?"

Looking at the news in the newspaper, Kaido's face was full of disbelief. With what he knew about John, it was impossible for him to do such a thing.

"So the John in the newspaper is the John you know?"

"It's him in the photo, Khakila Island. Quinn, where is this island?"

"Near the windless belt, it's not much different from the direction we originally headed, but why does this seem so strange? Is this person a lunatic?"

checked the direction with the compass, Quinn revised the course, and then continued to flip through the newspaper.

Although the above information is not necessarily true, there is still some reference value. As for Quinn saying that the other party is a lunatic, it is because their behavior is completely provoking the dignity of the Navy.

The details of what John is doing now is described later. He actually distributed news at the naval base and recruited pirates to form John's Great Fleet.

There are not many people who dare to take the initiative to attack the naval base, but the person who dares to attack the naval base and does not flee immediately, but instead occupies the island and recruits his men must be a lunatic.

It would be understandable if Locks Quinn did such a thing. He had also heard of Locks' crazy actions, but although Captain John has been notorious over the years, their notoriety is mostly plundering, and rarely has a positive relationship with the Navy. News of the confrontation came out.

Even Kaido, who used to be on a ship with John, was puzzled.

Of course, the navy or the world government will not publish the news of pirates recruiting crew in the newspaper, but the current leader of the World Economic News, Morgans, has never been afraid of big things.

Big news is what he likes. The more sensational things he wants to report, the more he wants to report them. Although he will use exaggeration and even make up some things in order to attract attention, no one can stop him from what he wants to report.

A pirate actually dares to do such a thing, this is a rare big news, of course he will not let this kind of news go, and the whole page is devoted to this matter.

"Mad? I think this is an idiot. Even if this is the South China Sea, he does such a blatantly provocative thing, does he treat the navy as a decoration?"

Shaina came to a new conclusion about it. The Lunaria tribe and the World Government have had grudges for hundreds of years, and the Navy is a subordinate agency of the World Government. Of course, she had an intersection with the Navy during her escape career.

The biggest force on the sea is the navy. Even after a few decades, the navy is still the biggest overlord on the sea where there are many forces such as the Four Emperors, Qiwuhai, and the Revolutionary Army.

Affected by many restrictions and the policy reasons of the World Government, the sea maintains a relatively chaotic state. Pirates can make a fortune in a certain territory, but they are still not the opponents of the behemoth of the navy.

Decades later, let alone today.

Although the navy of the new generation has not yet grown up, the navy of the older generation is still fighting on the front line, not to mention the birth of the hero Garp after the Battle of the Valley of the Gods five years ago. The morale of the navy is unprecedentedly high.

Roger hasn't shouted out that classic phrase, the sea as a whole is much more peaceful.

Although the navy of the four seas is not that strong, but to do such a thing, if there is still a living person in the navy headquarters, it is impossible to ignore it.

"You're right, only an idiot would do such a thing, not even Rocks, John knows what kind of strength Rocks is.

And that guy knows how to seek advantages and avoid disadvantages. Although he is greedy, he is not stupid. He will not do such stupid things. "

Although Kaido often does things that seem reckless, that's because his strength allows him to omit the link of using his brain at such a time, and he has to think about what to do when he can go straight to the past.

The word cunning is not too much to describe him. When he was still a trainee, John was already a cadre on the ship. Pirates from all over the world were too weak in his eyes, even if there were good seedlings, they did not grow up.

Specially ran from the great route to recruit men from all over the world, unless John's brain was kicked by a donkey.

It might be okay to fool people who don't know John, but for him, the news is full of holes.

"So this is a liar? But pirates from all over the world, do you have this ability?"

Hearing Kaido say this, Arceus was a little disappointed and at the same time a little suspicious.

There are many face-collaring monsters and face-blind monsters in this world. In addition, the technology tree is a little crooked. In some places, the information is not convenient. People can only judge the identity of the other party from the reward order. Maybe they have never seen the other party in their life.

Wear iconic clothes according to the reward order, and then draw the pirate flag, it is not difficult to pretend to be.

It's just that according to Quinn, the naval base on Khaqila Island is relatively strong in the South China Sea, not to mention that there are warships and shore artillery in the base, and it is impossible to capture it without any strength.

"Not necessarily, that is indeed what John looks like, and the traces left by the destruction are similar to John's, but his personality is not very similar to him. In five years, maybe that guy's personality has changed. Just take a look and see. Everything is known."

This paper alone can't determine what happened to Kaido, so it's the best way to go there and have a look.

"But this way, we can't let the boat go slowly. The news in the newspaper is yesterday. It won't take a few days to transfer troops from the Great Route to this place. We have to find out what this John is before the navy arrives. What is the situation."

Kaido's body began to swell, blue scales surged up on his body, and the flame cloud under his claws carried the boat below and flew towards Khakira Island.

At the same time, on the red soil continent, a team of elite navy is changing ships and heading to the South China Sea.

At this time, Vegapunk has just joined the world government, and the sea tower stone is integrated into the bottom of the warship, so that the technology to block the perception of sea kings has not yet been implemented. Even if the naval fleet directly passes through the windless belt, it may cause unnecessary casualties. .

The size of the warships of the four seas is slightly worse than that of the warships of the headquarters, but it doesn't matter, the combat effectiveness of the soldiers and commanders is the elite.

It will take some time to change ships from the Red Continent, but it is more stable.

In the vicinity of Khakila Island, there are also large and small pirate ships approaching. There are many smart people in the sea, and there are also many idiots. Pirates and the navy are natural opposite camps, and in most cases, pirates are in Avoid the pursuit of the navy.

As a pirate, he has invaded the naval base, and that alone can attract many pirates.

(end of this chapter)