

The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 7026

By _ / September 5, 2024

Under the cover of night, all the phosphate mining areas in central Morocco are working with bright lights.

In order to ensure mining efficiency, the mining area has been working without stopping, and various mining equipment has been running at full capacity, mining frantically on the white phosphate ground.

Duke Mining is no exception.

Here, the people responsible for production and mining are all the cavalry guards of the Poqing Society and their families. This is mainly because the mining areas are all on the ground. In order to prevent the dead soldiers and their families from knowing too much about the geographical features of the surrounding environment, they never let the dead soldiers and their families come out of the mine in a conscious state.

The dead soldiers usually live and receive training underground. When there is a mission, they will be secretly sent out by the cavalry guards.

At this moment, no one in the cavalry guards of the entire Duke Mining is taking turns to rest. In addition to those working in the mining area and the refinery, there are hundreds of people continuing to weld towering iron frames in various parts of the mining area.

At present, most of the iron frames have been completed and the circuits have been run through. What remains is to install various monitoring equipment and lay the wires needed for the monitoring equipment.

On the platform of the railway freight yard, more than fifty cavalry guards were waiting anxiously. Most of them were Asian, with a few European, American and African. The leading man stared at the direction of the railroad tracks, looking down at his watch from time to time, muttering, "It's past eight o'clock, why hasn't the train arrived yet?"

At this time, a white-faced man came running anxiously. He came to the leading man and said in Chinese with no accent at all, "Commander, Song Qianshi asked me to ask you when the train will arrive. She said that if the equipment cannot be installed today, she will report to the Governor's Office and ask the Grand Governor to punish her." The man called the commander said in annoyance, "I reported to her this morning about the damage to the circuit of the Casablanca Port Freight Station. At the same time, I also confirmed with my colleagues over there that the circuit of the freight yard is There was indeed a problem, which affected all trains today to varying degrees, but the train had already left at around 5pm and would definitely arrive tonight. Was it necessary for her to keep asking over and over again? "

As she was speaking, she heard a woman's voice coldly saying, "Commander Yin, you and I both serve the Lord. The reason I urged you was that the progress here had already been significantly behind expectations. If the Grand Admiral blames me, I, Sun, will at most be scolded, but you, the person directly responsible, will not be able to get away with it so easily!" The commander immediately turned around and saw a woman in her early twenties, wearing a white shirt, with long hair tied behind her head, and a heroic figure, stepping onto the platform. The white shirt this woman wore had a strong ancient Chinese style. She had a white ribbon tied to her bun and even a slender silver sword on her waist. If she hadn't been standing on this train platform, she would have looked more like a character from a martial arts novel. However , the two were still hundreds of meters apart at the moment, but her voice could ring in the commander's ears like thunder.

His face turned stern, and he thought to himself: "This is the power of a cultivator. Just a few words can shock people's hearts and even cause fluctuations in their internal energy. If she uses a few more powers, I'm afraid I can't even stand up..."

Shocked, he quickly turned around to greet the woman. Before he got in front of her, he had already raised his fists above his head. When he walked in front of her, he immediately knelt on one knee and said respectfully: "Don't misunderstand, sir, I don't mean to blame you, sir, it's just that this batch of goods is really not easy to get. There were many troubles since the purchase, and it took a long time to finally get it. Yu arrived at the post. I thought it would be dispatched this morning, but there was a circuit problem at the freight station again..."

At this point, he hurriedly said: "But don't worry, sir, the train has indeed been dispatched. Even if it is slow, it should arrive within half an hour."

The young woman did not speak, her eyes looked at the other end of the railway, and said: "Commander Yin, I will listen to these objective reasons you have to say, but the commander-in-chief may not. If these equipment can arrive today, you will only have three days to install and test them. After three days, if everything is accepted, you will have to prepare for a major change. Time is very tight."

When the woman called Song Chenshi said the three words "major change", the expressions of everyone around her instantly became tense.

The commander hurriedly asked her respectfully: "Mr. Song, I dare to ask, what do you mean by the big change?"

Mr. Song said calmly: "Judging from your reactions when you heard these three words, you should have heard about it, right? You Cavalry Guards are not dead soldiers, and you are not so isolated from the news. For such a big thing, your special envoys will probably tell you about it. Why do you have to ask me?"

The commander immediately lowered his head and said in fear: "I dare not speculate on the orders from above, but I dare to ask because I heard Mr. Song mentioned it. If Mr. Song is not convenient to disclose it, just pretend that I have never asked..."

Mr. Song said calmly: "It doesn't matter to tell you, because this is another important matter for me to come this time. It's time to start preparing now."

At this point, she paused slightly, looked around at everyone, and said: "The big change means that the British Lord requires all the Cavalry Guards and their families stationed in the base to be rotated. Some of the Cavalry Guards will leave and their families will stay, and some of the families will leave and the Cavalry Guards will stay;"

"For those whose families stay, other Cavalry Guards will naturally take over the duty; for those whose families leave, other Cavalry Guards' families will naturally be rotated in for you to take care of." When everyone heard this, their hearts sank to the bottom.

Although these Cavalry Guards did not have to live underground for their whole lives like the dead soldiers, they still had no freedom. The lives of them and their families depended on the antidote of the Lord of England. Defection?

They would never dare to do that, because as long as they were driven away, even if the Po Qing Society did not hunt them down, they would surely die.

Therefore, the biggest motivation for them to live like this was their family.

Because at least, they still had their families around them.

If they performed well and made great contributions, they would even have the opportunity to be promoted. After the promotion, they could work in more important departments under the Governor's Office, and their families would have better living conditions. They would even have the opportunity to train their children to become scholars. Once their children became scholars, they could obtain a legal identity in social life and live an ordinary life to a certain extent.

But now, the Po Qing Society actually wanted to separate them from their families. What a blow it was for them!

The commander asked with a heavy heart: "Song Chenshi, this... Is the purpose of this blood transfusion to separate all the Cavalry Guards from their families?"

Song Chenshi did not hide anything and nodded and said: "Of course, as long as they are in the Cavalry Guard sequence, no one can be exempted, including you, the commander."

After that, Song Chenshi said coldly: "Loyalty to the British Lord is not just talk. The Grand Commander must ensure that if you have the intention to defect in the future, your family members will be rotated out. Before you want to defect, you will have more ties. You can escape, but if you escape, your family members will be executed immediately without a single one left! If you die in battle for the British Lord, your family members will also receive the highest level of preferential treatment!"

Song Chenshi had some hidden secrets that he did not explain to these people.

This order for a blood transfusion was not decided by the Grand Commander Wu Shutong, but by the British Lord Sara.

The disappearance of all Cyprus members from the Cavalry Guards to the Death Squad made Sara guess that the mysterious enemy should have a way to detoxify.

The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 7028

By / September 5, 2024

Therefore, if the plan in Nigeria fails this time, she must guard against the mysterious man who will instigate the other death warriors' garrisons to rebel.

Therefore, she came up with a method of major blood changes, which completely disrupted the cavalry guards in all the death warriors' garrisons. First, they were separated from their families, and second, their organization was broken and reorganized, so that the cohesion cultivated for many years between these comrades was completely broken.

In this way, if a certain garrison was targeted by a mysterious person again, these cavalry guards would never dare to be bewitched rashly when faced with the temptation of rebellion, once they considered their families.

Because once any of them disappeared, their families living in other garrisons would be killed on the spot.

On the contrary, if they bravely resisted the enemy, even if they left a corpse or a head, their families would benefit from it.

To put it bluntly, it was to use the family of each cavalry guard to threaten the other party, to ensure that he would rather die than dare to defect.

Sara believed that once the major blood changes were completed, the cavalry guards in any garrison would fight the enemy to the end.

As for the dead soldiers, Sara also thought about the same blood exchange process, but the difference between the dead soldiers and the cavalry guards is that the cavalry guards have contact with the outside world. They have legal identities in their countries and can be transferred to any place in the world at any time.

But the dead soldiers can't do that. The dead soldiers have no identity, and in order to prevent the dead soldiers from remembering clues during the transfer process, the transfer of the dead soldiers needs to be completed when the dead soldiers are completely unconscious.

Therefore, it will be very difficult to complete the blood exchange of the dead soldiers and it will be difficult to complete in a short time.

Fortunately, the dead soldiers are guarded by the cavalry guards, so giving priority to the blood exchange of the cavalry guards can ensure that the cavalry guards in each dead soldier station will fight bravely. The strength of hundreds of cavalry guards should not be underestimated. Maybe they can hold off the enemy's attack and prevent the enemy from infiltrating the dead soldiers.

The Five Military Governor's Office has been preparing for a while for the big blood exchange.

They have to determine the exchange method between stations based on the geographical location, size, and population of each station.

For example, how many groups should the Cavalry Guards or their families of Station A be divided into, and which group of Stations B, C, and D should each group exchange with?

In addition, the exchange must be gradual, and the Cavalry Guards of all stations cannot be on the road at once, which will cause a defense gap, so they have formulated a rule that each time the blood is exchanged, only 20% of the troops can be exchanged, and the next batch can be exchanged after the supplementary troops are in place.

According to the requirements, the Duke Mining Station will start to replace the first batch of people in three days. In the past few days when Song Qianshi came, he seemed to be familiar with the situation and waiting for the equipment to arrive. In fact, he was making a list and determining the blood exchange plan and the list of each batch.

Now, the plan and the list have been almost drawn up, and the first batch will be replaced in three days!

The words “big change” made all the cavalry guards on the platform extremely worried.

Family is the biggest motivation for them to live and work hard for the Qing Society, but now, they have to face an indefinite separation.

After the separation, apart from fighting to the death, I don't know if I will have the chance to see my family again in my lifetime.

Seeing that everyone was lonely and sad, Song Qianshi frowned and asked in a cold voice: “Why? Didn't you all swear to be loyal to the Lord? Why are you all like eggplants hit by frost just because you are separated from your family temporarily?”

When everyone heard this, they were even more angry.

However, no one dared to refute this young woman.

Because she was a Qianshi of the Governor's Office, a senior official of the Governor's Office. Although her surname was Song but not Wu, she was also a relative of the Wu family, and was considered a relative of the Wu family. Her status in the Governor's Office was considered very high.

Besides, Song Chenshi was a monk, and her cultivation was much higher than those cavalry guards. She was not only qualified, but also capable of killing any of them. No one dared to express any dissatisfaction or opposition in front of her.

At this time, the deep whistle of a train came from a distance, and the commander heard a voice from the intercom on his waist: "The train has passed the fork!"

Since he had been waiting for this train all day, the commander had already sent people to wait at the fork between the railway main line and the Duke Mining branch line, and notified them as soon as they saw the train passing the fork.

After the train passed the fork, it was still a few kilometers away from Duke Mining, and it was only a few minutes' drive. So the commander said to Song Chenshi: "Song Chenshi, the train is coming soon and will enter the station in a few minutes. I will lead the cavalry guards to unload the goods as soon as possible and install the monitoring equipment overnight!"

"Yeah." The woman responded coldly, and her brows were slightly relaxed.

She had been waiting for this train and this batch of goods, waiting for the goods to arrive, watching them finish the work as soon as possible, and at the same time taking the time to arrange for them to start a major change of personnel. After the task was completed, she could return to Naples, Italy, which is now the headquarters of the Right Army Governor's Office.

A few minutes later, several bright beams of light appeared in front of the dark rails.

With the roar of the train, the train had appeared in everyone's sight.

charlie Wade, who was in a state of meditation, felt the train begin to slow down, and knew that the train was about to arrive at the station.

To be cautious, he released his spiritual energy and kept checking within a range of about one kilometer around him.

When the train was about to reach the fence gate of Duke Mining on the railway, charlie Wade's eyebrows suddenly twisted into a ball, and the whole person became a little nervous in an instant.

The reason for the nervousness was that he originally thought that he would not meet monks when he came to Duke Mining this time, but he did not expect that at this moment, there was actually a monk on the platform in Duke Mining!

Fortunately, the strength of the monk was much weaker than his own.

If the opponent's strength is higher than mine, then this investigation will probably be discovered by the opponent immediately!

This also made charlie Wade curious.

He couldn't understand why there would be a monk in Duke Mining, an ordinary death warrior station.

But fortunately, there was no second monk within the range of investigation, which made charlie Wade feel a little relieved.

The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 7030

By _ / September 6, 2024

Although this monk was not in the plan, fortunately he was still under charlie Wade's control.

In addition to this monk, charlie Wade also found a warrior whose strength had reached the second level of the Dark Realm on the platform. This Dark Realm warrior was also the strongest one except for that monk.

I think this monk should be the commander of the Cavalry Guard here. As for that monk, charlie Wade could not confirm his identity for a while.

However, charlie Wade combined his previous experience and analysis. The special envoy Duan Liye of the Cyprus line was only the third level of the Dark Realm. His strength was naturally far worse than that of this monk. Therefore, the status of this monk in the Broken Qing Society must be several levels higher than that of the envoy.

Since he is a higher existence than the envoy, he must not be a permanent resident of Duke Mining. I think he should be a temporary dispatched by the Broken Qing Society to Duke Mining, or even a person from the headquarters of the Right Army Governor's Office.

This made Charlie Wade happy all of a sudden.

The four earls are at best the four highest-level cavalry guards. To the Poqing Society, they are nothing more than flags and human bombs. They actually know very little about the secrets of the Poqing Society.

But this time, it is hard to say about this monk. If this person is really from the Right Army Governor's Office, then she must know many core secrets of the Right Army Governor's Office.

It seems that this time when I go to Duke Mining, there will be unexpected gains!

So Charlie Wade immediately stopped meditating and hid in the cargo, preparing to deal with the next opportunities and challenges.

Just like the driving record seen on the train before, the train first stopped outside the fence gate of the Duke Mining track. Duke Mining immediately got on a six-star warrior. After checking that there was only a driver in the locomotive, he was relieved and said in Chinese on the intercom: "No abnormality, open the door."

Then, the iron fence door opened inward, the train restarted, and slowly drove into the factory at a very slow speed. After all the carriages had entered the platform range, the train gradually stopped.

However, the train driver did not turn off the train, but got off the train and unhooked the hook directly.

The commander of the Po Qing Society said to several of his men around him: "You can check the seals on the outside of each car according to the delivery note. If there is no problem, let the driver turn forward and drive the locomotive back."

The train driver is from the Moroccan National Railway. It's not that the Po Jun Society cannot infiltrate the Moroccan National Railway, but all of them are scholars. Infiltrating the Moroccan National Railway is really a waste of talent for them.

What's more, the train drivers of the Moroccan National Railway are rotated and dispatched. All the shift plans are based on the on-the-job status and on-the-job time of each person the next day. If you want to ensure that every train driver to Duke Mining is your own, you must at least put five or six people into the Moroccan National Railway.

This is even less cost-effective for the Po Qing Society.

Several cavalry guards immediately began to check the seals and locks of the five carriages according to the pre-arranged division of labor. According to their practical experience over the years, as long as the seals and locks were normal, there would be no problem with the quantity of goods inside, so 60% was relatively simplified.

All 20 carriages were checked and the seals and locks were not opened twice. The commander signed his name on the delivery note, and then the driver took the receipt and returned to the cab on the other side of the locomotive, drove the locomotive forward into the switch, and after the switch changed lanes, it slowly drove away along the lane in the middle of the platform. The commander did not dare to delay, and immediately said to his men who had been waiting for a long time: "Hurry up and unload the goods. Don't worry about the refrigerated carriages first. Transport all the security monitoring equipment and auxiliary wires, and then transport the goods to the designated location according to the list we set before!"

Everyone immediately responded loudly, and then rushed to the fifteen ordinary carriages.

The seal lock made of steel wire may require pliers to cut for ordinary people, but for these Cavalry Guards who have at least three stars, they can tear it open with bare hands.

The seal lock of the carriage where Charlie Wade was was also pulled open by someone, and then someone outside urged: "Hurry, look at the cargo number, and unload it quickly if it matches!"
