

Billionaire's Ex-Wife And His Hidden Babies

141

Logan had no idea whether he should stay there or not. He just stayed behind, watching Caroline's behavior toward the kids who were unknown to her.

"Sarah.. Sarah, wake up!" Calvin called her with her second name because 'Caroline' name was so long to call.

"Calvin, stop!" Colton stopped him, but by then, a pair of green eyes were already open. Caroline quickly sat on the bed, looking at two little humans just like her.

"Let me remove this curtain," Calvin said and left the bed to remove the curtain. She quickly closed her eyes when lightly spread all over the room. "Hi, I'm Calvin. Open your eyes and shake hands with us," he added, forwarding his head.

"Sarah?" Colton placed his hand on her shoulder when she didn't open her eyes even after a minute. "Are you okay?"

Finally, Caroline opened her eyes and looked at her brother in light.

"Wow! Her eye color is almost like mom." Calvin pointed out. "By the way, I'm Calvin," he said again, forwarding his hand. When she didn't shake the hand and looked at him in confusion. Calvin held her hand and made it shake.

"Like this."

"Calvin." She muttered, on which he nodded.

"And I'm Colton." Colton introduced, pointing his finger toward himself.

"I'm... Caro." Caroline said, not sure she was speaking right or not. Calvin was about to correct her when they heard the doorbell.

"Who can be at this moment?" Calvin asked and waited to hear the voice to identify the voice.

"Is the kids not awake?" Sophia asked when she didn't see her babies running toward her.

"It's M.."

"Mama," Caroline recognized that voice. She quickly left the bed to follow that voice while Sophia couldn't understand why Arya and Logan were looking at her like this. She placed her heels in the right place and sanitized her hand.

"Calvin, Colton!! Wake up, sweetheart!" She said in a loud tone, hoping them to come running toward her. She heard the footsteps and happily turned her head to catch Cavin, but she gasped when she saw a girl turning toward her happily.

"Mama..."

*

Sophia ended the prayer and smiled at looking at God. She couldn't thank him enough for showering so much happiness in her life. The moment she had lost every hope, he sent Calvin and Colton into her life, then Brandon, and now Caroline.

If she would thank him for her whole life, then this wouldn't be enough, but still, he needed to be thanked and another person, who was no less than a god in human form for her. After finishing her praying, she dialed Rebecca's number.

"Hey, sister-in-law!!" There came her voice. She was more like a sister than a sister-in-law, to be honest. "Is everything all right?"

"Thank you so much, Becca. For... for everything from saving my life to returning Brandon back to his form. Thank you so much." Sophia said because when she brought Brandon from the hospital today, out of nowhere, a vampire landed at her flat, which was sent by Rebecca with the power of healing. Not just he healed all the fresh injuries of Brandon's body, but he also turned him back into the shape in which he was five years back.

This was the help that Sophia got from Rebecca without asking. Hell, she didn't even know that Rebecca knew about everything that was happening in her life, even though Arya and Eden didn't tell her anything. And this was not the first time she had helped Sophia; she had been doing it for a long by, one way or another.

"Don't thank me, Sophia. We're family, remember?"

"But, still..."

"No BUT and IF. I didn't help you, but I helped myself by doing this because my wedding is on 8th February and the third week of January is already finished. There is no way you could have enjoyed my wedding if the father of your kids would have been in that state. So, I did everything for my own benefit."

"I'm lucky to have you as my family member then. To be honest, both Oli and I are lucky to have you in a family, and Oli is blessed to..."

"No, that's not right, Sophia. I had money and power, but Liv gave me those things that I couldn't buy or conquer with everything that I have, i. e., love, support, and a family. So, I understand that with my money and power, I can never give them the happiness that Brandon can give as their father. So, I just did what I should have done a lot before, but I didn't because I really wanted to see whether he was really sorry or not."

"So, you always knew, didn't you?"

"Well, can you blame me? Not a single day passed when I hadn't seen my mate worried for you and the twins. But I guess it's time that we can sleep peacefully without any worry." Rebecca said in a funny way to explain why she kept an eye on her silently!

"Oli knows?"

"He knows that I get an update on you weekly basic, but he doesn't ask about it now. Earlier, he used to ask, but now he knows that his sister can handle everything. Moreover, you need to talk about Brandon with him or give a hint so that he will be prepared for that mentally, or he will break Brandon's nose at the airport itself." Rebecca suggested.

"On the top, the worst news is that he is going to play an emotional card to get you married to the person who is kind of best choice for you."

.

#TBC