

The Baby's Mother Need Love by hika Chapter 12

1. Parting

Now that Mike was in such a hurry to leave, it was obvious that he was afraid that the man behind her would find out about his ugly deeds.

She bit her lip and sat up. She looked at Mike and deliberately raised her voice a little higher. "Let's talk here. Ten million. Give me back my house!"

Mike's face turned pale. He looked behind her in panic and stared at her for more than half a minute.

Jessie did not shrink back at all.

In the past, she had always been as low as dust in front of him. As long as the two of them were together, every time she breathed, she would try her best to keep up with his rhythm. She placed herself in a position that could not be any lower.

But that wasn't because she was born weak and easily bullied.

It was because she cared too much about the relationship between the two of them for so many years at that time.

But now, he was no longer the person she needed to care about. No matter how soft she was, she would never be gentle to a man like him.

Mike softened his stance and lowered his tone. "If there's anything, let's go out and talk. Let's go."

As he spoke, he went to grab Jessie's wrist.

However, before his hand could get close to Jessie, it was pushed away by a force.

The person who pushed him was actually the hotel's security guard.

“What are you doing?” In front of the big boss of the company, Mike did not dare to be impudent as he suppressed his voice and growled.

Security guard was very strong. In a moment, he pressed Mike, who was more than 180 centimeters, back to his seat.

Mike’s face twitched and he said angrily, “Get lost. I have finished my meal. I want to go out!”

Unexpectedly, just as he stood up, security guard pushed him back to his seat.

Jessie also looked strange, but she could faintly feel that security guard was helping her.

She could not help but look at him gratefully.

When Mike forced himself to stand up again, Alex slowly turned around and looked at him indifferently. He said in a low and lazy voice, “Since this lady wants to continue talking with you here, as a gentleman, shouldn’t you respect her opinion?”

Mike was stunned. Under Alex’s sharp and cold gaze, he did not dare to move and sat down obediently.

Jessie linked the matter of security guard informing her to come to the restaurant with the current situation and her heart skipped a beat.

Even though there were two chairs between them, she felt as if her back was being roasted by something. It was a little hot for some unknown reason.

Although she was very close to him and the refreshing mint fragrance on his body kept coming from him, she did not dare to look at him again.

Mike looked at Jessie with hatred in his eyes and after a while, he calmed down and said, “Jessie, It is an old house, and it is far from the city. It is not safe for a single woman like you to live there in the future. I’ve been looking for a suitable house for you all this time, but I didn’t tell you until I found a suitable one. But I found it today. It's close to where you work. All the facilities are much more convenient than your old house. I was just about to send you the property deed and the key to the door."

As he spoke, he picked up his phone and made a call, asking his assistant to send the things over.

Jessie stared at him and could not help but shake her hand that was holding the bag.

She could feel that Mike suddenly wanted to give her a suite, but he was under pressure from the man behind him.

Her heart suddenly felt complicated.

Her relationship with Mike for so many years was not as good as the threat from an unfamiliar man.

How ridiculous and lamentable.

Mike finished the phone call and continued slowly, "As for you asking for ten million, It's just that I recently invested in a chain restaurant. The money has been transferred there, and I really can't take it out now. I only have about 100,000 yuan on hand, and at the end of the month, I still have to give out the salaries of my assistants. How about this, once I make money, I'll return the money to you bit by bit. How about it?"

Return it bit by bit?

Ah.

How could Jessie not tell that Mike was stalling for time?

Seeing him like this, her heart turned cold.

Rather than being entangled with him over money, it was better to completely cut off everything. These five years of youth were just like feeding a dog. She had never thought of using her youth to exchange for money.

Now that she had taken back her house, from now on, she would completely cut off all ties with him. She would never have any relationship with him in this lifetime.

His assistant stayed in the hotel as well.

Not long after, the assistant sent the property deed and the door key over.

Jessie did not say anything more to him. She took the things and her expression was as cold as water. "I buried all the things in the past into the soil. I don't want the ten million anymore. You and I will part ways from now on. It has nothing to do with you anymore. Mike, take care of yourself!"

She got up and left without looking back.

Mike watched her back disappear completely. He heard her saying "part ways." His heart felt like it had been stabbed by something for some reason. He was a little stunned.

Previously, she was still unwilling to divorce, and after the divorce, she pestered him for money and a house. Now, he gave her a small house that was over seventy square meters, and she actually agreed to disappear so easily. This made him unable to believe it.

However, he finally got rid of it, and he could not help but heave a sigh of relief.

At another table.

Sammy received a call from Alex and rushed to the western restaurant. He sat opposite of Alex and said, "Aren't we drinking together? Why are we here?"

Alex raised his eyes and looked at him coldly. "Have you been very free recently?"

"No, I have been busy in my hotel." Sammy smiled. "You are already so busy, yet you still have time to calculate me. Shouldn't I thank you even more?"