

Billionaire's Ex-Wife And His Hidden Babies

135

"Did you find Ms. Morgan?" Sophia asked while preparing breakfast.

"Not yet, Sophia, and as per the update, she... she has sacrificed her life to save someone else," Bruce answered. "But don't worry, everyone is on it," he added.

"I'm sorry for overloading you with so much work. You already have a lot of things to do right now." Sophia apologized, knowing how hectic Bruce's schedule would be because of the launch party.

"It's fine, Sophia. I will update you if I find out anything."

"Oh, okay! I will wait for your call. Bye, and take care!!" The moment Sophia disconnected the call, she felt two big hands wrapping around her waist, and someone placed his chin on her shoulder.

"How do you manage you cook such amazing food even though you don't use spices or oils in the food?"

"Well, what can I say? Both my brother and sister-in-law are chefs!!" Sophia responded and turned her head, and kissed his cheek. "And Rebecca's hotels and restaurant are Michelin stars; you know that?"

"I know," Brandon said, nodding his head.

"Rebecca is going to make Oli the new CEO of the company because it's hard for her to give time to family, handle whole werewolf issues, and then handle company."

"I didn't know about that. How do you know this?"

"She shared with me. It's a wedding present from her." Sophia replied. "Also, now she will be going to appoint Alpha of Alphas for all four regions of the world. Now, those four AoA will report to her instead of any Alpha of the pack. In short, she is delegating her powers to give more and more time to her family. After all, Steve and Charlotte are too young, and they are not getting time to spend with their parents much, and do you know what, she said she looked up to me for this decision." Sophia said with a smile. "I mean.. I never knew that I could be someone's role model, that to someone like Rebecca because I always looked up to her, thinking how she was so successful even though she is younger than me." She kept speaking what was in her heart while Brandon listened to her without any complaints. It was a good sign, right?

He wanted her to share everything with him openly, just like she used to share before!! Immediately, he observed that her lips stopped moving.

"What did you stop speaking?" He asked.

"Are you even listening to me?" She asked, glaring at him, to which he gave an apologetic smile. "Don't give me that beautiful smile." She huffed. "I was saying that when we will be in New York, then I want to visit our daughters' grave. Both Caro and Tiara." She repeated.

"Sure! Sure! We will visit them with Calvin and Colton as well. After all, they have just heard about them. They need to know whether their sisters are." Brandon responded, Yes, they had shared about both Caro and Tiara to them last Friday by explaining things on the chart, i. e., by drawing a family tree except for their parent's EX. Both Brandon and Sophia thought to share that part of their life when they would grow old enough to under Ex, first love, and other things, not because it was important but because they would learn from it and wouldn't repeat the mistake that their mother or father did.

*

"Guys, we will have to find Caroline. Both Lucas and I will be busy with office work because of the party, So you all have to handle everything on your own. I have already shared the photos of Caroline. So, any girl who looks like her with abnormal behavior, then let me know." Bruce said, on which everyone looked at the picture of Caroline and then looked at each other's faces.

They had a picture of an eight-month-old baby, and now they had to find a baby similar to her, around six to seven years old. It was more like an impossible task.

At the same time, they received a new message from Bruce; they quickly opened it.

"I asked an artist to create the picture of caroline in the look of six years old kid, so she will look more or less like the new photo," Bruce added.

"Okay, Beta!"

Once Bruce and Lucas left, the rest of them started thinking the way how to track Caro. They just had a picture but had no idea about any other clue where she could have been.

"How about we take help from a witch?" Wade suggested.

"I second that. A behavior of a witch can be guessed by a witch only." Jacob said.

"But what could be the reason behind Ms. Morgan sacrificing her life to give a new life to Caroline?" Joshua couldn't help but wonder.

"Maybe because she had lived a long enough. So, she might have thought to give Caro a chance; after all, she had just begun her life, and... and do you remember that she had given a pendant for her when she met Caro for the first time?" Jacob reminded.

*

"Who is she?" Ms. Morgan asked, looking at Sophia and Caroline.

"She is Brandon's Mistress," Iris replied. Ms. Morgan walked toward both mother and daughter and then looked at Caroline for a while before speaking.

"What's her name?"

"Caroline.", Sophia replied, to which Ms. Morgan started chanting some spells again. No one could understand anything except the word Caroline which she used in the spell, and then a pendant appeared of a star shape appeared in her palm.

"That's for her.", She said, forwarding toward Sophia.

*

"Yes, I remember that incident. Caro had grabbed that pendant and started eating like food." Austin said with a chuckle. "By the way, even hunters are very knowledgable in terms of supernatural creatures. After all, they had to study these things to kill them when a situation like that appears," he added.

.