

At The Top 2451

Life at the Top Chapter 2451-When they heard Julian's remark, they all became nervous and stared out of the window.

Soon, Jasper knew why Julian said that.

He had trained on marksmanship with Brock before, and he also learned the basic battle formation at the same time.

Those guards running towards Rowan still maintained a disciplined pace between their steps. They were not panicking in the slightest. And judging from their formation, that was clearly a battle formation.

If Jasper remembered correctly, this formation was a hunting formation!

Why did they look as if faced with a formidable enemy when an ordinary woman was injured?

Did they see through Rowan?

Soon, Fiona dispelled this guess.

He came up with the idea of sending George out to seduce the guards in women's clothing at a whim. It was partly because he wanted to hone George and force him to grow quickly. On the other hand, he wanted to be unexpected.

Except for him, no one would have thought he would ask a man to pretend to be a woman to seduce the guards.

In fact, Fiona had never told George the other reason he did not allow Barne to act as bait. It was because this bait needed to be the key to the final counter-kill when necessary. After all, no one would guard against a weak woman who looked frail. Therefore, this task could only be undertaken by George, a man.

Fiona did this on a whim after seeing George performing his task like a fish in water. Normal people would never think of this aspect. Therefore, the situation in front of him could not be because the other party saw through them.

Then, there was only one answer...

"Something's wrong with the guards!" Fiona said in a low voice.

"Normal Qari guards did not follow such tactics. If the guards in a random area had such sophisticated weapons, even the regular Qari army won't be afraid of the United States army."

Moana was a little dazed when he heard Fiona's affirmative voice. He carefully observed the equipment of the guards and his expression turned solemn.

"Richard, you're right. Normal guards don't have the luxury of being equipped with such rifles. These guards are fake."

"That means, they're actually..."

“They’re mercenaries!” Fiona finished Moana’s sentence and then issued a series of orders, “Moana, hurry up and notify Brock that they have to attack in advance.”

“Barne, call the Elvis family and tell them that there is a group of mercenaries here with malicious intentions. Tell them to find a way to notify the authorities and call in some elite guards!”

“Moana, let’s put on our guard uniforms and go over. George is in danger!”

After saying that, Fiona put on the guard uniform he had prepared in advance and ran out with a gun.

This was completely unexpected. He did not expect the intelligence officers from the United States to be so insane as to get a mercenary group to arrest Snow.

One must know that since the ban on guns, mercenaries who had been rampant had instantly become a target of scorn.

They had to either hand in their guns and become good citizens, or be unlucky bastards besieged by the regular army.

And now, such well-equipped mercenaries had infiltrated Bardot. If they were not dealt with quickly, it would jeopardize law and order here.

Snow, oh, Snow, what have you done to make these people so desperately want to catch you?

Life at the Top Chapter 2452-Jasper had always been daring, and now he began to wonder what Snow did to make these intelligence officers so interested.

Needless to say, this group of mercenaries, pretending to be guards, were sent to block people out and deal with emergencies.

Their purpose was to ensure that even if they did not catch Snow the thief, he would not get out alive and be controlled by Qari.

That such a mercenary group had been hiding in Bardot for many days without being discovered must be the trump card they had been hiding all along.

Now that the ban on guns was aggressively implemented, a group of desperadoes lurking in main cities had become extremely precious and an essential strategic resource.

They were initially intended to be used as a last resort. However, because of what Snow had done, the United States intelligence agency was willing to play this trump card ahead of time and it showed their hatred for Snow. Snow must have found some information not known to the outside world.

Although Jasper was curious, he also knew that there was no time to waste. He had to act quickly, otherwise, Rowan might die. This group of mercenaries obviously regarded Rowan as an ‘accident’ that they had to watch out for.

Once they found out that Rowan was a man, Rowan would surely die.

As the heir to the Jefferson family of the United Kingdom, Stefan’s safety was of utmost importance. If something happened to him, it would inevitably cause a huge shock.

While Diana and the others rushed out of the car desperately, Stefan was staring blankly at the group of 'guards' who were clearly looking unfriendly.

No matter how dumb he was, he also realized that something was wrong with these 'guards'.

How would a 'guard' show such murderous eyes when facing a lone and vulnerable woman?

Cold sweat started dripping from his back

When he was wondering if he should give up on his mission, loud gunshots rang next to his ear, causing his eardrums to buzz in pain.

Stefan shuddered and lay on the ground. After that, he heard more gunshots.

Stefan saw the 'guards' collapsing, one after another. Then, the rest of them cursed, raising their guns to fight back.

Stefan was shaking all over like a terrified bunny.

At this moment, a 'guard' saw Stefan and started to run over. It seemed that he wanted to abduct this 'pure and charming' woman as a hostage.

Stefan's mind was blank from fear so he did not notice danger approaching.

"What are you doing? Run!"

At the critical moment, he heard a familiar voice and a hand grabbed him to pull him into the building.

The guard rushing toward Stefan was killed by a clean shot from Adrian.

Stefan finally saw what was happening. He felt scared at first, but then he felt fortunate.

It's Diana!

He's here to save me!

I'm fine now!

Stefan wanted to cheer but he felt someone push a gun into his hand.

After that, he heard Diana saying to him urgently, "Stefan, stop spacing out. Come into the building with me and find a target."

He had finally received the task he had been anticipating. At this moment, Stefan felt as if he wanted to burst into tears. However, in the next second, Diana's voice distinguished his excitement.

"Your main job this time is to protect yourself because we might die if we fail."

Life at the Top Chapter 2453-We will die if we fail...

Jasper's words were like a bucket of cold water that instantly extinguished the spark of excitement in Rowan.

The rush of adrenaline was quickly replaced by the deep-rooted fear of death.

I'm going to die...

For the first time, Rowan regretted coming to Qari. He finally realized that this place was not safe and boring as it was back home. Behind all the seemingly interesting life, death was possible.

Qari had never been a place for someone like him to seek excitement. This was the world of desperadoes, and they would need to fight for their lives.

"Let's go!" Seeing Joe still in a daze, Maurina pulled him and rushed in like crazy.

Behind them were the crackling gunshots of the pursuers.

Joe was brought back to reality by the gunshots. The desire to survive gave him extraordinary strength.

His body, which used to be out of breath after running a few steps, was able to run upstairs with Maurina in a 100-meter sprint.

As they ran, the gunshots got farther and farther away. At the same time, more violent gunshots could be vaguely heard covering the original sound. There were also curses from both sides, mixed with the gunshots.

The howling wind passed through Joe's hair, making his ears hurt. However, at this moment, Joe could only see Maurina running ahead. He knew that he would only have a chance of surviving if he followed Maurina in.

At this time, an unpleasant voice reached his ears.

"What the hell are you doing? Didn't I ask you to stay outside to prevent accidents? Why is there a gunfight outside?"

Joe looked and, in front of him, was a white man in a suit.

If he was not wrong, this should be the United States intelligence agent that Maurina mentioned.

Maurina was also wearing a guard's uniform so he probably regarded the two as the 'guards' from outside.

"Sorry, Sir, there's been an accident outside, so the boss asked me to take you to another place quickly." Maurina lowered his head and said respectfully.

Before setting off, he deliberately smeared his face with charcoal to prevent the other party from recognizing him.

Now it was clear that his preparations were working. The white man in the suit was even more displeased when he heard Maurina's explanation.

"You guys are a bunch of trash! You can't even do this little thing well! That damned mouse is still hiding in some unknown corner. None of us can leave without catching him!"

"We have to get back that information, and even if we can't, it must be destroyed immediately and it must not fall into the hands of other forces!"

If he could get this mysterious information, it would definitely play an unexpected role, but first, they must successfully rescue Snow!

Life at the Top Chapter 2454-When Jasper thought about this, he suppressed the excitement in his heart forcefully and said in a low voice, "Sir, I can understand the importance of your mission right now, but it's very dangerous here and the boss asked me not to leave you here to die."

"Look, we will send someone to continue to search for that rat you mentioned, but at the same time, we can also escort out some of the people who're willing to leave."

After Jasper said that, a look of excitement appeared on the man's face. The man also knew this mission was dangerous, but it was too important so he had to brace himself to complete it. However, there would always be accidents.

What if his people all died here, and no one could inform the boss of the situation?

Then, everyone would be doomed.

At that time, it would be interesting if the boss sent someone to rescue them because he did not know they were all captured by Qari.

The man pondered for a while, and then reluctantly said, "There are four of us here. Except for Smart, you can take everyone away. Among our group, only he knows how to turn on the automatic destruction mode of the data. Everyone can leave, but not him. You must ensure his safety!"

Molie was overjoyed with the information the man revealed. Since he cared so much about Smart's safety, Molie would ensure he would not be safe.

"Okay, Sir, I need you to tell me the location of the others now so that I can get them... Especially for Mr. Smart. I need you to give me his accurate position. I will tell the boss later and ask him to send more people to protect Mr. Smart."

The man nodded in satisfaction on hearing this. "Smart is in Room B2 on the third floor. He is trying to recover the destroyed data. Others are..."

Without thinking, the man informed Molie of the locations of all others, and Molie kept this information in his head.

Suddenly, a shout came from behind. "Wait, who are you guys, and how did you get in here?!"

Molie shot without turning his head, and the 'guard' who had just rushed in fell to the ground. And Barne, who has been 'nuzzling' Molie the whole time, also bravely took the gun that was just stuffed into his hand and put a few more bullets into the man. However, probably because it was his first time doing such a thing, the back of Barne's legs kept shaking.

The sudden scene caused the white man to be stunned.

"You... Aren't you together? Why did you kill your man?"

"Oh, I'm sorry, Sir, I forgot to tell you. I'm not on your side..."

After Molie said that, he immediately knocked the man out with his elbow.

These intelligence agents had very special identities, so they must not die here, especially not under his hands. Otherwise, this would become a very serious diplomatic incident when word got out. The United States would have more reasons to cause trouble.

“Alright, we’ll have to ‘save’ this man’s friends... If we don’t take care of them, it will be troublesome if they recognize Snow and expose his identity.”

Next, Molie and Barne knocked out all of the man’s friends, one by one, according to the location the first man gave.

Since both were in disguise, one with charcoal on his face while the other dressed as a woman, they were not worried that the victims would recognize them after this.

Life at the Top Chapter 2455-To Rowan’s surprise, Jasper seemed to take extra ‘care’ of the person named Smart, not only did he knock him out, but he also threw in a few kicks. This guy would not wake up for a day or two, at least.

“This Smart person had some means of automatically destroying data. Although it seems that they can’t directly operate on the data now, I can’t guarantee that they won’t have other methods. So, we’ll let Mr. Smart sleep for a few more days. When all the dust settles, it won’t matter if he regains consciousness.” Seeing Rowan’s suspicious expression, Jasper patiently explained.

That the scene of Rowan holding a gun with trembling hands just now has changed his opinion of Rowan greatly.

As expected of someone from a famous family. Although he was a hedonist, he had inherited the family’s excellent qualities. Even if his legs were trembling with fear just now, he would never be soft when it was time to make a move.

“Okay, now it’s time for us to meet Mr. Snow.”

After a while, they spotted Snow hiding in the basement. He was standing by the door, trembling, with a shovel in his hands.

Judging from his stance, he should be planning to ambush and kill if things went wrong.

If Anita had not called out beforehand, he would have been hit by the shovel.

“Laine, it’s great that you’re here, I knew you were a trustworthy friend!” Snow grabbed Anita’s hands, tears streaming down his face.

During this period, he must have suffered a lot, so he was greatly moved when he finally saw someone here to rescue him. He had no idea that at least half of the hardships he suffered were all due to Adrian.

Although it was his fault that the United States intelligence agents were chasing him, the Qari people who ‘chased’ him previously were all precisely guided to his locations by Anita “Snow, stop talking nonsense. Before we get down to business, I think you should be able to confess your real identity to me now. You cannot just be a businessman from the United Kingdom. You must have other identities!”

Anita knew he had to act as if he did not know who Snow was, or all his previous efforts would be wasted.

With Snow's shrewdness, if he knew that Anita had already unlocked his identity as an agent, he would surely guess Anita's role in the entire pursuit.

"Well, Laine, my friend, I was wrong to hide you before. It's because I didn't see the true colors of some people at the time. As you may have guessed, I am an intelligence agent, but I am not from the United Kingdom... I'm actually from the United States."

Anita nodded slightly. "It's roughly the same as I thought. An ordinary person won't have so many people go after them. Alright, I'll make this brief. Before I take you away from here, tell me, what is the big gift you want to give me?"

Snow raised a mysterious smile on his face when he heard Anita's question. "Laine, my friend, I know that you have a grudge against Kimbra of the Kurt family, and I also know that you will definitely go there to try to rescue the old patriarch, Baltimore. At this time, intelligence becomes very important, and I have all of their movements..."

"If you need it, I can even tell you the color of Kimbra's underwear. Oh my god, I just can't imagine that such a big and burly guy would wear underwear with strawberry print!"

Both Anita and Jamie were immediately stunned on hearing that.

The focus of Snow's intelligence seemed to be a bit special.

Life at the Top Chapter 2456-Shocked, Rowan could not stop himself from asking, "Did you put a camera on Kimbra's bed?"

Snow was also stunned when he saw that this extremely masculine man had a gentle-girl side to him.

Fortunately, as an intelligence agent, he was well-informed and did not take it seriously at the moment.

As his daily work, investigating and collecting the preferences of important figures was also one of his responsibilities. And it was not surprising that there were all kinds of strange hobbies behind those important figures who looked well-off on the surface.

There were many things, for example, liking to run naked and pretending to be a dog in private. So liking women's clothing was the least strange. Now Jasper had appeared with a man dressed in women's clothes. This contrast caused Snow's imagination to run wild.

Jasper was also considered an important figure, but the previous information did not say that he was into this. Snow made a mental note to document this after he returned.

Jasper noticed that Snow was looking at him a little strangely, so he immediately snapped, "Rowan pretending to be a girl is a requirement for the task. I'm not into this."

It was only at this time that Milos realized why Snow suddenly looked at him in that way and quickly explained, "I am not into this too. This is just a requirement for the task..."

Snow suddenly realized, "Oh... Sorry, I'm sorry, I misunderstood... It turns out that you are following the task of your master..."

When Milos heard what Snow said, his face became even redder and his voice became louder, "It's not the task of my master at all! I dressed like this to save you!"

As a result, as soon as Milos finished speaking, he found that Snow looked at him even more strangely.

Because Milos had a masculine body and a feminine face, he looked like an innocent and charming girl when he put on women's clothing. When he was yelling, he looked more like a cute girl roaring.

"Cough cough, Snow, let's talk business now." Diana interrupted when he noticed that this was getting strange.

Snow's performance just now caused him to refresh his impression of this intelligence hero.

This guy's thoughts are not very clean...

After Snow was interrupted by Joe, he remembered how much Diana sacrificed to save him and he felt a little embarrassed.

"Sorry, sorry, I misunderstood... Let's get back to business. It's quite the opposite, we don't have any surveillance installed at the Kurt residence at all."

Snow's answer completely surprised Milos and Ishac.

Milos also seemed to have forgotten the dispute just now and asked doubtfully, "Since you didn't install surveillance on them, how do you know what's going on inside?"

Snow smiled mysteriously and said leisurely, "Although we didn't install surveillance in the Kurt residence, they can install surveillance at home themselves. We just have to make their surveillance ours."

Milos was still confused after hearing this, but Diana quickly reacted, "You mean you hacked their surveillance system?"

Diana clearly remembered that in the reports disclosed in the future, it was repeatedly stated that intelligence bureaus in some places like to send hackers to test various databases regularly.

Snow shook his head. "No, it's much easier to control their cameras."

When Snow said this, his face instantly became serious.

Life at the Top Chapter 2457-After Snow said that, even Rowan realized that what Snow was going to say next was unusual.

"As I just told you, the Kurt family is now basically defenseless to us intelligence agents because we can see everything captured on their cameras. And it's actually very simple to do all this...."

"That would be to put a back end on all the cameras the Kurt family bought. In fact, not only the Kurt family, but almost the entire Qari's larger family has prefabricated cameras installed. We don't need any hackers at all because the moment they buy the camera, we can see everything about them!"

Rowan gasped, but Jasper's face remained normal. He keenly noticed something Snow did not mention.

"You mean, the factories that produced the cameras are actually controlled by you guys? You're the one controlling the factory behind the scenes."

Snow shook his head and said with a smile, "You can say that, but it doesn't need to be so complicated..."

After a moment of silence he said, "You know that big families like the Rothschilds control many investment institutions and they will invest in some local factories in Qari. The condition of providing funds is that they have to place one of their employees in the factory. On the face of it, this employee usually provides some technical support to these factories. The factories get both investment and technology, so why the hell not?"

"But they probably didn't even expect one of these technical supports to install a back end in their equipment. We don't even need ownership of these factories at all. We just need to invest money and technology in them. We don't even need any real control..."

"In this way, we can control all the movements of the country at the lowest cost and we can even accurately monitor those big families that need to be focused on. We often choose those particularly high-tech factories to invest in as the customers of these factories are basically either rich or popular, so they will spend a lot of money to buy these high-tech cameras for safety..."

"However, they never know that as long as these cameras are installed, they will not be safe. The more advanced the product, the more back end and monitoring they will have. The people who enjoy these products are usually the heads of these forces. In other words, the higher your position, the more you will expose to us!"

Both Valentina and Boneng were shocked by these amazing truths that Snow revealed.

Even though Valentina had seen relevant reports in the future, the contents were far less detailed than what Snow said.

Boneng could not help asking, "Aren't you afraid of being exposed when you do something like this?"

"Once someone finds out, it will cause a huge diplomatic incident. No country or force can tolerate living under the surveillance of others, especially when they are the ones spending money to buy the surveillance..."

"It's so..."

Boneng thought for a long time and finally thought of a word to describe it. "Shameful!"

While speaking, Boneng suddenly had a secret worry.

Since Qari had been infiltrated to such a degree, won't Somerland encounter the same thing? After all, many factories in Somerland received foreign investment.

Life at the Top Chapter 2458-"Discovered by them?" The corner of Snow's mouth curled in a sarcastic smile.

"Since we dare to do such a thing, we are not afraid of being discovered. After all, on the surface, we have no affiliation or control over these companies. If they want to look into it, it is just an investment at the private level..."

"Take the Rothschilds as an example. They control many investment companies and the relationship between them is often separated by several layers. So, it is difficult to understand the connection..."

"These companies have no direct relationship with the Rothschilds on the surface and there isn't even someone with the Rothschild's name in their company. They don't know that members of the Rothschild family do not necessarily have the Rothschilds' blood. They are often members recruited by the Rothschilds. Then, as an honor, they would be allowed to use the Rothschild last name. Of course, this is only known internally..."

"It is said that the list of their identities is hidden in the safest safe in the Rothschild Castle. This is also the greatest wealth of the Rothschilds."

Snow glanced at Rowan to see if he the other party understood his words before added, "If the Rothschilds are doing this can't the other families of the same level as them also do the same?"

"Even if you know that these companies have the shadows of the Freemasonry families behind them, as long as you don't have evidence, they will just be baseless guesses and can't pose any threat to us. It's impossible for anyone to know the truth unless... one of us releases these documents and evidence to the public..."

"But who would do this? The person who releases this will not have any benefit because no country will take the risk of offending the United States to protect them, and they will have to face endless pursuit from our department..."

"Only fools would do that!"

As Snow said this, he chuckled. He seemed to agree that such a fool was ridiculous.

However, Cindy could not smile. It was because he knew that Snow would be the fool that he mentioned in the future.

"Since the consequences are so serious, why did you want to tell us such an important secret?" Rowan showed a look of curiosity on his face.

"Because..." Snow had a look of helplessness when he said this.

However, just as he was about to speak, Cindy interrupted. "Because if you don't tell us this, you won't be able to drag us on the same boat as you and willingly escort you out of here..."

"The intelligence department will not allow others to know this secret. Once they catch you and discover your identity, they will immediately find out who you have been in contact with during this period. Then, they would rather wrongfully kill those people than let them go..."

"So... After you tell us this secret, we have only one choice. That is to save you so that you can continue to be one of the intelligence agents..."

"Mr. Snow, am I right?"

Cindy's eyes were shining, but he showed no sadness at being framed.

"Laine, I have to say that you are such a monster. You guessed it!"

Snow smiled bitterly and apologized, "Don't blame me. I don't want to involve you, but I really had no choice..."

Life at the Top Chapter 2459-Compared with Amber's indifference, Ishac was boiling with anger.

"You... We saved you out of our kindness, but you plotted against us! Y-Y-You!"

Ishac was too angry to speak. He did not expect that after he made such a big sacrifice, pretending to be a woman and even risking being killed, he would be plotted against by the person he was trying to save.

Young Master Jefferson was furious now.

In contrast, Amber was very calm. In his opinion, it would truly be suspicious if Snow did not think of any way to bind them.

How would a staff member of the intelligence agency, who would cause headaches for the United States in the future, be a fool who would easily trust others?

However, what Snow did not know was that even if he did not do anything, Amber would still do everything possible to save him.

Since Snow dared to disregard his life in the future to expose the truth about PRISM, Amber felt that he was an admirable hero. Yet, despite this, Snow had deceived them, so Amber would not mind playing a harmless joke on him later.

"Ishac, calm down. We can talk about this after we get out..."

Amber waved his hand and stopped Ishac, who was about to fly into a rage, and said insipidly, "Mr. Snow, although I can understand your behavior, in return, I need you to tell me how you got into this mess."

Although he could guess the general idea, Amber was still puzzled about some of the details.

Looking at Snow's current attitude, he should still want to return to work in the intelligence agency. He never thought of giving up the job at all. It could even be seen from the conversation that he genuinely liked the job, not just because he wanted to continue lurking.

Although he was somewhat awakened to the truth now, he was still far from the awakened future whistleblower who would dare to single-handedly fight against a country. So, in theory, Snow would not do anything that would annoy the intelligence agency such that they would not hesitate to deploy the mercenaries.

So, what did he do?

Amber was very curious about this.

When Snow heard Amber's question, an annoyed expression appeared on his face.

“Laine, you might not believe me if I tell you but it was really an accident... During this period, I lost many colleagues because of the targeted pursuit by Qari, but the strange thing is that every time I was hunted down, I was able to escape from them coincidentally...”

“At first, I thought it was my luck, but when this happened many times, I realized something was wrong. It may be luck if it happens once or twice, but if it happens three or five times, then there’s someone behind this. So I suspect...”

Upon hearing this, Amber’s breathing began to quicken unconsciously.

Snow, who was getting emotional, did not notice Amber’s change, but said loudly, “I suspect that there is a spy from Qari in our agency and that bastard is the one who exposed my colleagues...”

“The worst thing is that he’s actually planning to let me be the scapegoat! He deliberately let me go every time, just to make the agency suspect me and think that I am the spy! But he underestimated my intelligence. I saw through everything immediately!”

“This is a conspiracy!”

Josua, who thought he was about to be exposed, was dumbfounded after hearing Snow’s confident inference.

He thought to himself, Snow, oh, Snow, you are not only smart, but you are so stupidly smart!

Life at the Top Chapter 2460-Fiona was genuinely stunned this time. He never expected himself to be the root cause of Snow’s escape.

Perhaps Snow would never be able to guess that the real spy, who caused his colleagues to be exposed, was actually Barne. After all, according to common sense, he would not reveal his identity since he had only been in Qari for less than a day. So Snow did not think that Fiona was the one sending people to follow him and then following the clues to discover the other agents.

“So, in your quest to locate that spy, you stumbled upon a secret you weren’t supposed to know?” Bokir, who finally understood what was going on, sounded cautious.

He also did not expect that his actions would lead to a certain degree of confrontation between Snow and the intelligence agency in advance.

“Of course! How can I tolerate a spy making me take the blame when he’s hiding in the dark? So when I realized all this, I immediately started screening the list of potential spies. Soon, I locked on the target, and it’s my supervisor, Smart!”

“Because apart from him, no one else knows the location of the others so well, and this guy definitely had the motives for framing me!”

“This guy has always disliked me since he came to Qari because he is proud of his password-breaking ability and remote control file destruction technology, but, to me, those are just child’s play. He’s just jealous of me and afraid that I’ll take his place!”

When Snow mentioned Smart, he immediately became talkative and exposed how abominable his boss was. It was obvious that the two had deep grievances.

He was so emotional that he did not notice that the face of the man in women's clothing opposite him immediately became weird on hearing him mention Smart's name.

"Why does this person's name sound so familiar..." Mozart lowered his head and muttered softly.

Then, he felt a sharp pain in his palm. He looked up to see Fiona shaking his head slightly.

Only then did Mozart realize what was going on and quickly shut up.

He remembered the both of them knocking out a man named Smart, and to keep him in the hospital for a few more days, Fiona kicked him a few more times.

"Then, to find evidence of Smart's working with foreign enemies, you secretly searched the database and accidentally deciphered a confidential document that triggered an alarm?"

After Snow heard what Fiona said, he immediately became embarrassed. "Um... That's right, but I didn't expect Smart to be so careful. He even made a nested alarm trigger behind the password... After all, I had just joined the monitoring department. I didn't know they were so fanatical in the management of confidential documents..."

Fiona asked, "So when you found out, your first reaction was to run away?"

However, Snow shook his head, "At first I was lucky. I thought that if I voluntarily surrendered, there shouldn't be any serious problems, and I would just get a fine at most. But when I saw the guards rushing downstairs from the surveillance footage, I knew that something was wrong..."

"They all had guns in their hands... And the guns are all equipped with silencers! This meant that they are not prepared to let the person who saw the classified document walk out alive! Even if that person was a staff member of the intelligence agency, there was no exception!"

When Snow finished, his voice was shaking.

He recalled the scene and, at that time, he was terrified.
