

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7756

Li Yalin felt a lot of pressure, but he could only check each car one by one.

However, this process will be extremely long, so he also reminded charlie Wade to be prepared for a protracted war.

However, there is still a chance. He also fed the video footage of Stephen Thompson and Claire's family of three to the Ai model, and combined it with the ground network system to monitor the whole world. As long as these four people appear within the monitoring range of the ground network system, they can get the news in the first time.

Although charlie Wade was extremely anxious, he also knew that this kind of thing could not be rushed, so he could only accept reality.

As for Lin Wan'er (Alani), he did not ask any further questions, because he himself did not expect Lin Wan'er (Alani), who usually went between school and home, to help him find Claire who had already left Aurous Hill.

At this time, Claire and his family were still drifting in the South Pacific.

Sailing on the ocean is very boring, but fortunately the hardware on the ship is very comfortable, and the food and drinks are almost all world-class ingredients, which can be said to have satisfied Jacob and Elaine.

After a few more days of drifting, Claire and his family finally arrived at a small island less than 20 square kilometers in the Windward Islands of French Polynesia.

This island was sold to a Silicon Valley tycoon as early as seven or eight years ago. The tycoon also spent a lot of money to rebuild the island, making it a private island with excellent hardware facilities.

The island not only has its own dock that can accommodate medium-sized yachts and seaplanes, but also has its own small airport with a runway of nearly two kilometers, which can accommodate light jet business jets and fixed-wing aircraft.

Claire and his family left the cargo ship on the high seas, took a seaplane from the sea, and arrived at the island.

Before landing, when the plane overlooked the entire island, Elaine and Jacob were stunned.

It is obvious to the naked eye that this island is very unusual. Not only does it have a pier, it even has its own runway.

A medium-sized yacht was moored at the dock, and at the end of the runway was a Hawker Beechcraft twin-engine turboprop business jet, the King Air 350.

After the modification, the maximum range of this aircraft is nearly 5,000 kilometers. It can fly directly from here to Hawaii Island and fly to Los Angeles with one refueling.

On the north side of the island, there is a luxury residence that cost tens of millions of dollars. The entire residence is built by the sea. When you open the door, you will see the beach and the green glass sea. The scenery is no less beautiful than that of the Maldives.

This luxurious residence was prepared by An Chengxi for Claire's family.

In order to isolate itself from the outside world as much as possible, the island is equipped with photovoltaic, wind and tidal power generation, and combined with super-large power storage equipment, it can achieve complete self-sufficiency in electricity. In addition, sufficient electricity can also drive the island's seawater desalination equipment to solve the island's domestic water needs, so water and electricity do not need to rely on external supply at all.

This place is hundreds of kilometers away from the cargo ship's transportation route, so material supply is also quite convenient. You only need to dock with the cargo ship midway to get a large amount of material supply.

When the seaplane glided on the water and stopped steadily at the dock, Jacob and Elaine could no longer wait to jump out of the cabin.

Several servants came forward respectfully, and the middle-aged Chinese man in the lead said attentively, "Mr. Willson, Ms. Ma, welcome to the island. I am your butler, Ning Xiaolong. From now on, I will be responsible for all your food, clothing, and daily life on this island. You can just call me Xiao Ning."

Jacob looked at the luxury yacht on the other side of the dock and couldn't help asking, "Xiao Ning, was that yacht also arranged by my good son-in-law?"

Ning Xiaolong had received the instructions long ago, so he smiled and said, "That's right, Mr. Willson. Not only this yacht, but also the plane on the runway was arranged by Mr. Ye. The yacht is for you and Ms. Ma to go out to sea for fun, and the plane is for emergency response."

Jacob rubbed his hands excitedly, but soon his conscience was awakened and he murmured, "How much money did Charlie Wade defraud? If he is caught, he will not be shot, right?"
