

charlie wade - The Amazing Son In Law

1. The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 6450

But when he thought about the strength of the Po Qing Society, he was still frightened, and even planned to leave the United States and find a safe place to temporarily avoid the limelight.

Just when he was uneasy, his youngest son David Rothschild knocked on the door anxiously and said outside the door: "Father, there is urgent news!"

Howard heard that it was urgent news and said quickly: "Come in and talk."

David opened the door and walked through the outer hall to the bedroom. He looked at Howard who was half-lying on the bedside and said sadly: "Father! Something big has happened!"

Howard asked nervously: "Excuse me What's the big deal?!"

David lamented and said, "The Sifang Baozhuan has returned to China..."

"What?!" Howard only felt a buzzing in his head, as if the whole person fell from the clouds, and he used It took more than ten seconds to come back to his senses. He suddenly sat up from the bed and asked sternly: "What did you just say? Say it again!"

Seeing that he was weak and seemed to be overly nervous, David quickly stepped forward to support him. After turning his back, he said cautiously: "Father, according to official news from China, the Sifang Baozhuan was donated back to China through secret channels. The Chinese official also announced that this national treasure that had been lost overseas for two hundred years has officially returned..."

Howard instantly My brain exploded, I grabbed the quilt and pillows on the bed and threw them away wildly, shouting hysterically: "What's going on?! What's going on?! I surrounded New York into an iron barrel, and everyone who left New York Everyone must be inspected, especially the airport. Why can Sifang Baozhuang return to China under my nose?! What the hell is going on?!"

After that, he said with trembling hands , pointed at David, and cursed angrily: “Trash! All of you are complete trash!”

David said nervously: “Father, I have just received the news. It is an official report from China. The report has been translated , we only noticed it after it was released on the American online media, and the report did not have any description or explanation of how Sifang Baozhu returned to China. I don’t know how Sifang Baozhu returned to China, but the fact is, It has indeed returned to China...”

Howard roared angrily: “Go! Protest to the Chinese Embassy in the United States! Tell them that the Sifang Baozhuan is a personal property of the Rothschild family, and demand that they return it immediately!”

With that said, Howard added: “Don’t wait for their reply, call your eldest brother back immediately and ask him to take the lead in organizing a team to go to China, call all the best lawyers in the United States, and negotiate with them when you arrive. If it doesn’t work, just Sue them! I don’t care what method you use, the Sifang Baozhuang must be returned to me!!!”

David said with a very embarrassed expression: “Father... China has disclosed the relevant history of the Sifang Baozhuang, and mentioned the The history of the First Opium War, the Second Opium War and the Eight-Power Allied Forces. Now the whole world knows that the Sifang Baozhuang was snatched back by the Western world along with millions of Chinese cultural relics. If we now go to negotiate with China, Asking them to return the Sifang Pagoda is not only unjustifiable in terms of law, but also unjustifiable in terms of public opinion...”

“Public opinion?” Howard said angrily: “How long has it been, and you don’t care what the damn public opinion says! Two hundred years ago, Britain’s It was after Queen Victoria shouted that “for the benefit of Britain” that the army drove warships everywhere to invade opium sellers. We were just following the British Fusiliers to pick up scraps, and she was not even tried. What kind of public opinion are you still talking to me about now? If someone robs the British Museum and returns the contents to the country of origin, Britain will shamelessly ask them to return it! “

As he spoke, Howard asked him angrily: “The diamond on the King of Britain’s scepter was cut out of the Star of Africa! The Star of Africa is a diamond from fucking South Africa! Edward VII took it, cut it into hundreds of pieces of various sizes, and put them all into their own jewelry. Why did he have such a big face? Why can't he return the diamonds to the people of South Africa? They robbed a whole museum and a whole palace, but it was fine. Damn it, our ancestors went to great lengths to snatch back a square treasure building from China. They have kept it at home for two hundred years. Why do you say that? Just return? Did I agree? ! “

David bit the bullet and said: “Father, South Africa was a colony of Britain back then. According to the international legal principles at that time, things in the colony belonged to the mother country. Even the people in the colony belonged to the mother country. Not to mention that Edward VII took one Star of Africa, even if he took away all the diamonds in South Africa, no one can say that he broke the law. At most, his history is not glorious.”

After that, David added: “But our situation is different! China Although they were invaded by the West, it was never colonial. What was theirs was theirs. To put it bluntly, our ancestors took it back. If we shamelessly went to negotiate with them, we would have no basis for public opinion. There's no way to support it! Not only will the things not come back, but the whole world will be posting them on social networking sites and scolding him to death. Isn't that just stealing the chicken but losing the rice?”

1. The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 6451

Howard became anxious and slapped him in the face. , scolded angrily: “Bastard! Do you mean to just watch the Sifang Baozhu return to China?!”

David was slapped, and felt extremely aggrieved, but he did not dare to show it, so he could only say angrily: ” Then...then I'll tell my brother to come back...”

After that, David turned around and was about to go out.

Not to mention how frustrated he was.

I am just here to report the news, and give some objective suggestions by the way, so as to prevent the old man from getting angry and doing something ridiculous.

But who would have thought that the old man not only refused to acknowledge his feelings, but also slapped him in the face. What was he trying to do?

It's better to just follow his words. If he wants the eldest brother to negotiate, then let the eldest brother negotiate.

When Howard saw him turning around to leave, he felt a little uneasy and quickly stopped him: "David, wait a minute!"

David turned around and asked respectfully: "What else does father have to say?"

Howard said: "Contact the public opinion officer and the legal team and let them analyze the most reasonable way to handle this matter based on public opinion and legal principles."

David nodded, immediately took out his mobile phone, and called on the Rothschild family's video conferencing software. Two heads of public opinion and legal teams.

One of these two people was a top journalist, and the other was a top lawyer. They were both prominent figures in New York's upper class. Later, they were all taken under the wing of the Rothschild family and became members of the Rothschild family's think tank. Therefore, they are very concerned about every move of the Rothschild family. They have long known that the Rothschild family is searching for the whereabouts of the Sifang Treasure Building. They also know that the Rothschilds are very passive in terms of public opinion because of the Sifang Treasure Building. And now, they have all received the news that Sifang Baozhuang has returned to the United States.

When David initiated the video conference, both of them jumped in immediately.

David asked the two of them in front of Howard: "You two should also know the news that Sifang Baozhuang has returned to China. I wonder how you think it is more appropriate for us to protect our rights now?" The person in charge of public opinion said: "Ross Mr. Child, please forgive me, the current online public opinion is very unfavorable to us. The previous abuse of lynching of Peter Zhou in order to recover the Sifang Baozhuang has had a very serious negative impact. Now the Sifang Baozhuang Back home, if we keep silent and pretend that this matter has nothing to do with us, it is estimated that public opinion will no longer pay attention to this matter after a while. However, if we stand up to negotiate and protest at this time, it is estimated that the family will be pushed into public opinion again. On the cusp of the storm..."

In another video dialog box, the head of the lawyer also said: "Mr. Rothschild, I think what Jim said is very reasonable. We were looking for the Sifang Baozhuang before, but we did not find the Sifang Baozhuang. His name has been made public, and many of the image materials have been circulated internally by the people responsible for blocking New York. If we don't make any response, there won't be much of a problem."

After that, the lawyer added: "In addition, this matter From a legal point of view, we can't stand it. First of all, this antique is one of the countless treasures that the West seized from China, and the Rothschild family has secretly hidden it in their home for so many years. This antique does not appear in any asset fair information or asset statistics. In other words, we have no evidence to prove that this Chinese antique is owned by the Rothschild family;" "

Besides, this thing was obtained by Peter Zhou from the Rothschild family. The Child family stole it, and you just announced the withdrawal of the lawsuit, claiming that Peter Zhou did not steal anything from the Rothschild family. It was all a misunderstanding. The legal logic of the previous theft incident ends here. The self-consistency has been completed, but if you suddenly make representations to Chinese officials over the air and say that the thing is a stolen collection of the Rothschild family, then the context and logic of the thing will be missing and contradictory, no matter where it is. If we sue, our demands will not be supported by the court..."

Howard heard this and his whole body collapsed!

He never dreamed that his reconciliation with Peter Zhou would be a bad move!

As the lawyer said, he had already admitted that everything was a misunderstanding. How could he now propose to the Chinese officials from afar that the Sifang Mansion that had just returned to China was a personal property of the Rothschild family?

If he really did this, wouldn't the whole family be disgraced by him? !

1.