For Steve, the current situation can be described as a sudden realization.

The old man suffered a stroke and suffered a stroke. No matter how well he recovers, there will definitely be many sequelae. More importantly, his morale will be greatly affected. These will reduce the possibility of him continuing to lead the Rothschild family. .

Therefore, now that he can directly inherit the family when he enters, and can take charge of all the family affairs as heir when he retires, he can be regarded as having real power.

Because of this, he couldn't understand that charlie Wade's words were warning him or inoculating him. He thought that charlie Wade deliberately told him not to be so optimistic, hoping that he could control himself better after returning to New York. Emotions.

As a result, for the first time, he was truly moved by charlie Wade.

Although this mandatory "partner" has always made me dissatisfied, I didn't expect that this mandatory "partner" actually did it for my own good.

This made him suddenly feel in his heart: "If I had the power and kicked him out immediately and turned against him, wouldn't it appear that Steve, I, was not very kind?"

In fact, how did he know that charlie Wade was not thinking about him at all.

Because charlie Wade knew that he could never let Howard Rothschild, an old fox, rest like this.

He had already given the blood-dispersing and heart-saving elixir to Helena, and he still hoped to obtain various benefits from that elixir, and at the same time keep Steve in the position of first heir.

So, he stood up, patted Steve on the shoulder, and said with a smile: "Steve, take your son, hurry up and go back and have a look. Helena originally wanted to talk to you about cooperation between the two parties, but now look There is no chance for now, but don't worry, you go back to bed first to fulfill your filial piety, and then ask Helena to go to New York in person. On the one hand, she will represent the Nordic royal family to visit the old man in person, and on the other hand, she will also help you in the future. Try to get more attention from the old man. After all, she went to New York because the chat with you was more speculative, and the Queen went to visit in person, so you look better."

Steve was also wily, and he immediately heard that charlie meant in his words was to let Helena go to the family to fill up the scene for him. After all, the old man wanted to have some relationship with the Nordic royal family, borrowing the royal background of the Nordic royal family, and also borrowing Helena's popular folk life. Popularity.

Steve was really touched when he heard that Charlie could let Helena go to New York.

He couldn't help but hold Charlie Wade's hand and said seriously: "Mr. Wade, don't worry, I will always remember your words, don't forget to be rich and noble! If I become the heir of the Rothschild family, the Ye family will definitely become our strategic partner!"

Charlie Wade nodded with a pleased look on his face: "If you have this heart, it's worth my help!"

Steve nodded enthusiastically, but the next second, I couldn't help but wonder: "Damn this, who is helping whom? Hey, forget it, let anyone help whomever. Anyway, he successfully transported the Sifang Baozhuang out, and I took over the power smoothly right away. Win-win cooperation for everyone can be regarded as a successful business cooperation case."

So, he said with gratitude: "Mr. Wade, thank you for your help!"

Charlie Wade smiled slightly: "Come on, I am optimistic about you."

In fact, Charlie Wade didn't doubt Steve's sincerity at this moment, but he also knew that this sincerity contained more or less impulsive elements.

It's like when people drink too much, they tend to become more generous and talkative than usual. If you promise something to others when you are drunk, you will probably regret it after you sober up, even if you don't regret it.

Therefore, Charlie Wade knew that he must not believe his verbal promises, otherwise he would be the one who would be passive in the future.

After all, the only way I could truly control Steve was that he betrayed the interests of the Rothschild family and helped send the Sifang Mansion out of New York and back to China.

However, in order to control him through this, the premise is that Howard, an old fox, must be in control.

Once Steve, the crown prince, ascends the throne, and he tells Howard, the crown prince, that his grandson has been rebellious and colluded with foreign enemies, Howard will have no choice but to break his teeth and swallow it, otherwise his own son will not let him go.

Soon, Steve took his son, who had come to Canada first, and took a helicopter back to New York.

On his way to New York, Howard's vital signs were stabilized in the Rothschild emergency room.

It's just that stability is stable, but the old man's nervous system is still greatly affected.

The most serious thing is that there is almost no nerve sensation on the right side of his body. In addition to his right hand, right foot, right leg, and right arm, the facial muscles and tongue muscles on the right side are also greatly affected, causing visual impairment. Visible mouth and slanted eyes.

This also means that his pronunciation and enunciation of speech will also be affected.

This is standard hemiplegia.

Fortunately, Howard's brain was not greatly affected and his thinking ability is still normal.

After he regained consciousness, the stroke expert comforted him and said: "Mr. Rothschild, your body is now out of danger, but you are currently experiencing some symptoms of hemiplegia, but you don't need to worry too much, we have the best rehabilitation medical system in the world. As long as you can actively participate in rehabilitation training, I believe you will be able to regain your ability to move independently in the near future."

Howard was still in a somewhat extreme mood, trembling and gritting his teeth as he cursed: "Fu*k... Bastard! Call... call... my best... best team of lawyers... I... I want to fight... a lawsuit... with China... to... want our Sifang... back... ...Square treasure building!"

The doctor saw his blood pressure skyrocketing in an instant, and quickly comforted him: "Mr. Rothschild, the most taboo thing for you now is excessive emotions. If you have cardiovascular and cerebrovascular problems, the situation will only get worse. Serious and even life-threatening. I suggest that you now look away from all the things that you couldn't look away from before. No matter how much losses you have suffered before, you must always remind yourself in the bottom of your heart that saving your life is important and you must not let this loss happen. If it continues to expand, especially if it extends to your own body, judging from your symptoms just now, if it were an ordinary person, if the treatment time were delayed by just a few minutes, the person might be gone." After that , the doctor said seriously. : "Mr. Rothschild, you already have endless money, but you don't have endless life! In front of longevity, everything else is just a cloud! A Chinese comedian said it very well, The greatest sorrow in life is that people die and money is not spent. Think about it for yourself, is this true?"

Howard didn't expect the doctor to speak so directly and unpleasantly. His first reaction was to instinctively want to be angry. He was furious, but then he subconsciously thought about what the doctor just said.

It's easy to lose your temper, but with your current physical condition, it might be easier to lose your temper and kill yourself...

He has enjoyed a lifetime of glory and wealth, so he naturally knows that life is the most precious thing in the world.

Although the treasures in all directions are related to the future fortune and destiny of the entire Rothschild family, if I die, what will happen even if the Rothschild family rules the world and dominates the universe in the future?
