

Chapter 0024

Chapter 0024

The billionaires heirs

Ashley...

"I know I did you wrong."

"No, you have no idea what you did to me, Adrian! I was alone that night when you kicked me out. I waited to tell you the best news but then you came home and shattered my heart! You even brought her to our house! I walked the streets alone that night, not knowing where to go but you didn't care what happened to me! You slept with Tonya all because you thought I cheated on you with my best friend, who you knew was gay!" I sobbed as I recalled that night.

"I didn't sleep with her that night; I sent her to Sally after you left," he said as he took me in his arms. 1

"I'm sorry I was such a fool for not listening to you; I'm sorry I said all those things to you; I'm sorry for the pain I have caused you." 1

"Your sorry won't change the past. You know, I have always tried to put myself in your shoes, trying to figure out what I did wrong so that you thought I had an affair but I never could think of anything that I did wrong to make you doubt the love I had for you."

"I will make it up to you; I promise you that." 1

"Don't make promises you can't keep," I snapped.

"How did you find the pictures and video?" I asked.

"Sally and Tonya came to my office that day; they told me what went down at the hotel and Sally gave me the pictures and videos." I listened as he told me what happened that day, which made him think I did all of that and I couldn't believe that the two of them were that eager to get rid of me.

"Wow, I knew they hated the fact that I married you but I never thought they would do something like that," I say, shaking my head. "And you believed them instead of me. Tell me, how did you find out it was all a lie?"

He tells me how the man who was responsible for faking the pictures and videos came to him and I can only shake my head in disbelief. They would have really let me be the one who got raped and killed.

Once he is finished talking, I let out a sarcastic chuckle. "You know what I find funny?" I asked him.

He shakes his head no. "The fact that you knew they were all against our marriage from day one, and yet you believed every one of them even after everything they did to me before and after our marriage," I take a breath and continue, "You didn't believe me when I told you I didn't cheat; instead, you called me a whore and a slut.

What was the other thing you called me?" I asked, pretending to think while he just stayed there silent, "Oh, right, a gold-digging whore, and now, after five fucking years, you believe a guy who wrongly accused me of something I never did. You shouldn't have married me. You should have married someone you trust like Tonya."

"Oh, wait, you started dating her right after I left and you even got engaged to her," I said in a broken voice and I could hear the hurt in my voice.

He looks at me with guilt but I won't fall for that again. He lost any chance he had with me that night when he slapped me and kicked me out.

"You are not all of those things," he says sternly.

"Yeah, says the man who said those to me five years ago," I snap and he huffs in frustration.

"I broke off the engagement," I hear him say.

"Good on you," I say sarcastically, clapping my hands.

"Don't be like this, please," he begged.

"You and those bastards you call family made me like this!"

"I didn't know what to do that day. I wasn't thinking straight. I was jealous and hurt," he whispered. "You said you were going to the doctor that day but instead you were with Jason. You lied to me!" He screams. 1

"Jason wasn't even in New York that day; he flew to some island for a photo shoot! I went to the doctor and I found out that I was pregnant! So don't you dare accuse me of something I didn't do!" I sobbed, letting the tears roll down my face.

I look at him and say, "You turned me into the person I am today! This is all your fault."