

The Amazing Son In Law / Super Hero Charlie Wade - Charlie Wade Chapter 7301

Half an hour later, Steve Rothschild arrived at Heaven Springs, escorted by a group of bodyguards.

In the past, his visits were brief, but this time he was prepared for a prolonged stay in Aurous Hill. In fact, his trusted subordinates had started arriving in Aurous Hill one by one several days earlier. Naturally, Matt Finkelstein was among them.

Matt Finkelstein was in much better spirits than before. Previously, he had been like a stray dog, constantly on the run, hiding from place to place, and wishing he could stay far away from the United States.

But now, everything had changed. He had become aligned with the second-in-command of the Rothschild family.

More importantly, once word spread that he had joined the Rothschilds, it became clear that the family was now privy to the secrets he had been carrying.

Under these circumstances, continuing to pursue Matt served no real purpose. Killing him would not erase those secrets but could instead provoke a fierce retaliation from the Rothschild family.

As a result, Matt now had a golden ticket to safety.

Because of this, he had pledged his loyalty to Steve and resolved to follow him obediently from now on.

On the way to the mansion, Steve mentioned that he was about to meet a Chinese man he greatly admired. Matt was intrigued and couldn't fathom who could command such respect from the Rothschild heir.

When the convoy reached Heaven Springs, Matt followed Steve through the entrance.

Don Albert had been waiting in advance. Upon seeing Steve, he greeted him warmly with a smile, saying, "Hello, Mr. Rothschild, we meet again."

Steve smiled warmly and said in fluent Chinese, "Ah, Mr. Albert, it's so good to see you again! I've missed you these past few days."

As he spoke, he gave Don Albert a light hug and added, "I brought you the finest Cuban cigars. I'll have my men hand them over for you to try later."

Don Albert felt a surge of excitement and thought to himself, What kind of life am I leading? Even the heirs of the Rothschild family bring me gifts to win my favor.

Smiling, he replied, “Mr. Rothschild, you’re too kind. You’ve just arrived—why go to the trouble of bringing me a gift?”

Steve chuckled and said, “Don’t call me Mr. Rothschild; that sounds too formal. Just call me Steve. We’re friends—no need for such politeness.”

Then he asked, “By the way, where is Mr. Wade?”

Don Albert smiled and responded, “Mr. Wade is waiting for you in the private room upstairs. Let’s go together.”

Don Albert nodded and greeted him with a smile, “Nice to meet you, Mr. Finkelstein.”

Matt quickly replied with respect, “Mr. Albert, I look forward to your guidance while I’m in Aurous Hill.”

“Of course, of course,” Don Albert said, patting Steve on the shoulder. “Steve and I are like brothers, so no need to stand on ceremony.”

If anyone else dared to pat Steve on the shoulder and call him a brother, Steve would have been offended. Who are you to claim to be my equal?

But with Don Albert, it was a different story. Steve welcomed it, even feeling as though they shared the same bond as brothers from the same school.

The atmosphere was warm and friendly.

Don Albert led them to the diamond-level private room, where Charlie Wade was already seated, waiting for their arrival.

As soon as Steve entered the room, he greeted respectfully, “Hello, Mr. Wade!”

Charlie Wade smiled and asked, “So, Steve, are you planning to stay for a while this time?”

Steve grinned and replied, “Yes, Mr. Wade. To be honest, I’m planning to stay in Aurous Hill for the next ten or even eight years.”

He then quickly introduced Matt Finkelstein, saying, “Mr. Wade, this is Matt Finkelstein, the one I mentioned before.”

Matt Finkelstein, meanwhile, was staring at Charlie Wade in disbelief.

He couldn’t fathom why someone like Steve, who wielded immense power, would show such deference to a young Chinese man.

Could there possibly be another young man in the world with a status higher than Steve’s? It seemed unthinkable.

Yet, the respect Steve showed to Charlie Wade wasn’t just evident in his words and expressions—it was deeply ingrained.

Charlie Wade turned his gaze to Matt, who looked visibly shaken, and asked with a calm smile, “A few days ago, the assassination attempt on Tawanna was your doing, wasn’t it?”

Matt’s heart skipped a beat, and his mind raced. Could it be... Is he the one backing Tawanna? Was it on his orders that Steve intervened and neutralized the threat?

Realizing this possibility, fear overtook him. He quickly said, “Mr. Wade, I deeply regret my actions. I was foolish to make such a decision. I’ve since done everything in my power to put an end to that matter. I beg for your forgiveness and understanding.”

Charlie Wade nodded and replied, “I don’t intend to interfere with whatever personal disputes or shared secrets exist between you and Tawanna. However, as long as you refrain from making any further threatening moves toward her, I won’t pursue the matter further.”

Matt Finkelstein immediately breathed a sigh of relief and quickly assured, “Mr. Wade, rest assured, I am now fully loyal to Mr. Steve Rothschild and would never do anything to threaten Tawanna!”

Charlie Wade nodded and asked, “You’re aware that Tawanna has arrived in China, right?”

“Yes, Mr. Wade! The news has been full of reports about her,” Matt replied respectfully.

Charlie Wade smiled and said, “Perfect. I plan to call her over later so the two of you can meet and resolve your past grievances.”

Turning to Steve, he added, “By the way, Steve, I’d like to introduce you to her. If she ever needs assistance in the future, I’d appreciate your support.”

Steve immediately grinned and said, “Mr. Wade, you don’t even need to ask! With your approval, her concerns will be mine from now on. No matter what kind of trouble she gets into, I, Steve, will have her back.”

charlie Wade smiled, nodded, and then picked up his phone to call Tawanna on WeChat.

As soon as the call connected, Tawanna's voice sounded surprised, "Mr. Wade, you're looking for me?"

charlie Wade asked, "Are you busy?"

Tawanna replied, "I'm checking out the venue now and confirming some details. After that, I'll begin the formalities this afternoon."

"Do you have plans for lunch?" charlie Wade asked.

"Not yet. I was thinking of eating with the staff," Tawanna answered.

charlie Wade said, "Come to Heaven Springs. I'll host, and I want to introduce you to someone."

Super Hero Charlie Wade - Charlie Wade Chapter 7303

Matt Finkelstein felt a bit uneasy.

He couldn't tell if charlie Wade's words were genuine or meant as a jest.

After all, he had once offered $1 billion to take Tawanna's life, and now Mr. Wade, the man in charge, was urging him to reconcile with her.

If charlie Wade was being sincere, everything would be fine. But if he had ulterior motives, trouble could be on the horizon.

Steve, standing nearby, noticed Matt's apprehension and chuckled. "Matt, don't judge Mr. Wade's noble intentions with your own narrow mindset. If Mr. Wade wanted to deal with you, you wouldn't have made it this far. I would have taken care of you myself back in the United States."

Matt nodded repeatedly and replied respectfully, "Mr. Rothschild, you're absolutely right. I have no doubts about Mr. Wade's intentions. I'm just worried that things might feel awkward when I see Tawanna later..."

"It doesn't matter," charlie Wade said calmly. "No matter what happened in the past or what conflicts you've had, now is the time to move forward and let it go."

"Yes, of course!" Matt said, bowing slightly. "I'll follow Mr. Wade's guidance."

Soon, Tawanna and Trevor arrived at Heaven Springs, escorted by a motorcade.

Earlier that morning, many media outlets had trailed her motorcade from Buckingham Palace to the performance venue. Now, it was lunchtime, and Tawanna was headed back to Heaven Springs.

Reporters were puzzled. Could Heaven Springs's food really be so irresistible? Tawanna had dined there the previous evening, and now she was returning for lunch.

Given that her every move was under public scrutiny, news of her visit quickly spread online, sparking another wave of buzz around Heaven Springs.

Don Albert came downstairs to personally welcome Tawanna and Trevor, escorting them upstairs. As they stepped into the private room, they noticed two older American men already seated inside.

As she took a closer look, she was stunned.

One of the men was Matt Finkelstein—a figure she regarded as a living nightmare.

Tawanna's history with Matt wasn't rooted in personal emotions but in the controversial private gatherings he once orchestrated on his secluded island.

At the time, Matt hosted exclusive events hidden from the public eye, inviting socialites like Tawanna and many of the most prominent wealthy individuals in the United States.

In these gatherings, Matt acted more as a high-level broker. His events brought together top-tier stars and the ultra-rich, creating opportunities for connections that often sparked both psychological and physical chemistry.

While his guests pursued their desires and made connections on his island, Matt gained access to invaluable resources and leveraged these connections to earn immense profits.

As the intermediary between celebrities and the elite, Matt was privy to countless secrets.

Tawanna had attended one of these events years ago, where many influential figures had tried to court her favor. Given her stature in the entertainment world, she had unparalleled exposure to the wealthiest individuals and their private lives.

Moreover, Tawanna's global influence was extraordinary. If she ever chose to reveal what she knew, the repercussions would be monumental.

Super Hero Charlie Wade - Charlie Wade Chapter 7304

This was precisely why those powerful figures wanted her silenced.

Noticing her anxious expression, Charlie Wade smiled gently and said, "Tawanna, there's no need to worry. You're in China now, not the United States or Japan. No one can harm you here."

Reassured by his words, Tawanna exhaled slowly and nodded.

On the other hand, Matt felt deeply uncomfortable. He considered greeting Tawanna but hesitated, fearing that any sudden remark might worsen the tension.

Matt Finkelstein wanted to apologize directly but hesitated. He felt like a minor figure here—a “small shrimp” in a sea of giants. Steve, the powerful figure seated beside him, hadn't spoken, and charlie Wade, Steve's superior, also remained silent. If Matt spoke out of turn, it might seem presumptuous and disrespectful.

Trevor also recognized Matt at that moment. Although he hadn't interacted much with him before, it wasn't due to lack of interest but rather because, before his relationship with Tawanna, Trevor's status wasn't high enough to warrant an invitation to one of Matt's exclusive gatherings.

Realizing who Matt was, Trevor clenched his teeth and exclaimed, “What is he doing here, that bastard?! Mr. Wade, he's the one who wanted Tawanna dead!”

Matt's face turned pale with anxiety, but charlie Wade interjected with a calm smile. “Trevor, I invited everyone here today not to argue or trade insults. The purpose is reconciliation.”

He then gestured toward Steve and added, “Also, I'd like to introduce someone new to you—this is Mr. Steve Rothschild, the heir to the Rothschild family.”

Steve smiled at Tawanna and Trevor, saying, “Hello, I've seen many reports about you in the media.”

Since their relationship began, Tawanna and Trevor had been at the center of global media attention. Even those indifferent to gossip couldn't escape stories about them, thanks to constant social media updates.

Upon hearing Steve's name, Tawanna and Trevor were momentarily stunned.

The Rothschild family carries immense prestige and an air of mystery, not only in the United States but throughout the Western world. Renowned for their unparalleled influence, the family has always kept itself shrouded in secrecy.

While many know of their power, it's nearly impossible to find prominent members from the core family. The individuals publicly associated with the Rothschild name often belong to collateral branches rather than the inner circle, which is deliberately kept out of the spotlight.

This secrecy has led some conspiracy theorists to speculate that the Rothschild family is nothing more than a centuries-old myth. After all, why is there no Rothschild listed among the world's top 100 richest individuals?

However, those with genuine exposure to the upper echelons of society understand that the Rothschild family is akin to a colossal supercarrier—a real and unparalleled powerhouse.

Thus, when Trevor and Tawanna learned that the man before them was the second-in-command of the Rothschild family, they felt far more nervous than if they were meeting a world leader.

What's more, they never imagined that such a figure would not only appear in Aurous Hill but also show up at Heaven Springs, the very place where Charlie Wade had hosted them for dinner just the day before.

Super Hero Charlie Wade - Charlie Wade Chapter 7305

Tawana and Trevor were unaware of Charlie Wade's true identity.

When they were in Tokyo, Charlie Wade managed to call Steve Rothschild, which was already astonishing in their eyes.

But who could have imagined that Steve Rothschild, a man as wealthy as a nation, would travel to Aurous Hill, just like the two of them?

Moreover, he brought Matt Finkelstein along.

Tawana immediately looked at him and said respectfully, "Dear Mr. Rothschild, thank you for your assistance with the previous secret investment."

Steve waved his hand calmly and replied, "I only got involved because of Mr. Wade. Otherwise, I wouldn't have intervened."

He then turned to Matt Finkelstein and said seriously, "Matt, you should also remember—if Mr. Wade hadn't suggested I save you, I wouldn't have kept you by my side to ensure your safety."

Matt Finkelstein, an old fox himself, quickly understood the gravity of the situation. He looked at Charlie Wade, stood up, and said respectfully, "Thank you, Mr. Wade, for saving my life. If not for you, I might have been assassinated."

Charlie Wade smiled and said, "There's no need to thank me here. I brought you all together to foster closer cooperation and mutual benefit."

Turning to Tawana, he added, "Tawana, Mr. Steve is an influential figure in the United States. Get to know him well. When you return there, no one will dare to trouble you."

Steve immediately echoed, “Tawana, since Mr. Wade has said so, rest assured—your business is my business from now on. While I can’t speak for other regions, I still have considerable influence in Europe and the United States.”

Tawana was deeply moved. “Thank you, Mr. Wade. Thank you, Mr. Rothschild.”

At this moment, Matt Finkelstein added respectfully, “I’ve handed over a significant amount of inside information and video evidence about those individuals to Mr. Rothschild. Their weaknesses are now firmly in his hands.”

“I believe they will never dare to act excessively. You can rest assured, Tawanna.”

Tawanna nodded softly. Although Matt Finkelstein had called off the assassination attempt on her, there were likely still many people who wanted her dead. However, given the current situation, it seemed she had little to worry about.

At this moment, Charlie Wade spoke again: “Steve, everyone in your circle should now be aware that you’re protecting Tawanna, correct?”

“Yes, Mr. Wade,” Steve replied. “I instructed Matt to withdraw the secret funds and brought him under my protection. Those people must have noticed these actions, but how they interpret them is unclear. They might see it as me protecting Tawanna, or perhaps they think I’m safeguarding Matt to gain leverage over them.”

“Understood.” Charlie Wade nodded and turned to Tawanna. “Tawanna, I have a suggestion that could completely resolve your problems and even bring you significant benefits. Would you be interested in trying it?”

Tawanna immediately responded, “Mr. Wade, please tell me.”

Charlie Wade said, “Have Mr. Matt Finkelstein compile a list of everyone who wants you dead. Then, send each one of them an invitation to attend the celebration banquet for your first concert in China.”

“Ah?” Tawanna was taken aback. “Mr. Wade... you’re suggesting I invite all the people who want to kill me to Aurous Hill? If I invite them, they likely won’t come, right?”
