1. Love at First Sight

"I was wondering why you ended your relationship with Mike so quickly. It turns out that you are having a new date. This man was very noble. I don't think there are many cars in R City that are the same as his, right?" Sally crossed her arms and watched the car leave with her head held high as she teased.

"What nonsense are you talking about?" Jessie rolled her eyes and did not know when Sally, who had squeezed to her side, turned around and went in.

Sally closely chased after her and had a face full of gossips, "When did you guys know each other? He can drive that kind of car. He must have a lot of money. Just now, he said that those two children belonged to boss's family, so what position did he have? Was he the kind of person who was above everyone else under boss? It seemed that he did not know how to coax the children at all. They are definitely not married yet, right? How did you two get to know each other?"

"The children belong to boss. Didn't you think that the car might also belong to boss? Maybe he's just driving for boss?" Jessie refuted her.

Sally was single, and her parents kept urging her to get married. She was also very curious about the relationship between men and women.

Hearing Jessie say this, Sally thought for a while and nodded, "That's true. But based on his figure and looks, even if he is the driver, you can still consider how to develop him. Didn't you always advocate love?"

Jessie's face stiffened slightly and paused for a moment before saying, "That is because I am stupid."

Sally secretly scolded herself in her heart and pretended to pat her mouth as she smiled apologetically, "I am sorry my dear, my mouth does not know how to speak. You are right. In the future, as long as we live a wonderful life alone, all men and love will f*cking get lost!"

Jessie giggled. "You have to continue to live a wonderful life by yourself. Be careful that your parents use knives to force you to go on blind dates."

This sentence hit Sally's sore spot and she wailed as she laid on the bar counter. "A deadly blind date!"

Mumen Group, 28th floor, president's office.

Rick handed the prepared documents to Alex.

Alex raised his eyes and glanced at him, then looked at the computer screen again. He said sarcastically. "Did you go to class with them?"

Rick had been with Alex for more than ten years. Rick could basically guess what he meant with any tone.

He knew that Alex did not want him to come back late, so he quickly answered apologetically, "Young master Felix refused to eat breakfast. Lisa recommended the Louisdin coffee shop downstairs. She said there were drawings of milk and desserts that the children liked there, so I took them there and wasted some time. I just came back late."

The computer screen Alex was looking at was the information about Jessie's personal information. It indicated that she was now in the Louisdin coffee shop, as barista.

His eyebrows slowly knitted together as he stroked his lower jaw with one hand. "Louisdin coffee shop?"

"Yes, it is just across the street from our building. The little fellows were quite familiar with one of the female employees inside. In Mountain and River Residence. Young master Felix didn't eat the cake was made by your family chef, but when the female employee gave it to her, he immediately ate it. I even found it magical when I looked at it. Could it be... Does he like to stick to beautiful and gentle aunties? However, that female shop assistant is really beautiful." Thinking of the harmonious scene between the two little fellows and that female shop assistant, Rick once again laughed in disbelief.

The only person who could be familiar with the two little fellows was Auntie Jessie, whom he had met in the hospital previously.

Alex suddenly felt that the smile on Rick's face was somewhat eye-piercing. His ink-black eyes narrowed slightly, and his voice also became cold. "She is beautiful?"

"Yes, she is quite beautiful. Her skin is white and her appearance is very refined. Especially when she is doing the latte art, her appearance is really pretty." Rick recalled Jessie's appearance and his expression was somewhat fascinated.

A thick stack of documents fell in front of him.

Alex's expression was ice cold. "Today, before you get off work, you have to review all of these and bring them back!"

Rick was so frightened that he instantly came back to his senses. He looked at the documents. "Boss, haven't these projects already been considered for not being approved?"

"I asked you to review them, so you will review them. When did you learn more and more nonsense?"

"Yes, I will go and interrogate them now!"

Rick came out with a thick document in his arms. He wanted to cry but had no tears. They were clearly having a good conversation just now. Why did he suddenly lose his temper? What was more frightening was that he had always been known as the person who understood boss the best. At this moment, he actually did not understand how he had offended boss.

Could it be that he had reached the period of tiredness at work, and even his ability to observe expressions had begun to fade?

Damn it! From now on, he had to put in 120 thousand points of spirit into work!

The Louisdin coffee employees were divided into several shifts. Jessie was in the daytime shift today, and she got off work at 5:30 PM in the afternoon.

Sally was the same as her.

The two of them arranged to go to Jessie's new home to cook dinner at night.

At 5:15, the two of them were doing the finishing touches and preparing to hand over the night shift to their colleagues before getting off work.

Outside, the staff called Jessie, "Two small guests pointed out that they were looking for you."

"Little customer?" Jessie walked out and saw Felix and Fia standing side by side at the door.

They were still wearing Harrow's kindergarten uniform in the morning. They were also carrying the same pink and blue school bag.

Their pair of black crystal-like eyes simultaneously looked in the direction of the bar counter. Their expressions were very serious.

With just a glance, one could tell how cute they were.

Sally laughed, "These two little fellows fell in love with you at first sight. You guys only met once in the morning and came back at night. They are quite devoted."

1. A Person Who Doesn't know His Own Limits

Jessie saw there were no adults beside them and quickly ran over. She bent down and pulled the hands of the two little guys. "Felix, Fia, did you two come by yourselves? Didn't Uncle Rick come with you in the morning?"

Felix looked at the hands that she was holding and his little face turned red again. He stared blankly at the hands that were holding each other's hands.

Fia smiled sweetly, "Aunt Jeje, we took a taxi here by ourselves."

As she spoke, she turned around and pointed at the taxi that was not far away, "Look, it's that car."

"You took a taxi here yourself?!" Jessie was shocked. "Did you tell your family?"

If such a young child ran out by himself, would their family not be worried?

"I didn't say. My brother and I secretly ran out. Because the dinner at home is not good, I want to eat the cake in the morning. Aunt Jeje, can you help me buy it?" The little girl's tender hand grabbed Jessie's clothes and lifted her eyes that were as beautiful as stars and blinked.

They actually secretly ran out. Jessie was frightened when she heard this. Fortunately, they were fine. Otherwise, the consequences would be unimaginable,

She hurriedly called the two of them to sit at a table. "You guys call your family first. I will go and get some food for you guys."

Sally carried the bag on her back and came over to her with a smile. "Secretly ran over to find you? Darling, this is true love. You have to treat them well. My mom called me, so I won't accompany you back first."

"You won't accompany me?"

"Isn't there two little angels accompanying you? I'm leaving. Bye, little babies!" Sally smiled and rubbed the two pretty little babies' heads. I'm off work and I'm leaving.

Jessie took out her phone. "Felix, please tell me your mother's number."

The two little fellows lowered their little heads at the same time.

Jessie sat down on the chair opposite them. "What's wrong? You don't remember?"

"We don't have a mother." Fia's big eyes were filled with tears.

Hearing her say this, Jessie's heart suddenly hurt and her voice became softer, "Sorry, Auntie doesn't know..."

She did not have a father since she was young and knew about the sadness and grievance of missing a father, so she pitied the two little fellows even more.

"It's alright, we haven't had a mother since we were born. Auntie, you don't have to apologize. Felix's small face was calm.

Jessie smiled and quickly changed the topic. "I'll go and get food for you!"

Jessie brought a few flavors of cake and milk over and helped the two little fellows put a napkin on their necks to let them eat.

She remembered that there was a number for the children's fathers on the phone and asked for Felix's opinion. She dialed the number and handed the phone to Felix

Alex was currently attending a banquet in Political World

He looked at the number and frowned

He pressed the reject button

A few seconds after he pressed Reject, the other party called again.

That night, she took the initiative to knock on the door of his room. She tried to get close to Felix and Fia and pretended to be drunk on the phone. This time, she kept pestering him. This woman was really full of tricks!

Did she also use these lowly tricks to deceive Mike on her previous marriage?

So after Mike saw through her true colors, he divorced her?

This kind of scheming woman was indeed not likable!

And he actually helped her in the hotel He was really out of his mind.

Could it be that because he helped her get a house from Mike, she immediately saw the signs and immediately stopped pestering her ex-husband and turned to pounce on Alex instead?

A person who overestimates his own abilities!

In the coffee shop, Felix handed the phone back to her and honestly replied, "My dad won't answer."

Jessie thought that he did not hear it and took the phone to call again. The other party still did not answer. Jessie waited until her heart was anxious, "Why didn't he answer the phone?"

Felix drank milk as he calmly explained, "Auntie, you don't need to call. My dad is very busy and often does not answer my calls."

"Is that so?" Jessie thought for a moment and pressed the call button. She sent a message over. "Hello, is this Felix's father? Felix and Fia are currently at the Louisdin coffee shop. Please call me when you receive the message!"

At the cocktail party, when Alex was about to directly put her phone number on the blacklist like how he treated countless women who were rushing to pounce on him, a message popped up.

After reading it, his handsome face suddenly became cold and gloomy.

"What's wrong? Rick noticed it and thought that there was something urgent in the company.

Alex put the glass in his hand "Tell Councilman Chen that I have something to take care of at home."

Rick wanted to ask more questions, but Alex's tall figure had already left the reception hall.

Rick could not help but feel even more nervous

What exactly was going on? In the past, it was his family who called to say that Felix and Fia had disappeared. He had never seen boss in such a panic before.

At the Louisdin coffee shop

Jessie had been accompanying the two little fellows. They had almost finished eating, but they still did not get a reply from their father.

Jessie asked them if they still remembered the phone numbers of the other family members and the two little fellows shook their heads at the same time.

Jessie was struggling whether to call a taxi to send them back or to continue waiting for their father's call.

She was also worried that their father was still busy with work and did not go home. If there was no one at home to send them back, she could not always stay at the other family's house and accompany them. When the child's father came back, she did not know how to explain.

1. Boring

"I'm full!" Fia patted her bulging belly and slid down from the chair. She threw herself into Jessie's arms. "Aunt Jeje, I want to watch cartoons!"

Felix also put down the empty milk cup, indicating that he had finished it.

Jessie carried Fia in her arms, "If father is not home, is there anyone else in your family?"

Felix rushed to answer, "No one else!"

Fia turned her head and looked at him in confusion.

Felix winked at her.

The siblings quickly reached an agreement. Fia giggled and hugged Jessie's neck even tighter. "Dad didn't come back. There was only me and brother at home."

Jessie remembered what the little fellow had said just now. "Then who was the one who prepared the unpleasant dinner for you?"

Felix's little handsome face did not change. "A temporary maid. She went home after she finished cooking."

Seeing the two children pitifully waiting for her father at home, Jessie felt her heart ache again. "Your father's heart is really big."

Such two children, he actually let them stay at home alone. Was he not afraid that something unexpected would happen?

Fia did not understand the meaning behind Jessie's words and laughed along with her. "Yes, my father is especially high up. His heart must be bigger than everyone else's."

Jessie could not help but laugh.

Felix was speechless and covered his face.

He really wanted to ask his foolish sister to speak less when she had nothing better to do.

"Then let's wait a little longer. Fia wants to watch cartoons, right? Then let's go to lounge and watch." Jessie was about to bring them to the room where the employees rest.

The glass door of the coffee shop was pushed open.

A tall and stalwart man strode in.

He was dressed in a pure black suit, a pure white shirt, a dark tie, and his short hair was neat and tidy. He should have come from some formal occasion.

His handsome features and his extraordinary aura immediately attracted the attention of everyone in the coffee shop

The female shop assistant beside Jessie could not help but startle. "My God, I must have seen a god, right? So handsome, so handsome!"

The man's sharp and cold eyes swept around the shop and landed directly on the pair of children in Jessie's arms and legs. He strode towards them.

Fia turned her head and saw her father. She hid her little head even deeper into Jessie's arms.

Felix was also not much better than her. The key was that at this moment, Alex's expression was even scarier than his usual serious expression. He wanted to pretend to be strong but his little heart was beating rapidly. He also cowered and hid behind Jessie.

Jessie saw the reaction of the two children and instinctively turned her head to look at the door.

Seeing the deep and handsome face of the man, the gentle smile on her face froze into ice.

While she was in a daze, he had already stood in front of her.

The man was very tall. She needed to raise her head to look at him. Her voice was trembling. "What are you doing here?"

He thought that by helping her in the hotel, she would forgive his shamelessness that night. He even chased her to where she worked!

Alex stared at her coldly and shouted in a low voice, "Felix Laurent, Fia Laurent, get over here!"

With his berating, the two little fellows were extremely afraid.

One by one, they reluctantly walked over from Jessie's protective circle with their little heads buried, and weakly said, "Father."

Jessie became rigid when she called him father,

Alex took a step forward.

Jessie was so scared by his oppressive aura that she staggered backwards.

Alex's deep face was like a Northern Grade ice: "If you take another step closer to the two of them, you will never be able to bear the consequences!"

Jessie was stunned by his warning.

Alex grabbed a child with one hand and led them out of the coffee shop quickly.

His legs were long and the two little fellows were dragged by him. Along the way, they stumbled. From time to time, they looked back at Jessie and Fia's eyes were still filled with tears.

The glass door slammed shut again.

"Jessie, even deities and men have children? But what does the words he said to you mean?" A female shop assistant asked Jessie in puzzlement.

Jessie only came back to her senses and a wave of anger was born from it.

She suddenly pushed open the glass door and quickly chased after them. She immediately blocked in front of the man and angrily questioned, "What do you mean? Are you saying that I brought your children here? It is you, as a father, who is not responsible. You made the children have nowhere to go, and you came to the coffee shop to find me. I also called you right away, but you didn't pick up -."

Alex had already sent the children into the car and closed the car door. He turned around and interrupted her with a cold smile. "You deliberately approached them in the hospital. They only came to find you because you did them a favor. Aren't you scheming to get close to me again? Miss Jessie. I think you misunderstood something. I helped you get the house in front of your ex-husband in the hotel. It doesn't mean that I was interested in you. I just want Mr. Mike to leave a woman like you as soon as possible."

He sized Jessie up from head to toe with his cold gaze. He moved closer to her ear. The corners of his thin lips curled into a smile of contempt. "I had some accidents that night. Otherwise, I wouldn't have been interested in a woman like you at all! Apart from that night, under the circumstances, I didn't do anything to you, so you can imagine... How unattractive you are to men."

"You're shameless!" Jessie's face turned pale and her slender body trembled. She raised her hand and gave him a hard slap on the face.

1. Don't Ever Appear in front of Me and the Children Again
There's nothing more hurtful than his words.

If she did not hear it with her own ears, Jessie would not dare to believe that there would be such a despicable and detestable man in this world.

She seduced him?

He really could say it out loud!

This time, Alex did not stop her from slapping him.

A crisp sound.

The man was slapped by her, and his face became even darker. He stared at her fiercely for a few seconds and opened the car door. "Don't appear in front of me and the children again!"

The man entered the car and flung the car door open.

Very quickly, the car sped away.

Jessie was very angry and her tears rolled down.

Felix and Fia were in the car. Although they did not hear what their father said to Aunt Jessie, they could tell that their father was angry with her and even scolded Aunt Jessie to cry

They felt sorry

Felix took the risk to admit his mistake. "Dad, I'm sorry. It was me who did not tell Housekeeper Rian. I took Fia out. We took a taxi to the coffee shop to find Aunt Jessie. In the hospital, I took the initiative to look for Aunt Jessie and asked her to help Fia. I asked her for her phone number. Aunt Jessie is not a bad person."

Alex was surprised that his son, who had always been silent, actually explained so much to him for a strange woman.

Furthermore, Felix's intelligence was higher than that of his peers. He was only five years old, but he was very rational and had very strong ability to distinguish things.

Alex recalled her wronged and angry eyes just now, and there was a slight trace of regret in his heart that could not be seen.

But Felix and Fia had never taken the initiative to express goodwill to any young woman in the past. How could he have thought that they would be so bold? They dared to take a taxi to find Jessie!

In order to protect the dignity of a parent, he sneered coldly. "You are only five years old this year. You can't tell good from bad!"

Felix said seriously again, "She's really a good person! We went to look for her today. She knew we didn't tell our family and ran to her place. She called you immediately. It was you who rejected her call. She sent you a message. She was going to send us home. I wanted to stay with her for a while longer, so I lied to her that there was no one at home. That's why she asked us to stay at her workplace and wait for you to call back"

The more he explained, the clearer the pale face of the woman in Alex's mind, who was trying hard to hold back her tears, became. His heart was inexplicably disturbed. "Felix, be quiet!"

Felix did not dare to speak anymore. He quietly leaned back in the chair.

Fia saw that her brother was already so brave. She also straightened her small body and softly said, "Dad, can I go to the coffee shop to find Aunt Jessie in the future?"

"No!"

For some reason, Alex felt that he could not see that woman clearly. His judgment of people and projects had always been accurate, but only Jessie. He felt that he was not confident. As long as there was a trace of danger, he would not allow her to intervene in his family.

Fia's tears rolled down her cheeks when he shouted at her.

"Fia Laurent!" Alex's tone became stern.

Felix stuck his head forward and blinked. "Father, do you want me to coax little sister?"

Alex gave him a look.

Felix nodded. He took out a tissue from his bag and handed one to Fia. He coaxed, "Don't cry. Dad will allow you to find Aunt Jessie. Don't worry."

Alex was speechless.

Fia did not cry anymore. "Really?"

"Really! If you don't believe me, ask dad." Felix left the responsibility to his dad.

"Dad, you agreed?" The little girl was on the verge of tears. As long as her father dared to shake his head, she would burst into tears again.

Alex was speechless.

Felix said, "Dad didn't say he didn't agree, right?"

Alex's face darkened.

When did he say he agreed?

Fia blinked her teary eyes. "Dad didn't say anything."

Felix's official translation: "Silence means he agreed."

Fia stood up and stuck her head in front of Alex. She kissed Alex's cold face and a sweet smile appeared on her face. "Thank you, father!"

The tears on her face had not dried yet. Her tears had covered half of his face.

Alex had nothing to say.

Fortunately, the two children in the backseat finally regained their silence.

Mountain and River Residence.

Deep in the night, Alex, who was about to fall asleep, received a call from Rick, "Boss, I have found some information about Jessie. It has been sent to your email. I..."

"Do you have something else?" Seeing that Rick wanted to say something, Alex asked.

Rick scratched his head on the other end of the phone. "I'm just curious. Boss, why did you suddenly want to investigate Mike's ex-wife? Are you going to ban him?"

Alex frowned deeply. "I'm going to blacklist him?"

"Because he's too evil, that's why you're investigating his ex-wife. That's why you're able to find evidence and ban him." Rick thought that was boss's intention. Otherwise, he would not have gone to investigate such an inconspicuous woman if he was so busy.

Rick also guessed that Mike must have done something in front of Alex. He failed, which made boss angry. That was why he took the time to deal with him.

Otherwise, there were so many industries under the Mumen Group, and the MTC Entertainment had the elite management team selected by Alex to manage them. There was no need for him and president to personally do things like checking celebrities. "Do you think I'm very free these days?" Alex said coldly.

1. Like Mommy

Rick could sense the cold tone in Alex's voice. He felt a chill running down his spine. He immediately stood at attention. "No, no, I was wrong. Good night, Boss!"

Alex furrowed his brows, hung up the phone, and continued to sleep with his eyes closed.

However, Alex's mind could no longer calm down.

He took the phone again and opened the new email.

The information showed that Jessie had married Mike before graduating from university. After marriage, Mike entered the entertainment industry and developed. Jessie also did a few jobs at the same time. She also had to take care of Mike's half-paralyzed mother, Linda. Jessie used the money she earned from her work to buy a cheap house in the suburbs, and only paid off the loan the year before.

After Jessie and Mike divorced, the house was transferred to Linda's name by Mike. Furthermore, according to Rick's information. Now, the government wanted to develop the area where the house was located. The whole area would be bought by the government.

From this information, Jessie did not take a single cent of Mike's property after she and Mike divorced. She did not take a single cent from Mike and divorced him. However, Linda, Mike's mother even took away the house that Jessie earned, which was almost bought by the government.

In that case, Jessie was the final victim of Jessie and Mike's marriage....

That was why Jessie kept disturbing Mike. She wanted to ask Mike to return her property.

Mike knew that the value of the house would be unimaginably high soon, so he deliberately used a small house to fool Jessie.

And Jessie actually agreed just like that.

Did she not know that her house was going to be bought by the government? Or did she know, but would rather be cheated by Mike?

No matter what, she was completely stupid!

He remembered that he had read in some books that some women were born with special feelings and treated love with great importance. If a man had been rooted in her heart before, no matter how bad this man had become, he would still fail. It would be difficult to pull this man out of this woman's heart even after exhausting his entire life.

Could it be that Mike was such a person to Jessie?

Alex's expression instantly became very deep.

Alex pressed the phone screen. He put his arm behind his head and looked at the ceiling with a frown. He was not tired at all.

At two o'clock in the morning, Rick was woken up by the phone call.

"Send me a call from an IT department technician!" Alex's tone was calm.

Rick rubbed his eyes and looked at the time. He was surprised. "You haven't slept yet?"

"Send me the number, now!" Alex said.

Rick had the most complete information about all the departments in the group.

A few minutes later, Alex received the number.

He sent a deleted computer hard drive to the company and asked the technician to help restore the data overnight.

That day, he had the hotel monitoring room's on-call staff delete the hotel surveillance records from the night they were drugged and bring the surveillance hard drive back. He did it to prevent anyone from finding out that he had found another woman.

At this moment, he urgently wanted to know how reliable Jessie was when she said that she did not deliberately get close to him.

He wanted to see why she appeared at the door of his room that night and even knocked on his door, making him mistakenly think that she was the woman that old master arranged!

It was past three o'clock in the morning, and the data had been restored. Alex had the technician return and gave him an additional three days of paid leave.

When he returned to the silent president's office, Alex turned on the computer and pulled out the surveillance video from that night. He focused on the video.

Very quickly, the scene in corridor 1807 and 1808 appeared on the screen.

Alex watched the video from beginning to end. For some reason, he felt a little relieved.

He felt relieved when he saw that she really accidentally knocked into his room. He couldn't answer this question either.

This kind of unknown feeling annoyed him the most.

He had clearly strictly ordered the children not to look for that woman again. However, he actually made Rick, who had a heavy workload, specially investigate her information. He had worked through the night because of an email about her until now.

The next morning.

The nanny, Nanny Lisa, helped Fia put on her school uniform and combed her hair.

"Nanny Lisa, I'm not eating breakfast at home today." When the nanny tidied her up, Fia said straightforwardly.

"Not eating at home? Then what do you want to eat? I'll ask Driver Bart to buy it for you." Nanny Lisa asked her gently.

Fia carried her schoolbag on her back. "No! I want to eat it myself!"

"Where do you want to eat it?"

"Louisdin coffee shop."

"Do you want to go to the cafe you went to yesterday?" Bartasked.

Everyone in Mountain and River Residence knew that the siblings had eaten breakfast and dinner at the Louisdin coffee shop yesterday.

Fia thought of Jessie and revealed a sweet smile, "Yes, Aunt Jeje is there."

"Aunt Jeje? What kind of Aunt?" Nanny Lisa was very surprised. When this little kid grew up in old residence and was brought back to Mountain and River Residence by her father, Alex. He had changed her into many housekeepers and aunties, but Fia did not want any of them. In the end, Old Madam had no choice but to let Nanny Lisa, who had accompanied her for decades, take care of Fia. Nanny Lisa was the one who helped to bring Fia up. Seeing Nanny Lisa come over, she agreed.

Nanny Lisa had been here for more than three years and this was the first time she heard that Fia was familiar with an unfamiliar auntie. When Fia talked about it, she actually said, 'My Aunt Jeje'.

Fia's tone when mentioning Aunt Jeje was even more intimate than when she mentioned Nanny Lisa who had brought Fia along for five years.

"It's Aunt Jeje." Fia smiled happily and was a little shy. "Aunt Jeje is a little like my mommy. She likes me very much."
