

At The Top 2371

Life at the Top Chapter 2371-Jagoan read the contents of the message and was overjoyed. "Jagoan, Jagoan said everything's ready on his end and he already sent it to my mailbox!"

Jagoan smiled. "That's good. We'll follow through with the plan, then."

As the two entered the venue, a subordinate quickly recognized Jagoan's identity as a groomsman.

"You must be Mr. Jagoan Laine, right? The wedding hasn't started yet, and both the bride and groom are still in their changing rooms. Please follow me..."

Jagoan nodded and after relaying something to Jagoan and telling him to wait outside, he followed the subordinate into the changing rooms.

There were around a dozen men and women laughing in the changing rooms. From the badges they wore, Jagoan immediately knew that they were all people of extraordinary identities.

Upon Jagoan's arrival, a blond man emerged from the crowd and smiled. "You must be Jagoan's friend, Jagoan, right? I saw what happened at the entrance, well done! Very manly..."

"I'm Harry, Elibetha's cousin. Nice to meet you!"

Jagoan smiled and shook Harry's outstretched hand. "Nice to meet you too, Prince Harry..."

Prince Harry was third in line to the throne.

"Warwick and Elibetha are still touching up in their changing rooms, so I'll bring you around to meet everyone first. I look forward to working together once the wedding begins."

Prince Harry was very enthusiastic as he brought Jagoan around the room and introduced him to the various youths of extraordinary social standings.

Jagoan then came to know who they were.

Chancellor of Germany's son Shulman, the Princess of Bulgaria Elizabeth, the second heir to the James family Lexus.

A majority of them were either relatives or ex-classmates of the to-be-wedded couple and they were all curious about Jagoan, the Somer descent who had responded fiercely at the entrance.

Many of them had heard of the shocking things Jagoan had done at an international level and quickly surrounded him to ask for details about those financial wars.

Of course, guests of the five families on the Rothschilds' side did not join in on the conversation. There were conflicts of interest between their families and Jagoan, so whether it was out of personal distaste or familial request, those particular guests distanced themselves from Jagoan.

Just as the youths chatted away passionately, an agitated quarrel was heard from behind the closed door of the bride's changing room.

"You better explain yourself, Warwick! You still can't forget about Xenna, can you?! I'll walk out of here right now if you tell me you don't want to get married!"

“I’m sorry, Beth. I...”

***

Harry shrugged unaffectedly when he heard the commotion. “Ladies and gentlemen, looks like it’s time for us to get to work...”

It was normal for newlyweds to get cold feet before their wedding, and this was when bridesmaids and groomsmen were supposed to step in and smoothen things.

Under Harry’s lead, they walked into the changing rooms. That was when they saw Elibetha sobbing while Jagoan tried to offer comfort next to her.

Sitting opposite them was a tall man with a grim expression on his face. This was the male protagonist of today’s wedding, Warwick Elvis.

Everyone quickly pieced together what happened and they all looked troubled.

Before Elibetha, Warwick was in a relationship with his childhood friend Xenna who had died in an accident.

Warwick was deeply in love with Xenna and despite her passing years ago, he had never forgotten about her. Her existence brought many sorrows to Elibetha. However, this marriage union was a decision made and planned out by both their families. Despite her displeasure, she had no choice but to marry Warwick as a member of the royal family.

However, Warwick suddenly received an email from Xenna who was supposed to be dead.

Within that email was a video with Xenna inside. Within that video, Xenna revealed a shocking piece of news.

She had not died during the accident but had sacrificed her beauty and health to survive.

Terrified that Warwick would see her deformed features, Xenna told the world that she had died during the accident.

Now, she had surprisingly recovered from her sickness and once again hoped for happiness. In the video, she had asked to meet Warwick.

Knowing his love was still alive, Warwick’s face was stricken with tears. In the end, he made a decision. He wanted to see Xenna and he wanted out of this wedding.

Chapter 2372-To be abandoned by her groom at her own wedding was a huge insult to any woman, let alone Elibetha who had lived her life being doted on by her family.

The fact that she managed to hold herself back from cursing out at Warwick was only due to her upbringing.

“I-I’m sorry, Beth, but Xenna needs me... I thought she died long ago when she was actually fighting death this whole time. She’s waiting for me. I have to look for her!”

Warwick's tone was filled with remorse, but anyone could see the determination in his eyes. He had every intention to book it out of this wedding.

"Warwick, before everything gets out of hand, you can still turn around now. If this gets to our elders, there won't be any way to fix this. You should know that as children of such powerful families, we do not get to decide who we marry. Do not act impulsively." Harry patted Warwick's shoulder and tried to persuade him not to run out of there.

This marriage union between Warwick and Elibetha was not as simple as it seemed. This was the United Kingdom's first attempt in sending their forces into Qari.

After all, the United States was not the only country with its eyes on Qari's assets.

The United Kingdom did not have the opportunity or capability before, but now that the United States was in financial peril, they saw a chance.

This was the same reason why the United Kingdom was so keen on this wedding going through and sent the third in line to the throne, Prince Harry, as a representative.

In addition to showing how they valued this union, they were also relying on Harry to step up and resolve any accidents that would prevent this wedding from going astray.

"Harry, that's what I used to think too. People think that since we're from a big powerful family, we must be living carefreely and to our desires. When in reality, we have almost no say over how we live our lives."

Harry smiled a bit only to hear Warwick continue.

"But... But this is different. I've already lost Xenna once, I cannot lose her again!"

Harry's expression soured.

Elibetha burst out into tears again and the room descended into chaos. No one realized how Jagoan, who had been neglected as if he was an outsider, was currently tinkering with the computer.

***

At the rooftop of A. H. Mosque.

"Miss Jagoan, you were right! Warwick doesn't want to get married again!" Edmund reported to Jagoan joyfully as he listened to the earpiece.

Ever since she decided to mess with the wedding, Jagoan had used all her remaining resources to set her trap.

Now, Jagoan had bugs implanted in every corner of the Mosque. Of course, this was only possible thanks to Abe.

Jagoan smirked confidently. "What's there to be impressed about? This is nothing. If I'm right, the Elvis family and the United Kingdom's royal family will be officially involved in this. Then, Kimbra only needs to cause trouble and the whole venue will be shoved into chaos. That is when we make our move!"

Edmunds' eyes lit up. "Don't worry, Miss Jagoan. I promise I won't let Jagoan out of our sight this time! His life ends in A. H. Mosque!"

Jagoan shook her head with a mysterious smile on her lips. "No, no, no, Edmund. I do not need you to go and kill Jagoan. Our targets today are everyone except Jagoan Laine. In fact, I'll need your men to escort him to safety..."

"I want Jagoan to become the target of everyone's fury! I want everyone to think that he's the one in charge of this... And that Somerland is the true culprit behind what happened."

Then, a fierce glint flashed through Jagoan's eyes. "Jagoan tricked me hard this time. It would be too merciful to just kill him."

Edmund nodded vigorously as he heard Jagoan's plan.

When suddenly, he heard something from the earpiece and his expression changed drastically.

"Miss Jagoan, something's wrong!"

Life at the Top Chapter 2373-"Something's wrong with this email. The sender isn't Miss Xenna."

Jagoan's certain tone put a temporary pause on the chaos going on in the changing room.

Everyone was baffled.

Warwick said angrily, "Now is not the time for nonsense, Mr. Jagoan. There is too much information within that email that only I and Xenna know about. If this isn't from Xenna, then who could it be?"

Warwick wanted nothing more than to leave A. H. Mosque and find Xenna right now, so when he heard Jagoan's words, his first thought was that Jagoan was trying to persuade him and buy time.

"No, Mr. Warwick, I said that for a reason. If this email truly was from Miss Xenna as you claim, then according to the background of this video, she should be in Qari. So why is this email's IP address from the United States?"

Warwick was stunned.

Jagoan turned the notebook so that the screen was facing Warwick.

"I just sent this email to my friend in Somerland, and they managed to trace its sender's IP address. If you don't trust what I say, please feel free to have your men do so as well... I'm sure the Elvis family is more than capable of doing this."

With concrete evidence placed before his eyes, Warwick looked conflicted.

"Maybe... This video was recorded in Qari a long time ago, but Xenna's in the United States now?"

"But if she recorded it a long time ago, why would she send it to me now and ask me to visit her?"

Warwick was a little confused. He was no idiot, just a frantic man who cared too much.

Now that Jagoan had reminded him of this, he came to realize how weird it was.

Everyone knew about the United States' greed when it came to Qari's assets, and once the United States was dragged into this, everyone began to wonder if there was more than met the eye.

"Or perhaps, there's the possibility that this is an edited video. Maybe Miss Xenna wanted to say something else. Maybe she never meant to ask you to see her as shown in this video..."

Warwick decided to give this more thought.

After a while, he came to find that some of Xenna's mannerisms when she spoke were unlike what he remembered.

"Mr. Warwick, there is something I must apologize about. A few days ago, I heard about your past with Miss Xenna from Miss Beth, and I learned that it was the main reason for your quarrels. Out of concern for a friend, I made a selfish decision and had someone contact Miss Xenna's brother, Mr. Hatter..."

"Coincidentally, when Mr. Hatter learned that you were getting married, he sent me a video his sister had recorded before her death and told me to show it to you should the situation come about. I believe that the situation described is now."

Jagoan's eyes were bright, and his smile was confident.

When he heard that Warwick had an ex-girlfriend he held close to his heart, Jagoan had a feeling that someone would use it to mess up the wedding.

Hence, he had Jagoan investigate the matter in secret and his hard work bore fruit.

After a bit of rummaging, a weak voice rang out in the room.

"Warwick, by the time you see this video, I won't be around anymore..."

In the video, Xenna was lying on a hospital bed as she slowly recalled their story melancholily.

Without his realization, Warwick's face was stricken with tears.

"Warwick, ever since the moment I got into that accident, I knew that I could not offer you the happiness you deserved anymore. I chose to hide the fact that I was still alive not because I was afraid that you would reject my ugly appearance, but because I didn't want you to waste your time on me until I finally died."

"Your life has only just begun. I do not want you to waste it on someone living on borrowed time. Now that I am dying, I think I can tell you everything I owe. I've missed you so much these days... These days that I spend bedridden and unable to move, I took up the habit of taking pictures of the sky every day. I have a box filled with those pictures now."

"Each picture symbolizes a day I spend missing you, and I've decided to give them to you now. Don't think of me so much anymore, okay? Live well."

Then, Xenna looked dazed and her bony hands fell limply without warning.

She was dead.

In the changing room, Warwick sobbed, but no sound came out.

Life at the Top Chapter 2374-Everyone looked at Warwick solemnly.

After listening to what Xenna had said in the video, everyone felt as if they had witnessed their love. It was a joyful yet sorrowful love story.

Each one of them felt deeply touched, and held a lot of admiration for Xenna's decisiveness in letting go out of love. They also felt pity for the loss of such a young life.

Warwick's sobs grew louder. There was even a glimmer of sympathy in Jagoan's eyes.

There was nothing more joyful than regaining what you thought you had lost, and to realize you had lost what you regained was more painful than what one could ever imagine.

All that elation Warwick felt when he thought Xenna was still alive had turned into anguish when he found out that it was all a lie.

Prince Harry and the others seemed to understand as well and approached Warwick to clasp his shoulder in consolation.

Warwick pushed away the piece of tissue his friend offered and shook his head. What he needed now was not comfort, but time to digest and accept the truth.

"Darling, suddenly, I'm not angry anymore. In fact, I feel bad for Warwick now..." Elibetha leaned over to whisper into Jagoan's ear now that her waterworks had stopped.

Jagoan nodded. "Fate played a very cruel joke on him."

Then, as if realizing something, Jagoan gasped in shock. "So you're willing to move on from the conflict and marry him?"

Elibetha flushed with embarrassment now that Jagoan had exposed her inner thoughts.

Softly, she replied, "Yeah... After what happened just now, I just think that maybe, Warwick's not so bad, you know? I was very bothered about how he couldn't seem to move on from his childhood friend, but now that I think about it, maybe it's more merit than not."

"You know how people from wealthy families like ours are very benefit-driven. It's extremely rare to see someone willing to give everything away for love. Someone like me could never inherit the majority of my family's wealth. Perhaps it would be nice to have an attentive and caring husband instead."

Most ladies were emotionally driven and all it needed was a short moment for Elibetha's attitude to take a 180-degree turn.

Warwick's sobs slowly stopped, and he steadied himself. He stood up and looked at Elibetha, then opened his mouth to say something.

Everyone tensed up.

"Beth, I apologize for my behavior just now. You must've felt very hurt, considering how most people wouldn't be able to accept their husband-to-be abandoning them before the wedding ceremony..."

Warwick's tone with calm and there was no sign of the impulsiveness just now. The man looked exactly like how an heir of a powerful family should.

However his voice was too calm and this worried everyone.

This wedding was too important to be canceled. It was more than just an important event for the Elvis family, it also involved the future relationships between Qari and the United Kingdom.

Any connections and strategic changes between nations usually start with trivial matters. It was rare to start with detrimental or important situations.

This wedding between the Elvis family and the United Kingdom's royal family was something trivial.

"It's alright, Warwick. I overreacted a little as well. I..."

Elibetha's cheeks were flushed, and she looked like a young lady who had just fallen in love.

Life at the Top Chapter 2375-"Beth, I don't know about your past, but I hope we will have each other in the present and the future. I want to say that this is related to the interests of the family but also goes beyond the interests of the family. Are you still willing to marry me?"

At this point, Warwick's voice became tense, and his eyes were fixed on Elibetha as if he was afraid that this girl would also slip away from him resolutely like the one in the video.

Elibetha bowed her head. She did not immediately answer Warwick's proposal.

Her face was completely covered under her chestnut hair, so no one knew what she was thinking.

"Is Beth going to say no?"

Jagoan had now walked back to Jagoan. She put her mouth in Jagoan's ear and whispered.

Now, she was also a little uncertain about what her friend was thinking.

There was no worry on Jagoan's face, and he replied in a very positive tone, "No, she will agree..."

"Now..." At this point, Jagoan had a playful smile on his face. "It's the woman's time for revenge..."

"Revenge?" Jagoan was taken aback for a moment, and then, she immediately understood what Jagoan meant.

Just now, Warwick humiliated Elibetha in public. Even though the last incident made Elibetha have a different feeling towards Warwick, these things were reciprocal.

If Elibetha did not make Warwick nervous, she would be so angry that she would not be able to sleep for a few days.

With Elibetha's silence, the air became still.

The calmness on Warwick's face gradually faded and anxiety began to appear in his eyes. He had completely lost someone, and he was very afraid that he would lose another.

The expressions of Harry and the others were the same as Warwick's, full of tension.

Especially Harry, his tense fists were clenched, and the eyes were bloodshot.

At this moment, he hated the person who sent the email. Even if the other party was likely to be an official member of the United States or even a member of a giant family like the Rothschilds, his anger did not diminish.

After all, if it were not for the other party, Warwick and Elibetha would probably have already gotten married and none of this would have happened.

He came here with a mission. If there was any change in the marriage between Warwick and Elibetha, he would face punishment from his father when he returned. Perhaps he might even drop one place in the line of succession.

Just when Harry's mind was all over the place, they finally heard Elibetha's clear voice.

"Yes, I will marry you, Warwick..."

After a moment of silence, smiles appeared on everyone's faces.

There were endless cheers and applause. The relationship crisis between Warwick and Elibetha was finally resolved!

Among all the people present, the happiest one was Jagoan.

She and Elibetha were the best of friends, and she cared more about Elibetha's well-being than anyone else.

Now, Elibetha and Warwick had settled their feud, and because of these twists and turns, Elibetha had developed a love for Warwick, which delighted her.

"Thank you, Jagoan..." Jagoan looked at Jagoan with gratitude. "If it wasn't for your help just now, Beth's wedding would really be in jeopardy."

Jagoan smiled indifferently. "It's nothing. Besides, wasn't it the purpose of you making me the best man to ensure the smooth progress of this wedding?"

"What's more..." Speaking of this, Jagoan smiled confidently. "I'm not generous enough to allow my enemy to do whatever they want under my nose."

Life at the Top Chapter 2376-"Your enemy?" Jagoan did not expect Jagoan to suddenly mention this word.

After a while, she suddenly seemed to realize something, and she raised her voice. "Are you saying Jagoan is behind this?"

As the most outstanding child of the Maynards in South America, Jagoan had never been inferior to others in terms of sensitivity, but this time she was too concerned about Elibetha's affairs, so she said something inappropriate and did not notice it.

After Jagoan reminded her, she immediately went through the whole story in her head and understood Jagoan's intention.

If there was anyone who did not want a wedding going smoothly right now, other than the Kurt family's Kimbra, it would be the United States.

Meanwhile, Jagoan was an important member of the Rothschilds, the uncrowned king hidden behind the United States, and now she was fully responsible for the Rothschilds' affairs in Qari.

Combined with Jagoan's past deeds, this incident was indeed in line with her usual style.

Upon hearing Jagoan's question, Jagoan also nodded magnanimously, "Yes! But I guess this is just the beginning or even just a casual game. She must have backup plans."

"And these are all within your expectations, right, Jagoan?" Jagoan asked softly, her bright eyes glowing with strange brilliance at this moment.

Women would always look up to anyone stronger, and Jagoan was no exception.

Jagoan's composure just now had completely convinced her.

"I'm not a god, so how could I guess all the things behind what's going on?" Jagoan was amused by Jagoan's question, but then, his smile faded, and he became serious, "However, I did prepare a surprise for Jagoan this time..."

"I hope she likes this gift."

On the other side, after getting Elibetha's confirmation, Warwick hugged Elibetha excitedly and kept spinning in circles happily. Elibetha's squeals filled the room, and at the same time, she had a smile that she had not shown since entering the room.

The other best men and bridesmaids also expressed their blessings to the couple.

After the fun, Warwick held back his emotions, took Elibetha's hand, and walked in front of Jagoan and Jagoan.

"Mr. Jagoan, thank you so much this time. If it weren't for you, I might really have lost Elibetha..."

Elibetha was also grateful. "Jagoan, it's all thanks to you this time. The person who sent the email and made the fake video is so hateful."

Jagoan smiled and said, "You don't need to thank me. We are all friends. It's just... Aren't you wondering who sent the email? And how did they forge a video that can be passed off as genuine?"

After he said that, everyone fell into silence immediately.

Among them, the expressions of the representatives of the James family, the Amslow family, the Carl family, and the Solomon family were the most interesting.

They were the Rothschilds' affiliated family, so they knew a little bit of the inside story. Plus, they also knew about Jagoan's disobedience and insistence on staying in Qari.

After they heard Jagoan revealing the truth, they already guessed something was up.

Hearing Jagoan's two questions completely confirmed the guess in their hearts. However, even if they knew the answer, they could not say anything, and they would even try to deny it later.

“It’s from those people in the United States!” Harry’s angry voice sounded in the room.

He hated the mastermind behind the scenes to the core.

If this group of people really succeeded this time, his place in the line of succession would have to drop again.

Hence, how could he not be mad?

Life at the Top Chapter 2377-“No, the Rothschilds sent someone to do this.” Warwick shook his head, affirming.

When Warwick said that, the scene continued to be noisy.

They did not expect Warwick to be so staunch and directly name the Rothschilds.

There were many wise people present, but even if they guessed it was the Rothschilds, they dared not say it.

One must remember that the people from the five major affiliated families with the Rothschilds were still here. In addition, the families behind everyone cooperated at some level with these five major families, so they did not want to have a complete fallout with Rothschild.

“Warwick, please watch your words...” The one who spoke was a member of the James family.

With him taking the lead, other guests from Rothschild’s affiliated family also chimed in.

No matter what, they were all in the same boat, and it did not matter if they would usually fight with each other, when it came to critical moments, they still had to unite and fight external forces together.

Warwick ignored their questions but pointed to the paused scene in the video, and said loudly, “I recognize this hospital. This is Childe Hospital and the major shareholder behind it is the Rothschilds...”

“Three years ago, Childe Hospital had a scandal of installing cameras in the wards to monitor patients. It just seems that Childe Hospital has not learned its lesson and is still doing these dirty things. Otherwise...”

“How did the culprit behind the scenes get these original videos and then edit them into what they are now? Don’t tell me you can’t tell from the angles of the videos in the earliest emails!”

Warwick’s series of questioning silenced the crowd that was questioning him.

The evidence was concrete. If they continued to quibble, they would only suffer.

“The Rothschilds are really something else. They’ve already started to use their dirty tricks on the United Kingdom’s royal family.” Harry’s unkind voice resounded.

The eldest son of the James family was about to refute, but heard an eccentric voice, “Yeah, the Rothschilds and the United States are coming in so hot. Those who didn’t know would think that Qari is already a United States territory. Plus if the United States can install a camera in Qari to monitor others today, can they install one in the chancellor’s office of my country tomorrow to monitor every one of our chancellor’s moves?”

This time, it was Shulman who spoke. He was the son of the chancellor who had been silent all along.

Now that he had spoken out, in addition to firmly binding the United States to the Rothschild, he also directly condemned the United States!

No one could accept the top leader of their country being closely monitored by other countries!

Shulman's words were like a stone thrown into the lake, causing ripples. After a while, guests from other countries and families joined in the crusade against the United States as well.

Jagoan, who seemed like an outsider, looked at the scene in front of him with a smile on his lips.

The national forces represented by these people were indeed not united.

Shulman's words instantly set off a wave of verbal attacks against the United States. Because of the special identities of the bride and groom, all of the people who were qualified to be best men and bridesmaids had prominent statuses.

They came here today not only to represent themselves but also to represent the family and country behind them. Therefore, Shulman's sudden attack was not so much his personal opinion as it was the attitude of the forces behind him.

Life at the Top Chapter 2378-"Jagoan, isn't Shulman the son of the chancellor of Germany?"

"Germany and the United States have always had a good relationship but now he is taking the lead in questioning the United States. Isn't he afraid of being scolded by his family when he returns to his country?" Seeing that the originally peaceful people in front of them suddenly become like this, Jagoan said to Jagoan from the side.

"Indeed, Germany has always had a good relationship with the United States, but the relationship between countries is complicated..."

"Ha! You know... In addition to cooperation, there are also disputes. Now Shulman is just trying to find a reason to start a conflict. His ultimate goal is to use this to win more interest for his country." Jagoan laughed.

As he was watching the scene with burning eyes, he understood what was going on in his heart.

"However, this is just a wedding, not an international meeting, and there are no representatives of the United States present. Is it meaningful for him to do so?"

Jagoan was still a little puzzled. Although she came from a famous family, her education rarely involved international relations.

Upon hearing Jagoan's question, Jagoan smiled and said, "If it's really meaningless, then why are the James family and the other five major families arguing so fiercely?"

"There are so many guests with extraordinary status in their respective countries attending this wedding, which in itself shows the special nature of this marriage..."

"This is not so much a combination of the Elvis Family and the United Kingdom royal family, but rather a test for the Europeans to gain access to the development of Qari. The United Kingdom was the front line of this test.”

“Now that there is an excuse to weaken the United States’ influence in Qari, how can Shulman and the country behind him give up so easily?”

“It is important to know that a major basis of the hegemony of the United States lies in the mandatory binding of the national currency with the major oil exporting countries. If there is an opportunity to destroy the links between the United States and these oil countries, the EU countries will certainly be very happy.”

After listening to Jagoan, Jagoan understood everything. Therefore, there was no need for Jagoan to explain more before she understood fully.

“I see...”

Jagoan watched the people who were still arguing with cold eyes, but his thoughts returned to the time and space where he was originally living in the future.

At that time, with a series of failures in United States diplomacy, the original oil cooperative countries of the United States began to have their own ideas and tried to decouple the currency of the United States.

Meanwhile, the traditional allies of the United States in the West had also begun to have a vague attitude and were fueling the flames behind these oil-producing countries. It was also at that point that for the first time, the US Dollar, which had established itself as the world’s most common currency for a century, faced the risk of stepping down from the altar.

In this timeline, because of a series of coincidences, it seemed very likely that this process would be advanced because of Jagoan’s appearance.

Of course, it was too early to say that many oil countries would fall out with the United States. After all, only an important oil processing family of Qari and a few European political circles were involved now.

However, a single spark could start a fire, and the slight flapping of a butterfly’s wings could create a storm on the other side of the Atlantic. In addition, the butterfly was not just flapping its wings lightly.

If everything could really happen ahead of schedule as he wished, then this time, could the United States save itself from danger like in future history?

Jagoan would wait and see.

On the other side, the quarrel between the best man and the bridesmaids continued.

“Shulman, you’re fearmongering!”

“Whether it’s the United States, the Rothschilds, or our families, we have absolutely never monitored other countries’ dignitaries, let alone exported revolutions and stirred up turmoil to other countries!”

The eldest son of the James family, Kant James, was now facing Shulman with a red face and trying to argue for himself.

Life at the Top Chapter 2379-Shulman was now looking calm and composed.

“If you guys from the United States are as you say, how do you explain the IP address of that email coming from the United States? And how are you going to explain the reference material of this fake video?”

“Heh, it’s not so easy to obtain materials that are believable to Warwick. And you have to know that Xenna is just an ordinary person!”

“The only thing special about her is that she was the ex-girlfriend of Warwick, the heir of the Elvis Family. You even know the daily life of such an ordinary person so well. What if they are the important leaders of other countries? I don’t believe that you won’t put extra focus on them.”

Shulman’s barrage of accusations left Kant speechless.

“Y-You... Nonsense!” Kant was flushed with anger.

He really wanted to dismiss Shulman’s accusation at this moment, but Shulman’s words were logically bulletproof.

“Yes, Shulman is right. You are not even sparing Xenna, who is already dead. You wanted to use her to make a fuss. If there is a better opportunity in the future, I can’t even imagine what you will do.”

Now, Harry also began to join the battle, not wanting to be outdone. Even though he and Shulman were always competing in public, that was just for show. Especially the United States.

After all, everyone knew that although the United States was always flirting with European countries, the country that wanted the EU to unite the least was the United States.

For the United States, good allies were those that were perpetually divided and quarrelsome.

“Shulman, you are exaggerating too much. The fact that the IP address is in the United States does not mean that United States officials are behind this incident. Maybe it’s done by the Elvis Family’s competitors!” The second daughter of the Amslow family, Anya, accurately found the loophole in Shulman’s accusation.

“Anya’s right. Shulman, you’re trying to confuse us!”

Seeing that Anya had finally found a breakthrough in Shulman’s words, the other members of the five families followed suit.

At this moment, all of them despised the person who sent the email. They even confirmed in their hearts the identity of the mastermind behind the scenes.

Jagoan Rothschild!

Except for this daring woman, who would have the power to access the hospital’s surveillance video at any time and dare to step over everyone and act so unscrupulously?

If this woman had not acted on her own initiative, the few of them would not have fallen into such a disadvantageous situation!

Jagoan watched them arguing endlessly, but he was secretly laughing in his heart.

He clearly remembered that many years later, the PRISM project was exposed in the United States and many allies of the United States found out that the leaders of their own countries were under the constant surveillance of the United States.

Shulman probably did not expect to accidentally make a prophecy and reveal the truth of the matter when he just wanted to find an excuse to attack the United States to fight for his interests.

That was the real reason the members of the five families had been trying to refute Shulman's allegations. This was because they all knew that what Shulman said was true!

At this moment, no one noticed that Warwick, who should have been the angriest about this, remained silent all the time as if he was just an outsider.

Elibetha looked at the huddled crowd with an unhappy expression on her face. She wanted to speak out several times, but Warwick shook his head to stop her.

Warwick just stood there and watched coldly. It was as if he was not the star of today, but just a passing spectator.

Not far away, Jagoan saw Warwick's reaction in his eyes and smiled lightly, "It seems that our groom has a status and temperament that ordinary people cannot possess."

Life at the Top Chapter 2380-Jagoan also noticed this situation as she was beside Jagoan. "Today is Warwick's wedding day, but he let his best men and bridesmaids quarrel like this. It's really not something ordinary people can do."

Jagoan replied, "A good hunter will carefully observe the situation before hunting, and only after determining the strength of the enemy and himself will he make a decisive move at the best time. Warwick is now watching the sparring of the best men and bridesmaids to determine where these people stand..."

"He has just experienced a big change, and his emotions have been fluctuating but he can recompose himself so quickly. This is definitely not something that ordinary people can do. But..." Jagoan smiled when he said this, "If there are no accidents, Warwick, the hunter, is about to make a move."

As soon as Jagoan finished speaking, Warwick's voice sounded in the room.

"Everyone, today is my wedding and it is a very important day in my life So, I don't want anything unpleasant to happen today."

Although Warwick's voice was not loud, the two sides who were originally fighting each other gradually stopped after Warwick said something. They seemed to have just remembered that today's main characters were Warwick and Elibetha.

Harry scratched his head in embarrassment and said in shame, "I'm sorry, Warwick..."

Warwick shook his hand magnanimously and said, "It's okay, Harry, I understand. It's normal to get too caught up in an argument."

With Harry taking the lead, the others followed suit and apologized to Warwick.

Warwick also expressed his understanding one by one.

As a result, everyone in the room began to get along strangely. Although they no longer quarreled and it was as if they had returned to the happy and harmonious way before, their seats were clearly separated, forming two distinct groups.

After the quarrel just now, cracks had inevitably formed. If this went on, the influence of this rift would soon extend to the respective forces behind these young people.

Warwick looked at the best man and bridesmaids who regained their composure, and said loudly, "My friends, you also saw what happened just now. I almost encountered the most unfortunate thing in my life. Because of someone's malicious instigation, I once again experienced the pain of losing my lover..."

"Especially when I almost lost my dear Elibetha, but luckily, she forgave me in the end. I would like to thank Mr. Jagoan, because of his wisdom, he helped me resolve a possible crisis."

Warwick paused at this point. After that, he walked up to Jagoan and bowed deeply. Elibetha also did the same thing.

Jagoan hastily declined.

After Warwick had done all this, he stood back, cleared his throat, and spoke again.

Kant, Anya, and other guests from the five affiliated families of the Rothschilds listened patiently.

"My friends, just now you raised a lot of speculation about the identity of the mastermind behind the scenes and started a heated discussion. I appreciate your interest in this matter, but personally, I've always been skeptical about these speculations. Because the accusation of trying to destroy the marriage between the Elvis Family and the United Kingdom royal family is very serious."

"Well. It is not my intention to cast doubt on anyone or any force based on speculation without actual evidence."