

The Amazing Son in Law Chapter (Charlie Wade)

CHAPTER 2597

Thinking of the fact that he had never been to the United States, Jacob unconsciously hated Elaine in his heart.

He sat in the co-pilot and said cursingly: "I have been ruined by Elaine's stinky lady all my life. If it weren't for her, I must be a top student studying in the United States. Maybe I am also an MIT, A professor at Harvard!

Speaking of this, he complained angrily: "The result? The result is that just after graduating from college, he was completely locked up by Elaine, a trash stock, and he has not been able to get rid of it!"

Charlie couldn't help but comforted: "Okay, Dad, there are some things you can't just think about in the most optimistic way. You see, although your marriage is not happy, at least you are healthy. Think about it from another angle. If you are destined to There will be a car accident in the United States, or you will be killed in a shooting when you arrive in the United States. If your mom keeps you in the country, it is tantamount to saving your life in disguise. "

Jacob said with a gloomy expression: "You don't fool me here anymore. When we were young, the education we received was materialism and Marxist theory. We didn't believe in fate. We sang a Soviet revolutionary song that year. There was never a savior. Don't rely on the emperor, I've been sturdily destroyed in Elaine's hands in my life!

Charlie smiled helplessly, and said,

"Dad, or let's talk about that Hank."

Jacob hugged his arms, angrily He asked, "What does he have to say? Isn't it just a higher degree, what's so great? In addition, he looks a little more handsome, a little better, a little taller, and looks younger than me. A little bit, besides this, what else is he better than me?

Charlie said embarrassingly: "Doesn't this take up everything inside and out?

Jacob rubbed his temples: What a headache, Charlie, you say him Do you have a wife and children?

Charlie thought for a while and said seriously: "A man who came out for a run at night, I think he shouldn't have wife, but he is 55 years old, I think there must be children. According to this analysis, there should be more than one period.

His previous marriage history, but he should be single at the moment." Damn! Jacob said frustratedly: "When I saw the look he looked at your Aunt, I felt something was wrong. This guy likes Aunt, and both of them. Both are single, are colleagues in senior colleges, and have many years of life experience in the United States, and both like to exercise. According to this analysis, they are the most suitable for living together, which is nothing damn me. Ah! After speaking, Jacob vomited annoyedly: You said, he was a magnificent MIT professor who came to Aurous Hill University of Finance and Economics to teach. Isn't he sick?

Charlie nodded and smiled: "It's MIT. Professor of Economics and Management, with a high gold content.

Jacob asked curiously: "Do you know MIT?"

"A little bit.

Charlie said seriously: "Massachusetts is the world's first in the past two years, but the strongest in Massachusetts is not economics and management, but science and engineering, electronic engineering, aerospace, etc. The best economic management should be Stanford and Harvard.

Jacob asked curiously: "How do you know so clearly? I remember that you have only been in college for one year.

Charlie casually said: "Hurt! Haven't eaten pork, haven't we seen a pig run?"

In fact, when Charlie was very young, he loved American universities so much. It is not how much he yearns for the United States, but his mother He grew up in the U.S. and was a high-achieving student who graduated from Stanford University.

Moreover, Stanford University is next to the famous high-tech industrial base in the United States, Silicon Valley.

Many Silicon Valley Internet giants first studied at Stanford University and then graduated Start a business in Silicon Valley.

Most of the first-generation entrepreneurs in Silicon Valley who graduated from Stanford in the early 1990s and worked hard in Silicon Valley were classmates of Charlie's mother.

When Charlie was young, she often heard her mother talk about the characteristics of American universities, especially Stanford.

Charlie remembers that when she was five or six years old and followed her mother to visit relatives in the United States, she also took herself to Stanford University to visit.
