

ARMIPOTENT Chapter 746

Tang Shaoyang then looked at the table. He wondered if the Royalty breakfast was different, but it looked the same in his eyes. There was a small basket with bread, a bowl of soup, fruits, and a glass of milk. The difference was on the plate, the bowl, the spoon and fork, and the tablecloth.

'Wait, milk?' Tang Shaoyang looked at his drink and furrowed his brows. He never drank milk ever since he ran away from the orphanage. It was ten years ago or even more, the last time he drank milk. He had forgotten the taste of this milk. "Can you get calming tea instead?" He asked the maid to change the drink.

"That's Royalty Milk. Why don't you want to drink this luxurious drink?" Rosalie arrived in the dining hall. Florian followed her closely along with the two maids.

Tang Shaoyang was surprised that Rosalie was wearing a veil, and he did not know where that red veil came from. She walked over and took the glass of milk. She gracefully lifted her veil a little bit and drank the milk. "This is the famous Royalty Milk, the drink of the royalty. You should try it." Rosalie placed the glass next to Tang Shaoyang's hand.

The maids grew apprehensive as Rosalie acted so casually toward the Emperor. All the maids' bodies tensed up and lowered their gaze, lest incurring the Emperor's wrath. However, the Emperor's reaction was out of their expectation.

Tang Shaoyang pushed the glass of milk away. "If you want, then you can drink it. Get me a calming tea." He then said to the closest maid. The latter bowed her head and replied. "Yes, Your Majesty."

"Get a seat and have breakfast." Tang Shaoyang did not know that the Spirit could eat the human's food, so he invited Rosalie to eat. The latter did not bother with the formality as she took the closest seat to Tang Shaoyang. There were three servings on the table, and she took one of them.

Tang Shaoyang took a piece of bread and ate it with his hand. He did not bother with the etiquette and glanced at Florian, who had panda eyes. Aside from the panda eyes, the former Princes did not suffer anything. "So what have you been doing with her?" Princess Florian's body shook a little bit when she was being mentioned in the conversation.

Rosalie scooped the soup into her mouth gracefully, totally different from Tang Shaoyang, who shoved the bread into his mouth. "I have decided her punishment, and it is to be my slave for the remaining of her life in exchange, we will raise those three children."

"That means she is your slave too. You can do whatever you want to her, but once you..." Rosalie did not finish her words, but Tang Shaoyang understood what she was about to say. She was talking about the resurrection. "After that, she will serve me for the rest of her life. Unless she does something huge, maybe I will free her."

"What do you mean by we will raise the children?" Tang Shaoyang stopped eating and looked at Rosalie suspiciously. He tried to figure out what she was up to. "We raise them, so this girl will not plant any seed of vengeance on the children or something like that. We will grant them a new identity so that they don't know who their parents are."

Florian's body trembled when she heard the last part. It was cruel that the kids would forget about their parents, but this was the best for them. At least, Kingsley's blood continued even though it would not be known as Kingsley anymore.

Tang Shaoyang scratched his forehead and looked at Florian. The girls he had encountered in this Ortis Continent were kinda weird. "I don't need a useless individual on my side. You can entrust her to someone else."

Rosalie was surprised to hear that from Tang Shaoyang. The surprise was reflected on her face as she looked at him in disbelief. "She's clearly your type, big breast and big butts. I think she can be used to warm your bed."

Tang Shaoyang waved his hand and scooped the white soup. The bread and soup were not comparable to Elin's cooking, but it was still good enough for him to finish it. "I have my wives."

"Oh, she is the previous princess, so she knows a lot more about the Lionax Kingdom. She can stay next to you as a guide? Maybe she can also help you to manage the territory." Rosalie tried many ways to make Florian stay next to Tang Shaoyang. That made him suspicious. He stopped eating and squinted his eyes at Rosalie. "What are you up to? Do you plan something behind me?"

Rosalie rolled her eyes. "Why would I scheme something behind you? There's no benefit in doing so for me."

"Prepare another five set breakfast, and three for children." Tang Shaoyang ordered the maid before looking toward Florian. "Bring your nephew and niece to me. Since Rosalie has made the deal with you. We will raise the children as she promised, and you will stay in the castle for the time being until further instruction."

Florian nodded her head and left the dining room in a hurry. "I will entrust my lovely slave to you until the time." Rosalie smiled at him before returning to the Spiritual Space after finishing a bowl of soup and a glass of milk.

Not long after that, Sylvia and Selena arrived at the dining hall. Selena noticed that someone had eaten one of the breakfast. "One of my spirits ate it, another one will come soon."

Selena nodded and sat at the other side of Rosalie's previous seat, and the moon rabbit princess sat next to her. "How's the city?" Tang Shaoyang asked the two girls as he remembered they were so excited to stroll in the capital.

"Yesterday was quite fun actually. I ate something new, bought some stuff..." Selena told Tang Shaoyang about her yesterday's adventure while Sylvia interjected some times. Soon, the door of the dining hall opened once again. Florian entered the dining hall together with three kids. The former princess panicked when she could not find Rosalie, but Tang Shaoyang beckoned to come over.