

Be Honest! 151

Chapter 151 The Cradle Of Life

Dorian narrowed his eyes. "Over there... Land."

" _ "

Ajin's like twitched, while now understood the operation of this guy. Sure enough. This guy fitted in the category of people who didn't like wasting saliva, saying so many words in one sentence.

"Killnoff, over there."

The pilot was shocked.

"There? Are you sure?" You must know that this island is still ridden with wild bears, snakes, and all sorts of deadly beasts. That's why landing there, so close to a water source, is definitely not a good thing!"

Ajin thinned his lips. "I know. Why did you think that we brought tranquillizers?"

"But..."

"No buts... The big guy ordered it. And as ordered by the Marshal, we are to obey his orders... Though I do agree that they seem unreasonable."

Ajin tapped the pilot's shoulders to relieve the poor guy's tension and frustration.

"I, too, find it weird. And that's why I prefer you stay in the chopper, ready to take us out of here if the going gets tough."

Now, the lead pilot, Killnoff, was already slightly angered with Dorian's decision. But he didn't dare say anything, swallowing it all up, secretly curing him in his mind.

'Bloody son of a b**ch! You better pray that no one gets injured, or else I'll be the first to beat you black, blue, orange and even purple! Hmph!'

Killnoff gritted teeth before communicating with the rest of his pilot team, flying the other choppers.

"What? Is he crazy?"

"Terrible! Terrible! Who the hell would make such a decision?"

Killnoff felt the rage of the others but knew that there was nothing they could do about it.

"No quibbling. Take these babies down now!"

"Roger that!"

~Whoop. Whoop. Whoop. Whoop.~

Very slowly and vigilantly, the choppers began descending onto what seemed like an open hole close to the island's center.

From above, the entire design was like a key.

The spot they were descending onto, had an enormous circular gathering of water there.

This giant circular gathering of water could be considered the top part of the 'key.' The long bottom half would have to be the massive, deadly flow of water that left the gathering and rushed out of the island, being sandwiched between those 2 cliff sides on the North.

Of course, no doubt about it, all the little streams of water around the island were probably somehow connected to this spot.

One shouldn't forget the massive waterfall around the gathering too.

That is, one could say that this water spit should be the 'cradle of life' for a majority of water sources on the island, no?

In that case, understanding why the pilots and everyone else were so freaked out was easy to guess.

However, it was undeniable that to Ajin and a few others, their interest had once again been piqued by Dorian's move.

The boy didn't seem like a foolish person. And for his men to still remain calm and support his actions, further convinced him that the boy probably had a plan up his sleeves.

Then, what was he about to do?

~Whoop. Whoop. Whoop.~

With great focus and precision, the pilots all landed on the open region between the thick forest facing one side of their choppers, and the massive water surface facing the other side.

They ensured that they could fully see both sides, lest something creeps out of the water to attack them.

"Grandmaster... What's the plan?"

Dorian raised his brow lazily: "Come if you want to, stay if you don't." He shrugged before steadily out coolly. Of course, following him were Butler Sheng and Chan-ki.

Once again, Ajin was dumbfounded by this guy's speaking ability.

Bro... Are we fighting or something?

~Pff!

Mina glanced at her leader, trying not to burst out in laughter.

Aiyoo~~...

This was the first time she saw the leader meet his match.

You know, the Captain could also be in the category of the 'domineering president' in terms of his attitude. In a way, he was a little bit like the youngster, though more outspoken.

No! It could be seen that before today, they thought they knew what 'domineering President meant.' But now, they understood.

The youngster's entire demeanor made them want to bow before him. It was hard to explain, but even a simple act of crossing his legs looked so elegant, as though they were watching some ancient monarch.

Tsk. The boy was definitely an eye-opener for them.

Well, this wasn't surprising, given his identity and his upbringing.

Who knows... Maybe this was how all wealthy kids were trained.

Ajin glanced at the subordinate in the chopped with him with a cold stare, choking her with her swallowed laughter.

"I see you've been too free of late"

"No. No. No, sir... I, I.."

"Save it! When we get back, triple training for you!" He said, taking out his walkie-talkie. "All ground units move out! Sanchu, your unit will stay back and protect the choppers and pilots. The rest of you, protect the Grandmaster!"

"Right!" They replied, stepping out of the choppers hastily.

Ajin glanced at his second in command, Mina, with his face still cold as ice.

"Let's go."

The duo also jumped out of the Chopper, keeping a close distance from Dorian and his gang.

All this time, Dorian had been standing on the open brown sandy path, starting at the ground deeply.

Eh?

Everyone stared at the ground in confusion but still kept their vigilance up.

Look up, down, around...

Sure enough, they could see several black images hidden between the forest trees.

Island's primary Water source equalled a large gathering of beasts.

Bubuum. Bubuum.

Their hearts went chaotic.

And amidst the heavy air, they quickly reached for their tranquillizers, ready to take action.

Soon, it wasn't just their front that seemed to be the issue, as something was also swishing vigorously in the waters.

Dammit!

These beats had got them surrounded!

"Everyone, get back into the Choppers! Grandmaster, we have to go... We... Grandmaster?"

(×_×)

Amidst the anxious and heavily tensed group, Dorian began walking ahead as though he was blind to the dangers around him.

Ajin swiftly glanced at Butler Sheng, seeing him as calm as the river.

Who am I? What am I? Where am I?

Could it be that they had been escorting a bunch of crazy people all this time?

Chapter 152 Good Spot!

Crazy! Crazy! This guy definitely had a few screws loose in his head.

Ajin and everyone else stared at Dorian's silhouette with an unfathomable faze.

Even Chan-ki, who filled beside Butler Sheng, had to give the duo several obvious glances as if asking them if they were insane.

Lying trough. Could they have come here to a suicide wish?

Seeing Butler Sheng just standing there calmly made Chan-ki both nervous and suspicious. He felt that he was one step closer to the truth of their weird behaviors. It was also because of this that he tried to stand firm... though at a close range to Butler Sheng.

Additionally, his hand couldn't help reaching for his dagger too. Even though he couldn't see what creatures were constantly moving and lurking around the forest surrounding them, the swishing sounds showed that they should be big ones.

Moreover, he could also see several glowy eyes scattered within the forest from various angles.

What were they? This... This was definitely not good.

And Ajin, who had been tasked with keeping the target safe, quickly gritted his teeth at Dorian.

"Forgive me, Grandmaster. But if you don't move, I'll have no choice but to yank you over. Pilots, keep the choppers running; we're coming in hot!"

With great vigor, Ajin stepped forward, flexing all his muscles in an attempt to yank this death-seeking bastard away from the scene.

Now, he couldn't help wondering if Old Gia had asked them to escort this guy in order to keep him alive from his suicidal thoughts.

F***! What sort of mission had he undertaken?

Mina also stepped behind Butler Sheng, ready to use force too.

Don't look at her physique of being a woman and think that she wouldn't be able to drag him off.

With great determination, the duo stretched their hands forth.

But before they could even touch their targets, several beasts had already leaped out from behind the thick trees, springing towards them like crazy.

~Brumm! Brumm! Brumm! Brumm!~

Everyone's face turned grim.

Moon bears! It was a family of moon bears!

Moon bears or white-chested bears looked like blacks that wore white collars across their necks, leading down to the upper chests.

But although they are usually shy and cautious, they were generally more aggressive towards humans than other bears.

Once they decided to attack, there was no stopping them!

Additionally, it wasn't just the moon bears that made a move.

They also saw 2 white tigers leaping forward as well. Of course, several other creatures decided to sit back in the shadows and continue watching the show.

Dammit!

This was precisely what they were afraid of!

Now, it was too late to flee. They had to take the shot and tranquilize the incoming creatures fast!

With their targets on lock, Ajin, Mina and a few others were ready to take the shot.

However, before they could pull the trigger, something jaw-dropping happened right before their eyes.

Dorian, tilted go head to the side and stared at them coldly.

"Sit."

Bam!

....

Everyone watched the beasts sit in fear like little kittens, on my feeling they were no longer in the same world anymore.

This... This... Excuse me, but why did it seem like they had just entered the wrong movie set?

(0_0)

Blink. Blink.

You look at me, I look at you. You look at the obedient beats, I look at the tranquillizer in your hands.

To see is to believe.

Everyone was just too dumbfounded and speechless by what had just transpired.

Where were the vicious and saliva-drooling creatures from earlier on? Where did they go?

This couldn't be blamed on them because the moment Dorian opened his eyes murderous, the animals quickly humbled themselves, not daring to move an inch.

As for how he domesticated them so fast, that would be his secret, no?

First of all, animals were also spiritual, with some who, oddly enough, used to be humans in their past lives.

The rebirth cycle was endless, and some were undergoing divine punishment in this way.

Dorian shrugged, not intending to explain anything to anyone.

And at this moment, Chan-ki couldn't help looking at Dorian in shock and awe.

F***! Who can tell him why the young master suddenly became a protagonist in an action movie?

Ajin swallowed dryly, unable to wet his throat from the shock alone. Very quickly, he gave his team a firm nod.

With that, they lowered their weapons ever so slowly. Will a person who can do this be ordinary? Now they more or less understood what was special about this guy.

For him to drop down here meant that he was talented enough. So could it be that he was a licensed wildlife rescuer and tamer?

They furrowed their brows even more.

There were so many doubts about the matter too.

They had never heard of any tamer who could do it. Such a feat was more of a fairytale thing instead.

However, to them, there was probably some logical explanation to it all.

So preferred to believe that it could all be explained logically than to believe in any hocus-pocus fantasy stuff.

Thinking like this, Ajin felt that his actions earlier might've been too much.

With a firm stand, placing his hands behind his back and his head lowered, she couldn't help stepping forward.

"Grandmaster, forgive my incompetence."

"Hmmm... I do not mind."

"Thank you, Grandmaster!"

"Hmmm," Dorian replied, turning his attention to the obedient creatures who had now withdrawn their fangs and elongated claws. "Come."

The creatures obeyed and moved forward amidst everyone's vigilant gaze.

However, this time, no one acted against them, knowing that Dorian could tame and command them like dogs.

Like so, the gang moved across the scene, with Dorian looking downwards from time to time.

And during this time, no other creatures seem to move out to attack them.

Of course, a few other creatures did try to sneak up on them, but the beasts were driven away by the bears and the white tigers.

Everyone could only smile wryly, seeing that they had somehow managed to recruit animal bodyguards too.

And soon enough, Dorian stopped at a certain point and nodded in satisfaction.

Moist, bright, good spot that collects wind too. The Feng Shui in this region was perfect!

['Host, it is indeed a perfect spot.']

'Good. Then it's time. But first, I'll clean up the air... There's something in the water.'

Chapter 153 Something In The Water?

Dorian narrowed his eyes, looking at the water thoughtfully. And following his gaze, everyone else also stared at the water in confusion.

Could it be that he saw something?

Seeing Dorian advance towards the water, Ajin quickly raised his tranquillizer vigilantly. But like a shadow, Butler Sheng suddenly appeared before him.

"Everyone, please take several steps back. Chan-ki, you stand here."

"Yes, brother Sheng," Chan-ki replied, feeling the tension in the air.

Could it be that there was some deadly predator swimming in the water?

Ajin and the rest wanted to step closer to Dorian but had no choice but to stand still. Butler Sheng's actions showed that there would be no room for maneuvering.

The animals also sat obediently around them, not daring to touch them.

Chan-ki's eyes kept darting between Dorian and Butler Sheng, dying to know what this was all about.

With a low chuckle, Butler Sheng decided to free him from his thoughts and anxiety, while slowly reaching for his great pocket, just in case.

"Chan-ki, you spent your time in the ward, so it's only natural that you don't know how great the Grandmaster is."

Oh?

Ears perked to heaven, Ajin and his men couldn't help listening in on the conversation.

The juicy intel they were listening to was too sweet to pass up.

The compliments from the butler were very high. His time and even his manner of speaking could make a person think this boy... This Tian boy, who should be broke, was some high-ranking leader.

The information they gathered vastly differed from what they saw and how Butler Sheng was describing the boy.

More than that, the title Grandmaster had long piqued their interest too. And it looks like soon enough, they'll be able to get all the pieces of the puzzle and successfully crack the code.

Ahin thinned his lips, focusing his attention on Butler Sheng's words.

As for Chan-ki, he too wanted to know what the mystery was about... Though he was getting nervous the more Butler Sheng talked.

Additionally, what was up with the thin rectangular pieces of paper he saw Butler Sheng bring out.

Lying trough. Was anyone ever going to explain things to him?

(YwY)

"Chan-ki... Do you remember what the Grandmaster said in the ward last time?"

Chan-ki looked to the ground in deep thought before nodding vigorously. "Yes! Yes, brother Sheng. I do... But what does that have to do with this situation?"

"Chan-ki's... As the Grandmaster said, our Tian family has a secret mission and job in this world."

Boom!

Everyone's ears jolted in warning, already guessing so many hidden, uncovered scenarios that the Tian family could be involved with.

Could it be that they were some secret undercover organization? Could they be involved in some top-secret research plan? Or were they involved with finding ancient artifacts?

Remembering how the boy could tame these beasts, maybe it had something to do with his skills instead.

No wonder!~... No wonder Marshall Gia would do so much for them.

Ajin and many others were quick to develop so many plot twists and plot armor for why Dorian's situation was different from what the public knew.

However, Butler Sheng's following words made them choke in disbelief.

"Chan-ki, what if I told you that our enemies were neither mortal nor animal?"

-silence-

"~Pff!... Hahahahaha~~" Chan-ki and a few others cracked up.

Aiyo~

Why didn't they notice that this Butler was so funny?

Mina laughed so hard that tears had already begun forming at the corners of her eyes.

Everyone thought it was a joke... until they realized how unchanged Butler Sheng's expression was.

Ajin couldn't help being taken aback.

"Excuse, Mr. Sheng, you can't be serious, right?"

Yes. Yes... How absurd would that be?

"~HahahahaAH---..."

Everyone suddenly stopped laughing, feeling that something was alright.

As for Butler Sheng, he casually struggled while doing what the Grandmaster had commended, telepathically.

~Swish!

Butler Sheng threw the papers in his hands. And maybe it was their imagination, but they swore that the wind had magically sent these papers around them in a very organized manner.

Brother Sheng nodded while standing outside the formation.

Everyone, including the animals, were all in there. And Butler Sheng was standing opposite to them.

They didn't understand what was happening but stood still according to his orders.

Nonetheless, his actions did indeed arouse their curiosity.

The enemy wasn't human or animal, so what exactly was it?

For some reason, they started feeling uneasy and uncertain. It wouldn't be what they were thinking of, right?

Butler Sheng nodded in satisfaction at his work.

[Grandmaster, it's done.]

And with this, Butler Sheng was quick to take a battle stance, causing everyone within the formation to turn vigilant.

"Brother Sheng! Brother Sheng! What the hell is going on?"

"No time to talk. Just watch, and you'll understand. However, you're all safe in there."

Eh?

In where?

Butler Sheng was speaking their language. Separately, each sentence made sense. But when put together, no one could understand what he was saying.

However, before they had time to make heads or tails on the matter, they saw something completely unbelievable happen right before their eyes.

"Oh my God! Leader, leader, look!... Look at the Grandmaster!"

~Tap.

Dorian placed his foot on the water.

~Tap. Tap.

He placed his other foot, and soon, he began walking on water like an immortal.

This... This...

Boeing!

Everyone's eyes almost popped out of their sockets, with widened mouths of shock.

"God! I think my eyes have a problem with them. How can I hallucinate in the middle of the day?"

"If you say you're hallucinating or dreaming, then could it be that we all managed to enter the same dream somehow too?"

"F***! Pinch me; this can't be real!"

"Mommy... A real-life immortal!"

Chan-ki almost went down to his knees, wanting to bow and kowtow in awe.

All hail the Grandmaster! All hail, the Grandmaster!

Chapter 154 F***! What Is That?!!!

Grandmaster! Grandmaster!

Everyone on land gazed at Dorian's silhouette in awe. Of course, their brain cells were still trying to fully understand how any of this was possible.

Some exclaimed to express themselves, while others began pinching themselves in a trance.

Of course, some also stared at the scene in silence, wondering whether they were still in the same world anymore.

Maybe they had just entered a mysterious time portal, taking them to a parallel world instead.

Shocking!... Too shocking!

~Tap. Tap. Tap. Tap. Tap.~

Dorian advanced calmly, seeing all the creatures swimming underneath his feet.

Some giant ones tried to attack him but quickly took to their heels the moment he glanced at them.

Mommy... They should've already taken the hint that a human who could walk on water wasn't normal.

Dorian walked towards the dangerous and heavy flowing waterfall, stopping directly opposite it.

It was strange to say that all the water that should've been splashing onto Dorian seemed to bounce right back, leaving him dry.

[Host, after killing them, you don't have to worry about purifying the place. After you've found a spot to properly bury the Holy core Vein, the entire island will get cleansed of any evil qi hovering around. Provided the root cause (creatures) are destroyed, then leave the rest to this system.]

'Hmmm...' Dorian replied.

And with a single stomping move, he created a hole underneath his feet that went straight from to the very, very, far bottom.

Pup!

He fell below, leaving those watching alarmed and anxious.

Something wouldn't have grabbed the Grandmaster, right?

They hadn't seen the hole underneath his feet. So of course they got worried for him... Especially Ajin, whose task was to 'escort' Dorian.

'Bullets! Bullets!... I have to get the bullets in the chopper!'

Old Gia had told them to carry tranquillizers rather than bullets. They only thought that he said that so they wouldn't be killing any protected animals... Which was a crime.

But how would they have known that Old Gia was saying it because bullets had no effect on whatever Dorian was always up against?

Bullets... Bullets.

He had to throw these damn tranquillizers away and take out the big guns!

After all, desperate times called for desperate measures, and he was not about to lose a life while on the job!

Thinking like this, the brave Ajin quickly reacted, planning to leap for the choppers speedily.

How ere, why did things, not to the way he thought they would?

~Bang!!!

He smashed his head on something and fell backwards amidst everyone's confused stares.

"Leader!" Mina cried. "Leader, are you alright? What in science's name happened?"

(?~?)

Everyone saw him fall but didn't see what had attacked him. How very bizarre.

"I'm fine," Ajin said, massaging his forehead freely.

They couldn't understand what was going on, but he seemed to have guessed it.

"Mina, everyone, I seemed to have run into a wall. Stretch your hands, move outwards, and you'll understand what I mean."

Everyone was baffled but still did as they were told, leading to an even more shocking scene.

Gasp!

He was right! They were surrounded by invisible walls.

Hands on the invisible walls, many turned speechless with wonder.

Magic. Magic... It was definitely magic!

Chan-ki was the most surprised, trying to determine whether Butler Sheng and the ret were aliens or immortal.

Lying trough. Why was it that the more he saw, the less he understood?

WHAT EXACTLY DID THEIR TIAN FAMILY DO?

But wait, why would they be trapped here while Butler Sheng and Dorian weren't?

1, 2... Click.

The light bulbs in their minds went on, and they instantly understood the duo's intentions.

No doubt about it, the duo had done this to protect them. But from what?

~Brrmmmm!

A loud sound suddenly echoed out from the hole that Dorian had descended through.

And the next thing they knew it, they saw something gigantic Irish out of the water, dashing towards them like crazy.

~Blugh!

Everyone, with no exception, had a strong urge to puke. Some people's faces even began turning green from disgust.

~Brawwww~~~

The creature screamed, gliding on top of the water at full speed.

And the closer it got, the more horrifying it looked.

It was a worm the size of a shark that had over 5 round razor-toothed mouths, 2 long hands with no longs.

It swam in a zig-zag manner, rating its body from time to time.

~Oow oow... Argh... Grrw... Oow oow~

The forest creatures who had long been hiding and watching, all hastily fled for their dear lives.

The entire scene happened just like an epic movie!

The birds flew, trees rustled, the ground rumbled from the stomping fleeing creatures, and all sorts of sounds echoed out simultaneously.

Likewise, the creatures within the water weren't slow either.

The money they sensed the evil wi, they took off speedily in all directions. Some who could walk on land also escaped, wanting heartily.

F***! No creature thought of using this opportunity to catch any prey.

Get out, get out!

That was their first instinct.

And it wasn't just them, as even those trapped in the formation wanted to risk it all and make for the hills.

Monster! Monster! Monster!!

Mina's legs quaked and wobbled in absolute fright, as she now realized how frozen she was.

One step back, one step to the side.

Her legs were so confused, as though both wanted to flee in separate directions.

She felt cold, yet her palms were warm and sweaty.

And now, just one thought thundered repeatedly in her mind.

They... They were going to die, weren't they.

~Brawwww~!

The creature's body emerged from tile to tile above the water, moving like a snake and rolling towards them with everything it had.

But while many were too terrified to move, Butler Sheng only moved his head left to right, cracking his bones.

"Well, big fella... you aren't as ugly as the rest."

(:YoY:)

Everyone who heard him had no tears but wanted to cry.

Was he trying to say there were uglier things out there than this?

Several people's eyes rolled to the back of their heads just picturing it.

Fake! Fake!

How can such a thing be true?

Chapter 155 Not Good!

With full force, the creature charged at Butler Sheng with all its might.

Ready, set, go!

~Bam!

The creature slammed its face on the invisible wall, causing maggots and all sorts of nasty crawling things to splatter on the sides.

And this time, everyone threw up with no exception, wishing they could unplug their eyes from their sockets, smash them onto the ground before burning them over a furnace.

Dammit! What sort of picture was now burnt into their minds?

Get it out! Get it out! Get it out!~

Even the bears began growling and having their hands over their eyes in disgust.

That is, have you ever seen animals puke?

Chan-ki looked at the white tiger puking beside him, patting it on the shoulder in understanding. 'Brother, you can't take it too? Come, brother... Let's throw up together.'

[White Tiger]: (:Y^Y:)

Blugh~

The puke festival began, with everyone feeling both disgust and fear deeply rooted in them.

The fear that such things existed in the world was too great, making them doubt their lives.

The air was tense with worry, as many fretted not just for their lives but also for the Grandmaster's and Butler Sheng's.

Oh no! The Grandmaster had been dragged into the water long ago, and Butler looked like a baby next to the giant creature.

~Swish!

Butler Sheng jumped high into the air a few seconds before the creature smashed itself into the wall.

[Sheng, locate the green stone on its body and focus your attacks there. It's only 49 years old... So I expect you to be able to handle it.]

['Yes, Grandmaster.']

~Thup. Thup. Thup.

Like lightning, Butler Sheng threw several talismans on random parts on the creature's body.

And with that, he began to say the only spell he began mastering today. It was the first and lowest level spell.

To get the instructions, call upon the heavens and deal with the creature would take a newbie time to master with no hitch.

Say or pronounce even a single word wrong, and something could go wrong instead.

Grrwww~

The creature shook, turned and rolled its worm-like body after smacking the invisible wall.

And before it knew it, Butler Sheng had begun the 'freezing spell' to keep it in place.

'Holy energy, called upon... Shwshwshwshw~'

1, 2... 1, 2...

He repeated the same hand motions, severally, though he was too slow and did it as though he were counting sheep.

Boom!

Butler Sheng felt his mulches bulge in this comment, as a warm feeling and light seemed to descend from the heavens.

What?!

Butler Sheng's eyes began to enlarge at the dazzling scene before him.

Chains!

Several very thin golden chains descended from above, pinning the creature via the talismans he placed on it.

F***! F***! F***!

Was this what the Grandmaster saw every time he pinned creatures down?

(°0°)

This... This... This was too unbelievable!

Though frail and dainty, his chains still held down the retire, maybe because it was a weakling. A mere measly 49-year-old creature.

Had it been a stronger one, Butler Sheng's chains wouldn't have done anything to it.

Again, he knew he was weak because his chains were as thin as a single hair strand.

If not for the fact that his vision had improved after breaking through his mortal shell, he would've honestly never seen them as chains.

Of course, the binding spell he was using was just one out of many.

Make no mistake; there were universal spells that could work on any and every creature.

But, specific ones would do the job faster and quicker depending on what creature one was targeting.

That said, exorcism didn't require one to know everything. At every level, one must pass the requirements to advance to the next exorcism rank.

They needed to know particular numbers of spells in the many categories.

Whether it was binding spells, actual exorcism spells, defence spells, levitating spells, possession-seeking spells... Exorcists were requested to know a specific number of general and individual spells the higher they climbed.

At least for binding spells, No-rank exorcists were supposed to know a minimum of 4 universal ones and 2 specific ones; either water-based, fire-based, or something like that.

Again, it was important to know that spell learning was different from alchemy, formation creation, etc.

In short, the road to being a damn good exorcist was challenging and tasking.

And any who aren't prepared to study and master the craft won't be able to stand the heat.

Everyone saw that the creature seemed to be in pain, understanding that those small papers might be the cause of it all.

What?!

,m Chan-ki was in awe from the live-action movie before him.

"Hahahahahaha~ I know him... I know him... That's my brother! That's my brother Sheng!"

"Way to go, Mr. Sheng. Grab it by the horns and show it who's boss!" Mina added, almost crying from glee.

"Gruuuw~grugrugru~"

The animals were alert, pacing left to right and right to left in jubilation too.

Ajin and the others also felt like jumping and cheering Butler Sheng for getting this far.

To be honest, the moment the creature charged for them, their bodies couldn't even run or react from shock alone.

So wouldn't they have been dead by now?

Their faces turned pale, shuddering in horror whenever they thought of the scene.

What trained military? They couldn't even handle this, yet they dared to be proud about being trained military personnel?

Of course, now they had a deep fear for water instead.

Lying trough. How were they to enjoy an ordinary beach vacation anymore?

Forget it! They would like to stay on land, okay?

Like so, everyone was feeling overly excited, some even getting tempted to cry in glee after seeing Butler Sheng magically pin it down.

It was just that since they couldn't see the golden chains, they didn't know how much danger Butler Sheng was actually in.

'Shwshwshwshwshw... Shah!-'

Butler Sheng opened his eyes grimly.

He said it wrong... NOT GOOD!
