

Arceus 721

Chapter 721 Calling the wind and calling the rain, leading the thunder to the world

Empty combat is not Kaido's strong point. Compared with bare hands, he can erupt powerful combat power with weapons. Just now he didn't use weapons, and even used his face to catch the opponent's fists. He just wanted to experience the name of Iron Fist.

The hero Garp, Iron Fist Garp, earned his name entirely with his own fists and arrogance. The last time he had an intersection with Garp almost dates back to the Rocks period.

At that time, Roger was not the biggest trouble in the sea. Lockes' strength and crazy actions almost affected the entire sea. Under the joint efforts of Garp and Roger, Lockes was defeated. At that time, Kaido was not even qualified. Step into that fight.

Moreover, the Rocks Pirates at that time had already lost their minds. The pirates who were forcibly integrated by Rocks' personal force had no intention of fighting together. Kaido also fled the Valley of Gods with Charlotte Lingling .

At that time, he hadn't challenged the idea of the whole world, but now, everything is different.

"Thunder gossip!"

The sound of thunder and lightning is overwhelming, and the power of thunder surrounds Bazhai. If the mace can also be ranked among the famous knives, then the current second-generation Bazhai and seventh-generation Ajian must be on the list.

"Fist bone. Collapsing mountain!"

No matter what the enemy's attack method is, Garp's method is mostly the same. Too much faith is lodged in a pair of iron fists. This is the fighting method that has continued since the day he became a soldier in the navy.

His hands can even replace the heavy artillery, firing the shells directly with bare hands.

Bengshan is not an exaggeration for him, but a real way of cultivation. Whenever he meets a strong opponent, Garp will use the mountain to hone his fists.

When dealing with the cone head of the green pepper, Karp pierced through several mountains one after another.

The animalized Kaido is almost three times the size of Garp. Generally speaking, a small opponent will use his more flexible characteristics when facing a huge enemy, but it doesn't make much sense here.

Whether it's Garp or Kaido, they both chose the most direct way of fighting-head-to-head.

The iron fist and the mace collided, and a more violent impact than before was sent from the collision point of the two. The aftermath of the battle had a considerable impact on the soldiers in the base, but Garp had no choice.

He can restrict Kaido's actions, but he cannot control the impact of the aftermath. To be precise, this restriction can only protect a part of the area. He is a naval hero, but he has not broken the limit of human beings.

Facing Kaido who can fly freely, it is impossible for Garp to completely keep the current Kaido.

"Hey, that's right, that's the meaning of fighting!"

Kaido showed a smile again on his face, and both hands were already on the mace, but looking at his smile, Garp's face became even more gloomy.

When Kaido's next swing came, Garp changed his tactics. He didn't continue to use his fists hard, but used his domineering to put armor on his body, and then grabbed Kaido's mace.

With the strength of Kaido's waving, Garp flew into the air, and then stomped the air several times in a moon-step manner, rushing towards Kaido like a sharp arrow.

"Fist Bone Meteorite!"

"Hot breath!"

He is of the animal type, but he is also a phantom beast. In addition to the body of the animal type, Kaido also has the powerful power to use elements. The scorching energy gathers from his mouth and spits out towards the rushing Garp.

He never said that these methods will not be used in this battle.

Looking at the oncoming flames, Garp didn't change his direction, and directly met the heat with his fists, waving his arms interlaced, and the heat released by Kaido was abruptly separated from the middle by him.

A pair of fists broke Kaido's heat. Garp rushed out of the flames like a ghost in purgatory. His fists were covered with domineering, and even the flames released by Kaido's heat remained on the domineering.

Boom!

This punch hit Kaido firmly in the face, and his huge body fell to the ground again.

"Lieutenant General Garp won! He knocked out Kaido!"

The soldiers watching from a distance cheered. It was a battle far beyond their level, and they could only judge the result by their own eyes.

But at the next moment, Garp did not take advantage of the victory to pursue, but retreated rapidly. Kaido's mace almost brushed his feet and hit the ground.

Under this blow, huge cracks appeared on the ground, and the surrounding seawater poured into it, and the G-1 branch had an extra moat in this way.

"Bah, I'm really careless. Your old man's strength doesn't seem to have changed much."

Spit to the side, Kaido climbed up again, the damage on the ground was far greater than Kaido.

"Don't be kidding, you guy said that the old man is not serious, but you are the same? Those two punches can't hit you at all, right?"

"Oh? Your intelligence agency seems to have detected a lot of news."

"Don't underestimate the navy, pirate"

Although that punch hit Kaido, Garp didn't have any excitement. The Navy's intelligence statistics are very clear. Kaido, no, it should be said that the beasts have a special shield ability. Kaido and others Small cadres can use that thing.

Although the strength depends on the strength, the ability of the suspected barrier fruit is definitely a big trouble, but from the beginning to the end, Kaido has never used the barrier to defend.

He would rather catch his fist in the face than use that special barrier.

This made Garp not sure what the lunatic Kaido was thinking.

"Hey, don't think so much, I just don't want to use it."

The first time was to experiment with Garp's fist, and the second time was just Kaido's personal wish.

"That's too boring. Today's time is limited. It's impossible to decide the outcome with you."

Even if the protagonist's halo is on, it will take half a day to end the battle with Kaido. In just a few hours, Kaido and Garp can't make a decision.

"It's boring to use that all the time, and I have a lot of things to try, Yu!"

Kaido suddenly yelled the word rain into the sky, and the eight dragons in the distance seemed to understand something, turned their heads and flew into the clouds.

The battle between Kaido and Garp had already dispersed the clouds in the sky, but at this moment, the clear sky was shrouded in dark clouds again. Thunder and lightning kept flashing in the clouds, and in an instant, heavy rain poured down.

"I've been wanting to try this trick for a long time. That old lady Lingling used this trick a lot back then."

The top of the eight fasts was entwined with lightning again. This time Kaido did not approach Garp, but swung his stick into the sky.

"Tianman Dazizi Tianshen!"

Chapter 722 Honkai's G-1

Kaido's rain is a signal, that is, he is conveying his order to the eight evil dragons, it is not just a mount, in Kaido's eyes, it is a special "companion" with the strength to fight side by side with him.

As far as his own strength is concerned, the eight-headed evil dragon can't help him in frontal battles. It mainly uses transportation, cleaning up miscellaneous soldiers, and weather hands.

Depending on the strength of Pokémon, the range of rain clouds created by praying for rain is also different. The eight-headed dragon rushes into the distant clouds to create larger rain clouds in a short time, and it can also absorb the power of thunder and lightning. Infuse it into a thunderstorm cloud.

This is not pure natural lightning, but artificial lightning caused by the power of Pokémon. Kaido also has part of the power of Pokémon in his body.

This is the special power produced by slight changes in the body when learning skills in the space created by Arceus. With this power, Kaido can manipulate the thunder and lightning in this thundercloud to achieve some special effects .

The eight evil dragons didn't know what Kaido wanted to do, they just released some skills according to what he said before, and Kaido deduced the rest in his mind.

Tian Man Da Zi Zai Tian Shen, originally Charlotte Lingling's skill, she can manipulate Thundercloud Zeus and bombard the surroundings indiscriminately with thunder and lightning.

The lightning released even has consciousness, can change direction, and track the target you want to avoid.

The speed of lightning is extremely fast, it is almost impossible to avoid the terrifying AOE.

As the big sister on the ship, Charlotte Lingling had a deep influence on Kaido. The devil fruit and the moves of the giants all came from her, and Kaido also learned a lot from her. At this time, he I plan to reproduce some moves that belong to Charlotte Lingling.

In the green dragon form, although he can also use lightning, the range is not as strong as Zeus. Now with the assistance of the eight-headed dragon, he can also take part in the battle with his pet like Charlotte Lingling.

In other words, the root idea of fighting with the Eight-Headed Dragon is also based on Charlotte Lingling. The Homiz created by her soul is a very powerful help.

"Let's rate this trick! Naval hero!"

Holding the eight fasts with both hands, Kaido swung down vigorously, as if pulling down the sky, the thunder and lightning formed a terrifying light curtain, and countless thunder and lightning gathered together, striking downward with a mighty force.

"asshole."

The rain curtain hit Garp, his clothes were already soaked by the heavy rain, and the rising dark clouds had covered the sun, but the G-1 branch was still as dazzling as day, and the light from the thunder and lightning became the new sun.

Tianman Dazizi God, this move Garp is not unfamiliar, Kaido hadn't grown up at that time, Charlotte Lingling was also the main member of the Rocks Pirates, the lightning she released has always been a big trouble on the battlefield .

Thundercloud Zeus is the Homiz created by her, but its body is a cloud. Under the command of Charlotte Lingling, it can freely shuttle across the battlefield and carry out terrifying fixed-point blasting.

At this time, the Tenma Dazizai Tenjin that Kaido uses is even better than the Tenma Dazizai Tenjin released by Charlotte Lingling in his memory.

And Kaido is different from Charlotte Lingling. He didn't simply release the attack. When the thunder and lightning fell, Kaido had also come to Garp. Bathed in the lightning, Kaido seemed to be covered with a layer of lightning armor.

"Jiang III, Yin Naraku, Thunder and Rage!"

The sky full of thunder turned into dancing silver snakes. Under the guidance of Kaido's weapon, this natural disaster-like power was compressed together.

Garp's movements remained unchanged, but the clothes all over his body exploded in an instant. Although he was old, every muscle was sharp and angular. At this time, under the baptism of domineering, Garp had turned into a jet-black little girl. people.

No matter what method the enemy uses, his moves will not change. If one punch is not enough, two punches are enough. As long as one's own fist is strong enough, he can always break the enemy's defense.

The fists and clubs collided, and the power of thunder and domineering was detonated. The compressed thunder and lightning completely exploded at this moment. After the roar, the battlefield seemed to have fallen into a new round of silence.

In the G-1 branch, a naval soldier squatted in the corner, covering his ears with his hands. The solid wall was strong enough to resist the bombing of shells, but it failed to bring him any sense of security.

For a long time, he didn't know what was going on outside. It was the colleague next to him who patted him on the shoulder, but he couldn't hear any sound. He could only see the mouth of the colleague in front of him constantly opening and closing.

"You talk! I can't hear you!"

But he still couldn't hear any sound. Under the guidance of his companions, he discovered that his hands were already stained red with blood, and the source of the blood was his ears.

This situation is not an exception. Even if this place is far away from the battlefield, the collision just now has damaged the hearing and vision of many naval soldiers.

Neither Kaido nor Whitebeard wanted to start a war on their own territory, because they knew what the aftermath would lead to.

After confirming that the outside stopped temporarily, several soldiers continued to observe the situation. The solid wall of the G-1 branch had collapsed at this time, and even a piece of land on the island disappeared inexplicably.

At this time, Kaido and Garp were surrounded by a bottomless pothole, and bricks and stones fell from the edge from time to time, and people outside could not hear the sound of the bottom collision at all.

"It's really powerful and domineering, actually forcibly taking all the attacks."

Kaido's blow was not only aimed at Garp, the overflowing lightning was enough to affect the nearby navy, but Garp forcibly suppressed Kaido's lightning before the thunder and lightning erupted, using his body and the ground under his feet Withstood the blow.

This attack pays more attention to the range, and the attack power of a single target is actually not that strong, but Garp forcibly received a full-power blow, protecting most of the naval soldiers.

"You lunatic, does lightning also have an effect on you?"

Such an attack could not make Garp lose his combat power. Even after he discovered Kaido, he couldn't avoid the impact of the lightning just now. It can be said that the blow had a lot of side effects.

"Hey, heck, it's just a mild effect, and it will pass soon."

"If a guy like Ni asks you to leave, the sea will probably be even more turbulent."

Garp's body recovered quickly under the influence of life return, and his skin metabolized rapidly, making the influence of lightning gradually disappear. Looking at the destroyed branches and land around him, Garp was determined to keep Kaido.

"This is the Navy branch, not you, where you can come and go whenever you want! Fist Bone Stars!"

Chapter 723 Hunter and prey, reversal of poles

Garp knew exactly what Kaido meant by saying that time was limited. Kaido regarded the battle with him as a game, and wanted to leave directly before the support from the headquarters arrived.

But Garp didn't want to do what he wanted. Kaido's behavior was a little crazy, and he couldn't guess what he was doing for it. As Kaido said, time is limited, and they can't tell the winner in a short time.

Karp didn't want Kaido to leave. It was impossible for the headquarters to ignore such a terrifying battle.

After the support from the headquarters arrives, it will be possible to quickly solve Kaido. As long as Kaido cannot leave now, then there will be enough ability to keep him.

No matter what the policy of the world government is, Garp has made up his mind to send Kaido to the city of advancement.

"If you can keep me, you can give it a try!"

Looking at the shadow of the fist being swung, Kaido raised his stick and fought again. On the muddy ground, two monster-like people came and went, falling into a frantic battle.

The naval soldiers in the base also began to pray for Karp to win. Facing the two people in the melee, the guns in their hands had completely lost their meaning. The only thing they could do now was to support each other spiritually.

In the sky, the battle of the Eight-Headed Dragons is still going on. Thunder and heavy rain have no effect on it, but they weaken the flying squirrel and Bogard. It is even more difficult for them to restrain the Eight-Headed Dragons in this kind of weather.

"How to deal with this thing"

The flying squirrel wiped the rain from his face. Creatures have life, and living objects will be killed, but the monster dragon in front of him can't be killed no matter what.

Whether it is the heart or the head, they have all caused a certain amount of damage, but the result is the same, and they will recover in a short time. At this time, the eight-headed dragons still maintain the eight-headed appearance, but there are many more on them. less wounds.

"It should always have its own limit, but we can't seem to find this limit."

In Bogard's knowledge, no creature can recover and regenerate indefinitely. Even natural-type ability users will consume physical strength when releasing elemental attacks. When physical strength is exhausted, they cannot use it as wantonly as before. capable.

The regeneration of the eight-headed dragon cannot be obtained out of thin air, and must have its upper limit.

Bogard guessed right. If they exhausted the energy of the Eight-Headed Dragon, it would lose its ability to resist, and even if it had many lives, it would be killed with a single click.

It's just that it may be more difficult to exhaust its physical strength than to kill it eight times.

"It rarely fights with the heads in the middle, the biggest one there and in the middle is probably its weak point."

They only beheaded the two heads of the Eight-Headed Dragon at the beginning, but those two heads and the heads of the Eight-Headed Dragon used in later battles are the heads on both sides, and the three heads in the middle and the rear rarely engage in hand-to-hand combat.

"I'm here to attract it, you go and try, if this continues, my physical strength will be overwhelmed first, I can't wait like this, this guy may have some troublesome abilities."

The thunderstorm did not alert them. This is not a particularly difficult task. The Navy's scientific troops can also successfully complete this kind of thing. They are worried about more unknown forces.

The flying squirrel and Bogard quickly reached a consensus. The flying squirrel tried its best to attract the attention of the eight-headed dragon, while Bogard began to look for new opportunities.

They are planning, and the eight-headed dragon is also planning. These two people make it very annoying. They will not be able to deal with them for a while, and they will be attacked if they go down. Although they can maintain a higher safety zone, the damage caused by that But very limited.

Being hacked by those little guys is also very painful. It doesn't want to be beaten all the time. Thinking about it, it seems to have a new idea.

The flying squirrel and Bogarde made the biggest mistake. In this thunderstorm day, the two of them communicated by talking loudly. Although the eight-headed dragon could understand Kaido's order, they didn't think too much about it.

A dog can understand simple vocabulary after a little training, but Pokémon is different. They can understand human language very well, and its hearing is very sensitive, that is to say, it heard all the plans of the two of them. .

This kind of thing is not uncommon in the Pokémon world, even in the arena. Some Pokémon will make more effective judgments based on their own understanding and the enemy's attack, such as an excellent gill ichthyosaur.

At this time, the eight-headed dragon set a trap for them. It didn't attack immediately, but carried out a high-altitude guerrilla as before. When it fell, it deliberately changed its place and was stabbed twice, and then made a move. Exasperated gesture.

Instead of controlling the height, he frantically attacked the flying squirrel. The powerful combo made it difficult for the flying squirrel to parry, but Bogarde also seized the opportunity and chopped off a head on the back side of it. This time it controlled the flying squirrel. The body did not regenerate immediately, and the remaining head still showed a frightened expression.

"Works! The few heads in the middle of it are weak points!"

Bogard, who retreated for the time being, showed a happy smile. It is a good thing to find a weakness, so that they can rearrange their tactics.

At the beginning, Bogard aimed at the mastermind in the middle, and the eight-headed dragon made an unavoidable gesture, and blocked the knife with the other head next to it.

"I don't think it's right, don't you think it's a little too smooth?"

The tactics achieved results so quickly, and the flying squirrel developed an unscientific sense. There should be many ways to deal with that strange dragon.

"Try again, maybe it will really work?"

"Too."

Although they doubt it, they have no better way, and a monster, no matter how smart it is, how strong can it be?

The two continued the previous tactics, alternately attracting each other's attention. Originally, those heads formed a perfect line of defense. Now that there was a vacancy, the defense of the eight-headed evil dragon was no longer perfect. Attacked to the main head.

The eight-headed dragon became more and more violent, and finally the flying squirrel discovered a huge loophole.

"Moon step, shave!"

Using the combination of moon steps and shaving, the flying squirrel drew the knife and chopped towards the head in the middle, but before the blade touched the eight-headed dragon, Bogarde's voice came from his ear.

"careful!"

I saw that the head that could not regenerate suddenly regenerated at this time, the new head stared fiercely at the flying squirrel, opened its mouth wide, and bit the flying squirrel with its teeth gleaming with cold light and venom.

It has suffered so many knives, just to lure these two slippery loach-like guys here, a position where it is impossible to avoid attacks.

Got it!

The flying squirrel never dreamed that the two of them would be tricked by a wild beast. They were careful enough. After probing for a long time, he seized this opportunity to make a surprise attack. He didn't expect the other party to be more patient than him.

Chapter 724 Kuzan rushing to the rescue, Kaido's conspiracy

"Release the Admiral Flying Squirrel!"

Bogard also didn't expect that the monster in front of him set a trap for them. He wanted to rescue the flying squirrel, but the eight-headed dragon didn't give him a chance to get close. Several heads released a powerful electric current to force Bogard back. He also started to bite the flying squirrel's head hard.

As long as its mouth is completely closed, the flying squirrel can be directly divided into three sections. At this time, the flying squirrel is using iron blocks and domineering to resist the bite force of the eight-headed dragon, and it is trying to fight back with its weapons.

His blade had pierced into that skull, but the eight-headed dragon still didn't want to let go, and the skull released a terrifying purple gas, and the clothes began to be corroded, and a touch of despair appeared in the flying squirrel's heart feel.

It was also at this time that the eight-headed dragon suddenly stopped its movements, because a new enemy appeared on its back.

"God, God, can you please let him go?"

Nearly three meters tall, with an overall blue lining, the justice coat is fluttering in the air with the wind and rain.

"This weather is really annoying."

There is still an eyepatch hanging on his forehead, but this eyepatch has been soaked by rainwater at this time. Although it blocks part of the rainwater, the swollen eyepatch makes him uncomfortable.

"General Kuzan?!"

Kuzan, code-named Aokiji, is now the admiral of the Navy headquarters. After the G-1's request for help was sent out, the support of the headquarters finally arrived here.

Kuzan didn't say anything, but a gust of ice began to spread from under his feet, and gradually extended to the head biting the flying squirrel. With a roar, the head and the neck behind it all turned into ice sculptures.

In order to ensure the safety of the flying squirrel, Kuzan narrowed the frozen area, and only extended upwards along this head. With the shattering of the ice, the flying squirrel also regained his freedom, but he seemed to be affected by the toxin, and his body could not move nicely.

Finally, with the help of Kuzan, he temporarily moved to a safe position, while the Eight-Headed Dragon looked at Kuzan vigilantly, and his body charged into the clouds again in a flashing charge. The fire not only provided speed, but also melted the original ice layer on the body.

This opponent is more terrifying than those two people combined, and it feels like a deadly threat just like the stone Garp threw before.

"Bogard, take the flying squirrel for treatment. He seems to be poisoned. I will deal with this troublesome guy first, and then I will help Mr. Garp."

Scanning the battle situation, Garp and Kaido will not be able to tell the winner for a while, and now this monster dragon is the biggest threat.

"yes!"

Today's three generals of the headquarters are the mainstay of the new generation of the navy. Their monster-like strength has long been certified. Kuzan's arrival is a booster for all the navy.

Hicing is not like Guang, who can fly freely, but his ability to stay in the air is much stronger than that of flying squirrels.

At the same time, Kaido, who was in the melee with Garp, has also discovered Kuzan's arrival.

"Happy time is over, Garp, I look forward to meeting you next time."

The Eight-Headed Dragon is no match for Kuzan. When the reinforcements arrive, it is time for him to retreat. Although he is not enjoying himself, this time it is almost the same.

"The old man said, you don't want to leave here so easily."

"Well, I also said that you can't keep me. This is the territory of the Navy, but because of this, I can have no scruples. There should be thousands of people here, right?"

Depending on the size of the naval branch, the number of soldiers stationed is also very different. When Smoker served as a lieutenant general, the number of soldiers in the G-5 branch of the navy was only 300.

At that time, Akainu put a large number of troops into the conquest, and there were not many people left for some branches.

Now, the naval forces of the New World have not completely retreated, and the G-1 branch is the gateway of Mary Joya, with a permanent force of 3,000.

Kaido let out a grin, and then spit out a terrifying energy into the sky.

"If you want to stop Lao Tzu, you can try it. If you are willing to kill all the soldiers here, then you can come!"

As soon as the voice fell, Garp understood what Kaido had done, the clouds were cut open, and meteorites fell towards the G-1 branch, and the attack of the dragon star group had come.

This is Kaido's conspiracy. Garp can try to choose to keep Kaido with Kuzan, but the success rate is not 100%, but as long as they make this choice, the G-1 branch will be sent by him with all his strength. Constellation destroyed.

The previous Tianman Dazi Zai Tianshen destroyed many bunkers. The destruction of the eight-headed dragons and the aftermath of the battle between Kaido and Garp made this place no longer able to withstand the devastation.

Said that Kaido ignored Garp, turned into a green dragon and rushed towards the direction of the eight-headed evil dragon. He had to take this little baby away.

Looking at Kaido going away and the falling meteorite, Garp chose to stop the Dragon Star Group after all. It was still the root problem. If Kaido wanted to leave with all his heart, he would have a high chance of success and would probably pay a huge sacrifice But nothing came of it.

Under such circumstances, Garp could not look directly at the sacrifices of those soldiers. Finally, under the cover of Kaido, the eight-headed dragons also escaped from Kuzan smoothly, and one person and one dragon left here in public, leaving only the broken G-1 branch.

"Mr. Karp."

In the G-1 base, Kuzan used his ability to freeze the three heads of the eight-headed dragon that had been cut off during the battle.

"Why did you come here? What about that guy from the Warring States Period? He won't be unaware of this opportunity, right?"

"Polusalino is assisting in the research of the scientific force, and Sakaski is performing a mission outside. Marshal of the Warring States Period. He was ordered to assist in the defense of Marie Gioia."

Sighed, Kuzan explained the specific situation to Garp.

Admirals are not mascots, they have a lot of work to do.

However, there will always be a general in the headquarters to deal with emergencies. When receiving the situation of the G-1 branch, Sengoku itself also intends to leave.

Although he is the marshal, the navy headquarters is relatively safe, and there will be no problems without top-level combat forces stationed for the time being. It is also a great thing to keep Kaido.
0vEPUsb.cOm

He obeyed the orders of the World Government, but he also had his own opinions. But before he set off, the World Government sent an emergency order to order Warring States to assist Marie Gioia in her defense work.

"Does that place need manpower?"

"The higher-ups seem to be more worried about the safety of the Tianlong people, and the Warring States Marshal is not good at disobeying orders."

"The bastards."

Garp punched the wall next to him angrily, and he didn't know who he was scolding, and the price he paid was to destroy another relatively intact building.

Chapter 725 The strongest organization in the sea is in action

"Lieutenant General Garp, please cooperate, otherwise we will have trouble dealing with it later."

"I'm not interested, if you have the time to spare, why not investigate something else."

Several people obediently surrounded Garp, hoping that Garp would cooperate with their actions, but the result was not satisfactory. No matter what they said, Garp didn't want to talk to them.

These people are not special agents, but reporters belonging to the world government.

Different from Morgans' World Economic News Agency, these reporters are all the pens of the world government, and they are responsible for writing whatever the world government wants to see.

As for where to publish, in addition to some official internal newspapers, the World Economic News Agency is also one of the channels. In addition to letting his own staff write reports, Morgans will also accept contributions from outsiders.

The attack on the G-1 branch has already happened. The battle that took place here can even see the smoke of gunpowder on the Red Earth Continent. The ships passing by the nearby waters were also clearly seen by the soldiers present.

Now they need to rebuild the G-1 branch, appease the wounded soldiers, and issue pensions to the dead soldiers. What happened here cannot be hidden at all. Since they couldn't hide it, they had to do a good job of covering it up.

Kaido attacked the navy branch and left in public after causing certain casualties. Of course, it is impossible to write in this tone.

If Morgans were to write it, he would definitely get attention as he wanted, and he would not care about the impact it would cause. However, there are no reporters in places like the G-1 branch, so the Navy has the final say.

The evil Kaido is planning a conspiracy. The heroic navy soldiers discovered his conspiracy and stopped him. Kaido, furious, attacked the G-1 branch to retaliate. D. Karp arrived at the critical moment.

The general of the headquarters, Aokiji, followed closely behind. He was about to capture Kaido, but the despicable Kaido threatened the lives of the soldiers, and finally fled in a hurry. They had already made up the outline of the story.

There is nothing wrong with the process of the incident, and they have no way to distort the reality that has already happened. It's just another way of saying it. The enemy died in an unknown AOE without seeing the appearance of the enemy. After a heroic struggle, they all died. The meaning is completely different.

Karp did not object to this point. For those soldiers who have died, such a statement has more benefits, but he does not agree with the behavior of those people.

In order to better reflect the bravery of the navy, they hope that Karp can take a few photos in cooperation with the ruins to have a better publicity effect. Although the damage to the G-1 branch is not light, as long as the publicity is proper, it can play a very good conscription effect.

In the end, these reporters failed to do so. Karp ignored them and returned to the intact part of the base on the grounds of treating the wound.

A little skin trauma is nothing at all. After he eats a few donuts, the injury will almost heal. Kaido is more testing some new moves this time. The power of a single target is not particularly strong. For an hour, they still had a lot of hole cards left.

Karp is very clear that he didn't take advantage of it, and the Navy just suffered a huge loss for no reason this time. He couldn't accept standing on the ruins and letting these people take fake photos.

"What should I do? If there are no photos, the expressiveness will be too poor."

They are not qualified to force Garp. Ability is one aspect. For their own face, they completely suppressed the fact that the Navy and the pirates teamed up to defeat Lockes, and all the aura was concentrated on Garp.

Although his strength is well-deserved as a naval hero, this aura allows Garp to be very willful, and he can even be more presumptuous with the Celestial Dragons than others. After all, the objects he rescued at the beginning included the Celestial Dragons.

Tianlong people are not all mentally handicapped without brains. They will also give some privileges to Garp, who is superior in strength and has saved them.

Facing Karp like this, they have nothing to do. Ordinary navies still care about their opinions. After all, the pens of these navies can really affect a person's reputation.

But Karp is different. Whoever dares to discredit him is slapping the Navy in the face.

"Don't worry, I'm ready."

At this time, a person suddenly walked back with a camera in his arms. The few people next to him didn't notice how he appeared, but no one thought it was strange.

"Um?"

"I was one step ahead of you, this is the photo of Lieutenant General Garp dealing with those meteorites before, and the photo of Kaido 'escaping', this is the photo of him rescuing soldiers on the ruins.

Combined with the pictures of surveillance phone bugs in the base before, it is almost enough. "

He took out several photos, including Garp smashing the large dragon star group with his fist, holding the cannonball in his hand to block the flying meteors, and there is also a scene of him lifting the broken wall and dragging the buried soldiers out.

Kuzan and Kaido also entered his camera.

"Oh, now I can do business."

"As usual, I'll take the photos, and you guys will write the copy."

"Don't worry, don't worry, we understand."

In the team of journalists, the photographer is undoubtedly the most important, especially the photographers of the Navy, who appear everywhere, whether it is the Qibuhai or the Four Emperors, whether it is the iceberg desert or the deep sea, as long as a major conflict breaks out, there must be their existence.

Hiding, disguising, lurking, and making friends are their housekeeping skills. According to gossip, some young photographers will even be recruited by the CP department and become powerful spy agents after training.

It couldn't be easier to secretly film Cap after the war.

Therefore, what the pirates of Beasts saw on Onigashima was the beautified newspaper, praising Garp's bravery throughout the article, and downplaying the impact of the attack on the branch to the greatest extent.

It's just that the impact of this incident is far from simple. On the Red Earth Continent, a new round of undercurrents is surging.

At this time, in Baishou Fruit, ordinary employees were still working as usual, but some careful people found that the usual leaders had disappeared, and only Tezolo was left in charge here.

And he is also arranging his suit, and it seems that he is planning to go out.

"Stella, don't worry, those people won't do anything. Governor Kaido and Lord Arceus are fine. If they want to die, they won't talk."

The earphones on his ears are connected to Rotom's body, and he is communicating with Stella.

"Then why did you let the others leave there temporarily?"

"Just in case, and it's good news that they all left smoothly. Wait a minute, there is Onijima's phone number, and I will contact you after I finish my business."

Chapter 726 The navy's face is worthless

"Kaido. Good job you guys"

Not long ago, when the newspaper spread, Arceus quickly saw the information that Shaina brought, and that wording was the official wording of the Navy.

It is certain that Kaido is fine, otherwise the newspapers would have publicized their victory.

And the content of the photo is also very obvious, the picture of Kaido retreating on the "eight-headed dragon" is still very clear.

In the past, Kaido did not make too many troubles, but it was just small troubles, at most sinking warships, making a big fuss in the branch. Now, most of the G-1 branch has been demolished, and the impact is not at the same level at all.

War is a sport that burns money. At this time, Beast needs a huge amount of funds for future development. Beast Fruit is a huge money-grabbing tool. If Kaido does this, there may be some bad effects .

At this time, Shaina brought new news.

"Master Arceus, Tezolo just sent a communication, he said that the officials of the world government want to discuss something with him."

"Let him go there with peace of mind, nothing will happen, tell him that place, and go there if you feel that the situation is not right, and someone will take care of him.

As for the content of the conversation, he can accept everything that is reasonable. "

This is the news Tezolo received, he got a very special address, before that, he had no idea what it meant.

But he still chose to believe unconditionally.

He is not nervous at all, it is useless to ask him about Kaido, and there is no news from the Celestial Dragons. Even if the World Government can restrict those officials, it cannot control the Celestial Dragons.

Most Tianlong people don't care about this kind of thing, but they will prioritize their own interests. There is no news about them. Theoretically, this time it will not be a big deal.

The address Arceus gave him was very ordinary, but there was a hole leading to the safe area below, which was written by the big rock snake at the time. The people above did not know that an underground passage had been dug out on the red earth continent.

They never thought of such a thing, like termites, it is difficult for people to find traces before causing actual damage.

Not long after, Tezolo was invited to the place of conversation, seeing his old acquaintance in front of him, his expression became more natural.

"Oh, isn't this our old friend? Why are you so sullen? Why don't you relax?"

This is the other party's private office, and there are many gold ornaments in it. These were all given to him by Tezolo. Looking at the gold, Tezolo's smile became very sincere. Gold can be turned back into a deadly weapon.

"Tezolo, I won't talk nonsense with you anymore. You and I know the things behind it. The higher-ups are very unhappy this time, and there is nothing I can do about it."

"It's the same, I can't stop what the above is going to do, so what do you mean"

Tezolo tapped his fingers on the table, and the official understood it and showed his smiling face.

"We are friends. I said a lot of good things for you at the meeting, but your tax this year has also been raised. After all, you have lost a lot."

"I see, I see"

If you break something in a fight, you have to pay for it. This way of handling it is very understated, and there is no meaning to go into it at all.

"In addition, there is an oral agreement that needs to be conveyed by you. He has to restrain himself."

He was referring to Kaido. Everyone knows this. The world government didn't take the opportunity to ask for some special technology. They had discussed it before, but Beasts never agreed to a similar deal.

The call from Arceus gave him a lot of autonomy before. Tezolo weighed it and agreed to this request, but there is no paper document. It is not uncommon for the world government to negotiate with pirates.

In the transaction of the fruit of the operation, Shanks who enters and exits the office of the five old stars, as long as the identity and status are sufficient, or they can bring enough value, the world government will be very kind and friendly.

But they can't leave any evidence and excuses. No one can guarantee how long this verbal agreement will take effect. It's just to save everyone's face temporarily.

In the end, this matter did not affect Beast Fruit, but only cut a part of this year's income. If the world government targets Hundred Beast Fruit on a large scale, it will have a greater impact on their income. This is Tezolo's opinion. Currently best results.

The matter only involved the beasts, not the fruits of the beasts. The reason for this decision was all because of interests.

It is precisely because of these things that the Warring States Period is communicating with Wu Laoxing in a puzzled manner.

Even if the navy itself wants to start a full-scale war with a sea emperor, it needs the consent of the world government. This highest-level military operation needs the approval of the five old stars.

Although the newspapers covered the truth of the matter, the attack on the G-1 branch was a slap in the face of the Navy.

Originally, the Warring States thought that there would be at least some actions. Unexpectedly, the World Government did not make any arrangements, but only asked to keep the original plan unchanged, and not to deliberately mobilize troops to start a war.

This order has a lot of loopholes that can be exploited, but it is meaningless. Without mobilizing forces, it is impossible for a single warship to defeat the opponent in the pirate's territory.

"Satan, why? The navy suffered a lot of casualties this time, so just do nothing?"

There is only one Wulaoxing in front of the Warring States Period, and it is the Wulaoxing with a scar on his face and a lock of hair.

"This is an order from the World Government, you just need to execute it."

"But. In this battle, the flying squirrel was seriously injured, Bogard was slightly injured, more than half of the G-1 branch was destroyed, and there were casualties"

"Warring States, the world government is not interested in these things. We have already resolved this matter through negotiation. The funds allocated to your navy this time are enough to rebuild two G-1 branches, and the personnel pension can also be doubled.

The government does not want the balance to be broken at this moment, do you understand? "

Satan's eyes became unkind, and his tone became a little more serious, directly clarifying his final attitude.

No Celestial Dragons were kidnapped. Although the casualties of ordinary soldiers were not small, the senior generals did not have any problems.

The flying squirrel itself was alright, but he underestimated the poison from the eight-headed dragon, so he was seriously injured and fell into a coma. Those ordinary soldiers were just a string of numbers in the eyes of Wu Laoxing.

If it is subtracted, then it can be added back again.

What they handed over to the navy is only a part, which shows how much money Beast Fruit earns every year. Both the world government and the family of the Tianlong people are reluctant to part with this piece of cake, so they will conduct "negotiations".

"yes"

Chapter 727 Impossible, absolutely impossible!

This is detrimental to the navy's face, but the world government doesn't care about this kind of thing. Anyway, no one will deliberately publicize it.

The Navy is a violent agency under the World Government, but it is not the entirety of the World Government. It is just a group of ordinary soldiers. If they can pay all their pensions, they are already much better than some remote branches.

The mountains are high and the emperor is far away. In the four seas, an ordinary branch major can really dominate the regime of one land.

"Warring States, this is the arrangement of the world government, but we are not without countermeasures. Most of the funds this time will be handed over to the Navy. How to arrange it is up to you to deal with it."

Warring States has always followed the orders of the world government, and Satan didn't want to make it too ugly.

"There will be no large-scale battles this time. If you want to inquire about information, you can do it yourself. We will not interfere in this regard."

Placing undercover agents inside the pirates is a common method used by the world government and navy. Whether it is some departments of the CP or the secret special force of the Navy Headquarters-SWORD, they are all professional spy forces.

But Beasts is an exception. Undercover agents at the bottom are of little value. They have no access to internal information, but if they want to enter the interior of Beasts, they must have strength.

It's not that there are such people in the CP department, but the problem is that this kind of person cannot be sent out. There is a traitor from the CP department in Hundred Beasts-Foz Fau, who has the ability to sneak into the core of Beasts and act as an undercover agent, Foz Foz I know all of them.

The CP department has its own division of labor. Although CP0 has the strongest overall strength, it undertakes more tasks such as protection, escort, and arrest. Compared with them, CP9 people are better at undercover agents.

And Foz Foz, as a former CP9 genius, can be said to be very familiar with those who can perform this task.

Sending these people to be undercover agents is not to inquire about intelligence, but purely to give merit to Foz Fau, so the world government has no intention of continuing to place undercover agents, but instead handed over this matter to the Navy.

The decision of the world government not to launch a large-scale operation is a foregone conclusion, and the Warring States has no choice but to return to the headquarters with this large military expenditure. The reconstruction of G-1 and the pensions of the soldiers all cost money, so don't waste it.

At the same time, a brand new reward order belonging to Kaido was also released.

Beast Kaido.

Governor of the Beast Pirates

Bounty 4.677 billion Baileys

The person who selected the photo of the reward order did not restrain his occupational disease, and changed a new photo for Kaido, which is the scene of summoning thunder and lightning when he is trying to release Tianma Dazizai.

Although the appearance of one-handed lightning portrayed Kaido's horror, it also gave him a whole new group of fans.

—

Dragon-Hydra

Kaido Mount

A bounty of 300 million Baileys is offered

Because of the eight dragon heads and the characteristics of regeneration, the Navy's intelligence department called the eight-headed dragon Hydra and gave it a special code name.

And the eight-headed dragon has become the only giant Pokémon that has been offered a reward. King Yanwu and Banjila were born earlier, but in the eyes of the navy, those are just special large weapons, and there is no need to offer a separate reward, and they have not caused too much damage. big impact.

At least it didn't cause any damage to the navy, but the Eight-Headed Dragon was different. Not only did it cause huge casualties to the navy on the day it appeared, but it also appeared as Kaido's mount.

The ability to fly freely also means a greater threat, so a reward is specially added to it.

—

Meanwhile, there was another unfortunate victim.

Plague - Quinn

A bounty of 2 billion Baileys is offered

ONLY ALIVE

Below the reward order, there is usually a biography of the person, which will briefly summarize what the person has done and how vicious he is. Some special objects will also state their abilities and background.

At this time, the small essay on Quinn's reward order has also been refurbished. Looking at the above resume, Quinn himself didn't know that he was so good.

"Brother Quinn, as expected of you, with a total of two billion Baileys, neither Brother Jin nor Big Sister can compare to you."

"More than that, that Katakuri and Marco are incomparable to Brother Quinn, except for Lord Arceus, Brother Quinn, you are simply the number one person under the emperor of the sea, and only that Beckman can be compared with you ."

"Oh, get out of here! Get out!"

Hearing the flattery from his subordinates, Quinn was not at all happy, but just felt irritated.

There is nothing to be happy about increasing the reward, except for increasing the danger, it is meaningless.

During this period of time, he has been working overtime and has finished Wano Country's identity card system. Now he is just a street gangster, and he has something to prove his identity.

Now it seems that his overtime work is very meaningful.

After driving away the group of younger brothers, Quinn flipped through the newspaper, trying to figure out what was going on. After deducting the Navy's propaganda, he also understood how the pot came about this time.

"No, I have to find a way. If this continues, I will just sit and wait for death."

Quinn began to think about how to save himself, or restrict Kaido so that he would not go out to engage in such big actions, but this is not feasible, Kaido will not listen to his opinion.

Or let Arceus come to the front, this is the most fundamental method, which means that his career as the pot king can be declared over.

But the result is still the same. If Arceus really had this idea, he would not be needed.

"Well, let's find a way to confuse Shaina and Misu. They fanatics should be able to do something."

Quinn looked at the clear sky, but felt that the future was bleak.

While his eyes were dull, some people had their eyes shining.

"Impossible! Absolutely impossible! There must be something wrong with your intelligence department. This thing can't be Quinn's work. That guy can't have this kind of technology! Absolutely impossible!"

Punk Hazard, Caesar Courant looked at the experimental data and analysis report in his hand very angry, his eyes almost burned, the three heads of the eight evil dragons were frozen and sent here for new research.

By analyzing the blood contained in it, Caesar discovered an unbelievable thing, this blood contains a very special power.

The biological body contains blood factors. These blood factors are the carriers of the power of the devil fruit. This is the component they found in the blood of the capable person. Both Caesar and Vegapunk have certain research results on this point.

But in these frozen blood, the components of devil fruit power seriously exceeded the standard.

Rather than saying that some kind of animal ate the devil fruit, this phenomenon is more like the devil fruit itself came to life.

Chapter 728 Kaido laid the cornerstone for the development of the Naval Air Force.

In the MADS research team, apart from Vegapunk, Caesar Courant is the person most interested in Devil Fruits and has been working on the research of Devil Fruits, but until now, he has not been able to reproduce a complete Devil Fruit.

The results of all the experiments until now were all failures, and the word devil fruit came to life. This word appeared in his mind. This was something he had imagined, but it was just a thought.

This experiment has no clue, and it can't go on at all.

Quinn was researching viruses at the time. Although he had also studied bloodline factor technology, Caesar was confident that no one could match him except Vegapunk in the research on devil fruits, and Quinn was even more impossible.

"Dr. Kaiser, please calm down, this is the result we obtained after careful analysis."

"Let those guys commit seppuku! You idiots don't even know what a great technology this is. That waste fat pig is absolutely impossible to do this. It must be that your intelligence personnel have a brain problem!"

Being able to join MADS, Quinn must have the technology, but this is not Quinn's specialty. If he creates a virus that he cannot understand, Caesar can still understand it, but this devil fruit.

"This is our reasonable guess. Although it is not confirmed, it is more than 90% likely."

Seeing the person in front of him insist on his own opinion, Caesar's body became distorted, and his whole body was about to be gasified.

The people in MADS are very good at fighting. Although they are not top-notch, they can also deal with most of the enemies. Vegapunk's mechanical clone, Gaji's equipment, Quinn's animal body, and Caesar Courant's natural system powerful fruit.

Natural gas fruit, as a scientist, although Caesar Courant is not very effective in frontal combat, he has a good grasp of how to use the gas fruit.

At least it is much stronger than Smoker, who is also a natural type. In his hands, apart from bullying the miscellaneous fish in the first half, the biggest effect of the smoke fruit is to expand the hit area.

He was arrogant and conceited. He listened to those people's words, and even wanted to take away the air next to them to let them experience the feeling of suffocation, but when the experimenter next to him looked at him, he calmed down again.

"Hey, really, what are you guys doing so stubbornly, forget it, leave the information, do what you have to do, be careful not to step on any mechanism and die."

Caesar cursed the two people from the bottom of his heart and gently. Although they have bad personalities, Caesar has always maintained a heart-warming personality in front of his subordinates, defrauding the trust of these assistants so that he can do something special in the future.

On the other side, Vegapunk is relatively calmer. Although he doesn't believe that Quinn can make such a big breakthrough, he has learned new experience in this research.

"Let the devil fruit come alive. Come alive."

The world government asked him to make a lot of things, a large part of which came from beasts. Vegapunk always felt that those were devil fruit technologies.

After analyzing and summarizing the data, the powers used by the beasts or special creatures are mostly lightning, flames, rocks, plants, special barriers, laser cannons and other abilities.

In Vegapunk's cognition, these should be the power of blood factors, otherwise unless it is a miracle, such power cannot appear on a large scale.

The flames and lightning may come from Kaido, and the rocks are the phantom beasts they newly found, which is the fruit of Jhin. Most of the destructive death rays have some mechanical structures, and even the carapace of Banjila is not like a normal creature, so this It can be understood as the power of pure technology.

As for the special barrier, according to the needs of Vegapunk, the navy and the world government have provided a lot of information, which is very similar to the barrier fruit.

Vegapunk felt that someone extracted the bloodline factor from the first few abilities, and then distributed it to other people, thus realizing this power.

Although it is difficult, it is not impossible, because he also has some achievements in this regard.

Looking at the new results of the analysis at this time, he has a new idea about a previous experiment. How to make dead things eat devil fruits is one of his subjects.

Looking at it from another angle, dead things can't eat, so is it enough to make the animal fruit with will come alive and eat this weapon?

The blood analysis of the Eight-Headed Dragon allowed him to confirm the possibility of this matter, and he had already sorted out a complete experimental procedure in his mind.

"Quinn. Am I wrong about him?"

"Doctor, don't pay attention to this matter, how about that matter? Sengoku-san is very urgent."

Next to Vegapunk's body, Polusalino grinds his nails with nail clippers boredly. Unlike those agents of the world government, Polusalino and Vegapunk get along fairly well, even quite hit it off.

In Vegapunk's view, Polusalino is a naval soldier who can communicate, completely different from some extreme world government people.

Although he is a little older, like Kuzan, he used the code name of Huang Yuan and became the three generals of the same period. Such people also affected Vegapunk's attitude.

"It will take some time, but it's coming soon. The components of this blood are likely to speed up the progress."

"You have also seen it. Marshal Warring States wants you to breed similar creatures as soon as possible, at least able to fly for a long time, not the kind of little dragon that can only fly for a short distance."

Since the main part of the world is the sea, only the navy has been developed. Even now, they have no idea of developing the air force, because there are too few enemies that can fly.

It's just that they are not useless. If there are mounts that can also fly and breathe fire, flying squirrels will not be so difficult in the confrontation with the eight-headed dragon.

And according to Vegapunk's experimental records, he has created creatures similar to flying dragons.

It is best to be able to catch up with the eight evil dragons. Even if it is not as good as it is, a mount that can carry people at high speed and preferably fire-breathing is required. This is the requirement of the Warring States Period. He hopes that every branch and warship that sails will have Such a special creature.

It can be said that Kaido has changed the structure of the navy for nearly a hundred years by himself, allowing the navy to add a brand new unit for him, which was something that the Golden Lion could not achieve at the beginning.

Because the usage of the fruit by the Golden Lion is quite peculiar, the navy didn't pay too much attention to it, and didn't carry out special targeting.

This is a historic scene for the navy, and Kaido has become the "big hero" in this naval reform. After all, it is because of him that the navy urgently needs to make changes.

Chapter 729 Vegapunk's Little Thoughts, Blood of God

Punk Hazard, although Caesar never believed that it was Quinn's research results from the beginning to the end, he still analyzed the blood left in the dragon head, hoping to find something special from it.

As the research gradually deepened, Caesar also became more irritable. The bloodline factors contained in these blood are not much different from the conventional bloodline factors, but there is a powerful power that belongs to the devil fruit.

Based on his many failed experiences in making devil fruits, this kind of concentration is impossible to succeed, but there is a magical unknown ingredient in it, which is that the whole unknown ingredient reconciles the impossible part, making the impossible possible.

He didn't sleep for several days, and finally separated that component, but today, when he saw it, it disappeared.

If according to those intelligence agencies, this thing is Quinn's technology, then he not only achieved a technological breakthrough, but even achieved a technical blockade and came up with a set of "anti-theft measures."

On the side of Vegapunk, it is a completely different development. The Brain Fruit has greatly enhanced Vegapunk's brain capacity. Coupled with his own scientific research capabilities, he is also the strongest scientist in the navy.

Even if he knows a lot of things, the world government is not willing to give up this talent at this time, so he has a lot of experimental materials that Caesar does not have.

A few days ago, he noticed that the mysterious substance had been dissipating, and tried to preserve it in a special way. In a sense, he succeeded. After combining with a special sample, the mysterious power was preserved.

And that material is nothing but a special item derived from the blood of the Lunaria people.

It's just that Vegapunk didn't say this result, but, like Caesar, indicated that the thing had disappeared, and that mysterious power was also called divine blood by Vegapunk.

This ingredient was beyond his understanding, and all the materials he had studied and analyzed all his life could not explain the existence of that ingredient.

He doesn't serve the navy and the world government wholeheartedly, so of course he won't reveal all the special things.

For example, the re-engraved green dragon fruit, the world government and the navy only knew that it was a failure, but they didn't know that the failure was just a different color.

In Polusalino's temporary office, he is patiently making tea. There are a few blank sheets of paper on the table, apparently he is practicing calligraphy. Compared to Kuzan and Sakazuki running around on the sea, Busy with various problems, his life is extremely leisurely.

And no one can tell him yet, his current task is to protect the safety of Vegapunk and Punk Hazard, and at the same time cooperate with some researches of Vegapunk.

But he doesn't understand technology, what he can provide is only some experimental samples, and few people will come to attack the naval base, normal people will not do that kind of thing, except for Kaido who gets nervous from time to time, this kind of thing has never happened Pass.

So at this time, Polusalino can be said to be fishing reasonably.

"Master! Why didn't you call back? Vegapunk can't wait any longer."

At this time, a man wearing a red apron with a gyougi pattern opened the door and walked in. He is Zhan Momomaru, Vegapunk's personal bodyguard.

Clothing in the style of Wano country, claiming to be the most tight-lipped man in the world.

"Huh? It's strange. I obviously called back, but you didn't answer. Look, the call has been ongoing."

Polusalino pointed at the phone bug on the desktop with an innocent look on his face.

"How many times have I said that the black phone bug is for wiretapping, you can't make a direct call!"

Looking at the small black phone bug in Polusalino's hand, Zhan Momomaru was speechless. Ever since he met this person code-named Huang Yuan, although getting along with him was not difficult, he was as if suffering from Alzheimer's.

As long as the phone bug is involved, he will unconsciously pick up the bug. He often suspects that the yellow monkey is doing this to delay his fishing time.

"So is there something wrong?"

"Vegapunk didn't want me to tell you that he wanted to give you a little surprise. The creatures needed by the navy have already taken shape. He asked me to take you there to have a look and give it to the navy."

Although he is a scientist, Vegapunk is not rigid, and even some old urchins, but he chose the wrong person to pass the message to, and Zhan Momomaru told everything without knowing it, and he didn't find anything.

Vegapunk chose this person as his bodyguard, probably for the purpose of reasonably leaking secrets.

In an underground laboratory in Punk Hazard, a huge dragon is being soaked in a strange liquid.

This thing is not particularly complicated for Vegapunk. He was originally a successful example, but he is not that big and has no special abilities. He can only be said to be a flying creature.

Now we have the liquid of the eight-headed dragons for analysis, and after combining the previous results, we get this brand new creature in front of us.

It has inherited certain abilities, but it is a degraded version of the Eight-Headed Dragon, which only has a strong self-healing ability, but does not have the other elemental abilities of the Eight-Headed Dragon.

Because strictly speaking, what Vegapunk analyzes is only the bloodline factor from Yamata no Orochi, and the power of Pokémon is an ingredient that he cannot analyze.

Vegapunk has no ability to reproduce the Eight-Headed Dragon, but those high-concentration devil fruit ingredients have helped him a lot, which is to say that this dragon has part of the power of the Yamata no Orochi fruit.

"If its head is cut off, can it regenerate immediately?"

"Yes, but it will take a long time, and it will die completely after two or three times. As for other abilities, the number of samples is insufficient, and there is no way to do other analysis. By the way, the cost of manufacturing such a dragon can probably build three warships.

As for the weapons, you can figure out your own solutions. This body size can carry the experimental type of the laser cannon, but that will add another warship to the cost. "

That is the first machine of the weapon simplified based on the analysis of the bloodline factor of the yellow ape, and it has not been reduced yet.

"It sounds very strong, but isn't the cost a bit more expensive?"

"Huh? You only asked me to make things, and you didn't mention the cost. The cost should be reduced if you mass-produce it. You can just figure it out. I'm going to do other things. Let me know when you decide."

Saying that, Vegapunk left here, and Polusolino also reported the matter to Sengoku, the world government has delegated power, and this matter has to be decided by Sengoku.

After hearing the expensive cost, although he was heartbroken, he still made a production decision, not to mention fully developing the air force, but in the face of such monsters, they must at least have some countermeasures.

Chapter 730 "God Struggle" in Wano Country

Navy warships are not pirate ships. The warships here refer to the capital ships of the headquarters. This kind of warships can deal with miscellaneous fish pirates all over the world with only the main guns at the bow.

As the standard equipment of the navy, it has gone through the test of time and the battlefield, and the cost is not cheap. A biological weapon that is three times the price of a warship, plus an additional weapon capability, is not cost-effective, but there is nothing to do.

Kaido's thinking can't be figured out. Although he may not cause trouble every day, they can't stand a few more flying behemoths, at least they have to have some countermeasures.

According to Flying Squirrel and Bogard's feedback on the battlefield situation, the most troublesome ability of the monster dragon is that it can fly freely. If they can fly, it is not very difficult to hold each other down.

Originally, the Navy stuck to the old fighting style. Even the Golden Lion with Piao Piao Fruit only used giant islands to hit people, and had never used air superiority in this way.

Information in the past shows that there is also a strange bird transport team and a strange bird reconnaissance team within Hundred Beasts. With the appearance of the Eight-Headed Dragon, they have to make new changes.

Flying dragons have joined the navy's combat training, but it is still difficult to put into actual combat. Vegapunk is not Arceus, and these flying dragons are not like Pokémon, which can immediately recognize their masters.

There is a mechanism like the Seraphim, but it will double the cost and manufacturing time. The most important thing is that it is a waste of time and troublesome, so Vegapunk ignored that and left the trouble to the navy itself.

The Navy wants them to join the battle sequence. The first thing to do is to train the dragons and make them obey the command. This is not an easy task. They don't have the wisdom of Pokémon, they are just pure artificial beasts.

What the navy wants to develop has nothing to do with beasts, at least simply looking at the air force, they are already an era ahead of the navy.

In Wano Country, a special battle is going on.

It is not a struggle between beasts and other forces, but a struggle between the local residents of Wano and several professions.

Today's Wano country is prevalent in the Pokémon Grass Head God culture, and everyone hopes that their profession can also be protected by a Grass Head God. Although they also have things to worship, those who cannot see or touch The gods are now out of favor.

Real Pokémon are more popular with them.

Some Pokémon have clear abilities, such as giant blacksmiths. They are obviously good at casting things with a sledgehammer. Their classification is very clear. Whether it is a craftsman who casts a knife or a worker who builds a house, he will choose to worship Great Blacksmith.

It's just that there are more swordsmiths and other weapon foundries here, and the great blacksmith will only participate in the construction of houses in rare cases.

Herdsmen, fruit farmers, doctors, they have all found the representative Pokémon of the industry, but the appearance of Haoli caused some occupations to diverge.

Haoli is very strong, unlike those cute-type Pokémon, his whole body is full of muscles, and he is a Pokémon with a strong body and long-lasting endurance.

And this kind of figure also needs exercise to maintain. Haoli will not be idle, always looking for opportunities to exercise himself, and always act with all his strength.

In order to exercise his body, Haoli will continue to look for some physical work to do, such as helping people carry heavy luggage, which makes the moving company of Pokémon World very happy.

Two powerful Pokémon are enough to complete a heavy task that can only be carried out by more than a dozen people. The same is true on construction sites. Workers like these powerful Pokémon very much. They ignore the terrain. No matter where, as long as people can pass, they will reach.

The renovation of Wano Country has never stopped. The domestic economy has begun to develop in recent years, and many people have rebuilt their houses. Now that they are rich, they will naturally stop building cheap thatched wooden houses, which makes the construction team's schedule full. full.

Hao Li naturally focused on these construction teams, took the initiative to join them, and became a good partner of the construction workers.

And Haoli's rest is also different from normal Pokémon and humans. Their rest is a new way of exercising.

Wild Haoli will exercise in the mountains, while Wano's Haoli will sweat in the gym. That is, during the rest, they discovered the martial arts and sumo gyms in Wano.

Sumo is a very famous sport here. Excellent sumo wrestlers have always been very popular with the people of Wano country. As for martial arts, it is a fighting skill similar to karate, but in this domineering world, it is more about strengthening the body means of fitness.

Watching these sports, Hao Li, who became interested, also devoted himself to it, and then aroused the obsession of those people. Hao Li's fighting ability is very strong, and he also has excellent learning ability.

In sumo wrestling and karate fighting, these Haoli had a lot of fun. Even the teachers in the martial arts gym and the sumo wrestlers were shocked by Haoli's talent. He could fight back and forth with them in just a few days .

These people don't know that Haoli's body is very strong and has unfathomable power.

Wearing a power-limiting belt all the time to control their strength, if they took off the belt, they would not be able to fight against Haoli at all. To be precise, in this case, there are not many wrestlers who can compete with Haoli in sumo.

Therefore, sumo wrestlers, karate members, construction workers, these people all began to regard Haoli as the grass head * of their industry, and the dispute began at this moment.

Sumo wrestlers think that the construction workers already have a blacksmith, and now they have to compete with them for power. This behavior is too greedy.

After all, Haoli's energy is limited, so he can't do sumo while working for them. Even if the number of Haoli is large, the number of Haoli who are "working" far exceeds the number of "resting" Haoli.

But the construction workers feel that these people are just looking for trouble. No one has stipulated that there can only be one * in an industry, and the giant blacksmith is obviously more inclined to weapon casting. Haoli who participates in construction activities is their real good partner and is worth relying on "Grass Head God".

Initially they just quarreled verbally, but someone brought up the topic again after drinking too much in the izakaya, and after a physical conflict occurred, the conflict was intensified.

According to their occupations, they were divided into different groups, and a large-scale battle was launched on the grounds of competing for the "God".

Although the sumo wrestlers are big, there are not many of them. On the contrary, there are many construction workers, and they have also practiced their strength on the construction site. At first, they were in an advantage. Later, some people in the martial arts gym joined the camp of sumo wrestlers , leading to a stalemate in the dispute.

This matter was not difficult to deal with, but some powerful forces were also divided into two camps, which made it difficult for the people in charge of internal security of Beasts