

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7626

A few days before charlie wade and Claire returned, Claire was busy in the company until very late every day. In her words, many projects had been pending for too long and needed to be rushed over.

However, charlie wade did not suspect anything, but he did not know that Claire was already preparing for a month later.

A few days later, Elaine and Jacob returned to Aurous Hill with large and small bags.

The two of them had a great time in Dubai this time and spent most of the hundreds of thousands of dollars, which finally made up for the regrets of their last trip to Dubai.

As soon as Jacob came back, he started hanging out in the Calligraphy and Painting Association again, while Elaine, as usual, did nothing all day long.

charlie wade thought that his life had returned to normal, so he only took time out every day to go to the Champs Elysees Hot Spring Hotel to help Ito Nanako and other warriors improve their strength. He also often met with Yun Ruge and Song Ruyu to study how to break the poison in their bodies.

Lin Wan'er recently returned to campus life. According to her, she actually likes studying at school. For hundreds of years, she has traveled to universities around the world and studied for countless professional degrees. However, since entering the information age, she was afraid of exposing her information, so she simply gave up the idea of studying.

But

Aurous Hill is different.

Aurous Hill is charlie wade's territory. She and charlie wade are both enemies of the Poqing Society, and are also the targets of Wu Feiyan's search. With charlie wade and her side by side, she feels much more relaxed.

For the first time in all these years, she felt safe because she was in charlie wade's city.

When charlie wade's life returned to a brief period of peace, hunter Hamid suddenly concentrated his forces and launched an attack on several surrounding oil fields.

A few days ago, hunter Hamid followed charlie wade's suggestion and went to the core of the opposition to ask for compensation, proposing to hand over the nearest oil fields to himself and write everything off.

But the core members who did not follow the rules directly rejected his request.

The core members felt that although we had acted unscrupulously before and had directly attempted to assassinate you, this was no reason for you to ask me for money. Every penny the opposition earned was earned from oil, and every drop of their oil was obtained through war. If hunter Hamid wanted to take their oil fields, he would be robbing them of their money.

In their view, hunter Hamid was just like a small thief asking a big thief for money. He was simply asking for trouble and they would not agree to it no matter what. They also issued a clear warning to hunter Hamid that if he continued to pester them, they would send troops to attack his base.

The thing hunter Hamid fears least is war.

After charlie wade analyzed the situation for him, he realized his current strategic position.

Don't be fooled by the fact that your base is deserted. The key point is that you are in the heart of Syria.

If the opposition goes against me, I will be a nail in their heart and a tumor growing in their body. Moreover, my place is as solid as a rock. After they fall out with me, they cannot break in and will have to spend a lot of manpower and material resources to defend myself from the inside, which will put them in trouble both internally and externally.

Therefore, hunter Hamid was too lazy to analyze whether these people were trying to scare him or really wanted to attack him. He simply took the initiative.

So he called charlie wade and reported the battle plan to him.

He said to charlie wade : “Brother wade, I have targeted their five oil fields. I plan to knock down one of them first, then surround the other four and negotiate with them, and finally get the one closest to me. What do you think?”

charlie wade asked him: “Where are the opposition forces currently concentrated?”

hunter Hamid said: “The majority of the opposition’s forces are currently concentrated on the border and in Damascus.”

He analyzed, “After all, they’ve only just seized this kingdom. They haven’t yet begun to think about how to govern the country legally or allocate military power. All they’re thinking about is concentrating their forces around themselves to prevent others from taking away what they've just seized."

"Because of this, the oil fields around me are not guarded by any decent armed forces. At best, there are only a few hundred militants."

charlie wade asked him: "How is the morale of your team at this stage?"

hunter Hamid smiled and said, "My troops have been recuperating and training hard for such a long time. In addition, you have provided a lot of funds for upgrading their armaments. Their combat effectiveness has completely surpassed that of other opposition soldiers. The opposition is basically still armed with AK47s and firing randomly. If a real fight breaks out, the casualty ratio can be kept at at least 1:3!"

charlie wade said: "If you want to fight, you have to catch them off guard. Forget about a 1:3 casualty ratio, even 1:10 is not even acceptable. You and your soldiers must maneuver quickly, deploy quickly, fight quickly, and withdraw quickly. The casualty ratio must be kept above 1:30."

hunter Hamid exclaimed, "One to thirty? This... isn't this a bit difficult?"

The casualty ratio was 1 to 30, which meant that if one of their soldiers died, at least 30 of the enemy had to be killed. This was very rare in modern warfare.

But Charlie Wade doesn't think so.

By grasping the first-mover advantage, they are already far ahead of the enemy. Coupled with the advantages of soldiers' condition and weapons and equipment, the casualty ratio is bound to continue to expand. Although one to thirty seems out of reach, it may not be impossible to achieve. I have to set a high goal for Hunter Hamid and let him go all out towards this goal. Let's see whether he can accomplish it first.

Hunter Hamid was a little nervous about Charlie Wade's request. He felt that he was not a commander, but a student of Charlie Wade, and Charlie Wade set an unattainable assessment goal for himself.

So he quickly said, "Brother, this one to thirty ratio is indeed a bit difficult. Human life is worthless here, so there's no need to be so obsessed with the casualty ratio... Let's just fight hard and win, okay?"

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7627

Charlie Wade asked him in return: "When you attacked the Ten Thousand Dragon Palace, what was the casualty ratio?"

hunter Hamid perked up and blurted out, “That was a big deal! Thanks to your leadership, the casualty ratio was at least one to a few hundred.”

After saying this, he himself felt a little unsure, and explained, “But that time was different. That time we were fighting a defensive battle, with strong permanent fortifications as support, and it was also an ambush, catching them off guard. This time is different, this time there are no fortifications to rely on.”

charlie wade asked him again: “After defeating the Ten Thousand Dragon Palace, how is the morale of your soldiers?”

hunter Hamid blurted out excitedly, “After that battle, morale was incredibly high. No one expected us to defeat the Ten Thousand Dragons Palace, and it was a crushing victory. The army was incredibly united!”

“That’s it,” charlie wade said. “This is the first time you’ve left your base to fight a blitzkrieg. If your casualty ratio can reach a level others wouldn’t dare imagine, it will not only greatly boost morale, but also significantly undermine the enemy’s confidence, making them fear you. This will also help you negotiate with them later, so you must command and deploy your forces well and strive for a great victory!”

“I understand!” hunter Hamid understood charlie wade ‘s thoughts and said respectfully: “Brother, you are still thoughtful! Don’t worry, I will do my best!”

charlie wade hummed and said, “Also, since they have five oil fields, don’t just attack one. At least attack three, and the three largest ones. If you want to attack them, hit them hard. If they still don’t accept your conditions after attacking three, then destroy them all at once. Like I said before, flip the table and no one will eat.”

“Alright!” hunter Hamid felt his ambition rising in his chest, his blood boiling. He blurted out, “Don’t worry, brother. I will definitely implement your strategic plan perfectly!”

The next day, hunter Hamid organized two thousand soldiers to carry out a quick surprise attack on three selected oil fields.

In this surprise attack on the oil fields, charlie wade ‘s “four quick requirements” were perfectly achieved, and three of the opponent’s oil fields were destroyed in one go.

These three oil fields produce nearly 20,000 barrels of crude oil per day, which accounts for one-fifth of the country’s current annual output. This wave of direct destruction is a heavy loss.

As for hunter Hamid, apart from consuming some fuel and ammunition, the three small-scale battles were one-sided crushing. Seventy percent of the opposition's defensive soldiers were killed and thirty percent were captured, while only three of hunter Hamid's soldiers were slightly injured and no one died.

This successful attack greatly boosted the morale of hunter Hamid's army. Everyone finally realized that they were no longer the same as the opposition. It made them realize that they would be able to face the opposition with unstoppable force in the future.

hunter Hamid also learned his lesson. Not only did he destroy the three oil fields, he also tied up the core workers of the three oil fields and brought them to his own base. In the future, when he took over the oil fields and started mining, these people would be able to serve him directly.

The core opposition was furious about this.

Their first thought was to gather heavy troops and besiege hunter Hamid.

However, at the pre-war meeting, after everyone calmed down and analyzed the situation, they found that besieging hunter Hamid was useless.

The First Military Advisor analyzed, “First, before we took Jiangshan, hunter Hamid, as our comrade, once fought a brilliant and tough battle. The government forces and the Wanlong Palace jointly launched multiple attacks on his base, but each ended in disastrous defeat. This time, his attack on the oil fields we control further proves that his soldiers’ combat effectiveness far exceeds ours.”

“Secondly, our soldiers are now very afraid of the combat effectiveness of hunter Hamid’s soldiers. Other soldiers stationed in the oil fields are even worried about being attacked by hunter Hamid. This has really affected the morale of the troops.”

“Furthermore, our weapons and equipment are mainly guerrilla equipment, with light weapons accounting for the vast majority. Although some heavy weapons were captured, they are mostly tanks, armored vehicles, anti-aircraft missiles, and heavy artillery.”

“Anyone here who has even a passing knowledge of military affairs can see that none of this heavy equipment is suitable for assaulting mountainous terrain.”

“Tanks and armored vehicles can’t reach hunter Hamid’s base. Our heavy vehicles might not even reach them before the terrain greatly restricts their mobility and combat capabilities, and we’ll just become sitting ducks for hunter Hamid’s soldiers.”

“Those heavy artillery and howitzers are capable, but the permanent fortifications built by hunter Hamid are not only extremely strong, but also mostly on reverse slopes. Our artillery will only scratch their itch if we fire at them.”

“The key is that what we captured were all heavy equipment that the government forces didn’t have time to destroy. We only have very limited ammunition left. Every time we fire a howitzer shell, it’s gone. After we’re done, those artillery pieces will just become scrap metal. If we use up all these shells, we won’t have any weapons to use if we have to fight a ground positional battle with someone in the future!”

“On the other hand, that bastard hunter Hamid built such strong fortifications and dug such deep caves that even if we fired all our ammunition at him, it would only help loosen the soil above his head, but it wouldn’t damage his foundation at all.”

“As for our air defense missiles, hunter Hamid’s army has no air power other than a few armed helicopters. If he doesn’t deploy helicopters, then our air defense missiles will be completely useless to him.”

“What’s more, our spies inside hunter Hamid have already informed us of hunter Hamid’s strategic reserves. Everyone should know that even if we deploy a large number of troops to completely surround hunter Hamid’s base, hunter Hamid can still hold out for three years.”

“But the embarrassing thing is, hunter Hamid cAn hold out for three years, but we may not be able to hold out for three years!”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7628

The military advisor's words were like a steel knife, stabbing into the hearts of the core members.

When they were kings of the mountains, they, like hunter Hamid, hid in the deep mountains and forests where even satellites could not reach them, and hid their ammunition and supplies in the cracks of the rocks. The government forces did not dare to come and encircle them because of the different terrain.

Now that they have seized power, everything has turned upside down. They are no longer bandits hiding in the mountains, but have become government forces occupying the capital and holding the country in their hands. When they think about the situation between themselves and hunter Hamid from a different perspective, they also know that it is almost impossible to defeat him, and even if they only besiege him for three years, it will cost a lot of manpower and material resources.

There are too many variables in three years. Whether they will still have power after three years is another matter.

Therefore, everyone had the same idea in their mind, that is, they had to reap the benefits quickly while the country was still in their hands. Even if they were counterattacked one day, they could still leave with a lot of money and women. They should not waste time with hunter Hamid, that idiot.

So everyone reached a consensus not to argue with hunter Hamid.

However, they did not argue with hunter Hamid, but hunter Hamid kept pestering them.

Just when everyone was dejectedly deciding to let hunter Hamid go, someone suddenly rushed into the meeting room and reported, “Report! hunter Hamid sent a message!”

The leader asked coldly, “What did he say?”

The man replied, “hunter Hamid said that if we don’t give him the oil field he wants, his soldiers will launch an attack on oil fields across the country. In his own words, he won’t make a penny from selling oil anyway, so it’s better to blow it all up and let everyone starve.”

“What the hell!!!”

The leader suddenly became furious, took out his service pistol and fired three shots at the ceiling.

He cursed angrily, “What does this bastard mean? Is he really going to fight us to the end?!”

The military advisor quickly advised, “Boss, calm down first. In my opinion, all hunter Hamid wants is a small oil field. If he wants it, just give it to him!”

“Give it to him?!” The leader’s eyes widened in anger as he demanded, “He just destroyed several of my oil fields. We’ve suffered significant losses. Do you know how much less we’re going to earn each day? I’ve already been giving him face by not making him pay for it. Now he wants me to give him the oil fields? What a pipe dream!”

The deputy chief stroked his beard and muttered, “This bastard must be in high spirits right now, and we can’t send a large number of troops to defend the oil fields across the country. From now on, if he kills just one more of us, we’ll lose money on this deal. If he kills two, the loss will be even greater. In my opinion, it’s better to give him the oil field he wants. As long as he keeps his promise, we only need to lose one more oil field. Otherwise, who knows how much we’ll lose.”

The military advisor nodded immediately: “Yes, that’s right.”

The leader's face turned grim as he said, "I know that's the truth, and I can handle it. I just feel uncomfortable. Why should I let him control me? I am the ruler of a country after all. If this gets out, where will my face be?"

He gritted his teeth and continued, "And what's more! This bastard is already very rich, and his base is impregnable. If we give him the oil fields, he will have more and more money in the future, and his strength will become stronger and stronger, right?!"

The military advisor quickly consoled him, "Boss, as long as we all reach an agreement under the table and keep our distance from each other, no one outside will know what's going on. Besides, hunter Hamid is very proud right now. If he gets angry and continues to attack the oil fields we control, the losses will only be greater. After we reach an agreement with him and give him that oil field, we can quickly restore production in the other oil fields he destroyed and slowly make up for the losses. But if he continues to fight like this, the scope of the losses will be beyond our control."

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7629

"Also, you said you're worried about him getting stronger. Honestly, we can't stop him now. Don't forget, he has a good relationship with the Ten Thousand Dragons Palace. They haven't bothered us yet regarding the White Horse Island incident. I think we should just go along with hunter Hamid on this matter and also say hello and apologize to the Ten Thousand Dragons Palace. Otherwise, if both sides come against us, won't we be attacked from both sides in the future?"

The leader pondered for a moment, sighed, and said, “Hey, you’re right. Damn it, this bastard can only get away with it for now!”

He immediately looked up and said to the deputy leader, “Contact hunter Hamid and tell him that we can give him the oil fields he wants, and we can make peace with him, but the prerequisite is that he absolutely cannot attack other oil fields! From now on, we must keep our distance from each other and no one is allowed to plot against each other!”

The deputy leader immediately said, “Okay, I’ll call hunter Hamid right away.”

After that, he took out his satellite phone and called hunter Hamid.

In the past, when we were all comrades, we used satellite phones to communicate with each other.

Now, although we have become enemies, our contact information is still there.

The call soon reached hunter Hamid.

hunter Hamid was sitting in his fort with his legs crossed waiting for a call. He knew that if he put the word out, the other party would definitely agree. Even an elementary school student could figure this out. Only a fool would fight him to the death.

Besides, I'm not afraid of him fighting to the death.

Brother wade had already analyzed the situation for me. If I hurt them this time, they will definitely be scared.

As soon as the phone rang, a triumphant smile immediately appeared on his face. He picked up the phone and said calmly, "Hello, who is it?"

The other party immediately said, "It's me, Abdullah."

hunter Hamid sneered, "It's you, kid. Honestly, I've known you for so long, but I didn't expect you to be so dishonest!"

The other party quickly apologized: "I'm sorry, hunter Hamid, you know the situation is different now. You have been refusing to reorganize, and we have our concerns too!"

hunter Hamid retorted harshly, “We’re brothers who fought together in the same trench. Even if you’re a little worried, you can’t possibly want to kill me, right? Besides, I’m bringing my two pregnant wives with me. Are you fking trying to wipe out my entire family?”

The other party said helplessly, “Hey, hunter Hamid, there are some things I don’t need to say, you understand. We all have our own difficulties. What we did was indeed wrong, and we won’t quibble on this point. Besides, you attacked three of our oil fields, which can be considered as a relief. If you ask me, let’s shake hands and make peace. We will give you the oil fields you want, and we will cancel your attack on you and your attack on our oil fields. What do you say?”

hunter Hamid was delighted and couldn’t help but sigh in his heart: “My Brother wade is still as good as a god!”

This is exactly the result he wants.

However, the more he interacted with charlie wade , the more cunning he became.

Since the other party agreed so readily, I should take the opportunity to blackmail him.

Thinking of this, he said, “You must give me the oil fields. Besides, I attacked three of your oil fields and injured three of my brothers. You should at least show some appreciation, otherwise I won’t be able to explain to my men.”

The other side is absolutely furious. They attacked three oil fields and killed hundreds of their soldiers, and you only injured three people. And yet you act like you’ve suffered a great loss and are asking us for compensation. Versailles, you can’t be so Versailles, can you?! Shameless, you can’t be so shameless, can you?

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7630

The core members of the opposition were angry, but they could also tell that hunter Hamid was just showing off his fighting ability.

However, hunter Hamid had just proved with practical actions that the combat effectiveness of his army was indeed much stronger than theirs.

At this time, hunter Hamid asked them to explain that extortion was only one of the reasons, and the main purpose was to humiliate them.

This is just like the great powers in the 19th century, who invaded a country and then asked the country to pay war reparations after agreeing to do so.

The core members of the opposition all climbed to the top through rebellion. In the past, they came from humble backgrounds and lacked cunning, so they naturally would not swallow this humiliation and would fight him to the end even if it meant sacrificing their lives.

But the situation is different now. I hold the country in my hands. If I continue to fight to the death at this time, I am afraid that I will lose the country within two years.

So the leader took the phone and said, “hunter Hamid, let’s stop guessing. Just tell me how much you want!”

hunter Hamid thought about it and decided that since the other party said so, it meant that they agreed to accept such humiliating compensation, which meant that he had won another step.

However, you should also be moderate in how much they should pay. If you ask for too much, you might anger them again. It would be better if you can negotiate a suitable price.

After a moment’s consideration, hunter Hamid made a request: “You injured my three brothers, give me $3 million in cash, and this matter will be written off.”

Three million for three brothers, in US dollars. This offer made the opposition leader very angry.

But then he heard that it would be a deal for three million, and this offer instantly made him feel that it was a very good deal.

It's just three million US dollars, nothing to him. Although many people in Damascus are still hungry, they control the economic lifeline, and three million US dollars is just a drop in the bucket.

He asked hunter Hamid, "If I give you three million, will this matter really be written off? Will you never attack our oil fields, our strongholds, or our troops again?"

hunter Hamid smiled and said, "Of course, I'm different from you. First, I'm a person who values the spirit of contract. Second, I don't have such big desires. I don't want your territory. I just want to manage my own territory well and keep it safe from danger. So, as long as you keep your promises in the future, we will keep our distance!"

"Alright!" the opposition leader said immediately and decisively, "Three million is three million. I'll have someone prepare the cash and send it to you right away!"

A few hours later, an old American Hummer off-road vehicle arrived outside the hunter Hamid base, raising dust several meters high.

The car stopped at the entrance to hunter Hamid's base, and two soldiers got out from the back seat. Both of them were holding a large army green canvas bag filled with cash to be handed over to hunter Hamid.

hunter Hamid did not show up, but sent several of his men to the mountain pass to take over the money. After getting the money, his men searched the bag of cash very carefully to make sure there were no bombs or eavesdropping devices before taking the money back to the base.

Inside the base, hunter Hamid followed charlie wade 's advice and was holding a commendation meeting.

This time, he wanted to commend the elites who performed outstandingly in the battle to attack the oil fields and the three soldiers who had been heroically wounded.

In the past, hunter Hamid's army was mostly composed of guerrillas, with chaotic and lax management, unclear internal organizational structure and unclear promotion ladders for soldiers and officers.

The appointment and removal of several leadership positions were all decided by hunter Hamid alone based on his personal preferences, and he lacked sufficient credibility.

This time, he decided to follow charlie wade 's instructions and take the opportunity to promote the military merit system. In the future, whoever makes merit in the team will be awarded medals; whoever is awarded medals will be promoted, and whoever gets an official position will become rich.

In charlie wade 's opinion, the management of the army cannot be driven solely by interests. The more money is used to reward the officers and soldiers, the more they will tend to become mercenaries deep down in their hearts.
