My Baby's Daddy Chapter 1403

Ruka didn't really mind it either. She wasn't an ostentatious girl. Having the man she loved with her was the most important thing. The wedding was a just formality where their friends and family could witness their love.

Elliot, Anastasia, Arthur, and Sophie joined the wedding. Once again, they were honored to witness the sanctity of love and marriage.

Arthur and Sophie's son was already born. They would hold a wedding not long down the line as well.

Angela, who was seven months pregnant now, was standing beside Richard. After they went into the banquet hall, the ladies took up a quiet room and talked about child-rearing. Anastasia was the most experienced of all. Her daughter was already six months old, and she took good care of her.

Angela looked at the baby girl on the screen, and she longed to see her own too. The doctor told her that she was pregnant with a girl.

"She's so chubby and cute. Does she cling to you or her father?" Angela smiled.

"Her father. He holds her most of the time, so I get more time to myself." Anastasia smiled. Her hair was slightly curled. She had recovered and gained her mojo back after the birth, looking as elegant as she used to be.

Sophie said that Martha spoiled her son rotten. Arthur set his work aside for them as well. Their son resembled Arthur. He was just one month old, but the boy was already the center of everyone's attention.

While the ladies were chatting among themselves, the men held their own gathering as well. They looked like they were talking about important stuff, but if one moved closer to them, one would find that they were talking about child-rearing as well. The men were interested in kid related stuff too.

Elliot's phone rang halfway through. The screen lit up and showed a baby's face it was a photo of his daughter. After he was done with the call, the guy looked at the photo for a while before turning the phone off and getting back to the conversation.

As a new father, Arthur had a lot to learn. This was his most important job, and the one he was most eager to learn at. He wanted to be a brilliant dad.

Richard barely said anything, but he listened intently. He didn't want to lose out on any tip. Ren was in a crisp black suit, and hordes of people came to congratulate him. Harold knew a lot of people, so almost all the bigshots attended the wedding.

Ruka was still styling herself up. Rita was her bridesmaid. The girl almost fainted with delight. She never thought she would one day be the bridesmaid for the VP's wife. This is my proudest moment.

Elijah was looking particularly dashing as well. He never had a chance to date anyone due to his work. The guy was twenty-nine and successful. Today he was the groom's best man,

Elijah was surprised Ren asked him to be his best man, though this was more interesting than work

After Ruka's makeup was done, she huddled closer to Rita. "Rita, you gotta catch my it?"

"I'll try. I might be out of luck though." Rita gave no guarantees.

"It's alright. I'll throw it in your direction." Ruka smiled.

Ren and his best man came. He looked exceptionally young and handsome that day. Ruka might be a few years younger than he was, but as they stood next to each other, their age gap wasn't obvious and they looked really good together.

There was a rumor that said a couple who kissed a lot would resemble each other eventually. I guess that's true?

Rita was about to stand up and straighten out Ruka's gown, but she stepped on her own dress and gasped.

The man nearest to her immediately reached out to catch her. He grabbed her waist and stopped her from falling smack to the ground in public.

Rita was breathing a bit heavily. She looked up and was greeted by a handsome guy. Her heart fluttered.

Rita was looking really cute today as well. Her hair was trimmed short and clean. She looked like an innocent girl, and Elijah felt like he was having a crush.

“Thanks.” Rita quickly stood up straight.

“No problem,” Elijah said awkwardly. He stole a few glances at her though. This was the first time he saw the bridesmaid, and he thought she was cute.

Ruka was holding Ren’s arm, and they exchanged a smile. Oh ho, we smell the beginnings of another relationship here.

“Elijah, Ruka and I are gonna see my folks. You take care of the bridesmaid here,” Ren said.

Elijah was surprised, then he nodded. “Of course. I’ll keep a good eye on her.”

“She’s Rita, my friend.” Ruka smiled. And then she told Rita, “And Mr. Handsome here is Elijah. He’s Ren’s assistant. A very brilliant man, if I do say so myself.”

Rita and Elijah exchanged a look and pursed their lips sheepishly. They both took a sudden interest in their feet and looked down.

Some sparks were flying, but Ruka and Ren were already gone.

Rita was about to take the wreath, while Elijah wanted to reach his iPad to work on something. They moved at the same time and bumped into each other.

Elijah bumped his chin, while Rita hurt her forehead.

“I’m really, really sorry!” Elijah apologized and looked at her worriedly.

Rita said, "I'm sorry. Are you hurt?"

They stared at each other and chuckled. Rita covered her face in embarrassment.

"I'm fine. Your forehead's a bit red though," Elijah said. He was concerned.

Rita touched her forehead before smiling. "It's alright. It'll go away in a minute."

Ruka and Ren were meeting the Husson elders. Ruka was going to serve tea for Ren's parents. They quickly took it and said she didn't have to do it anymore. She was pregnant after all.

"Ruka's my sister-in-law from now on, and the future lady of the Husson household," Scarlet announced.

Claire and Robert exchanged a smile. They never expected this day would come, and yet it did.

Ruka teared up a little. She couldn't help it as the atmosphere moved her. She had always been sentimental.

Ren noticed the tears in her eyes, and he held her in his embrace. "Dad, Mom, Ruka needs some rest. Excuse us."

They came to the common room, and Ruka felt embarrassed. She laughed. "I'm just so touched."

She never thought she could actually be Ren's wife. This didn't happen even in her wildest dreams. And I'm pregnant with his kids too.

Eventually, it was time to go with the procession. Ren was waiting for her on the stage. Ruka held her father's arm as she slowly headed toward him. A beautiful headdress decorated her head.

Robert shed tears of joy when he handed his daughter to Ren. "Ren, take good care of her."

Ren said, "Of course, Robert. You don't have to worry."

A simple promise, but one that carried a heavy weight.

Robert could finally hand his daughter to him without worries. Ruka slowly looked up at Ren. Even through the veil, she could see the love in his eyes. She smiled. Ren was staring at his wife through the veil as well. Time seemed to stop at this moment.

And then, a thunderous applause erupted. Everyone was bearing witness to the tying of a new knot.

Elijah was on stage as well. He saw the bridesmaid behind Ruka. When Rita looked up, she too looked at him. Their eyes met. Elijah scratched his head, while Rita smiled shyly.

Once the vows were made, Ruka was about to toss the bouquet into the crowd. Rita was right on the stage. Ruka turned around and winked at her, then she tossed the bouquet in Rita's direction.
