

ARMIPOTENT Chapter 716

"Huh!?" Moonsong was aware that Lord Tang Shaoyang left behind one of his familiars with them, but he thought it was to protect the ladies. While the main force left Gigante Forest, Vice Marshal Ashley and Priest Selena stayed in Bareham City. He thought Arelion was here to protect the ladies from the danger, not helping them fight. However, it seemed he was wrong about his thoughts. Marshal Alton indeed predicted the Lionax Kingdom would attack the backline.

Revalor nudged Moonsong's waist with his elbow. Chief Moon was still surprised by the news, and his mind was somewhere else. Moonsong snapped out of his thoughts and replied. "Yes. But may I know the details about the enemy, Sir Arelion? Like the number and where are they now?"

"Hmmm..." Arelion paused for a moment. He did not know anything about the details. He saw the enemy from above, and it was like a colony of ants, so he did not bother to count them. As for where they were, he did not know the place around here well, so he was not sure either.

—Approximately above a hundred thousand knights, and they are an hour to the south by walking.

The Dark Wyvern heard his Master's voice in his head, and he subconsciously yelled out. "Master!?" He turned his head around, trying to find where the voice came from. Moonsong and Revalor looked at each other before looking around as well. They were sure that the Dark Dragon just said, Master. That meant Lord Tang Shaoyang was here.\\\\\\

—Don't bother to look for me. I am speaking through [Spirit Link]. Just tell Moonsong what I told you just now. They can't hear my voice, and I will return to Bareham City right now.

Arelion nodded and conveyed Tang Shaoyang's words to Moonsong. "I will keep watching the enemy, and I will signal you if the enemy is near."

"What kind of signal, Sir Arelion?" Moonsong nodded and asked. The Infernal Wyvern pointed at the sky. "I will spit my fire in the sky, big enough that you will notice it immediately." After saying that, Arelion flew toward the sky. "Also, Master is coming back."

"It seems you haven't gotten used yet to your new role, Sir Moonsong." Revalor smiled as he looked at the withdrawing figure in the sky. "You have to take the initiative, Moonsong. Or else, you will lose Lord Tang Shaoyang's favor quickly even though you have married your daughter to the Emperor."

"My plan is never to stand out or climb up, but for my tribe's safety. I don't mind even if I lose my position." Moonsong said with a relieved smile. He felt that the burden and responsibility in his position were too big for him as he was also the Chief of his Tribe. There were so many already in his hands.

Of course, if he had to relieve his position, it was when the Moon Tribe had gained a firm standing in the Tang Empire. For now, he had to work hard to establish his tribe in this Empire. Leading this war was one of them.

"You are too naive for someone your age, Moonsong." Revalor shook his head and looked to the south. "If you are thinking of relieving your position and becoming free from responsibilities like me, then you are stupid. The reason your tribe is safe is not because of your daughter but because of you. If you are not a Legend Rank, Lord Tang Shaoyang will not listen to our request. So, if you lose Lord Tang Shaoyang's favor, the other tribes will fight for it, and The Moon Tribe will have to pay it for you. So, maintaining your position and climbing up in rank is a must for you. This might be my last piece of advice as a friend to you. I believe Lord Tang Shaoyang will assign us to a different post after the war."

After saying that, Revalor came over to help his son get up. "Son, you should never show your weak side like that..." The father and son walked away side by side as Revalor lectured his son.

Moonsong let out a sigh. He could not refute what Revalor told him as it was a fact. The other tribes would fight to get his position in the Tang Empire. It was true, and the other tribes might frame them to replace him. Of course, that was an extreme case, but he indeed could not lose his status if he wanted his tribe to be safe.

"I guess I have to climb up, and this might be my chance for it. Over a hundred thousand knights..." Moonsong frowned when he heard the number. "How can the Lionax Kingdom have that much army when they are facing the Revolution Army? Wait a minute, Lord Tang Shaoyang is returning. What about the frontline?"

Moonsong was confused with all this fractured information. "Arghhh, I am no longer the mighty Chief that will know everything. I can only get a limited formation with my position, and certain things are even forbidden for me. Let's adapt slowly."

"We have won the war." Moonsong was about to return to manage the Luminous Legion, but then he heard a female voice. He looked over, and Vice Marshal Ashley was approaching him. Chief Moon blinked his eyes and shook his head, recalling what he had just heard. "We win the war?"

"Yes. We have wiped out the Revolution Army and its leader. Lord Tang Shaoyang also has killed the Right-Wing Guardian, the two princes, and two Archdukes of the Lionax Kingdom." Ashley shared the information. "From the information, The Left-Wing Guardian and King Emerson lead this force. As long as we defeat them here, the Lionax Kingdom will not have the Commander and King lead them. They will be a headless snake."

Moonsong blanked upon hearing the news that they had won the war against the kingdom that had been standing for hundreds of years within less than a week... If the Right-Wing Guardian was dead, they practically won the war even though they had not captured the Lionax Kingdom's capital.
