

ARMIPOTENT Chapter 736

'But this is good for them to fear. If they have no fear, they may offend more people.' Herman thought to himself. "Also, what kind of leader can have that kind of member? Have you thought about it? Their leader must be scarier than that young man to make him follow her." Herman reminded something that never crossed these young people's minds. "Don't underestimate them just because they are women. Sometimes, women are scarier than a beast."

"Yes, Guild Leader. We are sorry for our recklessness and are willing to make it up. Can you meet us with them? We are willing to apologize." The bolder young man called Caleb responded to Herman.

"The Tang Empire does not want to communicate with anyone. None of them came out of their booth since the start. We sent them a message, but they did not want to meet us. From their reply, they at least don't take it as a big offense. Just remember not to repeat it." After saying his piece, Herman turned around to look at the Tang Empire's booth. They were talking by themselves.

"How is it, Frans. Did you find something about the Tang Empire?" Herman had sent his people to investigate the Tang Empire. He did not have that much hope to find anything about them, but it was worth trying.

"I found a piece of interesting information about the Tang Empire, Sir." Frans nodded his head. "The leader of the Tang Empire does not attend the World Congress. That girl is not their Leader. They are from China, Shanghai City. That's their main base. That's the only information I could get."

"Where do you get this from?" It was more than he expected. "Are you sure this information is reliable?"

"The Suzhou City Survivor Establishment's member told me about it. I have spent a few thousand Game Coins. I think the information is reliable." Frans nodded his head. "There's one more. The Suzhou City Survivor Establishment has an animosity against the Tang Empire. That young man who exuded the fierce killing intent had killed hundreds of soldiers during the Survival Game of the Suzhou City. His specialty is assassination."

"This is not interesting at all, Frans. You are telling me that we just offended an assassin? A great one at that?" Herman was speechless.

"Oh, there's more, Sir. The Tang Empire is the faction that dominates China, I think. They are a major faction with the largest territories." Frans added another piece of information that soured Herman's expression. "That's it. Oh, there's one more thing, the Fire Witch. It's the red-haired girl. That single girl is enough to scare a whole establishment."

"Hahhhhh..." Herman let out a long sigh and glanced to the back. The young members looked away from their Guild Leader. "Reply to their message... NO, I will reply to their message by myself."

As the timer ticked to zero, a big screen with golden words on it popped out above the platform.

[Please submit your vote!]

After that notification, the text changed into a timer once again. This time, the timer was set for three minutes, meaning the factions had three minutes to submit their votes.

Zhang Mengyao looked at the screen that popped out in front of her. It was just a simple screen with two choices.

[Please vote for the System Event!]

1. Fighting Tournament

2. Battle Royal

Note: Your faction has thirty votes.

The Supreme General tapped the number one without any hesitation. She knew the Fighting Tournament was the least favorite since there were more smaller factions than the major factions. When the three minutes timer reached zero, the result came out.

Fighting Tournament: 540 Votes

Battle Royal: 410 Votes

Zhang Mengyao was surprised when the result came out. She thought it was the Battle Royal for sure, but the Fighting Tournament was chosen instead. She looked at the others as she was bewildered by the result. The others had the same expression as her as none expected to see this result.

"This result gives me a bad omen." Kang Jiayi was the first one to voice his thoughts. Then he remembered where the four VIP factions gathered the smaller factions into the World Union's booth. "Don't tell me they have figured out who the highest player is?"

"They all look weak to me, though." Lu An scanned the World Union's booth and said. "I think I can assassinate all of them if we can locate them." He was so casual talking about killing people.

[Thank you for participating in the votes. We have the result, and the event will be a Fighting Tournament, Earth Strongest Player Tournament, or ESPT in short. The tournament will be held a week before The Earth Dimensional Tower opens for Earth.]

[Alright, the following agenda will be the last agenda for this year's World Congress. The System will explain to you what the Earth Dimensional Tower is. In this vast universe, the tower is commonly called Dimensional Tower.]

[What is a Dimensional Tower? Dimensional Tower is an artificial world created by the System for the players. There are five types of Dimensional Tower, from the lowest rank tower is Mortal Level Tower, Sky Level Tower, Ancient Level Tower, Hell and Heaven Level Tower, and God Level Tower.]

[What's the difference between those levels of towers? Each type of tower contains different numbers of artificial worlds. For example, the Mortal Level Tower only has ten floors, meaning there are only ten Artificial Worlds in the Mortal Level Tower. Sky Level Tower has 25 floors, Ancient Level Tower has 50 Floors, Hell and Heaven Level Tower has 75 floors, and God Level Tower has 150 floors.]

[What's the purpose of the Dimensional Tower? The Dimensional Tower has a resource that your original world might not have. For example, in smithing, you can find a rare ore you can't find in your world. In Alchemy, you can find herbs that do not exist in your world and more... Yes, Dimensional Tower's purpose is to give the players more resources to survive in the upcoming stage.]
