

At The Top 1141

Chapter 1141

Jasper loved gaming in his past life too.

Because of this, he did hear of some god-level players in a few different games.

WindChaser from Journey to the War, for example, was the trust-fund child of one of Waterhoof City's richest families. The man's family was in the banking business and he had an endless stream of money to use.

Or even Rich All The Way from West Fantasyland.

No one dared to call themselves wealthy in the game without spending at least tens of millions on it.

The most powerful as well as the earliest God-level account was the legendary 8Ls.

The account had spent twenty to thirty million on the game and won in a one against the entire area fight.

The last thing Jasper expected was this legendary 8L player to be Henry.

While Jasper did bring United Legends to the world sooner in this lifetime, fate had still run its course and Henry had still gotten into the game.

that spending tens of millions on games was something unimaginable, it was actually pretty fun to play; There are even invitations to fight or defeating bosses. Still, there's something I don't like about was intrigued when he heard Henry me, and if it makes sense then I'll go and behind the computers were stunned when they

They thought that Mr. Law was already an extremely powerful meet another even more powerful figure who could mocked Jasper for being crazy. However, they watched with their own eyes how uncaring Mr. Law had no way Mr. Law would chat with a low and the map updates are too slow. Everything I have is already maxed out and I only get invites to fight other people," Henry complained to Jasper, ignoring the shock that all the other youths were no control over specific updates, nor do the reports pass by my hand. But I can help you ask later if there are any arrangements to improve to open an account when United Legends had just opened a had not managed to fight the boss with the wedding ring item and had instead been tortured by a guild many times. Holding a

of this, Jasper found himself missing

Life at The Top

Chapter 1142

Henry still wanted to ask more questions when Jasper waved his hand and said, "Come on, let's go eat. What about your team of players, should we get them something?"

Henry replied nonchalantly, "No need. I already told the hotel staff to send three meals a day to the room. Their diets are even more balanced than ours."

Jasper chuckled and replied, "Alright, then. Let's go."

...

At the same time, in the Gardner family's villa.

An old doctor walked out of the room with his assistant in tow. He sighed and turned to Lisa, who looked worried, "Miss Gardner, Mr. Gardner's condition isn't looking very good..."

"Our initial diagnosis of Mr. Gardner's stroke today pins the cause as large emotional fluctuations as well as a long period of irregular diet and rest."

Lisa's heart sank when she heard him. She clenched her fists and asked, "Will my dad recover from this, Dr. Tingey?"

and replied, "There's no cure for likely be multiple relapses

expression paled as she asked, "What's the worst again and replied, "Severe and later stage strokes can lead to Parkinson's disease. This whereby the

have already happened, and we cannot in any life-threatening danger, so we just have hospital for a systematic full-body check-up. I'll contact the best team and have them come up

"Alright. Thank

doctor left with his assistant as Lisa opened the room

lying in bed. His complexion was horrible, like felt her heart clench at the sight. She walked over to the bed to take doctor leave?" Norman

"Yeah," Lisa nodded.

Chapter 1143

Lisa felt both terrified and in despair when she heard this.

“Are you giving up too, Dad?”

Norman shook his head and replied, “I’m not giving up. I’m just stating the reality of the situation.

“When we first met Jasper in Swallow Capital for the first time... To be honest, did we actually hate him that much?”

Lisa bit her lip and stayed silent.

“But it’s too late for all of this now.”

Norman sighed deeply.

“Gale and Mr. Atticus certainly won’t help us now, so we’ve got to think of a way to help ourselves.”

Lisa looked at Norman and asked, “Do you have a plan, Dad?”

lightly. An unstable light flickered in his weak gaze as he replied, “There’s price for their protection. I’d bet more than the dissolution of the Haddock’s Chamber of Commerce’s Waterhoof City Branch had spread throughout the majority of civilians. However, people higher up in the social ranks knew how perilous the of the Waterhoof City branch meant that Haddock’s that this was Teo Chamber of Commerce’s work After all, the two chambers were mortal enemies, and traces of work that there were no signs of this chance to enter Waterhoof City’s market, they turned into a vacuum where there were no signs countless rumors filled the air, Jasper met Gerry in the

...

on the sofa, his expression frantic like he air conditioning in the room was set to Jasper’s favored 24 degrees Celsius.

due to

Life at The Top

Chapter 1144

“Don’t you know, Mr. Laine? There’s a saying, the North has the Browns and the South has the little prince. These two are extremely formidable leaders of the younger generation.”

“This Waterhoof City little prince is the heir to the Royal family. They’re an extremely powerful presence here in Waterhoof City. They’ve been here since the Republic and their roots run deep. They’re not people small fries like us can compare to.”

“We all call him Little Prince in private. The old master to his family is officially recognized as the supreme emperor.”

Jasper’s gaze changed as he listened to Gerry.

‘A prince and a supreme emperor. What kind of feudal game is this?’

Despite how unbelievable it all sounded, Jasper could tell that Gerry was speaking the truth from his mannerism.

Even if Gerry wanted to lie to him, he would not be stupid enough to make up a whole family on the spot.

“Go ahead and tell me what happened,” Jasper said.

Gerry began, “This morning, I decided to gather a few people to cause trouble at Norman’s company. I also contacted a few of Norman’s old clients to ask them to kick up a fuss.”

just gone out when they immediately me and warned me not to interfere with the Gardner family.

my way over immediately prince is. But the remaining five percent that do definitely don’t have the guts to Laine, you can put a knife to my neck and I still won’t do it. I suggest you let it go as well. The Gardner family doesn’t mean anything to narrowed his eyes after listening to Gerry, then waved

Jasper pulled Henry over while the man emperor and little prince? Do you know anything about them?” Jasper asked the Royal family. They were the richest family in Waterhoof City before the Republic, but no one knows how powerful they are put it this way. The Royal family is the majority shareholder of Peace Bank. Eqven Pansky Industrial, probably that little prince or something seven or eight years ago. He was a smiley man like you.

looked like bullying material, but my dad warned me not to offend him before we met. Therefore, you can imagine that their status in Waterhoof City is equivalent to my family’s among Harbor he finished explaining this and asked, “Why, are they coming after you? Don’t worry, there’s nothing really special about them anyway. The little prince’s dad, the head of the Royal stole my mom from his

Chapter 1145

Henry's analysis made sense.

Yet, Jasper could not help but feel like there was more to this incident.

In all honesty, from what he came to understand, the Royal family was an extremely powerful presence in Waterhoof City, or even the entire mainland.

If people like Norman could gain the Royal family's support, then he would have made a huge name for himself long ago.

However, he had only come to seek the Royal family for help once he was on the edge of life and death.

Either Norman and the Royal family had history and this was a favor the latter owed the man, or there was a more to this situation that outsiders did not know about

Still, Jasper could not help but feel like he would meet the Royal family sooner or later.

"The most important thing is that I've never planned to let Norman and Lisa go," Jasper said calmly.

Royal family or not, Jasper would weed out and completely destroy the father-daughter duo.

He could not opt to give up and run just because some so-called Royal family appeared out of nowhere.

might as well sell his company and go back to farming if that really need it, I could help you get you a meeting

his head

can't be involved in this, because that means the Law family will be dragged into it.

Royal family wants to protect Norman, then and replied, "You decide then. I'm going back to play my game, but remember mean they can do whatever they want. Keep yapping bullsh*t and I will still slap them was right, as a middle-aged man came looking for Jasper at

The middle-aged man was extremely courteous as he greeted Jasper by the door with a small respectful glanced at the man. He could tell from one look that this middle-aged man was not the host, but am. And you

"I'm Coffey Copeland. My apologies for disturbing you

Copeland... What a unique as if he was used to people making fun of his name. The man bowed slightly and said, "Mr. Laine, I've been "With who?" Jasper asked.

he said the name. He seemed to hold endless admiration and respect for the

No data found.

Life at The Top

Chapter 1147

This was his first time meeting the little prince Dominique Royal, but Jasper almost choked on the other's air of pretentiousness.

Jasper looked at Dominique, who remained seated on his chair, showing no intention of turning to acknowledge him. Jasper gave it some thought before he smiled.

When it came to acting pretentious, Jasper liked to think that he was just as good as anyone else.

"I cannot hold onto the people who turn away from me. After all, the past will only add on to my troubles."

"On the contrary, I much prefer the future. A time where everything is uncertain and up to us to decide."

Jasper strode into the room with his head held high as he talked.

Julian took in the situation and followed instinctively.

Only for Coffey to tilt his body slightly and stood in his path.

"My apologies. Like me, you can only wait outside the doors."

Julian a small smile and said

man's tone was calm, but his gaze contracted and his chilling aura exploded. He replied indifferently, "And if small smile, "No one can cause trouble in front

his eyes and stepped already standing against Coffey's right, the former trying to enter the room while the other standing flesh had obviously collided, yet, it made a dull thud as if a sack had fallen from while the other stood outside. One was trying to enter while the other was trying to stop him. The two men's strengths collided through their eyes shone brightly with wonder. With a slight harrumph, his body shifted and other as they both other's strengths from the brief had been a long time since he had met an opponent that filled him with excitement and place for him to do as he wished upon finding a worthy opponent. Hence, Julian quickly looked

Chapter 1148

In the room, the little prince Dominique Royal finally turned to look at Jasper.

Dominique's appearance was pleasing to the eye. His facial features leaned more to the feminine side, and despite being a man, he gave off a distinct charm.

This was especially true for the delicate shape of his eyes under his defined brows. The man's gaze lit up with an unforgettable shine.

While Jasper looked Dominique over, Dominique did the same to him.

The two equally young men observed each other quietly for two whole minutes without saying anything.

The ballet performance did not stop and the sounds of the piano flowed slowly like trickling water in the room.

Dominique eventually smiled.

"Have a seat."

Dominique gestured to the seat opposite him with his palm.

walked up to take a stage and said, "It's a refreshing idea to "Your vision is unique as well, little prince. Not and replied slowly, "I had cooked up many ways of talking to you before we met, Jasper. But after seeing you, I realize that all those methods and tactics want to protect the Gardner and replied, "Indeed. I do like it when things are more straightforward. In that case, I'll be frank too and tell you and I want to get rid when he heard Jasper say this, as sign of the terror rumored outside. It was almost as if he researched you before this, Jasper. And all this while your performance has been exceptional. To be frank, I don't think anyone can that I wish to protect the Gardner family, yet you seem adamant about getting involved in this. This doesn't seem to before him. The two short-term and long-term interests. In the long-term, maintaining a good relationship with you is indeed beneficial, Little Prince. But relationship you and Norman share, Little Prince. But if Norman's able to ask you to step up and protect him, then it must mean that he must serve some unique purpose to you. I also can't guarantee even if I give up on my plan of getting rid of the Gardner family, there's still the risk of me butting

I continue on my quest of eradicating them, at

Chapter 1149

Jasper frowned slightly when he saw the father-daughter duo.

Norman and Lisa had not expected to see Jasper here either. Already afraid, the two of them were terrified now.

Dominique continued to swirl the glass of wine in his hands and said lazily, "Norman's father used to be my grandfather's driver. So, I suppose there is some semblance of a relationship between us."

"But. A favor my grandfather owes has nothing to do with me. And I don't see why a grandson must repay his grandfather's debts."

Dominique then turned to smile at Jasper as he said, "Don't you think so, Jasper?"

Jasper did not react at all.

Norman and Lisa were stricken when they heard the little prince.

To them, the Royal family was supposed to be a definite source of protection. No matter how powerful Jasper was, there was no way he could do anything if the Royal family wished to protect them.

Yet, after they had just found shelter in the Royal family, the little prince decided to change his tune and send them straight into Jasper's jaws. 'What is the meaning of this?!

we agreed

red liquid that had fermented for the past sixty years.

I changed my mind after I found out that it's Jasper you already asked Jasper about this, and he doesn't seem to have any desire to he heard

to go against the Royal family before the way Dominique acted, it seems like he's unwilling to become my enemy simply because of quickly ran through everything that had happened during his brief interaction with Dominique. However, there were too few leads, and he could not deduce what was

We can't be given to Jasper! Please, on behalf of our history and what insignificant relationship we shared, please that moment, he felt terrified, as though the world was had always been fearless while he still had the Royal family as nor anyone else would dare to hurt him as long as the Royal was a life-and-death situation. He was so adamant on this that he could not afford to help even when the Hull father-son duo was cornered it was his turn, he suddenly realized that this trump card Dominique. She knelt and looked up at Dominique, trying her best to

Chapter 1150

“Things Fabian’s had his fun with, I find disgusting.”

Dominique then pulled his hand back after that and pulled out a clean white handkerchief to wipe the fingers that touched Lisa’s chin.

This action had Lisa, her face colorless, feeling further humiliated.

“If you want to live, I’m not the person you should be turning to. Ask him instead.”

Dominique pointed at Jasper.

Lisa and Norman looked over.

Jasper’s expression remained calm.

From the short conversation between Dominique and Lisa, Jasper had acutely caught on to something important.

knew of the relationship Lisa had with

was worth

“Ja-Jasper.”

as he called the man’s name with gaze fell on boastfulness in a deep breath and suddenly fell to his knees in front and leaning forward, Norman knelt curtly to Norman’s side. She tried her you doing, Dad? Why are you kneeling for Jasper?

pushed Lisa away and stared intently at that you let take responsibility for everything. I know that I'm in no position to talk about conditions.

then bent over until his prostrated in front

"Dad!"