Chapter 1111 Did You Notice Anything Strange Around Here?

The city wasn't the most developed place in Monaerim, but it was not bad, just a bit chaotic.

After pondering it for a while, Jenny realized that a chaotic place was more suited for someone of Evan's status. What she needed to think about now was how to pass on the information that she was here. Unbeknownst to Jenny, her worries were actually unnecessary because when Evan's private jet landed at Duxdence Airport, Alec had already received the news.

At that moment, opposite the airport, Alec was looking through a telescope at the airport entrance. He saw Evan and his group walk out from the inside. Perhaps because this was his own turf, Evan wasn't cautious and didn't bother to take any precautionary measures to conceal themselves. Because of that, Alec could clearly see their movements.

When he saw Jenny, he noticed that she'd lost weight. He deduced that she must not be living well under Evan's care, which made his heart ache. Evan and his group came out of the airport and got into the car parked at the entrance. Alec and his men followed; he also sent people to install a positioning system on Evan's private jet to help him locate their position accurately.

"Where do you want to go?" Evan asked Jenny, who was sitting beside him, in a very gentle tone.

Just as she was feeling anxious, the salesgirl suddenly grabbed Jenny's hand and wrote a few words in her palm under her shocked gaze. When Jenny came out of the fitting room, she had returned to normal.

However, those few words still flashed in her mind: "I'm here."

"Alec is here!" Jenny cheered internally.

For a moment, she was so surprised she wasn't sure how to express her excited emotions. Unfortunately, she couldn't exactly express herself at the moment. Not only that, she couldn't show even a hint of abnormality.

"It's stunning." Evan's words rang in her ear, snapping her out of her daze.

She then smiled at him and said, 'Thank you.'

"Next time," Evan replied hastily. He intentionally didn't bring Olivia along. Evan knew exactly what Olivia was thinking, but unfortunately, he had no other intentions toward her. If it hadn't been for the fact that Olivia had been working for him for many years, perhaps Evan would have already lost his patience with her.

Olivia pouted and then saw the bodyguards behind her carrying a lot of things. Her eyes lit up. "Did you buy these for me? Evan, you're so nice!"

However, before she could approach the items, Evan ordered, "Put them in Jenny's room."

Immediately, the bodyguards went upstairs with more than ten bags each, but not one was for Olivia. Following that, Olivia's expression darkened considerably.

Howard quickly handed her the bag he was holding. "Boss didn't forget about you. This is what he bought for you."

In fact, it was Howard who reminded Evan about Olivia before leaving. Only then did Evan reluctantly agree to let him buy something for Olivia.

Jenny was upstairs in her room, completely unaware of what Olivia was planning-not that she cared anyway. She knew that she would be safe in this place as long as she had Evan's protection. Even so, she didn't plan to stay here for long and wanted to leave. She just didn't know how to leave. Perhaps she could only wait for Alec to come and rescue her.

Next door, in Evan's study, Howard had just calmed Olivia down and was called into the study by Evan.

"Boss." Howard pushed the door open and saw Evan sitting at his desk, seemingly worried about something.

Evan heard the sound and looked up at him. "Did you notice anything unusual on your way back today?"

"No," Howard replied.

Despite his assurance, Evan felt that something wasn't quite right. It had been half a month since they'd come back to Monaerim. Even if Alec and the others didn't have much influence abroad, they shouldn't have failed to locate him by now.

Olivia cleared her throat and said seriously, "So, I'm giving you money now and asking you to leave for your own good. Although Evan's behavior isn't right, I'm compensating you with some money so you're not losing out."

Jenny pretended to be wronged and asked softly, "How much money can you give me? I don't want too little. Although Evan doesn't like me, he never hesitated to spend money on me."

That made Olivia so angry that she clenched her teeth. "One million!" Olivia spat.

Jenny then looked at her haughtily and said, "Evan spent more than that when he took me shopping the other day."

"How much do you want then?" Olivia asked. She wasn't short of money. In fact, she'd made a lot of money while working for Evan all these years.

"Add another zero to the price," Jenny said casually, sounding so unbothered and carefree, as if ten million was nothing to her.

Upon hearing that, Jenny was truly shocked. She had deliberately waited there to find an opportunity for Evan to take her to Duxdence, but before she could even mention anything about it, he'd taken the initiative to offer her an outing.

Seeing how she kept mum, Evan thought she was still upset and continued, "Jenny, I know you want to go back to Clusia, but...I really hope you can stay here. So, can you at least try? If after some time, you really can't get used to living here, then we can discuss going back."

Jenny came to her senses after a while and nodded in agreement. "Alright then."

Upon hearing that, Evan breathed a sigh of relief. Fortunately, Jenny didn't insist on going back. Otherwise, he really wouldn't know what to do. He didn't want to make their relationship too tense, and he knew that Jenny was the type to be persuaded rather than coerced.

"Let's eat," Jenny said. Perhaps because her mood had improved, she spoke to Evan with a bit more patience.

Chapter 1117 Going Crazy With Jealousy

The question seemed to be difficult for Evan to answer, and he didn't give an answer for a long time. Just when Jenny thought he wouldn't answer, Evan spoke up, "Jenny, you know, sometimes liking someone is just a feeling. It's a feeling that cannot be described, and you can't even control it. But when that person appears, you just know that she's the one you want, n

For Evan, Jenny was that person.

Although Jenny had confessed to him in the past, Evan's impression of her gradually faded, and he almost forgot about her until he met Gilbert. For some reason, when Gilbert suggested he go back to pursue Jenny, he agreed without much hesitation. When he saw Jenny, he knew that she was the person he'd been looking for all along. Humans' feelings worked in strange ways like that sometimes-he couldn't even explain it himself.

Jenny listened as her lips twitched. It wasn't anything as magical as Evan made it out to be. In Jenny's opinion, it was either falling in love over time or just superficial attraction. As for which category Evan belonged to, she wasn't sure yet.

Remember to get up early tomorrow. I'll take you to Duxdence." Evan snapped around

She'd just finished tucking the note away when she heard the sound of Evan coming down the stairs outside the door. Jenny composed herself, opened the door, and walked toward him.

"Up so early?" Evan was a little surprised to see her come out of her room.

"Didn't you tell me to wake up early?" Jenny asked in reply, suppressing her feelings of anticipation.

Evan smiled and led her to the dining table. "There's no need to wake up so early. You can sleep a little longer if you want."

"No, I'm not very sleepy." Jenny refused. She was afraid that Evan would suddenly change his mind and decide not to take her out.

"You seem excited to go." Evan handed her a sandwich and remarked casually.

She stayed in Evan's office the whole afternoon until they took the private jet back to the island in the evening.

"Do you travel back and forth like this every day in the past?" Jenny couldn't help but ask. Although the flight only took an hour, she still found it troublesome.

"No, I was mostly in the city of Duxdence. I only come back here occasionally," Evan answered. But now it was different. He couldn't leave Jenny to stay in Duxdence alone, but he also didn't want to be away from her for several days, so he had to travel every day.

When Jenny heard him say that, she knew what he meant. "Actually, you don't have to travel to and fro like this every day. I won't run away."

"Are you showing concern for me?" Evan smiled, secretly happy that Jenny cared about him.

Jenny was speechless. Although she felt annoyed, she didn't say anything. "I just don't think it's necessary," she finally said.

Chapter 1120 No Turning Back

Despite Olivia telling her to rest well, Jenny couldn't sleep all night. She was very worried and afraid that something unexpected might happen. As Olivia had said, that was her last chance in the near future. If Jenny missed the opportunity, she didn't know how long she would have to stay in that place.

The next morning, when Evan's footsteps faded into the distance, Jenny immediately sat up from bed. He was going out, just as Olivia had told her.

As the private jet took off, Jenny's nervous mood finally relaxed a little. She was at least one step closer to success. Soon, there was a knock on the door. Upon opening it, there stood Olivia.

"Don't waste time. Let's go!" Olivia whispered. She didn't have time to waste with her. Although she was happy to see Jenny leave, betraying Evan also agonized her.

Jenny followed Olivia. She then hid in what Olivia called a large box. At least at that moment, she was handing her life to Olivia. It wasn't that she trusted her to that extent, but their current goals happened to be the same at the time.

In no time at all, Jenny could feel the box being lifted off the ground. She heard someone outside the box ask, "Olivia, what's this?"

My personal items are in there, alright? Do I have to give you a list
