

THE BREAKING POINT OF LOVE

Chapter 501

---- Chapter 501 At that moment, Matthias asked again, "How are you feeling now? Any discomfort? If you're not well, then this morning's meeting-" "I'm fine." As she spoke, Celeste suddenly realized that she wasn't wearing the clothes from yesterday, but she was in her own pajamas. And her body felt fresh and clean-she must have already been bathed. 7 She didn't know whether Trevor had asked hotel staff to help her, or if... It wasn't something she could bring up with Matthias anyway. After a few more words, the call ended.

Seeing that it was already late, Celeste didn't waste time dwelling on last night. 2 She washed up, touched up her makeup, grabbed her bag, and stepped out of the room. The moment she did, she came face-to-face with Trevor and Wynn. ---- Celeste's steps faltered. Trevor and Wynn stopped as well. The moment Wynn saw Celeste, her expression turned cold instantly. 3 "Cel." 2 Just then, Matthias also stepped out of his room. Seeing Wynn and Trevor together, his jaw clenched as he walked directly over. Celeste withdrew her gaze. Trevor greeted him calmly, "Mr.

Yoder." Matthias didn't know when Wynn had arrived in Jorburgh. But seeing her standing with Trevor, and hearing Trevor greet him so casually, Matthias ignored him altogether and said only to Celeste, "Cel, let's go." 1 She took the lead, heading toward the elevators. 2 At that moment, Kieran also happened to step out of his room. Spotting Trevor, Wynn, Celeste, and Matthias all waiting for elevators at the same time, he paused in surprise.

---- But since Celeste and Matthias were standing at a different set of elevators, apart from Trevor and Wynn, the scene looked almost as if they weren't acquainted at all. Kieran didn't spare much attention for Trevor or Wynn. He went straight to Celeste and Matthias, entering the same elevator as them. 1 Downstairs, Celeste and the other YodaVision engineers gathered at the hotel entrance. On the other side, a fashionable young woman standing with a group glanced over, then waved with a smile when she saw Trevor and Wynn arriving. "Wynn, over here." 4 Trevor and Wynn walked toward her.

Just then, the car that was to take Celeste and Matthias arrived. Neither of them spared Trevor and Wynn another glance, boarding first and leaving. Trevor did attend the morning meeting, but Wynn did not accompany him. 1 Matthias couldn't help but remark sarcastically, "That really is rare." He had assumed Wynn would follow along. ---- Celeste kept her silence. The morning's work went smoothly. As long as there were no surprises, after one more busy afternoon, they would be able to return to Baumond that same evening.

At noon, after finishing the morning's work, the people from Fleming Group and YodaVision went to a restaurant together. Trevor did not go with them. 4 Smiling, Lazarus explained, "Ms. Lockett's best friend just returned from overseas, so Mr. Fleming is busy hosting her today. That's why he won't be joining us for lunch." 5 Hearing this, Matthias smiled without warmth. "Mr. Fleming certainly keeps himself busy." Lazarus didn't catch the irony in his tone. Thinking he was simply teasing about how close Trevor and Wynn were, he laughed.

"Isn't that right?" The afternoon schedule also went smoothly. Once work was done, they boarded their flight back to Baumond that same night, just as planned. From what Lazarus said, Trevor seemed to have another project to discuss. That day, both he and Wynn stayed behind, not ---- returning with them on the same flight.

----- Chapter 502 After coming back from Jorburgh, Celeste had two days off. She had a full day of rest. On the morning of the second day, just after finishing breakfast, her phone rang. It was a call from Trevor. 1 Celeste glanced at the screen before picking up. "What is it?" 1 "Grandma was discharged from the hospital two days ago. She wants to invite you over to Fleming Manor for a meal." * Celeste was aware of Martha's discharge. At that time, though, she had been away on a business trip in Jorburgh and couldn't personally go to pick her up from the hospital. "Got it," Celeste replied.

Just as she was about to hang up, Trevor added, "I'll go pick you up now." "No need, I'll drive myself-" _ 4 "Jo wants me to go with her to your house to pick you up. She's already got her shoes on." Trevor interrupted her. 2 ---- Celeste paused. "...Alright." "We'll be there soon." Celeste didn't respond, so Trevor ended the call. About half an hour later, Trevor and Jordyn arrived at the Rodriguez residence. The rest of the Rodriguez family wasn't home. When Jordyn saw Celeste, she happily jumped out of the car, ran over, and hugged her.

"Mom!" 1 From the driver's seat, Trevor lowered the window and turned his head to look at them. Once inside the car, Jordyn clung to Celeste, chattering about the fun things she'd done the past few days, and mentioning that the gift she bought was already at the Fleming Manor. 1 While Celeste was talking with Jordyn, Trevor focused only on driving. When Jordyn had neatly finished her stories, he glanced back at Celeste and asked, "You've been resting these past two days?" 5 "Yes," she answered. There wasn't much else to say between them.

So, Trevor didn't initiate any more conversation with her along the way. ---- Martha had always been especially fond of Celeste. When she saw her come to Fleming Manor, she was overjoyed. Seeing how much better Martha looked, Celeste also felt relieved. Trevor was quite busy-while Celeste kept Martha company and chatted with her, his phone hardly stopped ringing. + After lunch, Celeste had originally planned to stay a bit longer before heading home in the afternoon. But outside, a heavy downpour started and didn't let up for quite a while.

Since Martha had only just recovered and was still weak, she went upstairs for her afternoon nap. Trevor then said to Celeste, "If you're tired, go upstairs and rest a bit too." Before she could answer, Jordyn tugged on her hand and pulled her upstairs. Instead of going to Trevor's room, Celeste followed Jordyn into her room. Back when she had cleared out her things from Trevor's house, she had almost taken everything. But here at Fleming Manor, she hadn't removed her belongings. ---- So, there were still a few sets of clothes of hers in Jordyn's wardrobe.

2 As Celeste was about to find a set of her pajamas to change into, there was a knock at the door. She turned her head, and before she could speak, Trevor, standing at the doorway, saw her rifling through Jordyn's closet. 1 Realizing she must be looking for pajamas, he didn't make a comment. His eyes shifted to the bed where Jordyn lay. "She's asleep?" He nodded lightly. "Have a good rest." With that, he gently closed the door for them and walked away. It had been a long time since Celeste had last stayed at Fleming Manor.

She thought she wouldn't be able to fall asleep, yet not long after lying down beside Jordyn, she drifted off without realizing. When she woke up, perhaps from sleeping too long, her temples ached slightly. Jordyn was no longer in the room. 1 After washing up, she went downstairs, but didn't see Martha or Jordyn-only Trevor was sitting in the living room, reading. 2 ---- When he noticed her coming down, he closed the book in his hand and lifted his gaze to her. "You're awake." &

---Chapter 503

Prev ChapterNext Chapter

After coming back from Jorburgh, Celeste had two days off.

She had a full day of rest.

On the morning of the second day, just after finishing breakfast, her phone rang.

It was a call from Trevor. 2

Celeste glanced at the screen before picking up. "What is it?" 1

"Grandma was discharged from the hospital two days ago. She wants to invite you over to Fleming Manor for a meal." *

Celeste was aware of Martha's discharge. At that time, though, she had been away on a business trip in Jorburgh and couldn't personally go to pick her up from the hospital. 1

"Got it," Celeste replied. +

Just as she was about to hang up, Trevor added, "I'll go pick you

"No need, I'll drive myself—" _ 4

"Jo wants me to go with her to your house to pick you up. She's already got her shoes on." Trevor interrupted her. 2

Celeste paused. "...Alright."

"We'll be there soon."

Celeste didn't respond, so Trevor ended the call.

About half an hour later, Trevor and Jordyn arrived at the Rodriguez residence.

The rest of the Rodriguez family wasn't home. When Jordyn saw Celeste, she happily jumped out of the car, ran over, and hugged her. "Mom!" 3

From the driver's seat, Trevor lowered the window and turned his head to look at them.

Once inside the car, Jordyn clung to Celeste, chattering about the fun things she'd done the past few days, and mentioning that the gift she bought was already at the Fleming Manor. 1

While Celeste was talking with Jordyn, Trevor focused only on driving. When Jordyn had neatly finished her stories, he glanced back at Celeste and asked, "You've been resting these past two days?" «

"Yes," she answered.

There wasn't much else to say between them. So, Trevor didn't initiate any more conversation with her along the way.

Martha had always been especially fond of Celeste. When she saw her come to Fleming Manor, she was overjoyed

Seeing how much better Martha looked, Celeste also felt

Trevor was quite busy—while Celeste kept Martha company and chatted with her, his phone hardly stopped ringing. 2

After lunch, Celeste had originally planned to stay a bit longer before heading home in the afternoon. But outside, a heavy downpour started and didn't let up for quite a while.

Since Martha had only just recovered and was still weak, she went upstairs for her afternoon nap

Trevor then said to Celeste, "If you're tired, go upstairs and rest a bit too."

Before she could answer, Jordyn tugged on her hand and pulled her upstairs.

Instead of going to Trevor's room, Celeste followed Jordyn into

Back when she had cleared out her things from Trevor's house, she had almost taken everything.

But here at Fleming Manor, she hadn't removed her belongings.

So, there were still a few sets of clothes of hers in Jordyn's wardrobe. 2

As Celeste was about to find a set of her pajamas to change into, there was a knock at the door.

She turned her head, and before she could speak, Trevor, standing at the doorway, saw her rifling through Jordyn's closet.

Realizing she must be looking for pajamas, he didn't make a

His eyes shifted to the bed where Jordyn lay. "She's asleep?"

He nodded lightly. "Have a good rest." 2

With that, he gently closed the door for them and walked away.

It had been a long time since Celeste had last stayed at Fleming Manor. She thought she wouldn't be able to fall asleep, yet not long after lying down beside Jordyn, she drifted off without realizing.

When she woke up, perhaps from sleeping too long, her temples ached slightly. Jordyn was no longer in the room. 2

After washing up, she went downstairs, but didn't see Martha or Jordyn—only Trevor was sitting in the living room, reading. 3

When he noticed her coming down, he closed the book in his hand and lifted his gaze to her. "You're awake." 16

