

ARCEUS' PIRATE JOURNEY

Chapter 7: Flaming Chicken and Devil Fruit

Chapter 7 Flaming Chicken and Devil Fruit

It's just that Arceus was not very satisfied. He found that the way of directly conferring abilities seemed to consume a bit of physical strength.

Arceus has the ability to create divine beasts like Dialga and Palkia, but it needs to rely on the power of the slate. At this time, he only has two slates, and his power is not complete. This kind of consumption seems to be a bit big.

But it also verified his judgment on his own ability. He can directly give Pokémon the ability based on the human body, at the cost of his own physical strength.

The "ability person" that appears in this way is not afraid of sea water. To be precise, the ability person is not afraid of sea water or sea rock, but a special ingredient called "PYROBROIN".

It is precisely because there are a large number of PYROBROIN particles in the sea floor stone, so the ability of the devil fruit can be invalidated, and the seawater in this world also contains the ingredients of PYROBROIN, so the sea will have the same effect as the sea floor stone to the able people. .

And this particle has no effect on Pokémon's abilities.

Arceus also has his own ideas about ways to save physical strength. One is to transform devil fruits, or try to transform people who have eaten devil fruits, or to create something similar to a learning machine, so that some animal-based abilities Readers learn to see.

Of course, these need to be tried many times to know the result, and now it is time to see the specific effect.

Shaina's body hasn't changed much, just a few centimeters taller. In addition to the flames originally on her back, fierce flames also erupted from her feet and wrists.

Through the transformation of the bloodline, the ability of Pokemon is like the devil fruit, and Shaina's ability at this time belongs to the ability of the flame chicken.

According to the statement here, it should be called the bird fruit-phantom beast species-flame chicken form.

What is given is the final form, and the ability given is stereotyped.

If you create a Pokémon directly, it will allow it to slowly evolve from its initial form.

However, if he is given the ability, he has to go through the initial form to evolve.

As for the choice of the flaming chicken, it is because the Lunaria family uses flames, Shaina is good at kicking, and one of the two slates he has at this time is the fire element.

As long as the attribute contains the attribute of one of the slates, he can create.

The consumption of creation is proportional to the strength of the person who has the ability and the strength of the Pokémon itself.

At first, he wanted to try to create a fire-type divine beast, but the consumption temporarily dispelled this idea.

The scarlet mask covered most of her face, her long white hair was divided into two pieces, and the outside of her body was covered with red feathers. At this time, she was in the form of a human beast, but the difference between the beast form of the flaming chicken and this form was also Not particularly noticeable, partially exposed skin is the only feature.

But in this case, no one can recognize her original identity, and there are not no people with dark skin.

"Okay, now you're all capable people. Since you think you won't lose if you go head to head, then try again."

Hearing Arceus's words, Quinn had a lot of cold sweat on his forehead. He was just stubborn just now.

The incompetent Shaina or Jhin also struggled to deal with one, but now Shaina suddenly has the ability, and it still looks like the ability of the Eudemons, which makes him fight.

Looking at Shaina who was about to move, Quinn put her hope on Kaido.

"Forget it, forget it, everyone will be your own from now on, how bad it is to fight and kill, how bad is it to be friendly, Big Brother Kai, right?"

He hoped that Kaido would stop this kind of thing, but got no answer.

Then he looked at Kaido beside him, and found that his face was red and his eyes were floating, as if he had seen some big baby.

The wine jar in his hand fell to the ground and shattered at some point.

was followed by a burst of uncontrollable laughter, and the already turbulent sea was bound to become more interesting because of this, Kaido thought.

Those who create abilities out of thin air, compared to shocking the emergence of this power, he feels that the changes brought about by this power are the most important.

"Splashy, Splashy, what a perfect power, Quinn, you've joined Lao Tzu's pirate group, right?"

"Yeah, Big Brother Kai, it's not good for me to fight and kill myself.."

"No, this is the best way to show value. My first captain ordered to fight her again, this time one-on-one."

He wanted to see where this ability was reflected. He was also a bystander in the battle just now, and the same fighting opponent could make him better perceive the changes.

"Ah?"

Quinn had a question mark about Kaido's request, and at this moment, he had the illusion that he was on the wrong boat.

He is in a very complicated mood now. He is not the bloodline of the Lunaria clan, and he does not worship Arceus.

also doesn't have Kaido's big heart. Seeing the ability that appears out of thin air is just exciting. This ability appears too magical.

Magical enough to break his common sense in recent years.

And the next few minutes were arguably the darkest of Quinn's life.

Shaina, who got the ability of the flaming chicken, has completely changed, and her physical fitness has been greatly improved, especially the strength of her legs has doubled.

The flame chicken's leg strength can easily jump to a height of 30 floors. When this power is transformed into a kick, even a person with the ability of the animal system can't bear it, not to mention that the temperature of the flame attached to it is countless higher than before. times.

After a few rounds, Quinn entered a state of lying flat, lying on the ground and simply chose to admit defeat.

Arceus on the side was full of disgust for Kaido. A strong man several meters tall showed that weird look, and he felt goosebumps all over him.

"Is this the ability you speak of?"

"Yes, you find the slate for me, and I can grant similar abilities to the person you choose. By the way, the more slates, the stronger my ability, and the stronger the ability I can create."

As for whether there will be two or five boys, the ability is given by him, he naturally has a way to take it back, and it is completely impossible to use his ability to deal with him.

"No problem, where are those slates? I can't wait, let's find them now!"

"If I knew where those slates went, would I still need to make this deal with you? I just need more people to inquire about the news, and I can perceive the existence of the slates within a certain distance.

By the way, do you have Devil Fruit? I also want to try other things to see if I can transform the ordinary animal system into the ability of the phantom beast, so that the ability can be preserved for a long time, wait for you to find a suitable one. people. "

He did not say that direct transformation is too laborious, but changed the reason. As for the reason for the animal system, it is because the fruit of the animal system has its particularity, not only can it impart power to inanimate objects, but also has its own unique will.

It would probably be more laborious to transform fruits of other types than to directly impart abilities to the human body.

"No, that kind of thing is still very rare, but I have an idea of building an army of animal-type capable people, just look for it slowly."

As they were talking, a plump black-purple fruit rolled to their feet.
