

Be Yours 1061

Chapter 1061 That Was Good Enough for Him

Evan put on a troubled expression. "I'm sorry. I shouldn't have made you come home over nothing."

"Evan, please don't say that. I moved here to take care of you in the first place," Jenny comforted him. As for Alec...well, someone else would take care of him.

Evan's heart was bursting with joy, but his emotion wasn't reflected on his face. 'I was asking Howard if I made the wrong decision in letting you move in. You have a life, and it's unfair for you to waste your time on a useless man like me."

She seemed to disagree with him on that. 'Evan, you should never refer to yourself in that way. You're not useless! Yes, I moved in with you, but I still go to work every day. My life hasn't changed. And Howard is the one who's taking care of you mostly." Although she wasn't close to Howard, she could tell he was extremely loyal to Evan.

must have affected you in some way. That makes me feel bad." He he blamed himself, the more upset she felt. "Evan, I would have been dead if it were not for you.

about...you and Alec?" he finally blurted out. He muttered with a painful smile when she sank into silence, "You would have Alec because she had chosen to move in and take care of Evan. No man would be fine with about that for now.

"Jenny..."

that's enough. You need rest," she cut him off, but more so because she struggled to answer his hypothetical questions. Without the kidnapping, Evan wouldn't have been bound to a wheelchair, and she would her, he was satisfied with her answer. One thing was for

Chapter 1062 Call Me a Busybody

Alec thought he could hide the truth from Jenny if he didn't use his study at home. Little did he know that Jenny could see the light from his bedroom even though she didn't have a direct view from her bedroom.

Without hesitation, she called him.

"Jenny, what's wrong?" He jumped a little when he saw the incoming call but calmed down before picking up.

"Alec, where are you now?" she seethed. He silently gulped, thinking, "Is she back at the hospital?" That was unlikely to happen because Evan wouldn't let her leave after getting her to return.

With that in mind, he tried his best to keep himself together. "Why? Are you in the hospital?"

"No. I'm home," she replied.

He felt relieved knowing she probably didn't learn about his discharge. He said, "I'm at the hospital. Why? Do you want to keep me company?" He told a bare-faced lie without fear since they were talking over the phone.

smirked. "Really? Did you not sneak out of the course I didn't. Since I'd promise you to take care of my health, I will never do anything irresponsible," Alec bluffed confidently. Jenny would have fallen for the lie if she "Alec, do you take me as a fool? Who turned to turn off the lights. It was such a hypocrite. Why are you kicking up all these troubles?" She huffed as she choked on her face to picture her being angry. "Jenny, I didn't like staying at did not believe in a word he uttered. "Are you telling me

"Yeah." He nodded.

"Alec Faust!" she bellowed.

at home." Since he never caught any serious illness, he never needed to words and said sarcastically, "Oh, shall I hire a family to check on me." He believed that he'd recover in

"Alec, I'm not joking with you. If you can't be

"Jenny..."

Chapter 1063 Go to the OB/GYN if You're Pregnant

"Yes, ma'am," Alec answered obediently like a schoolboy. Feeling defeated, she nagged him a bit and hung up.

He put his phone away and decided to let loose since Jenny had learned the truth. He marched into his study, turned on the lights, and started working.

Then, his phone chimed as a text arrived. He checked the text-it was from Jenny. "Rest early!"

He lifted his gaze and saw her standing by her window, staring right at him. He had no choice but to leave the study. This time, he went to rest in the bedroom instead of working. He wasn't mad at her for being controlling; he was glad she cared about him. She wouldn't have spent her time keeping a check on him otherwise.

He swiftly drifted into sleep with the lovely thought. That night, he had a pleasant dream.

his condition. She felt more assured after learning that he was fine. He had age on his side, but everyone would eventually age. Once again, she her patients. To her surprise, her first patient of the day was a familiar face. She stared at Marigold Wagner, looking a advised, "Go to the OB/GYN especially when Jenny was the doctor on the shift. She would have picked a different date if she had she put on a serious face. "When did the then. Now, it's gotten out of hand." While explaining, Marigold held bad feeling about the symptom. A headache was either a sign of serious underlying issues for a checkup, she directed her gaze at the baby bump." I'd suggest a brain CT scan, but you're pregnant now. The scan Chapter 1064 Who's the Father?

"That's possible too.' Jenny didn't write off Marigold's guess. Still, when she noted the exhaustion on Marigold's face, she advised, "You're pregnant now. Just rest well and do not overthink."

"I know, but I can't stop myself." Marigold smiled bitterly. She wouldn't have suffered if she could get a grip on herself. She had to overcome the mental barrier on her own.

Even Jenny, the doctor, could not offer much help. 'TH prescribe some pills that won't affect your pregnancy,' she said.

"Thank you,' Marigold expressed her gratitude.

Jenny glanced at her and commented, "You've changed a lot." She remembered Marigold's character vividly in the past. Now, Marigold seemed to have shed her signature smugness.

by the sudden remark, but soon, she broke into a smile. "Well, had no idea what Marigold went through, and the woman had no way to give Jenny the detail. While prescribing the medicine, Jenny casually asked, "Who's the father? Is he the rich guy you a mindless question, but too much about the reaction and added absentmindedly, "When's

Jenny finally realized the complexity

Marigold wanted to reveal the details behind the pregnancy, but she knew the father would likely want an in the dark about Marigold's situation, but she could tell that there were a lot of heavy secrets behind the pregnancy.

something major. Soon, the next patient entered the room, and Jenny was thrown into the

Then, she spent a long time by the pulled up beside her when she arrived on the street to hail a cab. Paul emerged from the car with an Chapter 1065 Don't Paul Me!

Marigold finally panicked at that moment. She struggled with all her might. "I'm not getting an abortion! Paul, let me have the baby. You're capable enough and won't need to rely on my arranged marriage for power. Just let me raise the baby alone," she wailed and sobbed.

Paul's expression hardened, but at least he stopped dragging her into the hospital. "Yeah, I do not need to arrange a marriage for you. But have you considered the consequences of having the baby? You'll be the brunt of the joke, and that's going to be tough. Are you sure you can handle that?"

Even though the Wagners were not the most influential, they raised Marigold as a princess, and she never encountered any major obstacles in her life. Her claim that she'd raise a child as a single mother was an absolute joke.

She straightened her back and said in all seriousness, "I can."

you need to tell me who is the father, so I can decide last straw for him. "If you're not telling, we're not keeping the baby!" Then, he started dragging her into the and guts to carry out his threat. "Paul, if I tell went blank as she sank into despair. He threatened her again when she refused to tell, "Do you think I can't get to the bottom of it? I can else. And don't give him trouble. I willingly keep the baby, and he doesn't even know about rising again.

pregnancy. And truth be told, she was happy about the baby. Although Gilbert hated her, she decided to come home after couldn't stop herself from tailing them for a bit. She yearned to see the man and even flirted with her urge to tell him reveal her pregnancy when he met with her without attempting to conceal

Chapter 1066 You Won't Be Disappointed

Marigold understood the reason for his concern. "I have never intended to use the child to keep him by my side. I just wanted to keep the child for myself."

Even if she couldn't be with Gilbert, she'd be satisfied with giving birth to his child and raising the baby. When the child grew up, she'd be witnessing a tiny Gilbert in the making, which would be a source of satisfaction and accomplishment.

Unfortunately, Paul didn't share the same sentiment. "You're hopeless!"

"Paul, you promised me." She glanced at him with teary eyes, hoping that her brother would not find trouble with Gilbert.

After some deep thinking, he asked her to get into his car. "I'll drive you home."

the entire journey in silence. She wrongly believed that Paul would keep the pregnancy a would not let pregnant with Gilbert's child, he'd want Gilbert to take full responsibility. The question was how, and Paul needed time to the office. Instead, he started smoking at the the blink of an eye. After Jenny was done seeing patients, she was about to have lunch at the cafeteria.

That was the time she received to Paul, especially after learning that and smiled. "I'm in the cafe across from the hospital.

begging her to talk to Stephanie. She would never agree

This has nothing to do with Stephanie," Paul added, much to need to meet up." She needed lunch

Chapter 1067 Gilbert's Child

When Jenny met Paul, he had already ordered a cup of coffee for himself, as if he was confident she would come.

"Okay, what's the matter?" Jenny sat down across from him. Not in the mood to talk, she was eagerly waiting for their conversation to end so she could return to lunch.

Paul glanced at her. He wasn't put off by her attitude. After all, the two of them had always been like that, as they couldn't stand each other. After taking a sip of coffee, he asked, "Did you know that Marigold is pregnant?"

Jenny was taken aback. "I do."

"You knew?" Paul frowned.

"Well, when she visited me in the morning, she told me she had a headache. However, she refused a brain CT scan because she was pregnant, so I prescribed some painkillers for her." Jenny didn't think she had any reason to hide it from Paul.

shocked Paul, and it took him a while father wouldn't accept. Paul couldn't understand why she planned to see the pregnancy remained silent, Jenny asked, "Why did you look for me? If it's about Marigold, then it has nothing to do with nothing to do with you?" Paul was angry couldn't tell why. "Of course not? Why cold gaze on

Jenny couldn't figure out why Paul was telling her all that, nor did she care. She wasn't interested in whatever went hard look and asked, "Who do you think him she didn't know. However, due to the look in his eyes, and before Jenny could answer, he said, 'It seems that speak but couldn't form any

Chapter 1068 You Know Best How Gilbert Is

"Even if she likes Gilbert, it doesn't prove the child is his, right? If it is his, don't you think he would acknowledge the child?" Jenny didn't believe Gilbert was so heartless.

However, Paul seemed amused by her words. "You know best how Gilbert is. If he doesn't like a woman, would he marry her? I bet Gilbert would force Marigold to abort the child if he finds out she's pregnant.'

Jenny was about to say that it was impossible, but thinking about it carefully, she knew it was very likely. Chewing on her lip, she was at a loss for words.

After a long silence, she finally asked, "So, what do you want?" Regardless of whether it was true, she had to figure out what Paul was after.

"It's simple. I want Gilbert to marry Marigold. He must be responsible for his actions." He wasn't trying to cause trouble for Gilbert. However, since Marigold insisted on giving birth to the child, the least he could do was ensure that the child would have a father.

make any promises on Gilbert's behalf." I'll need to investigate whether find out it's true, you'd better convince Gilbert to marry Marigold. Otherwise, I don't know refused to marry Marigold after finding out that she was pregnant, Paul would thoughts were a jumbled mess. She returned to the hospital without even having lunch. When she arrived at her office, she had someone

he had been injured by his on, but there were still patients to see in the afternoon, so her early arrival. 'Jenny, why did you come back so early today? Have you completed all your duties at the ask you a question," Jenny

good mood,

asked, "Did something happen between Gilbert and Marigold when he was

Chapter 1069 He Will Not Marry Her

"Marigold is pregnant." Jenny didn't hide it from Evan. She didn't think there was a need to, as everyone would know sooner or later.

The revelation stunned Evan. Uncertain, he asked, "Is the child Gilbert's?"

"Yeah." Jenny nodded.

Evan found it rather unbelievable. When he finally recovered from the shock, he asked Jenny, "Gilbert probably doesn't know yet, right?"

If he knew, he wouldn't be so calm.

"Not yet. I don't know if I should tell him." She was even more uncertain about how to break the news to Gilbert.

that Gilbert should marry Marigold. She wouldn't have been bothered if Gilbert and Marigold had only slept together. After all, they were probably won't marry Marigold.

Marigold to abort the child?" Jenny asked. If that were the nodded. "I think instead of trying to make Gilbert marry Marigold, you should try suggestion shocked Jenny. Never had she expected Evan to say it would be good for Marigold to cut would rather die than marry a woman they with Evan. Jenny decided she needed a second to Stephanie, her friend had never been married and had less experience than Jade. In comparison, Jade was a mistake, so he should take responsibility!" Jade immediately her. She shouldn't have assumed that Jade would be more mature

Chapter 1070 The Trap

After a brief silence, Jade finally said, "Why don't you talk to Gilbert about it? What if he agrees? He's not young anymore, so he must have thought about getting married a long time ago."

In Jade's opinion, Gilbert was still not married because no one was bugging him about it, as his grandfather had passed away, and he was an orphan too.

Jenny also understood that she had to tell Gilbert about the pregnancy, whether he wanted to hear it or not. They had to find a solution to the problem.

After hanging up, Jenny called Zack.

"Zack, did you already know about Gilbert and Marigold?"

Now that she was aware, it finally struck her how many holes there were in Gilbert's story. Hence, she assumed that Zack also knew.

Hearing her accusation, Zack instinctively felt defensive. "Jenny, I didn't intend to keep it from you, but Gilbert told me not to tell you."

was exasperated. If Marigold weren't pregnant, she wouldn't be worrying about it, but the situation was dare to refute Jenny. "You already know about the affair they had abroad, but I also thin

For some reason, Zack felt that something pregnant," Jenny

time to recover. Jenny wasn't a long time, Zack stammered and asked, do you think?" If it wasn't Gilbert's, why would she be it be that Marigold got pregnant with another man's child and is pushing the responsibility onto clinging to Gilbert before. Such Paul who told me. It can't be fake." Recalling how Marigold had acted at the hospital, did he say? We still need to confirm it go directly to Gilbert for confirmation?" Jenny asked. She had already obtained Marigold's conception date, so she just needed to find Gilbert to confirm if it was his