

The Amazing Son In Law/Super Hero Charlie Wade - Charlie Wade Chapter 7296

Later, as charlie Wade and Claire were preparing to leave Heaven Springs and head home, charlie Wade noticed Don Albert standing nearby. He observed that Don Albert's eyes were red, as though he had been crying.

A bit puzzled, charlie Wade couldn't resist teasing, "Mr. Albert, are you getting emotional just because you made it onto the trending searches?"

Knowing that Claire was present, Don Albert refrained from revealing his true feelings. He quickly rubbed his eyes and smiled awkwardly. "Master Wade, please don't joke around like that!"

charlie Wade chuckled and said, "Don't let the excitement overwhelm you. Focus on making the most of this opportunity."

He glanced at his watch and then added, "Thank you for your hospitality, Mr. Albert. We'll head home now. But I did notice a small issue with the feng shui here. I'll stop by tomorrow morning to take a closer look."

Don Albert's face lit up, and he nodded enthusiastically. "Thank you, Master Wade! I'll be waiting for you first thing in the morning!"

As charlie Wade and Claire left Heaven Springs, Don Albert followed them to the entrance and watched as their car disappeared into the distance. He stood there for a long time, replaying his earlier phone conversation with Isaac Cameron. Overwhelmed with emotion, he wiped away his tears repeatedly.

On the drive home, Claire couldn't help but feel curious about one thing: just how impressive was charlie Wade's feng shui expertise? Even a young American celebrity like Tawanna seemed to have faith in him.

Still, she chose not to dwell on it too much. She realized that she knew little about feng shui and figured that her husband must have genuine talent to earn such widespread recognition. As an outsider, she decided it wasn't her place to question or overanalyze it.

The next morning, after Claire left for work, charlie Wade made his way to Heaven Springs.

Heaven Springs is closed to the public in the morning, but even at this early hour, a crowd of netizens had gathered outside the gate to take pictures and "check in."

charlie Wade didn't head straight in. Instead, he opened his phone and noticed that Heaven Springs was still trending as the number one hot search on domestic online platforms.

This popularity was largely thanks to Tawanna, who had posted a tweet praising the restaurant. Her glowing review had sparked immense interest among her fans, many of whom now wanted to visit and try the Aurous Hill dishes she loved. Even those who couldn't afford the experience hoped to at least take photos and share them on Weibo or social media.

Seeing the line of people waiting to snap pictures outside the front entrance, charlie Wade opted to go around to the back door, where Don Albert had been waiting for him since early morning.

As soon as charlie Wade arrived, Don Albert greeted him respectfully and escorted him to his office.

charlie Wade settled onto the sofa and asked with a smile, "So, Don Albert, have you thought about how to make Heaven Springs bigger and stronger?"

Don Albert scratched his head and smiled sheepishly. "To be honest, Master Wade, I thought about it all night, but I couldn't come up with a clear plan..."

He then laughed at himself and added, "Maybe my abilities are too limited. Coming from a grassroots background, with no formal education or business management training, I feel completely out of my depth. Running a restaurant of this caliber is a struggle, and the more I think about expanding, the more lost I feel."

charlie Wade smiled warmly. "Let me share my thoughts with you. You can decide what makes sense."

Don Albert immediately perked up and said, "Master Wade, please go ahead! I'm all ears!"

charlie Wade began, "It's nothing too complicated, just a few suggestions. First, don't rush into opening new branches. Start by hiring a professional design company to create a unified brand identity—logos, advertising slogans, market positioning, and key selling points. Then, engage a décor firm to design a consistent interior style for your stores, along with a standardized layout plan."

He continued, "Also, your menu is currently too complex and expensive. It's out of reach for the average consumer. I recommend simplifying it. The six-figure price tag for a private dining room might work for some, but it's too steep for most people."

charlie Wade said, “By the way, the most critical step is assembling a team. Hire some experienced professionals from the catering industry to help drive these initiatives forward.”

Don Albert nodded and replied, “I’ll start by calculating the funds I currently have to see how much I can allocate for this.”

charlie Wade waved his hand dismissively. “That’s exactly what I wanted to discuss with you today. Don’t worry about the funding. Remember the substantial expansion funds we allocated for your dog farm? To be honest, no matter how much you expand, it won’t cost that much. You can take $50 million from that as your initial development fund. Once you have the money, focus immediately on building a team and drafting a comprehensive plan.”

Don Albert was taken aback and blurted out, “But Master Wade, how can I do that? The money belongs to you, and the dog farm was created for your needs. That money is specifically set aside in the dog farm’s account—how can I use it for something else?”

charlie Wade laughed and scolded him jokingly, “You idiot! I’m telling you to use it, so just use it. Why are you overthinking this?”
