

Chapter 0028

The billionaires heirs

Ashley... 1

I walked inside my house and my children immediately ran up to me, Mommy!" they yelled, hugging my legs.

"Hey, babies!" I smiled and I forgot about Adrian instantly. They are the only ones that matter and they could make me smile when I had a tough day.

"We made another drawing," Bella says, showing me her drawing. "Look, mommy, it's a dog."

"It's beautiful angel," I smile.

"I made a car, mommy," Ashton says, showing me his drawing.

"Wow, it seems like the two of you are going to be artists someday." I smile.

"Good evening, bestie," I hear Jason say from the kitchen.

I walked inside and saw him cooking. "What are you doing?" I asked him.

"Making some dinner for the three of you," he shrugged.

"I can see that but why? Where is Freddie?" I asked, placing my handbag on the counter.

"Because I know after today you won't make food and order takeaways and besides, when was the last time I made you some dinner? And Freddie will be at the house in an hour," he shrugged.

"Thank you, Jason; I appreciate it." I smile.

I went to my room and quickly took a shower, then got into my pajamas before going back to the kitchen. We all sit down and enjoy the dinner Jason has prepared for us.

"Did you talk to you know who today?" Jason asked, and I was just about to answer him when the doorbell rang. Jason got up and went to the door while I watched my children.

"How was your day today?" I asked them.

"Okay, we just miss Daddy," Bella says, frowning.

"I know, baby."

"I don't think Daddy loves us anymore," Ashton says and I see tears in his eyes.

"Who says I don't love you?" I hear Adrian's voice and the kids turn around. Bella and Ashton stare at him with a frown on their faces, not moving. 1

"Daddy, we are mad at you," Bella says, folding her arms.

"I know, sweetheart, and I'm sorry," Adrian says, walking up to them with a presence in each hand.

"Why didn't you visit us yesterday?" Ashton ask.

"Daddy was busy, buddy."

Jason snorts and I give him a look.

"Can I talk to you for a second?" he asked, completely ignoring Adrian.

I got up and walked to the living room. "What is wrong?" I asked him once we were alone.

"Don't tell me you are going to take him back after what he did last night," Jason asked.

"Look, Jason, I know what he did wasn't nice but the children need their father." I try to make an excuse. 2

"I understand that but that doesn't mean you have to marry that jerk face in there, Ash; he has hurt you in the past and last night he went out with that bitch. Do you really think he will choose you over her?" He asked and I know that he is angry.

"I won't hurt her again," Adrian says, walking in.

Jason glared at him. "I wasn't talking to you, man whore." Jason growled, then looked back at me. 1

"Think carefully before you marry this asshole again because I know he will always be the same," Jason says, taking his bag from the coffee table.

"Jason, please understand," I begin but he shakes his head.

"No, you don't seem to understand Ash; he was out last night with another woman and the same bitch that has ruined you for the entire world to see. He didn't think about his fiance," Jason spits as soon as he says that word, "or his kids when he went behind your back, and yet, you still let him into your lives."

Jason was angry. I know it because his jaw was clenching and says, hurt.

"Jason, I didn't..."

"No, no, you meant every word and you know what? Don't come crying to me once he broke your heart again!"

Jason walked past me and slammed the door behind him and I quickly followed him.

"Jason, please," I begged him.

"Enjoy your life with him, because I'm done here."

Jason got into his car and drove away, leaving me there, heartbroken that I might have lost my best friend.

I feel Adrian wrap his arms around me and whisper, "Everything will be alright."

"I don't think so; Jason meant what he said. I have never seen him that angry before." I cried as I watched the road where my best friend had driven off.
