

Be Yours 491

Chapter 491 I'll Remember This

Jolene continued to sip on her coffee while criticizing Jenny, speaking contemptuously of her. Little did she know that Jenny was in the cafe and could hear her conversation with her friend.

Jenny didn't know the woman and didn't understand why she had such animosity toward her. However, she was no pushover, and if someone spoke about her so degradingly, she felt like she had to step in and do something. She couldn't just lay low and allow others to trample all over her.

She got up, walked over to the girl named Jo, and patted her on the shoulder. Jolene turned around and saw Jenny, who was smiling at her. She thought Jenny looked familiar but couldn't quite place where she'd seen her before.

'Who are you? Why are you touching me? Are you crazy?'" Jolene fired away with annoyance.

Jenny remained smiling and wasn't angry at her audacity. ' It's me. I'm Jenny, the cheap woman you happily criticized a moment ago."

was hearing. She remembered seeing a photo of Jenny before, and although she was attractive, she wasn't exactly stunning. But the Jenny in front of her was something else entirely. She was unable to while, Jolene's friend was the first to say something. ' You're Jenny? You made Jo's father scold her. I thought you were innocent, but now that I see laughed at how ridiculously shameless they were. She sneered, "What a joke! Your father scolded you because to be like that. They liked to praise others say I'm incompetent! Do you even father had never criticized her as such. How could this cheap woman say such indifferently and sneered, "I have no idea who you are, but does that have anything to do with your incompetence and lack to refute Jenny and could only the heiress of the Walter family. How dare you offend her? Your days are numbered!" Jolene's friend said angrily as she to hear that. She didn't expect the woman who was badmouthing her to be "So you're scared now, huh? Let me tell you, my dad is the CEO of Walter Inc, which owns

Chapter 492 Did She Offend You?

In the afternoon, Alec rushed to Bardoff City. This time, he didn't come freely but was summoned there by Jenny. Ash was still in Parrington, but Jenny needed her in Bardoff City, so she asked Alec for a small favor to find someone to bring her over. She just didn't expect him to come in person.

When Jenny saw him at the airport, she couldn't describe the feeling in her heart, but she was somewhat touched.

"Why did you come? Couldn't you just find someone to bring her here?"

"I don't trust anyone else to handle it. Besides, bringing her over won't delay me much," Alec said, shoving Ash into the car.

Jenny knew what he'd said about not trusting anyone was just an excuse. Alec came to Bardoff City because he was worried about her. She didn't comment on it, but she silently remembered this kind gesture.

Alec took her and Ash to the house he'd bought in Bardoff City. He couldn't arrange for them to stay in a hotel, as it was inconvenient with Ash around. Jenny didn't refuse and followed Alec to his house.

don't know how many times I'll come to Bardoff City in the future. I should buy a need. You can just stay here whenever you come." Alec handed her the key without any at the key in her hand and didn't know what to do with him. The two looked at each other, and a slightly Alec was about to speak again to find out if Jenny had forgiven him. Ash spoke in dissatisfaction, journey to Bardoff City, as if someone had owed him a lot of money. But as soon as he saw Jenny, he immediately brightened up. Ash couldn't help but wonder present, he didn't blow his top. He just glared at Ash coldly and kept tabs on suspecting she'd gotten herself into Alec's bad books. Jenny regained

"Let's go in."

"Okay."

entered the house. After Alec locked Ash in a room, he returned to the living room and stood next to Jenny.

I met their daughter today and found her

Chapter 493 I Will Avenge You

It was late at night, Jenny had already gone to sleep, but Alec was still busy working on his computer. He was holding a meeting with the top executives of Faust Group online to plan a new round of expansion, with Bardoff City as their destination. He could imagine that once Jenny confronted the Walters of Bardoff City, she would definitely be spending more time here. In that case, if he continued to confine himself to Parrington as he had in the past, he would only grow further and further apart from Jenny.

On the other side, in Walter Castle, Jolene had been wronged and naturally couldn't help but complain when she got home.

"Dad, please do something about this!" Jolene said pleadingly with tears in her eyes. She really did look a little pitiful.

Before Graham could even ask what had happened, Rowena was immediately aggrieved that Jolene had suffered. 'Who dared to pick on you, Jo? Tell Mommy, and I'll make sure to avenge you!'

Hearing that, Graham frowned. He couldn't stand Rowena always taking Jolene's side blindly without considering whether her daughter was right or wrong.

who's right and who's wrong? What if she was the one who did something wrong?" Graham asked, daughter is never wrong. If I say she's not in the wrong, then she's not wrong!" Rowena was very aggressive. 'Even if you don't feel bad for Jo, who are you

her was a waste of the one who had talked badly about Jenny behind her back and got caught. Of course, she didn't really think she was wrong; she just thought she was unlucky. She briefly recounted what had happened, omitting the part where she criticized Jenny and only said hearing what Jolene had said, not only did Graham fall silent, but even Rowena was Bardoff City, and she even met Jo. Why did she come here? Could it be it was very possible. Otherwise, why would she coincidentally run into Jolene? It was possible that she more so that she had met Jolene.

Dad, what's wrong?" Jolene asked, surprised that both of their senses. While Graham didn't speak, his gaze fell on Rowena. He felt that something was off with her.

little when he noticed a change in Rowena's

Chapter 494 Watch Your Words

Graham had claimed that the woman and the child he had with her had died, so they didn't pursue it further. She also decided to marry him because she thought that bitch was dead and couldn't pose any threat to her. But now it seemed that it was all just a lie Graham told to let the bitch's daughter live.

"Watch your words! That's my daughter you're talking about," Graham responded frostily, looking at Rowena with extreme displeasure.

Over the years, Rowena had seen how ruthless he could be, so she didn't confront him directly. "You've deceived me all these years,' she sneered, being equally nasty.

Graham, however, didn't care at all. He merely gave her a cold smirk. "If it hadn't been for you and the rest of the Walters forcing me into a corner, I wouldn't have done this."

keep his daughter by his side, but if he'd her eyes full of contempt. "I don't care if that little bastard is dead or alive, but let me tell you this clearly, Jolene is the only daughter of the Walter family. If anyone dares to threaten her expression changed too, and he didn't relent in the slightest. "Rowena, you need to understand that this

to bring already guessed that would be the result, her heart was still chilled to its core upon confirming it was what Graham intended.

which made it all the more his plans, Jenny would definitely come back to the Walters, and everything in the Walter family would be hers. As for Jolene...she should never have been born, so a sum of money that would be enough before leaving, he warned, "Don't even think about increasingly powerful under his leadership, while the Glass family had started to decline. Those who opposed him in

Chapter 495 Father and Daughter Reunite

Inside Walter Inc, Graham thought about last night's events in his office and was worried that Rowena would make a move if she found out about Jenny's existence.

"Find her and send people to protect her," he instructed his assistant, who was on his side and naturally knew Jenny's identity.

His assistant heeded his order and was just about to leave when his phone rang. It was a call from the front desk downstairs. Feeling a little apprehensive, he answered the call and was completely stunned.

After hanging up the phone, he looked at Graham sitting at his desk. "Mr. Walter, Miss Jenny is downstairs and wants to see you."

Upon hearing that, Graham froze, unable to believe his ears. ' Who did you say was here?"

'Miss Jenny," the assistant repeated again. Even he was surprised, let alone his boss. If he remembered correctly, Jenny didn't know that Graham was her father. He wondered why she showed up all of a sudden.

Graham would see her. She said that as long as the receptionist informed Graham that she was Jenny, while. The assistant had to speak

Graham snapped out of his daze and immediately instructed, "Ask her a slight pause, he changed his mind and quickly said, * No, you go and bring turned to leave the office. Graham couldn't twenty years, they were finally going feeling in his heart at that moment, but more than anything else, he was excited to finally be able a chance to look around before seeing the man standing far away. When Jenny investigated the Walters previously, she had seen a photo of Graham. At that time, she didn't think they eyes on that man, spoke first. Over the years, he had seen many photos and videos of Jenny, but seeing her in person still shocked him. She looked too

Chapter 496 We Are Not That Familiar

Jenny sneered inwardly after hearing his words; she had no intention of arguing with him. 'Mr. Walter, you don't need to tell me all that. I came today to ask you something.'

"Okay. Sit down first. Take your time.' Graham didn't know what she was going to say, but for him, it was good that he got to spend more time with Jenny.

Jenny didn't bother with the pleasantries. She had a lot to say, so naturally, she had to sit down and take her time to say what she wanted. With that, she walked over and sat on the sofa. Graham noticed there was another person with Jenny, but the person was wearing a mask, so he couldn't see the person's face.

Shortly after, his assistant brought in a tray of drinks. The table in front of them was soon full of various drinks.

"I don't know what you like to drink," Graham nervously said.

That was the way the Walter family did things. They had too much money to spare and didn't skimp on showing their hospitality. Since they didn't know what Jenny liked, they prepared one of everything for her to take her pick.

a preference," Jenny said indifferently. "Mr. Walter, you don't need to be so polite with me.

him as her father

"Jenny-

interrupted him and looked into his

He didn't speak and just listened come to see me and just ignored my existence. Now, you even sent someone to kill me. If you hate me that much, why didn't you kill me back then? There's no need to wait until I after hearing what Jenny said, Graham's expression changed dramatically. "What? Kill you?

his reaction, Jenny surmised that Graham didn't know about it at all. At that moment, she didn't know whether she should be happy or not. Her biological seems you don't have complete control had already made his guess. 'If someone really wants to harm you, it must not have been someone from the Walter it. Although he never disclosed Jenny's identity, the Walters could not have targeted her for no reason. If they did, it meant and looked at Ash.

Chapter 497 Feel Sorry for You

Both father and daughter remained silent for a long time. Just when Jenny began to suspect that Graham would take Rowena's side, he finally spoke up.

"I will give you an explanation about this matter.'

Jenny looked at him and blinked several times. "What kind of explanation? You're not going to ask her to apologize to me, are you?*

Jenny felt that Rowena was unlikely to apologize to her, and she really didn't care about the apology. What use was a simple and inconsequential sorry that didn't mean anything?

"What do you want, then?" Graham asked. He could tell from Jenny's expression that she already had her own plans.

Jenny smiled and leaned against the sofa. "What are you talking about? What can an ordinary person like me do to you? Even if you kick me out now, I can't do anything to you, right?'

never thought that Graham would really stand up for her. She just wanted him to know about this matter so a thing." Graham had no affection for Rowena, so care about that. "She's your wife. You can't just say you didn't know and bear no responsibility over mistake is my mistake. You can ask for any compensation you want." Graham looked Jenny when she was young; now, he felt even more guilty because Rowena almost caused her harm. Graham really wanted to kill her, but he couldn't do it right now. So, all he had been waiting for. She didn't expect Graham to deal with Rowena in any way. She didn't Jenny looked at him as if trying to confirm whether

"Yes, I'm a man of my word. I'll promise you move into Walter Castle,' she said. She'd decided was doing well and had unlimited potential for future development. Jenny wanted

Chapter 498 Anything Else to Ask?

Graham continued to stare at Jenny blankly, unsure of what to say for a moment.

"Alright." He nodded in agreement after a while, but he didn't dare to ask Jenny to make any more requests. After all, judging from her temperament, if he were to allow her to ask for more, she wouldn't hesitate to do just that.

It wasn't that Graham didn't want to give her those small companies. He was just concerned that he would draw too much attention if he gave her so much at one go. Jenny had just returned, and if he gave too much, not only would he have trouble explaining it to Rowena and Jolene, but the other shareholders in the Walter family would also have objections. Although Graham didn't really care, he didn't want Jenny to make too many enemies right away. He thought it was better to take it slow.

"I'll have my assistant prepare the transfer agreements for both companies. When do you plan to move to Walter Castle?" Graham asked nervously. He had no idea what his daughter was thinking at the moment. He felt that although she looked young, she was more mature than him in handling things and was not childish or capricious. She knew what she wanted.

She was very rational. He would be delighted to have her as a business partner. But Jenny was his daughter, so he wasn't very happy about it. He felt she became so rational at such a young age because he wasn't there to protect and look after her. She lacked the impulsiveness and emotional sensitivity she should have at her age. But those were just thoughts he had in his head, and he couldn't tell Jenny about them. After all, he was the one who had done her wrong.

do it tonight." Jenny smiled, already looking forward to Jolene's expression when she saw her at Walter "Okay," Graham agreed.

Jenny didn't plan to stay any a little anxious. "Are you leaving? Don't you have anything prepared, thinking that Jenny would ask many questions about the past and ask him why he abandoned her. But up until her steps and looked at

She had many questions. But when she came face to face with Graham, she didn't know how to ask. If you have something to say, just say it. If you don't want to didn't need anyone to take care of her. Graham's appearance in her life meant nothing to her. Hearing her words, Graham sighed. This was the last thing he wanted

Chapter 499 The Past

Jenny didn't hurry him. In fact, she felt a bit nervous because she wanted to know everything, including who her mother was and what had happened in the past. She thought she didn't care before, but now she realized she cared a lot.

"When your mother and I fell in love, it was a free and easy relationship. She was a very gentle person, and I fell for her at first sight. It took me a long time to win her over. When she finally agreed, I was overjoyed. At that time, I felt like I was the luckiest man in the world."

As Graham began to talk about the past, Jenny didn't interrupt him. Looking back on the past, she couldn't help but feel melancholic at all the fateful events that befell her parents. Graham probably couldn't have imagined what would happen later.

"At that time, I wasn't the heir to the Walter family, so I thought they wouldn't object to our relationship. I foolishly decided to bring your mother home to meet my parents." Now, reflecting on that decision, Graham thought it was the biggest mistake he'd ever made.

chose to live a quiet life far away from them, perhaps that we weren't a good match in terms of family background and upbringing.'

he couldn't stop the Walters from going after Jenny's mother. They couldn't lay a hand on Graham, as he was a Walter, so later that Graham found out all the members of the Walter family had been implanted with tracking devices at birth, so they couldn't escape their family's monitoring no matter where they went.

Unfortunately, he didn't know about this then, so he continued hiding with

Graham was even more afraid of being child was born,

their child, and she was taken away by a group of strangers. To this day, in his arms, and knew that once she was taken back to the Walters, she wouldn't survive. Therefore, he contacted someone he trusted, which was Jenny's grandfather, who was living in Orchid Village, and had him outside world that Jenny and her mother had died. He began competing for the position of the Walters' heir. To secure his position as the head of the Walter family, he had to marry Rowena. However, he'd been keeping tabs on Jenny's growth all those years, even though he never went to Orchid Village. Jenny's grandfather often sent him photos and videos

Chapter 500 Do You Accept Me as Your Father?

Jenny's emotions were in turmoil after hearing her father's story. She looked at the middle-aged man before her, wishing to blame him yet finding no fault with him. He didn't seem to have a choice in that kind of situation.

But was he really free of blame?

Jenny didn't think so. In her eyes, if Graham wanted to love whomever he wanted, he should have fought for the position as the heir. Once he sat at the top of the hierarchy, no one would dare have an opinion. Or rather, he wouldn't have to care.

But he did not. He thought he would be an unimportant family member if he refused to fight for the top. That was why the Walters would control him so much.

He was so naive. How would a family like that let him escape from their clutches?

of you all these years. I'd understand if you want to scold or hit me." Graham looked at Jenny with trepidation. He had never looked like that all these years. But Jenny was different. She was the daughter of his most beloved.

hitting you would bear no meaning." She was not impulsive. "It's not like you didn't care all these years. I don't blame you,"

you accept me as if I accept you or not. We're already connected by

"I understand. It's okay. I will make everything did not object. If she wanted to rise in Bardoff City, she would need his

Their conversation soon ended.

with no hesitation. He closed it and handed it a hurry to sign it. She looked at Graham and asked, "You're giving these two companies