

At The Top 2341

Chapter 2341-The oil traders present could quickly and accurately understand it through this equation.

Referring to Nori's equation, they saw that they could get more cash flow if they exchanged more stocks.

The price would go up 20% if they exchanged more than 20% of stocks. Similarly, if someone was willing to sell more than 50% of their company's stocks, they could make a 150% profit on the spot!

It sounded like a free meal. However, the oil traders still had their last shred of sanity.

They still had their doubts about the matter and knew they could not exchange too much in one go, even if it was highly profitable. The oil companies were their bread and butter!

Nori was not surprised to see the crowd hesitate. However, she was prepared. She had already had some stooges she had convinced to invest planted in the crowd. Therefore, several people swaggered up the stairs immediately after Nori's announcement.

"Is there really such a profitable thing? I don't believe it! I'll exchange 20% of my stocks first!"

As soon as the person said this, a professional accountant appeared.

After careful calculation, the man was soon rewarded with a large sum of money!

Several stooges came up and hyped up the scene.

The others could not stop after someone took the lead. They all began the negotiations to join the trade.

Rowan commented as he stood beside Miss Nori, watching the scene unfold in full swing. "Ms. Nori, that was a great move! I didn't expect these people to buy it. If this goes on, we'll probably take over their business soon!"

Nori smiled contemptuously before shaking her head.

"You only saw the surface, but I don't think it's enough," Nori said to Rowan as she grabbed a signed contract.

"See? They're more conservative and only dare to limit the risk to about 50%. It's not enough."

Rowan understood and shook his head instead. "But Ms. Nori, they won't give more than 50% of their shares to anyone else if they were in their right mind, right?"

Nori was not angry after hearing that. She nodded approvingly instead.

"You're right, but I want to make the impossible possible! People have a herd mentality, and soon they will slowly follow the crowd!"

It turned out to be pretty much what Nori expected. Within an hour, someone was already selling all their company's property on the spot.

The president, Murik, could not bear to watch. "Stop!"

He naturally caught everyone's attention, and everyone looked at Murik.

Nori also had no idea what he was up to.

"Have all of you lost your mind? Can't anyone see that this is an elaborate hoax? It looks like you can profit by selling more than 50% of your company's stocks. But what about later?"

"The entire Bashra oil industry will fall into the hands of outsiders! What good life will you have then?"

Murik's words were a wake-up call, and Nori was instantly furious.

'The damned old fox. I thought he was on my side. Who would have expected him to go rogue?!'

Life at the Top Chapter 2342-Her assistant Adrian asked with a face full of anxiety.

"What should we do now? If he goes on, I reckon everyone will wake up to reality!"

Rose knew this, but her expression remained calm.

"I get it. Doesn't he like the limelight? Then I'll let him enjoy it as much as he can! Take out everything we've prepared and slander Murik!"

"Yes!"

Murik on stage was still trying to make the crowd realize the truth with emotions and reason. However, everyone exclaimed and pointed behind Murik.

Murik instantly realized something was wrong and turned around to look. He did not expect to see his conspiracy with Lydia playing on the screen.

"What... What's the meaning of this video?" Murik bellowed.

"It's simple. Do you see this? President Murik is the mole. He's been in close contact with the Somerland businessman! Now, what do you do with someone who tries to stop me just as I'm about to lead us to success?"

Rose pushed Murik against everyone, and the stooges off the stage immediately spoke up.

"Arrest this fellow!"

"Yes, arrest him!"

When everyone heard this, they began nodding earnestly and heckled.

Murik did not expect this at all. He just wanted to bring people to their senses as soon as possible. He was instantly startled to see the angry crowd rushing forward.

They quickly grabbed Murik and forced him to his knees.

"President Murik, I thought there was a mole because I was repeatedly slandered by the scheming Somerland businessman, Josef. But I never expected it to be you! How do you explain it in front of so many people who believed in you?" Rose continued to blame Murik, who was at a loss for words.

However, he did not crack even under such pressure.

"I have nothing to explain! Justice will prevail! If you think I'm the mole and I've done this to everyone, you can sue me! We can go to court to settle this!"

Rose dared not let Murik go to court. That would expose her secret control of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce. Therefore, Rose quickly made up an excuse.

"Did you hear that? This guy refuses to admit it and is trying to find an excuse to go to court to buy time! What do you suggest we do?"

Rose seemed to have given the crowd the choice but was actually asking the stooges she had planted.

"Execute Murik on the spot!"

"That's right. We don't know how much money he has stolen over the years. Throw him out!"

The yelling grew louder as the angry crowd could not resist!

Murik accepted his fate, as he waited for Lydia to return.

"I'm going to ask you for the last time. Do you admit to your crime?"

When Rose finished speaking, Murik remained defiant.

"You're a fool to try to blame me and make me take responsibility for something I didn't do! I'll only die at worst. Do it!"

Murik's resolute attitude looked outrageously arrogant to the others.

"How dare he stay stubborn when he's about to die? Kill him!"

"Yes, kill him!"

"Yes, kill this traitor!"

There was a lot of commotion. Just as Murik was about to be decapitated, there was the sound of a gunshot.

Life at the Top Chapter 2343-The gunshot instantly sent a chill running down the spines of everyone present, and they threw away their weapons and hid aside.

Omas took advantage of the opportunity to look back. A group of people was forcing their way in at the entrance of the venue.

The leader of the group was naturally Cindy!

"Cindy? Why are you here? Weren't you..."

"Stopped outside by you?" Cindy interrupted Omas's words, "Do you think I wouldn't know that you guys have plotted against me behind my back recently? I know everything and I was just collecting evidence! What a pity that you still didn't kill me in the end. Now, it is time for me to expose you!"

Cindy strode onto the stage and drove Omas and the others aside.

There were a few guys with knives looking at Mandra.

However, he said unceremoniously, "Why are you looking at me holding knives? Either come up and hack me to death or get out of my way!"

After he said that, no one dared to make a move.

Everyone could tell that the two bodyguards next to Cindy were not easy to mess with.

"Oh, you're quiet now? Everyone knows how to be savage. You brainless idiots!"

"Omas is going to suck your business dry, do you know that? It seems you have no idea! You're hopeless!"

While talking to the group of people, Cindy rescued Murik, who had been tied up.

It seemed that some people could not bear that his words that were a little harsh.

"Stop talking nonsense! You keep saying Miss Omas is a liar, but Miss Omas says you are moles. I'm sure one of you must have lied. Can you prove your innocence?"

Faced with doubts, Cindy was certainly ready.

"Do I still need proof? Let me show you what this woman named Omas has done behind your back!"

Cindy brought a lot of evidence, including some recent videos of Omas chasing to kill him and others.

These pieces of evidence were indeed eye-catching, but to put it bluntly, they were not enough to be criminal evidence. This was because, at best, they only showed that there was indeed a conflict between Cindy and Omas.

However, the conflict between the two of them had nothing to do with other people. Therefore, voices of dissatisfaction gradually came from the crowd.

"Calm down. Let's take a look at this..."

Cindy finally took out the test report he had prepared long ago and made it public.

After the test report was circulated among the crowd, Cindy could clearly see everyone's expressions changed.

"I-It's fake? Impossible!"

"But we went to the testing agency in Bardot, so there should n't be any mistakes..."

Everyone was talking and the situation clearly caught Omas's attention.

Originally, Omas was also worried that Cindy would produce solid evidence, but it turned out to be of little value. Therefore, Omas kept silent, wanting to watch Cindy mess this up by himself. Now, it did not appear to be the case.

Hence, Omas poked her head over to take a look and her expression immediately became extremely unpleasant.

'Where did this guy get the test report? How did the test reagent I prepared fall into his hands? Did Osmond betray me?'

Life at the Top Chapter 2344-Jagoan started doubting the dead Osmond. Meanwhile, Jagoan smiled slightly when he heard this.

“Miss Jagoan, can you explain this to us?”

“Why did the professional testing agency show that the testing agent you used has no effect? Or is it because your testing agent is simply a counterfeit product?”

After Jagoan finished speaking, everyone’s attention fell on Jagoan.

Jagoan was also pretty smart, so she bit the bullet and did not plan to answer this question directly, “Oh, how would I know? Maybe there is something wrong with the agency you went to?”

“Hmph, you still refuse to give up, huh? Listen to this then!”

Jagoan played a recording at the end, and some people at the scene recognized that the owner of the sound was Osmond, the former chemist.

Saul left this at the beginning, and Jagoan had never presented this evidence until now. It was because Jagoan figured that this evidence could not be used so casually, and he had to find a suitable opportunity to present it.

Jagoan figured that right now was the most appropriate opportunity, and he wanted to make the most of the evidence.

After the recording finished playing, Jagoan looked at Jagoan and said, “Can you explain this? Why did that chemist Osmond whom you touted say that all of this is your conspiracy?”

Jagoan smiled. “Osmond is dead, how would I know if you’re lying?”

“It seems that you really don’t plan to give up until you have lost all hope” Jagoan sighed and looked back at Mr. Murik.

“Mr. Murik, please call the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce Headquarters... Ask them whether Jagoan, who’s in front of me right now, has the qualifications to test all of the oil companies in Bashra.”

“Sure!”

Mr. Murik immediately dialed his phone in front of everyone and posed his question to the headquarters of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce.

“Jagoan? Who is that? The Petroleum Chamber of Commerce Headquarters has not arranged any so-called testing at all recently. We also don’t have any new detection technology!”

As soon as everyone heard this, they were in an uproar. Jagoan could not keep calm anymore as she knew in her heart that she had lost this battle!

“How are you going to explain this, Miss Jagoan? You can’t say that the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce Headquarters is fake now, right? It might be a false accusation if one person said you’re fake, but what if everyone is saying that?” Jagoan kept questioning her.

The truth was self-evident.

Jagoan gritted her teeth and glared at Jagoan, “Jagoan, you’re pretty ballsy. Let’s get out of here!”

After she said that, Jagoan planned to leave with her people.

However, Jagoan would not give her a chance to leave, “What? Do you want to run? Then you have to ask these people at the scene if they agree!”

Jagoan also imitated Jagoan and immediately stoked the flames between her and the people present. Even as Jagoan presented more and more evidence, Jagoan chose not to act. Therefore, anyone who was not a fool already knew Jagoan’s true face!

Life at the Top Chapter 2345-Compared with the framed Mr. Murik, the anger directed at Jagoan was obviously more intense.

“Everyone, don’t let this transnational swindler get away!”

“That’s right, she played all of us, so how can we let her leave easily?”

Everyone quickly flocked to the stage and the scene became chaotic in an instant.

“Get out of the way! Otherwise, I will attack you all!”

As an assistant, Edmund was still trying his best to protect Jagoan at this time. However, in order not to be exposed before this, Edmund and others did not carry any weapons.

They did not expect Jagoan to return at this time.

Therefore, Jagoan and others could only flee in a hurry now that they were facing the heavily armed people brought by Jagoan.

“Hold on! I’ll go back and call Captain Viktor for help!”

Upon hearing Captain Viktor’s name, Edmund suddenly felt confident. After all, Captain Viktor was the true leader of the Sky Wolves Mercenaries. As long as he was willing to come, nothing would go wrong.

Edmund nodded seriously. “No problem, Miss Jagoan, you go first, I’ll be waiting for your support!”

When she saw this, Jagoan left without looking back. Meanwhile, the swarming crowd was kept aside.

Edmund immediately ordered his people to form a human wall, temporarily protecting Jagoan.

Jagoan witnessed all of this, but he would not let Jagoan escape so easily.

“Jagoan, follow her and keep an eye on her!”

“Yes, Sir!”

Jagoan could not leave so soon. After all, he had to stay and help Murik stabilize the scene.

These people, despite temporarily losing their minds, were still the bedrock of Bashra’s oil industry. Without them, the entire industry would cease to exist.

“Everyone, calm down! Although the culprit behind this has escaped, it’s fine as long as you know what’s going on. Hurry up and throw away all the contracts you signed. Bashra’s oil industry can only be decided by its own people! Outsiders must not interfere!”

Jagoan’s words immediately cleared the suspicion on him.

Because when Jagoan discredited Jagoan earlier, she emphasized that he was from Somerland. She kept preaching that Jagoan, as a representative of Somerland’s business community, wanted to swallow up Bashra’s oil industry.

Now, the lies had collapsed in light of the truth, and Jagoan did not even need to explain much.

Right now, the bosses who were on the scene could not help feeling extremely regretful. They regretted listening to what Jagoan said and being such big jokes, almost killing Murik in the process.

All the oil merchants reacted at this time. They turned their heads to Jagoan and others and began to bow and apologize.

“Mr. Laine, Mr. Murik, we’re sorry! We all know we were at fault for what happened today...”

After someone took the lead, Jagoan and Murik saw the spectacular sight of hundreds of people bowing to them.

At this time, Jagoan and Murik smiled at each other and said calmly, “It’s fine. We are all in the same industry, so as long as we have less suspicion against each other in the future, we will be unfled... I believe that no matter how many more Jagoans come, there is no way for them to disrupt our market and industry!”

Life at the Top Chapter 2346-With a gentle smile, John fastened his seat belt. “So, I guess that should ease your mind, shouldn’t it?”

Sophia nodded in response. “Yup. Thank you.”

Still smiling, he said, “Come on! You’re talking to me like I’m your boss. Just be yourself.”

Nevertheless, Sophia didn’t say anything else as they made their way toward the Constance Residence. Since the warehouse was situated in a rather remote area, they happened to pass by the suburb while heading to the city. Therefore, John decided to swing by the Bailey Family’s shadow bank and have a look, but before he arrived at his destination, he saw a car that belonged to the Bailey Family parked right outside the building.

Wait a minute. No one from the Bailey Family really drives this car. Soon, John managed to recall having seen that car back at the Bailey Residence when he was there to call off his engagement with Isabelle. Hmm. They must have probably thought no one recognizes it, and hence are not afraid to show it in public. Well, the car looks a little old, but I can still remember it.

After that, John pulled up by the roadside and shifted his gaze to Sophia. “Wait for me here. I’ll be right back.” Despite feeling surprised, Sophia only nodded in silence, while John took a cap from the backseat and put on a coat before he got out of the car. Then, instead of approaching the vehicle, he stood from afar and set his eyes on the registration plate, returning to his own car a few moments later. It looks like my suspicion is correct. Someone from the Bailey Family has come to the shadow bank.

After running through a few possible suspects in his mind, John could only think of Isabelle or Old Mr. Bailey. After all, he knew that Elder Mr. Bailey had to pick between Old Mr. Bailey and Isabelle to take over his business since Dexter was gone.

Isabelle didn't send me a text message about this, so this is likely not her. Therefore, that makes Old Mr. Bailey the only one left suspicious.

At the thought of that, John sniggered. It seems that Elder Mr. Bailey is running out of options. He may be aged, but Old Mr. Bailey isn't exactly young either.

Ever since Dexter passed away, Old Mr. Bailey had been broken and devastated deep down, even though he still looked like he was in high spirits to stand up to his father.

Well, everything seems to suggest that the Bailey Family is really at a dead end. Nonetheless, when John thought about Dexter, he couldn't help but feel sorry for him. That poor little boy's days would likely be tough if he were still alive.

Upon getting into his car, John took off his jacket and hat, fastening his seatbelt before hitting the road. When Sophia realized they had left the place far enough, she asked, "What happened? Something wrong with the car?"

John responded with an affirmative hum and added, "It looks like it belongs to the Bailey Family."

Upon hearing about the Bailey Family, Sophia widened her eyes and asked, "What? Why would they be there?"

Not knowing how to explain the situation to Sophia, John ambiguously replied, "Something is definitely off."

As soon as she heard that, she instantly knew John was probably hinting that it wasn't convenient for him to talk too much, like his usual attitude. Therefore, she only asked him a simple question, "Is it going to affect us in any significant way?"

In response, John smacked his lips and answered, "Not really. So, don't worry."

While the conversation ended with John's final reply, he dropped Sophia off at the Constance Residence and drove off right away.

What's the hurry? Meanwhile, Sophia stood in the car park, letting out a sigh as she watched John's car moving away. This guy just never takes a break! After a long day, Sophia felt tired and decided to take a catnap in her room.

Upon waking up from a short nap, Sophia was surprised to discover that she had a missed call, which turned out to be from Isabelle. Well, well! This lady obviously hasn't learned her lesson at all since the last time she called.

Life at the Top Chapter 2347-After arriving at the destination, it was not difficult for Jagoan and Jagoan to see that there were obvious signs of battle at this location.

"Which way did Jagoan run off to?"

Jagoan pointed to the southeast and Jagoan squinted slightly. "If I remember correctly, that should be the base camp of the Sky Wolves Mercenaries."

Jagoan and the others had known for a long time the reason Jagoan could be so unscrupulous in the Bashra was that she had the support of the Sky Wolves Mercenaries.

"Tell me, how did you lose Jagoan?"

"Heh, she's lucky, I almost caught her!" Jagoan told Jagoan that he led his men after her as soon as he got the order.

Jagoan was powerless to resist Jagoan's pursuit along the way, so she kept running. Jagoan also arranged for another group of people to flank her from the left, trying to surround and seize her in this way.

Just when they were about to succeed, another group of people arrived.

The opponent was very aggressive. Plus, the heavy weapons carried by the group seemed to be much more powerful than the ones Jagoan had. Jagoan also knew when to stop, so he chose to retreat immediately and simply watched Jagoan leave.

Jagoan nodded thoughtfully after listening.

He then looked at Jagoan and said, "At this stage, only the Sky Wolves Mercenaries can mobilize armed forces of this scale in Bashra."

"That's right, I thought so too. With their protection, Jagoan will be hard to catch."

Having said that, Jagoan told Jagoan and Jagoan about an unknown detail.

"Mr. Laine, I originally thought that the people from Sky Wolves Mercenaries would escort Jagoan all the way, but because I was not reconciled, I arranged for someone to follow them secretly... But according to the information brought back by the person I assigned, this was not the case. They actually parted ways halfway."

Jagoan did not expect this as the look in his eyes gradually grew complicated.

"Really? Could it be that there are secrets between Jagoan and Sky Wolves Mercenaries that outsiders don't know?"

At this time, Jagoan could not find out the truth, so he could only put the matter aside for the time being.

"She has escaped, so let's ignore it for the time being. Let's not press the enemy right now... We just need to take care of our own affairs and keep an eye out to prevent her from making a comeback."

After Jagoan said that, everyone went back home.

Jagoan was hunted down yesterday, so his hotel and other properties suffered losses. Now, Jagoan himself had a lot of things to deal with, so he had no time to take care of others.

While Jagoan brought his people back to Bashra, Jagoan was still on the run. She could not calm down for a long time. She did not expect Captain Viktor to act so quickly.

At that time, Jagoan had been hunted down by Brook to the point of desperation, and at the critical moment, Captain Viktor appeared to save her.

Jagoan thought her savior had finally arrived, so she gave Captain Viktor orders as casually as before.

Life at the Top Chapter 2348-What she did not expect was Captain Viktor's cold answer. "Miss Jagoan, you have no right to give me any orders. I am now a member of the Rothschild family."

"What? You're one of us?" Jagoan widened her eyes and quickly reacted.

The reason why the Rothschilds had been able to dominate the Western world for hundreds of years was that they kept recruiting talented people. That was to say while keeping the internal members of the Rothschilds unchanged, they would also madly absorb all the power that could be used from the outside.

For example, the five major families including the Nason family were one of the strongest minions under the Rothschilds.

Therefore, Jagoan understood that even if Captain Viktor managed to join the Rothschilds, he was only one of the external forces.

In terms of status, Captain Viktor could not be compared with Jagoan, the young lady of the Rothschilds. Thus, Jagoan still put her hands on her hips and stared at Captain Viktor in front of her.

She said, "Since you have joined the family, you should understand how big the difference in status is between you and me! Why do you dare to disobey my orders?"

Everything Jagoan said was true, but Captain Viktor still would not follow the rules.

"Miss Jagoan, what you said is a rule that belongs exclusively to the Rothschilds. If I were in the United States, I would definitely abide by it... It's a pity that you have been in Jagoan for so long, yet you are still not familiar with the rules here. It seems that you are not as good as that Somerland businessman Jagoan."

"Haven't you heard that a general in the field is not bound by the orders from his sovereign? The identity of the Rothschilds is just a shield for me!"

After seeing Captain Viktor's half-hearted smile, Jagoan suddenly realized.

"No wonder you went to such great lengths to join the Rothschilds, you must have had ulterior motives!" Jagoan yelled.

"So what? If you are interested, you can arrange for someone to investigate me. I don't care. It's just that you've been in trouble recently, right, Miss Jagoan?" Captain Viktor looked Jagoan up and down, his eyes full of contempt.

"Alright, I don't have time to chat with you. Before I change my mind, you'd better leave quickly! Otherwise, I won't guarantee that my subordinates won't do anything disrespectful."

As she was faced with Captain Viktor's brazen threat, Jagoan could only turn around and leave even if she was unwilling. At this time, almost an hour had passed, and she had already entered no man's land.

There were no pursuers behind her, which made Jagoan somewhat relaxed.

"Miss Jagoan, we are about to leave Bashra. Should we continue?" The driver asked and Jagoan suddenly thought of something.

She glanced at the date before nodding and said, "Keep going! I don't believe that a huge place like Jagoan won't have a place for me. Unless he, Jagoan, stays in Bashra forever. Otherwise, I will still have a chance to take revenge for this humiliation!"

Life at the Top Chapter 2349-Under Jagoan's order, the car continued to move forward and soon disappeared into the wilderness...

Meanwhile, Jagoan, who returned to the urban area, finished resting and soon recovered his energy.

He woke up the next day as per usual and was inspecting the hotel for repair work so that it could operate normally.

Suddenly, a car drove to the side of the street and stopped. Then, Mr. Murik came over with a gift.

"Congratulations, Mr. Laine!"

"Hey, Mr. Murik, how are you so well-informed?! haven't had time to inform others about the opening of this hotel yet!"

Jagoan looked at him with a smile, but soon Jagoan understood that Murik was not here for this.

"Mr. Laine, I'm not here to congratulate your hotel on its opening. I'm here to congratulate you for being the general counsel of our Bashra Petroleum Chamber of Commerce!"

After hearing this, Jagoan, the person involved, was stunned for a moment.

"General counsel of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce? What kind of position is this? Why don't I know about it?"

"Aren't I here to inform you?" Murik smiled slightly and Jagoan led them to the private room upstairs.

After closing the door, Jagoan said, "Okay, Mr. Murik, there are no outsiders here, so stop keeping me on tenterhooks."

"Alright, I don't intend to keep hiding things from you, and I have to discuss this with you..." Murik said with a smile and added, "You getting elected as the general counsel of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce was actually discussed by me and other colleagues... I have to start from my two days of investigation."

Murik told Jagoan that after leaving the venue that day, he went back and thought about what Jagoan said. In the end, he figured it made sense.

Therefore, Murik mobilized his network and slowly targeted his investigation at the headquarters of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce.

As Jagoan knew from before, Murik had always been very loyal. However, with the deepening of the recent investigation, Jagoan found that he was the stupidest person.

Murik's investigation did not take much effort. In the end, he found out that the top executives of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce Headquarters had connections with the Rothschilds.

Murik did not understand at first, but then it dawned on him.

Since his investigation did not take much effort, it showed that the corruption at the top of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce Headquarters must have been going on for a very long time.

There was one more thing that horrified Murik.

He felt that it was the foolish loyalty he had shown that made the top executives of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce start their wishful thinking. Due to this, the top executives of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce had never feared Murik.

After investigating these matters, Murik summoned other members of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce to discuss things again. They eventually figured out that Bashra's Petroleum Chamber of Commerce had to be overhauled.

Everyone agreed that they needed a new leader, both spiritually and physically. Thus, in the end, Jagoan became the general counsel of the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce.

Life at the Top Chapter 2350-“Mr. Laine, now you carry all of our hope. I tailored this position just for you. You won't say no, right?”

The focus of the whole conversation was on the word 'tailored'. Obviously, Murik was very considerate of Jagoan.

Because Jagoan was not used to being bound, he would not want to get involved with matters outside of his own company and things around him. It just so happened that Murik knew how to read the room and understood Jagoan's character.

Therefore, it was not easy for Jagoan to refuse at this time.

With a helpless smile on his face, Jagoan shook his head and looked at Murik in front of him. “You are so good at keeping me busy. Since you've said that, I agree!”

Murik smiled slightly after hearing this and nodded quickly. “Great, I knew you wouldn't refuse. Then when do you think you can go and report yourself? It won't waste too much of your time. You just need to register.”

Jagoan stood up. “There's no time like the present. Let's do it now.”

“No problem, Mr. Laine, please follow me!”

Murik quickly took Jagoan to the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce to register.

After finishing his work, Jagoan was also warmly received by his peers. Everyone expressed in front of Jagoan that they wanted to re-realize Jagoan's original plan.

Jagoan felt very surprised after hearing this. Then, he shook his head quickly.

"Why are you still thinking about that?"

Seeing Jagoan's surprised expression, Mr. Murik knew that he had misunderstood.

"Don't worry, Mr. Laine, we've already forgotten about Jagoan. But some of her original ideas worked really well for us... For example, we all want to hand over a lot of shares to you, so that you can help us conduct business operations throughout the entire Bashra oil industry."

Jagoan's talent in business was not comparable to that of ordinary people. At least, he was in stark contrast to Jagoan.

Jagoan had relied on the Rothschilds, yet she was still beaten by Jagoan, which proved this point very clearly. This, coupled with the fact that Jagoan had chosen to stick to his duty in the face of temptation many times, was proof of his good and rare quality.

In general, Jagoan's voice in the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce had even surpassed that of Mr. Murik. However, Jagoan thought it all happened too fast, so he waved his hand.

"Calm down, everyone... We can't act too hastily, and we must know how to proceed step by step. I promise to everyone that if I have the opportunity, I will definitely lead everyone to move forward and make the Petroleum Chamber of Commerce better so that everyone can prosper together!"

Everyone stopped pushing him after Jagoan said that.

It took three days just for the warm-up performance and to invite some important people to this wedding.

The finale would be concentrated on the last two days, so Jagoan did not have to go in advance and could save time.

"Don't worry, Jagoan. As long as you concentrate on learning from me, I guarantee that you will be reborn in five days time!"