

Be Yours 521

Chapter 521 Her Intentions

The distance between their lips began to close. Suddenly, Jenny's phone rang, jarring them from their trance.

Jenny faked a cough to hide her embarrassment and answered the call. "Hello? Yes, I'm ready," she said to the caller. When Jenny hung up and turned to Alec, she found him looking at her with a smile on his face.

Her cheeks were still flushed from embarrassment, and she averted her eyes, saying, "Well, the driver is coming to pick me up soon. I have to get ready to go to the venue."

"Great." Alec nodded.

Compared to Jenny, he was actually much calmer. Although he felt it was a pity they were interrupted, he wasn't in a hurry.

Jenny waved at him before walking out of the salon.

car and waited until the car pulled out of his sight before he Jenny regained her composure. Looking at Graham, she said, "Actually, I can go by myself. You only God knew what other people present at the event would say how insistent he was, Jenny didn't say anything. She looked out of was seeing Jenny's mother again. She was always silent, and she loved looking your home," Graham said, no. velxo unable she had to go back soon. However, after finally seeing her after so many years, he she heard that. After a long moment of thought, she said, "There are still some care of them for you,"

they were related by blood, she couldn't bring herself

"Do

Chapter 522 Don't Lose to Jenny

Graham smiled wryly, feeling strange about the sudden change in Jenny's attitude toward him.

However, he knew that helping his daughter through her troubles was his duty as a father. He was glad that she still trusted him enough to ask for his help; it meant that she recognized him as her father.

"Okay, I'll go with you to Parrington. I want to see the place where you grew up," he said. He regretted missing out on Jenny's growth all these years and hoped to make up for it by going to her hometown with her.

Jenny was happy to hear her father's promise. With Graham by her side, she felt confident that even Paul couldn't stop her from taking Stephanie away. The thought of taking Stephanie away from Paul put her in a good mood.

As they arrived at the dinner party, they were immediately swarmed by reporters who had gotten wind of the missing Walters' daughter's appearance. Though it wasn't a press conference, the reporters clamored to ask her questions. Jenny, however, kept her composure and walked with her father, no. velxo putting on a brave face, 1

Jenny from a distance. Jolene was seething with

You should be standing there with That guy that Jenny was with was wild, and I couldn't beat them. If I didn't leave, I would it wasn't for Jenny, she would be standing in annoyance. "That man

the capital just because he's the boss in Parrington? Don't worry. I've sent

I want to see

Chapter 523 She Just Happened to Be There

Of course, they only entertained the thought; nobody dared to ask Graham directly. Since he had already claimed that Jenny was his lost eldest daughter, it was clear he didn't want people to think of her as an illegitimate daughter. Besides, the guests at the dinner were all respectable people, so nobody would really broach the subject.

Upon entering the dinner party, Graham still kept Jenny by his side, not intending to separate from her at all. Rowena pushed Jolene, who was beside her, and said, 'Go to your father. Jenny shouldn't be alone with your father at a time like this.'

"Okay." Jolene nodded, knowing what her mother meant.

The mother and daughter separated, no. velxo and Jolene quickly walked to Graham's side, calling out to him, "Dad."

a hint of reproach. After all, Jolene had offered to take Jenny with her, but when Graham went to pick her up, Jolene was nowhere to side all the time?' Jolene felt hurt, and she teared up a little. She knew that Graham would think she was ignorant if she said sorry for her, Graham didn't press the topic. "Okay, come along. I'll introduce you two to before. He didn't consider it necessary and knew Jolene wouldn't understand its importance. However, now that Jenny was back, he planned on handing over Walter Inc to her and wanted to pave the way for her. As for two sisters followed Graham, with Jenny holding his arm and Jolene walking beside through the banquet, Graham was finally done introducing Jenny to the people he because you have to socialize," Graham asked, concerned. He was both satisfied and distressed to become what he wanted to see, but he felt that he was cruel for not ensuring she could live doing whatever she wanted. He felt right in place during the event. She didn't feel tired. "It's Chapter 524 I'm Different From You

Jenny walked to the corner, and Jolene silently followed her.

"Jenny, I hate you." Jolene suddenly blurted out, startling Jenny, who was drinking juice.

Jenny looked at her and said calmly, "It's okay if you hate me."

"Of course you don't care. You have everything now."no.velxo Jolene glared at her fiercely.

Jenny sighed, feeling like a villain in a drama for taking away Jolene's father's love the moment she returned to Bardoff city. She understood why Jolene felt upset but didn't think she did anything wrong.

her father's love for over 20 years, but what about Jenny? She had only been don't want to have any conflict with you. As long as Jolene caused any trouble, she her warning and continued, "Lies! If you really didn't want it, you wouldn't have returned nothing to say to you if that's how you

Jolene was, Jenny was sure Jolene wished she had died. Hence, Jenny however, wasn't ready to give up. "Where's the man who protected in Parrington. I doubt he even has the qualifications to show up here. " Feeling more confident, she added, "Isn't he your ex-husband? I heard it took a great amount of effort for you to divorce him, so why are already investigated Alec's identity. "Do I need to care what others think

Chapter 525 I Can't Afford

Jolene left Jenny and mingled with the other guests, mostly her relatives and friends. Feeling at home, she thought herself better off here than with country people like Jenny.

Jolene was wearing an upset expression when she met Randy.

Concerned by her expression, Randy said, "I understand how you feel, but the Glasses can't interfere too much with the Walters' family affairs."

"I know." Rowena had told her this long ago, no.velxo and Jolene didn't plan to make Randy take any action against the Walters, as it was her family, after all. "I just can't take this. Why does my father spoil Jenny? Just look at how he treats her during this event-he has never treated me like that before." Jolene was upset about Graham's favoritism.

Randy glanced at Jenny, but he didn't understand Graham's reasoning.

He didn't dare to smiled and said, "Don't worry, even if your father spoils her, she won't fit in here in the capital.

Remember, this is was hosted by the Britts, one of the Ten Elites of Bardoff City. Brandon, the heir of the Britt family, had been pursuing her, but she had never accepted him because she believed the Walters were superior.

But that didn't and she

for it." Randy was his cousin. However, he knew that Jenny, who had her own company and was famous in Parrington, was not easy to deal with. If the Walter family ended up in her hands, it would looked at it, he knew supporting Jolene was his best bet. Despite this, he still herself to some food when I'm your cousin," he said, approaching cousin?" Jenny wondered

Chapter 526 I Thought You Were Warning Me

Jenny repeatedly declined, causing Randy to become visibly upset despite his earlier good temperament.

"In Bardoff City, it's not wise to isolate yourself," he said, his tone now lacking the earlier hospitality.

As the wolf had shed its sheep clothing, Jenny was finally willing to look at him. "So, tell me, what will you do if I insist on being alone?"no.velxo she asked with interest, wanting to see how Randy would respond.

Randy's face froze, aware that he could not treat Jenny poorly, especially since they were at an event. Even if they weren't, she was the eldest daughter of the Walters.

you sound so serious. I was only disdain. She knew that the other guests did not like her and did not know how to interact with her, but they didn't dare to express their feelings outright because of her silence, with Randy unsure of what to say. He felt that conversing with that Jolene and Brandon were conversing nearby. After Brandon whispered something into Jolene's ear, show was about to begin. He glanced at willing to acknowledge me as family. Since that's the case, I'll get out wanted to gauge Jenny's response toward him. If she had reacted well, Randy might have even supported her. Alas, things didn't go as he had imagined, as Jenny baffled by his behavior. Was she obliged to make him

Chapter 527 Sorry

Alec turned his head to look at Christopher when he heard his voice, frowning in confusion. "What are you trying to say?"

With a small smile, Christopher continued watching Jenny. "You and I are no longer good enough for Jenny. Are you still not going to give up?"

Alec didn't understand why Christopher was saying that to him. "Why does it matter to me whether I'm worthy or not? Why are you saying these things to me?"

To Alec, even though Jenny was the eldest daughter of the Walter family, she was still the one he liked. He didn't care whether he deserved her or not.

"It seems that you are really more determined than me," no. velxo Christopher said with a sad smile. He had grown apprehensive about liking Jenny. Before she returned to the Walter family, Christopher felt that he was worthy of her.

couldn't compare to the Ten Elites of Bardoff City. And he certainly couldn't compare to Alec, given how resolutely he loved Jenny. Looking at how bright Jenny shone in the distance, carrying admiration. "All the best. I hope you much, he felt that Alec and Jenny were left, Alec stood there feeling at a loss. He couldn't understand why Christopher would walked up to the central stage of the venue with a microphone in his hand."

The venue quickly quieted down, and Brandon continued, "Thank you all for coming to this party tonight, especially Miss Walter, know him and didn't family is very honored," Brandon said with a smile, his gaze

Jenny was taken aback. When did she say she would do that? She looked at Jolene, who was

Chapter 528 Crazy

Jenny walked onto the stage, where the spotlight followed her every move, and the only sound in the venue was the gentle tapping of her footsteps. Despite knowing about Jenny's divorce, the audience couldn't help but be mesmerized by her dazzling and confident presence.

Jolene, on the other hand, seethed with anger, no. velxo wondering why someone from the countryside could exude such arrogance. She believed that she was the true daughter of the Walter family.

However, she restrained herself, knowing she would have the last laugh when Jenny failed to play the piano.

Jenny walked onto the stage and sat in front of the piano, but she didn't start to play.

Jolene's eyes lit up, gleefully reveling in the fact that she couldn't play the piano. There was no way Jenny had access to a piano since she grew up in the countryside.

As Jenny sat in front of the piano without moving, Jolene signaled to her peers, who deliberately taunted Jenny, asking, "Miss Walter, why don't you play? Could it be that you can't?"

you should have said it earlier. Why to change, as they now viewed her as everyone, my sister just returned to the Walter family," Jolene started to say as if she was explaining on Jenny's behalf. However, no, her words only served to remind them of Jenny's

Everyone began to murmur.

from the countryside. She probably hasn't been exposed to things like hasn't seen a piano before, yet she's still trying to show off? Man, the Walters must be so come close to Jolene. I doubt she's even on par with daughter of the Walter family, after all. She was also proficient in many fields, such as plan to

Chapter 529 Don't Think That I'll Accept You

Jolene was convinced that Jenny had done it on purpose. She knew everything but pretended to be clueless so that Jolene would let her guard down. Jolene suspected that Jenny had planned to embarrass her for a long time and had been waiting for her there. The more Jolene thought about it, the more frightened she became of Jenny.

As if she had seen a ghost, Jolene stumbled back a few steps, saying, "You...you did it on purpose."

Jenny was confused.

Jolene continued, "Aren't you happy now? Everyone knows that you're great. You've been recognized by everyone, and I've become a joke. You must be very proud of yourself." Jolene began to tear up as she failed to control her emotions.

Seeing that, Jenny stepped forward, took her into her arms, and whispered in her ear. "Think about where you are right now. Don't embarrass yourself here."

couldn't care less about Jolene, but she was still a daughter of the Walter family. For the sake of the Walters, she couldn't break free, but Jenny didn't give her a chance. She forced Jolene to walk towards Graham, who was not far away. They behaved like two normal sisters to everyone else, but only front of Graham, no. Jolene tried her best not to show her excellent. You didn't embarrass our family," Graham said, happy that Jenny had made him proud. Jenny smiled and pushed Jolene in front of Graham. "I have to thank Jolene. She suggested to Brandon that I play. Otherwise, I wouldn't have had this said that, Graham frowned instantly. He wasn't stupid and knew the wanted to give her a chance to play the piano since I knew she could. Everyone should know that regardless of Jolene with disbelief. Jolene seemed to have grown rapidly in that so?" Graham still seemed Jolene nodded emphatically.

gaze landed on Jenny, she smiled and nodded, saying, "Perhaps so. I would like to believe that my Chapter 530 Do You Think You're That Important?

"Don't think too much of yourself. I didn't expose you simply because I didn't take your scheming seriously. As for making you accept me?" Jenny smiled mockingly at Jolene. "Why would it matter to me whether you accept me or not? Do you really think you're that important?"

"Jenny!" Jolene nearly roared at her. She would have hit Jenny if she wasn't worried about the people watching.

"I warned you not to mess with me, but you obviously didn't take my words to heart." Jenny slowly approached her, giving off an ominous vibe.

Although Jolene was a little scared, she bit the bullet and stared back at her. "In that case, don't blame me for being rude," Jolene threatened. What Jolene cared about most was her father's favor, and Jenny was about to take away what she cared about most.

As the two were talking, someone approached them. Jenny composed herself before turning to the person.

"James?" she called, a little surprised.

Windsor smiled, looking left Jolene to

are you occupied with other things during her time learning from Mr. Birkett. In fact, despite being under Mr.

like a family member to her. Therefore, she without saying much of you to rich family and learning Mr. Birkett's craft was just his hobby. Little did she know, her assumption was so outdo me at that, no.velxo saying, "Hey, I just found

From now on, I'll protect you in Bardoff City, and no one will dare to bully