When charlie Wade saw his father-in-law coming back from outside with a smug look on his face, he knew that his return to the Calligraphy and Painting Association was a sure thing.

So he deliberately asked him curiously: “Dad, why are you so happy? Is there something good happening?”

Jacob smiled and said, “Good son-in-law, Master Don Albert is really amazing. You just finished talking to him this afternoon, and Pei Qidong came to beg me to return to the Calligraphy and Painting Association in the evening!”

Then, Jacob said, “Pei Qidong arranged a director position for me. Although it is several levels lower than the previous executive vice president, it is still acceptable. I have already promised him that I will go back to report tomorrow.”

charlie Wade nodded gently. Although his father-in-law has average ability and limited level, he can't let him stay at home all the time. It's better to find him something to do to save worry, so he smiled and said, “This is also good , at least you don't have to be so boring, Dad. “

Jacob nodded excitedly and said, “I shocked Pei Qidong today. I told him exactly what I said. I already live in Tomson Yipin. Who really cares about you, a calligraphy and painting association? This buddy seemed to understand it all of a sudden. Didn't you see his expression at that time? Oh my god, it's so wonderful!”

At this time, Claire opened the door and came in. He just heard Jacob dancing and saying wonderful, so he smiled and asked, “Dad, what wonderful thing are you talking about? You're so happy!”

Jacob saw that it was his daughter who came back and didn't want her to know about his own affairs, so he smiled and said, “It's okay, it's okay. I'm talking to charlie Wade about our association. Claire, have you eaten?”

“Yes.” Claire said, “We had a working lunch at Dihao.”

Then she asked, “Dad, how was your and Mom's time in Dubai?”

After that, without waiting for Jacob to speak, he stood up and said, “Dad, if there's nothing else, I'll go up first.”

The next day, Jacob drove to the Calligraphy and Painting Association to report early in the morning.

Although many people did talk about his return behind his back, since every vice president had greeted him privately, no one dared to discuss Jacob's affairs publicly at that time.

Jacob was a little nervous at first, fearing that he would be ridiculed, but he didn't expect everyone to be very polite to him, which completely dispelled his doubts.

A few days later, Hank and Matilda returned to Aurous Hill after their honeymoon.

The press conference for the establishment of Bruce Automobile is approaching.

This time, although the An family has invested in many projects in China, the most concerned and important thing for the An family is the Bruce Automobile that will be announced soon.

In order to highlight the importance of Bruce Automobile, the An family and Charlie Wade made a decision together. Charlie Wade's maternal uncle, An Qishan, will personally serve as the chairman of Bruce Automobile, and Charlie Wade's grandfather, Lord Wade, will also attend the press conference on behalf of the Wade family. At the same time, because he will hold shares on behalf of Charlie Wade, he also holds the position of vice chairman.

However, according to the results of the discussion between Charlie Wade and the An family, the real chairman will be his second uncle Homula, and the chief executive officer will be Hank. In principle, Homula will not interfere with the specific production and operation of Bruce Automobile, and will delegate power to Hank to the greatest extent.

In order to build momentum for Bruce Automobile, the An family and the Wade family announced to the public that they would soon carry out an unprecedented business cooperation, but did not disclose to the public what the project they were going to cooperate on was.

The Wade family is well-known in China, and although the An family has been developing in the United States before, as the world's strongest Chinese family, they also have extraordinary popularity and influence in China.

As soon as they heard that the two families were about to join hands to invest in China, the media across the country paid close attention to this matter, and the people across the country were also very curious about which industry the two top families would choose to cooperate again after so many years, and how much money they would invest.

According to the media and the Internet's attention to this matter, once the brand of Bruce Automobile is officially announced, it is estimated that at least 300 million Chinese will know this brand at the first time. The day before the press conference, Charlie Wade's grandfather Lord Wade flew from Yanjing to Aurous Hill, and Charlie Wade went to the airport to greet him in person.

According to the scheduled itinerary, Charlie Wade will first take him to visit his grandparents' residence in Aurous Hill. After all, both parties are in-laws. Although they have not had much contact for so many years, now that they have found Charlie Wade, with Charlie Wade as the link, both parties also want to take this opportunity to meet, hoping to take the opportunity to put aside their past grudges.

Lord Wade was looking forward to this meeting very much. As soon as he saw Charlie Wade, he quietly asked him: "Charlie, you asked me to hold the shares on your behalf to sign the contract with your grandfather. Is he not angry?"

Charlie Wade smiled and said, "How could that be? Grandpa is looking forward to meeting you."

Lord Wade was relieved and said, "It's good that he is not angry. Otherwise, he will always be so upset and it will be embarrassing for both him and me."

As he said that, Lord Wade sighed and lamented, "Ever since your parents got into trouble, I basically have no chance to communicate normally with your grandfather's family. They always complain that we drove your parents out of the house and let them put themselves in danger and blamed us for losing you. For so many years, your grandpa didn't even bother to say a word to me, and your uncles didn't want to talk to me. I was afraid that they would still be like this now. "

Charlie Wade smiled slightly and said, "Grandpa, you don't have to mention those things in the past when you get to grandpa. Grandpa really wants to take this opportunity to reconcile with the Wade family, otherwise he wouldn't be so proactive in wanting to meet you. You should have a good chat, maybe you can start real cooperation on other projects in the future."

Over the years, the grievances between the Wade family and the An family came more from the deepening misunderstandings.

At the beginning, Charlie Wade's father, Bruce, was targeted by the Poqing Society, so he deliberately became an enemy of the Rothschild family because he did not want to implicate his family.

It was precisely because he was an enemy of the Rothschild family and put the Wade family under tremendous pressure that Lord Wade was forced to drive Bruce out of the family.

At the beginning, Lord Wade did not know that his beloved second son had already been in danger of his life. He just felt that the Wade family would not get any substantial benefits by being an enemy of the Rothschilds, but would greatly affect the family's future international development.

In order to show goodwill to the Rothschild family and to show them that he had no intention of being an enemy, he drove Bruce out of the house.

In fact, what he thought in his heart was that driving Bruce away was just a temporary act, on the one hand, so that Bruce could not mobilize the resources of the Wade family to confront the Rothschild family, and on the other hand, it could satisfy the Rothschild family.

And he also knew that the Wade family and the Rothschild family were only in a commercial competition at the time, and they would never extend this competitive relationship into a substantial confrontation and harm.

In other words, this was a competition between two ordinary companies. In order to express sincerity to the other party, the chairman of the board fired his CEO. In this case, the CEO would at most be unemployed for a period of time, and the other company would never find someone to assassinate him.

Therefore, when Bruce decided to leave Eastcliff with his wife and children and go to Aurous Hill, Lord Wade did not think that Aurous Hill would be the burial place of his son. He even felt that his son Bruce seemed to be a little too angry during that time, and it would be a good thing to go to Aurous Hill to relax and cultivate his character.

But he never expected that the trip he thought of to relax would become the beginning of the separation of the father and son.

When Charlie Wade drove the car to the gate of the villa, before the car stopped, all the people in the An family came out of the villa.

An Qishan and his wife supported each other and walked in front, followed by their four children, and even Li Yalin came out to greet them.

Lord Wade in the car was surprised to see the An family coming out to greet them. He was a little nervous. The car was still slowing down, and he had subconsciously unbuckled his seat belt and was about to open the door.

The moment the seat belt reminder sounded, charlie Wade also stopped the car completely.

Lord Wade opened the door almost at the same time as charlie Wade stopped the car, and couldn't wait to get out of the car.

An Qishan couldn't help but walk a few steps faster. When Lord Wade got out of the car, he stretched out his hands to him and said with emotion: "Brother Ye, how have you been all these years!"

Lord Wade shook hands with him, nodded slightly and said: "Brother An, how have you been!" With just two simple greetings, the two old men's clasped hands had already swung up and down many times.

charlie Wade's grandmother also stepped forward and said politely, "Brother Ye, long time no see!"

Lord Wade nodded to her and smiled, "How have you been these years, my sister-in-law?"

Lord Wade agreed without hesitation and said, "The doctor has always told me not to drink, but I must have a few drinks today!"

A crowd of people surrounded the three old men and entered the villa. The large dining table in the restaurant was already full of food. An Qishan pulled Lord Wade to sit together. He stood up and poured a glass of wine for Lord Wade, and filled it for himself. At the same time, he arranged for several children and charlie Wade to say, "You all should also accompany me tonight to have two drinks."

charlie Wade heard it, so he stood up and poured wine for his three uncles, aunt and Li Yalin.

An Qishan picked up the wine glass himself and said to Lord Wade with guilt: "Brother wade, for so many years, the An family has neglected you a lot. Many things we did wrong. I am here to sincerely apologize to you on behalf of the An family. Please don't treat us as a person!"

Lord Wade naturally understood what An Qishan meant. Over the years, he was indeed targeted by the An family. Once he met Homula at an important meeting overseas. Although the latter was a junior, he still didn't give him half a face.

But Lord Wade has always been objective enough in his dealings with people and things. He knew that the An family was dissatisfied with him because Lydia (Ava) ( Charlie's mom ) died after marrying into the Wade family. Even the most reasonable family members would have resentful. What's more, Lydia (Ava) ( Charlie's mom ) was the eldest daughter of the An family and the brightest pearl of the An family. Not only did her parents love her very much, but her three younger brothers and one younger sister also regarded her as an idol. The death of Lydia (Ava) ( Charlie's mom ) was a great loss and pain for everyone in the An family.

So, he also picked up the wine glass and said sincerely: "I, Lord Wade, have hated many people in my life, and I have blamed many people, but the An family is definitely not one of them. Since what happened to Lydia (Ava) ( Charlie's mom ) and Bruce happened in Aurous Hill, it is the responsibility of the Wade family. It is the Wade family that failed to fulfill its obligation to protect them. It is human nature for you to blame me."

Then he said: "If Bruce had an accident in the United States and I didn't know the details, I would definitely blame the An family." As soon as these words came out, Lord Wade's expression suddenly became very lonely, and he murmured softly: "Hey, all these years, I have been everywhere, but I haven't come here. Aurous Hill, this is the first time since Bruce and Lydia (Ava) ( Charlie's mom ) were buried. "

An Qishan looked sad, sighed, nodded and said: "Alas! I didn't want to come to Aurous Hill before, and I couldn't even hear the word Aurous Hill, but later I knew that Charlie had lived here for so many years, and I didn't reject Aurous Hill so much in my heart. "
