with the man descending the stairs.

Novel My baby's daddy chapter 2479-Shirley heard footsteps behind her. She turned around and locked eyes

"The dumplings are ready. I'll bring them out in. a moment." She smiled at him. Under the light, her bright and lively eyes reected the surrounding crystal lights, making them sparkle.

The man couldn't tear his gaze away for a moment. Shirley brought out the rst bowl of dumplings. Her long, smooth, and black hair. was tied into a simple bun, with a few strands of bangs falling gracefully on her beautiful cheeks.

In the man's eyes, she seemed more appetizing than the bowl of dumplings.

She went back to the kitchen. With her back to the man, her slender legs, which were as delicate and fair as snow, were partially covered by the white T-shirt dress, accentuating her curvy and alluring gure.

His gaze became more intense and he couldn't help but secretly gulp.

many

few for herself.

wonderful.

with him. He

eyebrow. "Do I made a tiring, I can't sentence, his good mood took a hit.

"Do you want him to live here?" Zacharias asked her back.

"No. I'm just curious." Shirley pursed her lips.

"He was kicked out by me," Zacharias replied.

"I accidentally made too many dumplings. Please don't waste them. You have to eat them all!" Shirley brought out the second bowl while. looking a bit embarrassed as she smiled at him.

"Eat with me then." The man raised an eyebrow. She thought that it would be too much for him: to nish so dumplings by himself late at night.

"All right. I'll put a few more in your bowl then," she said as she used her fork to add a few more to his bowl after taking a

Zacharias sat down and savored not just the dumplings but also the light and pleasant atmosphere created by the girl had only his beside him. He had been living here alone for over a year. Unless he requested assistance, the vast mansion

"Is your work nished? You won't be working late, will you?" Shirley asked while showing concern.

"Are you worried about me?" Zacharias asked while elegantly chewing his food. She smiled. "Of course. I solitary gure. Tonight was undeniably destined to be full of vitality, making the night indescribably believe people

all over the country care about you."

following

His mood was still okay after hearing her rst sentence. However, when he heard the ocial statement in the Shirley couldn't help but ask when she sensed a slightly awkward atmosphere. "Mr. Flintstone, didn't your nephew say he wanted to live here? Why haven't I seen him?"

She was speechless. Why did this man always have such an aggressive tone? She was just trying to chat took it as if she had some ulterior motive. It was really tiring to communicate with this man.

"Why?" She was curious. The reason why he kicked out his nephew that night was simple-his nephew had begged him all night to introduce Shirley to him and he found it annoying.

"He's too noisy?" he replied casually. Upon thinking about it, Shirley agreed. Tony was indeed noisy.

along. I don't want my parents to know that I work here,' she said to him. Zacharias nodded. 'Sure." Then, he raised an

"Mr. Flintstone, can I ask you a favor? If your work involves meeting my great-uncle, please don't bring me get any benets?"

Her nerves were on edge again. She asked him, "What benets do you want?" He thought for a moment and Shirley was stunned. Was it appropriate to massage him before bed?

request. "Give me a massage every night before bed."

would surely take care of such matters.

girlfriend

"Mr. Flintstone, do you have a girlfriend?" she couldn't help but ask. She thought that if he had a girlfriend, his guarantee I won't take you to events where people might recognize you.

"No." Zacharias glanced at her. Zacharias sensed that she was reluctant and put down his fork. "If you nd it