

The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 6261

Gustavo wants to see the warden, and so does charlie.

It would be best to find an opportunity to see the warden without being noticed by the Rothschild family.

However, due to the special conditions in the prison, it is not easy for charlie to achieve this goal. It seems that Gustavo can be an opportunity.

In charlie's opinion, getting close to Gustavo is at least easier than getting close to the warden. After all, he and Gustavo happen to be in the same prison area now. So

, he asked Lucas in front of him, "If I want to be friends with Gustavo, is there any good way?"

"Who? Gustavo?" Luca Si seemed to have heard a fantasy, and said with a smile, "Brother, before Gustavo went to prison, he was not only a major drug lord in Mexico, but also one of the top 100 richest people in the world, and he was also the leading private citizen in Mexico. Armed commander, he is locked up in this prison. To us ordinary people, it is almost like a tiger is locked up in a cat's nest. How can he be friends with people like us..." charlie couldn't help but hum when he heard this

. Laugh.

In Lucas's view, there is no comparison between himself and Gustavo.

But the reality is that Gustavo is simply incomparable to himself.

Comparing money? If Gustavo's assets are followed by two zeros, they may not be comparable to his own.

Comparing the team? His little drug-trafficking armament was nothing in front of Wanlong Palace.

Besides, I don't even bother to be friends with a drug dealer, and I'm just using him now.

However, Lucas' words also gave charlie a wake-up call.

Although he is much stronger than Gustavo in all aspects, Gustavo definitely looks down on him in Brooklyn Prison.

In other words, Gustavo looks down on anyone here.

It seems that we need to think carefully about how to approach Gustavo.

While Charlie was eating and thinking about the plan, he looked at Joseph, the boss of the second prison area, and his group of people from the corner of his eye, and found that Joseph and his men were obviously starting to gather more and more. At first, they were still sitting sparsely. Ten several people, thirty or forty people gathered around first, surrounding Joseph and his confidants in the middle, as if they were having a meeting.

Charlie didn't know what conspiracy they were making, so he used his spiritual energy to investigate and sensed that next to Joseph in the middle, a younger brother took out several dagger-shaped objects from his arms. Joseph handed these objects one by one to the most trusted person around him.

The younger brother then whispered, "If the situation escalates later, you will find the opportunity to kill Gustavo directly! Remember, the tip of the knife goes straight into the heart. As long as someone inserts the knife into the heart, others will insert the knife into him." The back of the head, this will ensure that he will die without any doubt and will not be saved by gods. As long as Gustavo dies, good days will come for us in the future!" Several younger brothers hid their daggers in their sleeves and nodded with excitement. .

One of them asked, "What about Gustavo's younger brother? Shall we kill him too?"

Joseph nodded and said coldly, "Kill whoever stands in his way. Anyway, everyone is already serving life imprisonment without parole. Killing one is a murder." Killing ten is still killing!"

Charlie was slightly shocked. He just listened to Lucas and Gustavo's own analysis. Joseph should have been instructed by the Rothschild family to cause trouble for Gustavo. Spent his life force in a Brooklyn jail.

However, now this Joseph actually wants to kill Gustavo directly.

charlie secretly thought to himself that the Rothschild family had spent so much effort to lock Gustavo in a prison controlled by them. It was definitely impossible to kill him just like that, so it was very possible for Joseph to kill Gustavo. There is someone else.

And the strength of this person must not be underestimated, otherwise it would be impossible for Joseph to leave the Rothschild family behind.

It is speculated that this person is likely to be a member of the Gustavo Sanchez family.

If you think about it carefully, for the current rulers of the Sanchez family, keeping Gustavo in the hands of the Americans is tantamount to putting a tightrope on themselves. This Curse, if he fails to cooperate even a little bit, other people in the family may think that he doesn't care about Gustavo's life or death, so for him, Gustavo is alive. It's just a constraint.

If Gustavo is allowed to die directly during the prison riot, this constraint will disappear, and both the US government and the Rothschild family will lose their leverage to directly control him.

Thinking of this, charlie smiled slightly, knowing that the opportunity had come.

So, charlie asked him, "Has there ever been a riot in this prison?" "Of course." Lucas said casually, "Riots are commonplace here, and the prison guards don't pay much attention. They are like the owners of a dog farm.

The hunting dogs were kept in cages, and they could bite and fight as they pleased. They just watched the fun behind the iron fence. When they had seen enough of the fun, they would come in and intervene, separate the biting hunting dogs, drag the bodies out, and then kill the living ones. Each of the hunting dogs is equipped with fifty sticks."

As he said, Lucas asked charlie, "Why do you ask this suddenly?"

charlie looked towards Joseph and saw that Joseph's men began to disperse, heading towards Gus from several directions.

Tavo moved around and whispered, "I feel like they are going to do something." Lucas was used to it and said, "It's normal. They have a clear goal in doing something. Let's Just stay away and watch the fun."

charlie smiled slightly, put down his spoon, and said with a smile, "What's the point of watching the fun from a distance? I just like to join in the fun."

After that, he stood up and walked slowly towards Gus Tavor walked over.

At this time, Gustavo also realized something was wrong.

Although Joseph's men were scattered in all directions, they all seemed to be making detours towards him. Some came directly towards him in a straight line, while some went around several parabolas with varying arcs, and some even went around to the other side. Wrap yourself in it.

His expression suddenly became serious, and he said coldly to the men around him, "It seems that Joseph is going to take action today!"

A dozen of his men were nervous for a while.

According to GustavoAnalysis, Joseph wants to weaken Gustavo's strength in Brooklyn Prison. Who is Gustavo's strength here? Isn't it just yourself?

Therefore, they instinctively thought that Joseph's people were coming for them, so they all felt like they were facing a formidable enemy and were ready for a tough battle.

The key is that although they, members of the Mexican criminal group, are strong in fighting outside, they only rely on the guns in their hands and a cruel heart.

Give them a pistol and they dare to kill seven or eight unarmed civilians one by one.

But once they lose their guns, their brutal hearts and fighting prowess are no match for these American muscular men.

After all, a cruel heart cannot strengthen their muscles. When it comes to using their hands, one of Joseph's gang of muscular men who pound the iron all day long can beat the two of them.

Moreover, Gustavo's men don't have an advantage in terms of strength, nor do they have an advantage in numbers. In Brooklyn Prison, there are at least a few hundred of Joseph's younger brothers and admirers, and there are currently thirty or forty muscular men mobilized. People, if a fight breaks out later, I don't know if there will be dozens or hundreds of people showing off black feet among the onlookers.

Gustavo was hiding behind a dozen boys at this time, looking at the muscular men surrounding him with an indifferent expression, not realizing that he was in danger.

He felt that the Rothschild family just didn't want him to be too happy. If a few of his younger brothers were really killed today, then he would just keep a low profile in the future, but it would not prevent him from continuing to eat, drink and play with women.

So, he stood up and looked at Joseph from a distance, his expression angry and a bit cold.

He felt that the next time he discussed cooperation with the Rothschild family, no matter what they asked him to do, he had to attach a condition, and that was to kill Joseph.

Anyway, to the Rothschild family, Joseph was a dog they kept in a Brooklyn jail. If this dog died, it would not matter if he replaced it with another.

Confident and arrogant, he didn't even realize that the one who was really going to be hunted tonight was himself!
