Chapter 291

As such, he needed to prepare and think about a lot of things.

Easy Media was definitely the most reputable entertainment company. If they could buy it, it would be very helpful to the entertainment group section of Jasper's plan.

This was why Jasper had never considered buying another company.

Although the current Easy Media was far less powerful than in his previous life before he was reborn, it already had a rudimentary form and held a lot of contracts with celebrities who would be popular in the next two years.

This alone was a huge hidden wealth.

If he considered another company, Jasper would need to spend ten times or even 100 times more effort and capital in order to achieve what Easy Media had now.

Therefore, Jasper had made plans. If Easy Media was really not available, he would directly expand Advent Entertainment Group in Harbor City and use Harbor City as a springboard to directly enter the market in Mainland.

However, he still needed to think and carefully weigh his decision regarding this. Otherwise, if he made a mistake, he would lose everything.

His sudden roar that came without a warning sign shocked everyone in the room. Everyone turned around to look at them bewilderedly. Then, they looked at George who was holding his face with pain and grievance with pity in their eyes. They shook their heads at the same time.

Mr. Combe was hot-tempered and arrogant. This was not the first time he hit someone without any warning signs.

"You said you're working for me and those people named Jasper and Jim hit you. It means they're indirectly slapping me across the face! And you just came back after getting f*cking beaten up? How do you even have the guts to come back?"

Hector grabbed George's collar with sinister eyes.

"Don't you know how to get a few people to kill him?"

George trembled as he looked into Hector's icy gaze. He said with a shaky voice, "Mr. Combe, I-I was wrong."

"You good-for-nothing!"

Hector pushed George away, and his eyes were twinkling with an icy glint.

Jim smiled and said, "Do you know about consultant agencies?"

Jasper said after shrugging, "I know a little bit."

The two chatted, and after about an hour, they arrived at the place where Hector and the King brothers had arranged to have dinner together.

"The Prince Mansion?"

This place was not a star-rated hotel, nor a well-known restaurant, but a private guild with the characteristics of Swallow Capital.

Looking at the tall vermilion gate in front of him and the large stone lions sitting on both sides of the door, for the first time ever, Jasper felt the difference between the life of the upper-class in Swallow Capital and other cities.

If one were to say that the gentries in Harbor City were mostly known for indulging in a life of modern luxury, then at Swallow Capital, there was a solid foundation here.

At least, modern metropolises such as Harbor City and Waterhoof City certainly did not have places like Prince Mansion.

Hector glared coldly at George and said, "I'm not blind."

George nodded and bowed to agree with him. Then, he turned around to look at Jasper with rancor in his eyes.

George laughed malevolently and said to Jasper, "I thought you wouldn't have the balls to come. Not bad, you're pretty ballsy."

Jasper said calmly, "I'm doing legal business in the capital and didn't do anything to violate the law, so why would I be afraid to go anywhere?"

Jasper peered at Hector who was sitting at one side. He knew he was the young master of the Combes. He chuckled lightly at George, saying, "I said that you're a hired thug and you didn't admit it. From the looks of it now, you have no choice but to admit it"

"You!"

George's face was flushed red, but he did not dare to do anything impulsive. He quickly turned around to look at Hector. "Mr. Combe, it's this guy. Not only is he disregarding you, but he even wants to steal Easy Media from you!"

After he said that, George looked at Jasper with a pleased look on his face because he knew that after this, Hector might crush Jasper under his foot.

What did it matter if Jasper had the strength? Mr. Combe was the local young master of Swallow Capital. He could crush Jasper under his foot at any minute.

After Hector heard this, he scoffed. He looked at Jasper and said, "Since you know he's my hired thug, then you should also know you need to see who the dog's owner is before you hit it. I don't care that you beat George up, but you still dared to beat him up even after he said my name. That means you're disrespecting me."

If they knew Hector would be so demanding, then they should have just immediately sold it.

For now, it would be very difficult for him to get away from this situation.

He could not afford to offend Hector and he did not want to know who Jasper was anymore because from what he could see right now, Jasper was definitely not Hector's rival.

That was why he did not even consider getting in contact with Jasper. He even made the decision that if Hector did not cut the price down too low, he would just sell the company.

Leo was thinking this while bracing himself as he saw that the two of them were already in a state of mutual hostility.

It was none of his business if these two fought to their deaths, but since he was here, he would be undoubtedly involved in it too.

Leo could not afford to provoke these men.

Hector laughed at Leo's statement and said, "Right, we don't want word about this to go out and have people call me petty for not allowing someone to eat."

After he said that, Hector waved his hand. "Serve the food."

The servers quickly brought out all kinds of food. They all smelled, looked, and tasted great. It would be difficult for them to find such food elsewhere.

After he said that, Jasper smiled and turned around to look at Jim who was feeling excited. "Uncle Yapp, the lobster bisque tastes pretty good. It's thick and creamy but not greasy. Do you want some?"

Jim looked seriously at Jasper. He felt like he could not see through this young man anymore. He was unflustered and there was an air of arrogance emitting from his ordinary, modest self. Compared to a hedonistic son of rich parents like Hector, Jasper was ranked much higher.

In comparison to Jasper, he was scared of Hector's background and thus was fearful in everything he did when faced with the man. He did not dare to fight the world when he was impoverished anymore.

Jim guffawed boldly and picked up the bowl. He laughed and said, "Alright, let me try the food from this chef who has worked in a palace before."

Jim said as he took some bisque for himself.

However, at this moment, Hector, who had been ignored and suppressed this whole time, could not stand it anymore.

He stood up suddenly and lifted his hand to turn the table over.

With a loud whoosh, everything on the table was scattered to the floor.

The bisque and sauces were all over the place, and the scene was a mess.

Hector stood at the side of the table that had been pushed over and said sinisterly, "If you don't give me an easy time, then none of you will have an easy time too! Do you really think you can take down Easy Media just because you have money?"

While he said that, Hector looked gloomily at the King brothers who were petrified. He pointed at Jasper and said, "You two, think properly! Are you sure you want to sell him the company?"

However, what could Hector do?

He was not able to take out 500 million.

200 million was already his absolute limit.

He always depended on his power and background. Hector was always successful in every endeavor and this was the first time he realized how poor he was.

When he thought about this, Hector felt his blood rushing to his brain. The way he stared at Jasper was as sinister and savage as a venomous snake.

"Jasper, even if you buy Easy Media, aren't you worried that I'll ask every industry to shut your company out?"

When he said this, Hector smirked and said, "When that happens, every celebrity in Easy Media won't be allowed to take on any commercials nor make any albums. As long as it's a movie or a TV series from your company, they will never be able to premiere in this life!"

Jasper smiled when he was faced with Hector's threats. He said, "What big words, Mr. Combe.

"Since you're saying this, then I shall tell you something in advance as well, Mr. Combe.

"In the future after I buy Easy Media, I'll integrate all of the industries as fast as I can. When that happens, any entertainment company under your name will be on Easy Media's blacklist.

“You’re shutting me out? Then I’ll do the same to you! Don’t you even think about working with Easy Media! I want to see if I’m the one who can bear the loss or if you’re the one who can handle this, Mr. Combe.”

Jasper took the transfer of shares contract from Jim and handed it to the King brothers before saying flatly, “Now, Easy Media belongs to me.”

After that, Jasper lifted his head to look at Hector. There was a cold glint in his eyes. “Mr. Combe, not only do I have balls, but I also have money.”

Crack, crack, crack.

That was the sound of Hector grinding his teeth.

He was standing there feeling like a shabby and poor idiot.

Jasper kept on mocking him for having no money.

The most infuriating thing was that Hector indeed had no money...

At least he was unable to compete with Jasper.

Hector was filled with extreme grief and indignation while looking angrily as the King brothers signed the contract happily. He felt extremely horrible right now.

George fell into a deep state of despair.

"Mr. Laine, please have mercy. I'll never go against you anymore," George begged while sobbing.

Jasper looked indifferently at George. Suddenly, he smiled at Jim and said, "Uncle Yapp, how much do you think George's company is worth?"

Jim was slightly dazed. Before this, Jasper had never discussed it with him. However, currently, he had to cooperate with Jasper.

Jim smiled and thought properly before saying, "Back then, it might have been worth seven or eight million, but the current market situation now is not that great and it's difficult to have any business. So, I'm guessing two million max?"

After George heard that, he was livid. He yelled, "Nonsense! My clientele alone is not even worth this price!"

Jasper said indifferently, "If Uncle Yapp said two million, then two million it is. You can sell it to me for two million or you can fight with us."

George's face immediately went white while his heart bled.

If they bought his company for two million, the loss he suffered would be enough to make him bleed internally.

However, George realized he could not say no.

If he declined, his company might get destroyed by Jim.

After Hector got his brother's promise, the sinister look on his face turned into gloominess. He hung up the phone and drove home immediately.

In two days, the King brothers completed the transfer of ownership of the company to Jasper as quickly as they could.

After the final procedure, the King brothers did not have time to exchange courtesies before turning around to take their wives and kids overseas.

Perhaps they were going to see how things were going to develop.

If Jasper was able to handle Hector's revenge, then they might come back. If he could not, then they might never come back.

Jasper did not have any opinions about this.
