

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7401

She no longer carried herself as the eldest daughter of the Wade family but instead seemed to take on the role of a humble servant.

Her abrupt change in demeanor was so striking that even the Sun couple felt a bit uneasy, as if they were undeserving of such treatment.

However, despite her usual arrogance, Cynthia Wade did not feel the slightest bit humiliated by this shift. On the contrary, she embraced it wholeheartedly.

After dinner, Charlie Wade received a call from Tawanna.

On the other end, she said, "Mr. Wade, we need to do a transition rehearsal tonight. Do you and Miss Sun have time to come and prepare? The first concert is starting soon, and your dance partners haven't been finalized yet."

The thought of having to dance with two women made Charlie Wade feel inexplicably overwhelmed.

How could a respectable man do something like this?

Yet, he also understood that a gentleman's word was his bond. Since he had already agreed, there was no turning back.

Besides, if he was going to do this, he had to do it well. Stefanie Sun had placed her trust in him, and he couldn't let her down.

So, he replied, "I'll check with Stefanie and see what her schedule looks like."

"Okay, Mr. Wade. I'll wait for your update."

After hanging up, Charlie Wade turned to Stefanie Sun and asked, "Stefanie, Tawanna wants us to go over for the transition rehearsal. Do you think it's necessary to go tonight?"

"Of course!" Stefanie Sun said excitedly. "I have no problem singing, and I'm comfortable performing his songs, but the dance for Assassin is the real challenge. We need to finalize it as soon as possible."

She then checked the time and said, "Let's head out now! My parents can stay here and chat with Grandpa Wade for a while."

Charlie Wade readily agreed and said to everyone, "I'll accompany Stefanie to the National Sports Center to rehearse the concert setlist with Tawana. No need to worry, take your time and enjoy your conversation."

Orrin Sun smiled and said, "Alright, you young people can go handle your affairs while we middle-aged and elderly folks catch up."

Lord Wade nodded in agreement. "Yes, Charlie, go with Stefanie and take care of your work. We'll be fine here."

After bidding farewell to everyone, Charlie Wade and Stefanie Sun got into an inconspicuous business car and headed toward the National Sports Center.

On the way, Stefanie Sun connected her phone to the car's Bluetooth and played her song Assassin on repeat.

Charlie Wade listened attentively, and by the time they arrived, he had practically memorized both the melody and lyrics.

At the venue, all the stage, lighting, and sound equipment had already been set up.

Tawana's accompaniment band was tuning their instruments, while the lighting and sound engineers made their final adjustments.

Seeing Charlie Wade and Stefanie Sun arrive, Tawana personally stepped down from the stage to greet them. With enthusiasm, she said to Stefanie Sun, "I've already asked the sound engineer to download the track for Assassin along with its original MV. We'll run through it later. My main concern is how we should choreograph Mr. Wade's part."

Stefanie Sun smiled and explained, "The song originally features both a male and female lead, so in past performances, I didn't take part in the dance. The choreography was performed by a male and female dancer in traditional costumes."

She turned to Charlie Wade with a playful smile and continued, "But this time, I finally convinced Brother Charlie Wade to dance for this song. I made sure the female dancer role wouldn't go to anyone else."

Mid-sentence, she suddenly remembered Tawana's involvement and quickly corrected herself. "Wait, no! Technically, both of us should be playing the heroine, since we each sing a part of the song. So, when I'm singing, Brother Charlie Wade will dance with me, and when it's your turn, he'll dance with you. Does that arrangement sound fair?"

Tawana beamed and said happily, "That sounds perfectly fair and reasonable!"

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7402

charlie Wade hadn't expected the two girls to include him so naturally in their routine.

At that moment, he was still unsure how to work with the dancers.

But soon, the stage was set for the three of them.

Tavana asked the stage crew to play Stefanie sun's song Assassin through the feedback speakers at a very low volume. They were ready to rehearse their positions and stage movements.

The reason for keeping the volume so low was simple—Tavana's fans were incredibly enthusiastic.

Ever since the stage setup began two days ago, crowds of fans had gathered outside. Security had set up a barrier, keeping them at least 100 meters away from the performance area.

If they overheard Stefanie sun's song being played, they would immediately suspect that she was a guest at the concert.

Not only would that ruin the surprise, but it would also reveal that Stefanie sun had returned to Beijing ahead of time.

Everyone agreed that her appearance should remain a secret until the concert. That way, when she stepped onto the stage, it would be a thrilling surprise for the audience.

Although Stefanie sun wasn't as famous as Tavana and didn't have as broad a fanbase, she had a strong following in China. Many of Tavana's Chinese fans were also fans of Stefanie sun.

Plus, since the concert was in Eastcliff—Stefanie sun's hometown—her sudden appearance would send the crowd into a frenzy.

charlie Wade hesitated but was eventually pulled onto the stage by the two girls.

Since there were no costumes on hand for the Assassin performance, Tavana borrowed a hiking pole from the staff and handed it to charlie Wade, telling him to use it as a makeshift sword.

charlie Wade turned to Stefanie sun and asked again, just to be sure, “I’ll be wearing a mask during the performance, right? There’s no way I’m going on stage without one.”

Stefanie sun smiled and said, “Brother charlie Wade, don’t worry. Others might lie to you, but I never will.”

charlie Wade nodded, feeling a little more at ease.

Stefanie sun continued, “This song has three parts. The second and third sections contain the full verse and chorus, so Tawana and I will each sing one. I want to place this song at the very end of the guest performance. I’ll start by singing the first section, then Tawana will take the stage for the second, and finally, we’ll sing the third part together. That last section is just the chorus leading into the ending.”

charlie Wade had listened to the song on his way over, so he was already quite familiar with it. After hearing Stefanie sun’s plan, he asked curiously, “So how do I fit into the performance? How should I dance with you two?”

Stefanie sun smiled. “It’s simple. You’ll dance with me during the first section. When Tawana comes on stage for the second section, you’ll dance with her. Then, for the final part, all three of us will sing together.”

She then explained in more detail: “The verse sections show the deep emotions between you and us—how much you meant to us before you left. In the chorus, you’ll perform a solo martial arts and sword dance at the front of the stage while we sing in the background. This part highlights your heroic presence. Then, in the final section, you return to us, bringing the story to a happy ending.”

charlie Wade hesitated, looking a little uncomfortable. “I get the idea of the song—it’s touching and well-written. But since you two are performing it together, it feels a little strange. First, I dance with you, then with her, and in the end, I interact with both of you. It makes it seem like I’m an assassin with two wives. So I leave my wives behind to assassinate the tyrant, then come back and reunite with both of them. That... completely changes the vibe!”

Stefanie sun chuckled and waved off his concerns. “The story takes place in ancient times, and back then, polygamy was normal. Wouldn’t it make sense for a legendary assassin and national hero to have two wives? Look at Xiao Li Feidao—didn’t he have two wives? And Wei Xiaobao? He had seven!”

charlie Wade sighed, shaking his head. “Wow... it sounds a little ridiculous. But now that you put it that way, I guess it does make some sense...”

Tawana smiled and said, “Some ancient Western civilizations also practiced polygamy, so it actually makes sense in a historical context.”

Then, she excitedly turned to Stefanie sun. “Should I wear a traditional Chinese outfit for the performance too?”

Stefanie sun nodded with a smile. “That would be amazing! It would make the whole stage feel more cohesive—well, except for your Western face.”

Tawana admired charlie Wade and secretly had feelings for him, which made her even more fascinated by traditional Chinese culture. Unable to contain her excitement, she said, “Then I’ll make sure the stylist gives me the most authentic ancient Chinese look!”

Stefanie sun beamed. “That sounds perfect!”

Then, she turned to charlie Wade. “By the way, Brother charlie Wade, I asked my design director to come over and measure your height. We’re going to make you a custom assassin’s outfit overnight so we can rehearse in full costume tomorrow.”

charlie Wade raised an eyebrow. “Can it really be done that fast?”

Stefanie sun chuckled. “It’s easy. When we go on tour, each dancer has plenty of backup outfits. I asked my designer to find one that’s closest to your size and make a few quick alterations.”

charlie Wade nodded. “Alright, I’ll go along with whatever you plan—as long as I don’t have to show my face.”

To help the two of them get into character, charlie Wade picked up the trekking pole and performed an elegant display of Chinese swordsmanship on stage.

The Nine Mysterious Heavenly Scriptures contained many hidden sword techniques, all of which were deeply imprinted in charlie Wade’s mind. However, he had never actually practiced them, mostly because he never had the opportunity to use them.

Even though he could execute them effortlessly, he wasn’t sure if these techniques had been passed down over time. If they had been lost to history, and someone like Wu Feiyan recognized them, it could put him in serious danger—like handing his enemy a weapon against himself.

So, Charlie Wade broke down the advanced sword techniques into simpler, flashy moves. He focused on flexibility and style, making the performance look impressive but without any real combat application.

By exaggerating the movements, he abandoned the traditional structure and discipline of swordplay, turning it into a visually stunning display.

As he swung the trekking pole with effortless grace, the two women watched in awe. His movements were smooth and powerful, captivating them completely.

After a few sequences, they became so mesmerized that they forgot to sing along. Instead, they simply clapped excitedly, unable to take their eyes off him.

At that moment, both of them couldn't help but look forward to the official performance the day after tomorrow. With two top-tier singers and such a mesmerizing swordplay routine, there was no doubt—Assassin was destined to dominate the global entertainment charts after the show!

The following day marked the final preparations before Tawana's Eastcliff concert.

Today, the entire staff was on high alert, working swiftly to ensure everything was in place.

The person with the heaviest workload was none other than Tawana herself.

She had to collaborate closely with her team, running through the entire concert multiple times to develop muscle memory and guarantee a smooth, precise performance.

Although Stefanie Sun's performance lasted only half an hour, she had a significant amount of work to do. Due to limited preparation time, she had to seamlessly coordinate with Tawana's team.

She brought her full team along today. The background visuals and lighting sequences for several songs had been meticulously programmed, requiring her team to integrate their work with Tawana's equipment to ensure a flawless stage presentation.

Additionally, the two singers had several scripted interactions, including introductions, greetings, and audience engagement.

Despite only recently meeting, they needed to create the illusion of being close friends throughout this performance and the next three. This rapport was essential for enhancing the show's overall impact.

In reality, Tawana genuinely wanted to befriend Stefanie sun.

After all, when someone admires a person, they often extend that affection to those close to them. Meeting someone with strong ties to Charlie Wade was rare, and while forming a bond with Stefanie sun might not bring tangible benefits, it made Tawana feel closer to him.

As the two women sat backstage getting their makeup done, Tawana looked at Stefanie sun with a hint of regret and said, "Qiuyi, don't you think it's too soon for you to retire from music?"

Stefanie sun smiled and replied, "Not at all. This is the perfect time. I'd rather step away now and embrace the beautiful life ahead."

Tawana pondered for a moment before saying sincerely, "I feel like we work so well together. Why don't we team up for a world tour? We could hold dozens of concerts, boosting your influence in Europe and America while you help expand mine in China. We'd grow together and become the two most popular female singers in the world. Wouldn't that be amazing?"

Stefanie sun couldn't help but say, "You already have a strong influence in China, so why do you need my help to grow? If we really team up for a tour, I'd be the one benefiting. With my limited presence in the international music scene, I wouldn't be able to do much for you, while you'd be the one helping me."

Tawana replied earnestly, "I don't mind helping you—I'd be happy to. Once your influence grows, we can both support and elevate each other."

She then added, "With your popularity in the Chinese-speaking world, you could stay at the top until you're fifty. Isn't your Faye Wong still a huge star?"

Stefanie sun smiled mysteriously, looked at Tawana, and asked, "Tawana, you're being so kind to me... is it because you like Brother Charlie Wade?"

Tawana hadn't expected Stefanie sun to see through her thoughts so easily—let alone say it out loud. She suddenly tensed up, unsure of how to react.

Seeing Tawana's nervous expression, Stefanie sun burst into laughter. "Oh, there's no need to be so flustered. So many girls like Brother Charlie Wade. Honestly, with how exceptional he is, it would be strange if the women who meet him didn't like him."

Since there were no outsiders around and Charlie Wade wasn't present, Tawana finally mustered the courage to admit, "I do like Mr. Wade, but maybe not in the way you think. Other women who admire him might hope for a future with him, but I don't dare to have such expectations..."

Stefanie Sun asked curiously, "Why not?"

The Amazing Son in Law Chapter 7405

For the first time, Tawana opened up without holding back. "My romantic history is... complicated. There have been so many rumors about me in the media. And not long after I met Mr. Wade, something major happened—something tied to mistakes I made when I was younger and more reckless. Because of that, my reputation when it comes to relationships is completely ruined. Someone like me... I can't even hope that Mr. Wade would ever be interested."

Stefanie Sun nodded in understanding. Having spent years in the entertainment industry, she knew all too well how things worked.

Still, she smiled and reassured Tawana, "Things don't always unfold the way we expect. No one can predict what the future holds."

Tawana looked at her and asked, "You must like Mr. Wade too, right?"

"Like?" Stefanie Sun shook her head and smiled softly. "Liking him isn't enough. Aside from my family, Brother Charlie Wade is the only person I have ever truly loved with all my heart."

She then asked, "Do you know why I've decided to leave the entertainment industry?"

Tawana shook her head. "Why?"

Stefanie Sun smiled and said, "From now on, I have only one goal in life—to one day marry Brother Charlie Wade and become Mrs. Wade. That's why I need to start preparing now. The first step is cutting ties with the entertainment industry. I never entered this world for fame or money, and I've already accomplished what I set out to do. That's why I decided to retire at the peak of my career."

"The main reason I'm still holding this farewell tour is because of my fans. It would be irresponsible to leave so abruptly, so I wanted to give them a proper goodbye. Once the final concert in Eastcliff is over, I'll be stepping away for good."

She sighed and continued, “Besides, I don’t want to spend my life in an industry where every word and action is scrutinized by society, leaving me with no privacy. Even if I start a relationship, I’ll be judged by fans. To me, the entertainment industry was just a playground—I had my fun, and now it’s time to go home.”

Tawana was secretly stunned. She hadn’t expected Stefanie sun to be so open about her feelings for Charlie Wade. After a moment, she couldn’t help but ask, “But... Mr. Wade is already married...”

“I know,” Stefanie sun said with a smile. “Brother Charlie Wade’s life is destined to be extraordinary. Whether it’s his current wife, me, or other women, we are all part of his journey. I’ve never wanted to monopolize his life—I just want to have a place in it.”

“Oh my God...”

Tawana was in shock. “Aren’t Chinese women supposed to be traditional? How can you have such a bold idea? This is unbelievable!”

Stefanie sun smiled and asked, “Shocking? I don’t think so. I’ve been in the entertainment industry for a long time. Although I’ve always kept my reputation clean, I’ve seen plenty of scandals and corruption. I’m sure the entertainment industry in Europe and America is just as bad—maybe even worse. The more you witness, the more accepting you become.”

She paused for a moment before continuing, “Besides, you don’t know Brother Charlie Wade well enough yet. Once you truly understand his abilities, you’ll realize that in the end, the world’s conventions will no longer be able to restrain him.”

With that, Stefanie sun stood up, smiled, and said, “Come on, it’s almost time for rehearsal!”
